NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

JANUARY 22, 1896.

FELLOW WORKERS,

What a contrast between our prospects at the opening of this new year, 1896, and those of last year, the memorable 1895. This year our than at the corresponding period of last year, for not only does trade show considerable improvement in the majority of branches, and the bulk of the manufacturers have started on full time, and we have comparatively few on the unemployed list, and, what is more, we have but one dispute—and that a small one—to engage our attention in that direction. Further, in spite of wars and rumours of war—and in this connection it behoves all artisans, who would be the greatest sufferers as the result of wars, to do their best and in no uncertain way make it known that whilst willing to make any reasonable sacrifice for the protection of their real interests as workers, they are not prepared to be the victims of ambitious men, who, to further their own aims and objects, and to amass wealth at a rapid rate, would sacrifice both the lives and the interests of thousands of the workers of the world, taking good care on their own part that they do not risk their lives in the pushing forward of their ambitious schemes.

It is pleasing to note that the state of trade shows such satisfactory prospects, and it is also gratifying to note the effect that the terms of settlement have had on the more unscrupulous of the employers who now find that they are unable to take undue advantage by encroaching upon the wages paid to those connected with our Union.

This we think you will agree is indeed a to the opening of last year, which it would perhaps be well for us to point to as a moral for future guidance.

At the opening of 1895, thousands of those working at the trade were out of employment. Aye, literally starving for the bare necessities of life. On the other hand, trade being bad, employers were seeking to take advantage of the workpeople's condition, and they were breathing threats to annihilate the Union, and we as anxiously, were waiting the turn of events, with the view not only of maintaining the existence of the Union, but also to maintaining the position our members had won by sheer force and combination. Then, it will be remembered, we had the celebrated "seven commandments," followed by a delegate meeting, which repudiated the same and empowered us if necessary, to fight and spend the whole of the money of which we were possessed. Then came negotiations, and at last the struggle, during which thousands suffered bitterly by reason of their not being entitled to the benefits of the Union. Then after five weeks of fighting came the suggestion that the Board of Trade should intervene with the view of bringing about a settlement, the result after repeated conferences being seen by the document issued.

This settlement, however, was not arrived at until practically the whole of our funds were expended, and there was a prospect of a further continued struggle without any means being provided. How the terms of settlement on the one hand were interpreted (deliberately, no doubt) by the employers, and unjustly criticised on the part of the men, is a matter of history, and our task of explaining and satisfying a certain portion of our members was by no means an easy one; but when they saw question after question being referred back to Sir Courtenay Boyle for his interpretation, and the said interpretation on point after point being exactly as interpreted by us, the bulk of the members began to see that their bargain was by no means a bad one, and when you take into consideration our financial status (which we shall refer to later on), and also consider the practical benefits gained, we can look back without regret upon the attitude taken by us; and we believe that though the struggle entailed hardships, it not only improved the strength of our organisation, but also displayed the splendid combination of its members.

The dispute referred to above is that of Salomon's, London, this firm seeking to ignore the conditions under the terms of settlement, and as a result the men were withdrawn, and have been out for some time, but as far as we can learn he has not yet succeeded in obtaining accommodators, and probably will in a short time see the advisability of complying with the conditions as laid down by us.

In accordance with rule and precedent, we this month publish the basis proposed for the representation at

to be held at the Co-operative Hall, Downing Street, Ardwick, Manchester, on May 25th, and subsequent days, the number of representatives allowed being 50, together with the members of the Council.

After adding up the number of members, it will be seen that this allows one representative for every 617 members, and if the list is carefully gone through it will be found, with the exception of the Irish members, and in this case we have always endeavoured to have a representative from Ireland present, we have adhered as far as ever possible to the basis of representation by numbers, and we trust the said division will give the same general satisfaction as at previous conferences.

It is well that we should here draw special attention to the fact that it will be necessary to take the nominations in the various districts on the February monthly night, and, especially in the larger branches, will it be necessary to issue notices to the members to that effect, so that more interest may be evinced, not only in the nominations, but also in the election of delegates, so that the representatives elected may feel and know that they are voicing the feelings, at all events, of the majority of the members of our branches.

The nomination papers will be sent in due course, which will be required to be filled up by the President and Secretary of each branch, and forwarded to the General Secretary not later than February 15th. All nomination papers received after that date will be considered null and void.

The nominations will be issued as soon as possible after complement to the various branches, and the vote will take place on the March monthly night, and here again we would suggest the advisability of the nominations being so displayed that the men in the various shops and localities may know prior to the meeting night who are the nominees of the various districts.

It is now our gratifying duty to lay before you a statement of which of itself is matter for wonderment, seeing the short time that has elapsed since the great dispute occurred.

We have every reason to believe that you also will readily endorse our action since the dispute, when it gives us such splendid results as those we are now able to lay before you.

We cannot help again drawing attention to the fact that not only has the income, compared with the corresponding half of last year, increased, no doubt by reason of the levy, but that the expenditure has decreased enormously since the lock-out, and when you consider that we have only spent in dispute pay the sum of £896 15s. 2d., as against £1965 17s. 1d. for the corresponding half of last year, it will be seen where largely the saving on the trade has been made.

It is also a most gratifying feature to notice that in the sick department the expenditure has been over £2400 less than last half-year, which has enabled us to save the magnificent sum of £1205 11s. 3d. during the last half-year on this account.

We herewith append a brief synopsis of the figures for this half-year and the one preceding it, so that you will the more readily understand our present position, and we leave the balance sheet with every confidence in your hands, feeling that you will, like ourselves, be highly gratified at the progress made since the memorable struggle.

TRADE DEPARTMENT.

The Balance in hand of the Trade Department at the end of last half year amounted to £3,133 15s. 9d.

The income in this department, including grants and levies, interest and returned cash re lock-out during the half year has come to £10,078 8s. 3d., as against £32,110 16s. 5d., a decrease of £22,032 8s. 2d. The large amount of income last half-year was through there being £14,286 os. 8d. branch funds loaned to the Council, £8,113 17s. 1d. in levies, and £1,049 1s. 10d. which we received as grants from other societies.

The total expenditure for trade purposes has been £1,843 10s. 10d., as against £59,628 3s. 1d., a decrease of £57,784 12s. 3d., accounted for by the lock-out expenses being in last half-year's account.

The total funds in hand of the Trade Department on June 30th, 1895, amounted to the sum of £3,133 15s. 9d., on December 31st, 1895, it amounts to £11,368 13s. 2d., an increase of £8,234 17s. 5d., a truly remarkable increase on one half year.

The details of expenditure under the various headings are as follows:—

Investigating has cost the Union £53, whereas £58 2s. 9d. was spent last half year, a decrease of £5 2s. 9d.

The claims for compensation total £161 10s. 0d., as against £339 7s. 6d. last half year, a decrease of £170 17s. 6d.

The amount credited to dispute and arbitration is £896 15s. 2d., as against £818 os. 11d., an increase of £78 14s. 3d. The cost of the lock-out, of course, is not included in last half year's estimate of dispute pay.

Conference expenses total £5 15s. 1d., as against £150 14s. 5d., a decrease of £144 19s. 4d.

Travelling assistance has cost £141 7s. 0d., as against £130 6s. 5d., which is an increase of £11 os. 7d.

Two-thirds share of organizing expenses comes to £46 4s. 2d.

Seven-eighths share of printing amounts to £144 os. 1d.

Management expenses, which includes Council meetings, salaries, carriage of parcels, cleaning, rent of office, gas, &c., claims £290 11s. 2d., as against £321 9s. 11d. last half year, a decrease during the six months of £30 18s. 9d.

SICK AND FUNERAL DEPARTMENT.

The balance in hand last half year was £7,878 6s. 6d.

The income during the half year has amounted to £7,185 18s. od., as against £7,421 5s. 5d. received last half year, a decrease of £235 7s. 5d.

The expenditure has totalled £5,584 16s. 9d., as compared with £7,980 8s. 5d. paid last half year, a decrease of £2,395 11s. 8d.

Funeral claims reach £395 10s. od., as against £527 10s. od. last half year, a decrease of £132 0s. od.

One-third share of organizing amounts to £23 2s. 1d.

One-eighth share of printing amounts to £20 11s. 5d.

The cost of management to this account comes to £116 16s. 7d., as against £131 7s. 1d., a decrease of £14 10s. 6d.

The total cost of management for both Trade and Sick Departments amounts to £407 7s. 9d., as compared with £452 17s. od., a decrease of £45 9s. 3d.

The funds in the hands of the Trade Department amount to £11,368 13s. 2d.

The funds in hand of the Sick and Funeral Department amount to £9,083 17s. 9d.

The funds in hands of the branches amount to £9,961 18s. 6d.

The total funds of the Union now amount to £30,414 9s. 5d., as against £15,699 17s. 8d. last half year, an increase of £14,714 11s. 9d. This should be satisfactory for one half year.

As it is impossible to answer all enquiries from branches and private members as to the cause and progress of the illness of our General Secretary, W. Inskip, we deem it advisable, through this medium, to give the facts of the case, which are as follows : Mr. Inskip caught a severe chill whilst attending the various meetings in London, and which got worse at the Leeds Assizes, whilst prosecuting the late Heckmonwike Secretary. He, however, continued his work, although premonitory symptoms set in on Monday, December 16th. He went to London on the following day to argue the case on our behalf (before Lord James of Hereford) of the rules which are being prepared to govern the Boards of Arbitration ; immediately upon leaving Lord James's house, in company with Mr. Wm. Votier, severe internal hæmorrhage set in, Mr. Votier took him at once to Charing Cross Hospital, where he remained until one o'clock on Wednesday, when he journeyed home, and at once went to bed. On the Saturday following the hæmorrhage broke out anew, and about four o'clock his life was despaired of; fortunately, as he became unconscious, the hæmorrhage ceased, but it continued in smaller quantities for several weeks. We are pleased to state that this has now ceased, and for the last fortnight he has not only greatly improved, but better than his closest friends could wish, and he was able to attend a meeting of the Executive, on January 20th, for a short time, where several important measures appertaining to the interests of the union were dealt with. We feel sure his progress will be appreciated throughout our union, and he desires to take this opportunity of thanking very sincerely those members and branches for their kind and cordial sympathy, which has, in no small measure, helped to contribute to his present satisfactory state.

That his recovery may speedily be completed, is no doubt your wish, as it is the wish of

Yours most respectfully,

BRANCH TRADE REPORTS.

ABERDEEN.—At our monthly meeting, held last Monday evening, much regret was expressed to hear of our General Secretary's serious illness, and very much sympathy was manifested towards him in his present condition, and although no formal resolution was passed, the members deeply regretted to hear of his illness and expressed a desire to convey to him their heart felt sympathy, and sincere desire for his speedy recovery to his former health. We can assure him of the keen feeling and sympathy manifested by every member, and the desire to learn of his condition and progress, and the universal wish for his speedy recovery.

BRISTOL.—At a meeting of the branch held on January 20th, 1896, a unanimous vote of sympathy was extended towards our General Secretary, Mr. W. Inskip, in his long and dangerous illness, and the hope was expressed that he would have a speedy recovery.

BIRMINGHAM.—Our commencement of 1896 seems anything but good; many of our members doing nothing for three weeks. We also have to state that one small manufacturer during the year has gone to the country district to do his work. Another is following to the same place, Bromsgrove, twelve miles from Birmingham, where he is putting down machines. We have still a good hold on this shop up to the present, how long it may continue we cannot say. When the screw is put upon the employees at these places, who leave the town in a great measure to avoid the power of the union; those that are not members will then feel their weakness, and no doubt they will then apply to the union for assistance. At least we can claim that it has been done at one place in the town, this last three months, the men wanting to know what could be done for them to stay a reduction. We can only say that these men, if they leave us, will bitterly repent it; if they once cease to be with us, they will become weak, boys will be introduced, and when they can scramble at it a bit, many of them being country boys, were the sight of a shilling is a godsend, will take their place, and the man who is so unselfish as to care nothing for himself or his fellowmen, will soon find himself as years creep on him, and grey hairs and glasses, completely cut out. The union cannot accomplish everything admitted, but the weaker its ranks, the weaker its power; do not make differences of opinion in discussion a pretence for leaving. All should demand of their leaders honesty of purpose; without a difference of opinion no correct views are arrived at, and cliques are formed. Take interest in your branch, and see that everything is above board, and now that the machine is sure to have a deal to do with the future, let us face it like men, and stick together, that we may be powerful enough to demand and get a living wage. It is with regret that one of our largest employers has stopped this Christmas. The employer being adjudicated a bankrupt, the fear is that these men will be some time before they can find employment, being the worst time of the year such a thing could have happened. Some man with capital would do well here, as the factory has done a good trade for some years, having at the time the stoppage took place fifty members of the branch working there. A strong benevolent fund, and some of our absconding secretary's money he robbed us of, which is considerably over £100, would be of great service to these men at the present time. Many thanks to our Council for the £5 grant for organizing the country districts.

BARNESLEY.—We are sorry to say that trade here at present is more depressed than it was last year after the holidays, and then it was bad enough, but we hope that it will soon take a turn for the better. We are pleased to say that a new firm has commenced here, and three of those who are working there have joined the branch, and we hope to report in our next that we have persuaded more to join; and we intend to try and get some that are working at another shop to join us, who have held aloof for some time—having regular work they don't think they will ever have any dispute with their employer, or they will ever leave that shop, but we will try them, and if we cannot succeed in getting them to join, about ten or twelve of them, we intend having some handbills showing where union men are employed, and where they are not employed. We were very much surprised, and extremely sorry to hear, of the serious illness of our respected General Secretary, and more so when we saw the reports in the papers that he was in such a state that no hopes were entertained of his recovery, but we hope that he will soon be in his proper state of health, and wish him a speedy recovery.

COLCHESTER.—In sending our report this month we are sorry to say that trade in this district is very bad, especially in Colchester and Braintree, but we hope it will soon revive, so that we can start our organising and make some progress in our branch. We thank the Council for sending the President for this purpose amongst us, but it was rather too early in the year. We should be glad to meet our General President, if it is not too much to ask, about the end of next month, and also in May, when we hold our May Day Demonstration, in which we hope to take part. All trades are going to hold a conference on the 23rd of this month, for the purpose of forming a new trades and labour council, so as to take our places again in the labour world, and we think by that means we can do a good work of organising one with another, as trade unionism in this district has got to a very low ebb, and it wants awakening again, which we hope to try at. We are very sorry to hear of the illness of our General Secretary, but we hope by the time this is put in type, he will be better. With best wishes to our Council, and God-speed to recovery to our respected Secretary.

CREDITON.—In sending our report for this month we are sorry to state that trade is very quiet, and has been for some time past; this we trust will soon alter for the better. We are also very sorry to have to publish the names of eight of our members, viz., John Tothill, G. Camp (1), G. Loram, G. Camp (2), H. Boddy (1), H. Boddy (2), L. Vicary, and W. Benelick, five of whom have taken day work in connection with a new finishing machine at John Elston and Sons' factory. But why should this cause them to cease paying their contributions? We have no objection to their going on day work, but we certainly think that after having helped them to fight their battles on many occasions, they have behaved very ungratefully to the Branch, and especially to trade unionism. They appear to forget the numerous benefits they have obtained on former occasions, and by their actions have done their best to break up the Branch, and as they well know if this does happen they are at the mercy of their employers, and will have no one but themselves to blame for it. We hope the remainder of our members will do their best to prevent it, and will use their influence to raise the Branch to the position it formerly occupied.

DUNDEE.—So far as trade with us is concerned, the advent of the year is similar to preceding years—prevailing quietness. What concerns us deeply at the present is the condition of our General Secretary's health. General regret was expressed when it became known that Mr. Inskip had physically broken down. The feeling was intensified when it became known how serious his illness was. There can be no doubt that his sudden break down is due in a large measure to the worry and anxiety of the past twelve months. It is our sincerest wish that this month's issue will bear intelligence of a re-assuring character.

GLASGOW.—Trade here is very quiet, as it always is at this time of the year, nor need we expect any change for the better for at least two months to come. Although trade is quiet here we have been very free from disputes, if we except the one at the Co-operative factory, which was caused, not by bad trade, but by the tyrannical methods adopted by the under management and the takers-in in dealing with the men. Tyranny in all cases, and under whatever form it may be practised, is always sure in the end to bring about dire results. Thus, under the many petty tyrannical acts which had been practised towards the men at the Co-op., led to the men ceasing work, and demanding from the directors that justice should be done to them. The Council, when appealed to, sent Mr. Smith to investigate the dispute. We had several meetings with the directors, and a basis of settlement was arrived at, and the men resumed work after being out ten days. One of the bases of settlement which was agreed to, read as follows: "Also we (the directors) can have no objection to the men forming a committee to inquire into any matter of importance they think necessary, and if any grievance exists of sufficient importance to lay before the Manager, they shall put same in writing, and bring under the Manager's notice. Failing any settlement, they can then appeal to the Board of Directors." The men resumed work on these conditions, but immediately after the holidays the management refused to allow the men to have the power given to them under the above agreement, consequently the dispute is still pending. But this time the men have remained at work, and the Council cannot refuse to extend to them the financial support of the Union, in the event of the men's rights, under the deed of settlement, not being conceded to them. Mr. Smith has been here again this week, and we have had several interviews with the directors, and we have every reason to believe that a speedy and permanent settlement will be arrived at.

GLASGOW No. 2.—"A gude new year to ane an' a'" Extremely sorry to hear of our general's sudden illness, and equally glad to hear that he is progressing favourably; it is to be hoped he will shortly be fully restored to health. We were expecting some trouble with Co-op. Store at Shieldhall, but as it concerns No. 1 Branch exclusively, we leave them to report. Two names appear on the scratched list which we should have thought would have been among the last to occupy that unenviable position. Joseph Thomson, for working in a shop in Paisley where a strike was going on, and continuing so to work after being remonstrated with by the District Agent, Mr. John Burden, was fined 5s. by the committee: this, with his contributions, he has failed to pay, so we leave him to his own devices. Mr. James M. Douglas having been made foreman, has left the Union (remaining on sick list only). This gentleman once occupied a prominent position in our branch, but alas, on becoming overseer (the branch having no minimum wage), he had the audacity to offer a wage of 15s. per week. Until we get our hands strengthened by the Council (which we trust will be early in spring), we would advise all strangers seeking work to give this shop (Messrs. A. & W. Paterson's, Elcho Street) a wide berth. While we regret having to make such reports, it is well that men should be made aware that their actions are known, and they cannot act the part of a tyrant without incurring the just condemnation of their fellows. The same hand that raises such men up can also put them down, and they may speedily find themselves stripped of their little brief authority.

HECKMONDWIKE.—In submitting our report for the New Year, we are glad to state trade still keeps good with us, and the members express their deepest sympathy for our General Secretary in his present condition, and hope that it will not be long before he is well and hearty enough to take the head of officers once more, but at the same time we think he is being over worked. We may say we gained a conviction against our late secretary, H. Brailsford. He was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment, and he got a very severe talking to, the Judge giving him to understand that trades unions and friendly societies must be protected. We may say that we blame the cold, draughty court-house that Mr. Inskip is in his present condition. Fancy being kept a whole fortnight walking about a cold, cheerless place, and fearful weather into the bargain.

HINCKLEY.—We have to report trade as being unsatisfactory, a number of members being on short time, while others have nothing to do. We hear with pleasure of the progress of our General Secretary towards recovery, and hope it may be permanent. The news of his sudden illness was received with alarm in this town, and great anxiety has been felt throughout as to his condition. In conclusion we trust 1896 may prove happier and more prosperous than its predecessor.

KETTERING.—At the monthly meeting the following resolution was carried unanimously, and ordered to be forwarded to our General Secretary, Mr. Inskip, J.P.; “That this meeting expresses its heartfelt sympathy with Mr. William Inskip and his family in his serious affliction, and trusts that he will soon be restored to health again.”

KENDAL.—In submitting our report for the month we have to state that trade has fallen off considerably since our last, but we hope for a revival before long. On the Council's recommendation we granted £2 towards helping our fellow members at Manchester in defeating the notorious Leibstein. This, we gather from Mr. Ward, they have succeeded in doing, besides obtaining a substantial advance on former prices paid. We were exceedingly sorry to hear that Mr. Inskip, our General Secretary, was in such a critical condition; our latest information, however, was that he was improving. We hope he will maintain that improvement, and soon be convalescent, as we can ill spare his very valuable services.

LEICESTER.—In reporting on the state of trade this month we are pleased to say that there are not wanting signs of improvement. While we could hardly advise shopmates to come this way for work, it is certain that our members generally are better employed than they were; although our out of works, who number about 200, are not being absorbed, it is due to the changed condition of manufacture rather than to want of trade. The prevailing impression seems to be that the Spring trade will be a fairly brisk one so far as Leicester is concerned. We have held the first meeting of the Piece-Work Statement Committee under the conditions of the terms of settlement. The business was of a formal character, consisting chiefly of arranging the order of discussion and appointing chairman and secretary. We have arranged for the next meeting, when we expect to get fairly to work. If committees have commenced to sit in other branches we shall be glad of any information as to their mode of procedure, as it will be well to have the results as near uniform as local conditions will allow. At our last monthly meeting the following resolution was unanimously carried by the members standing:—“That this meeting desires to express its sincere sympathy with our General Secretary in his severe illness, and heartily hopes he may soon be restored to health and strength.” In conclusion we wish our members a more prosperous year than 1895.

LEICESTER No. 2.—At our January meeting it was unanimously resolved “That the Leicester No. 2 Branch expresses its sympathy with the General Secretary in his illness, and hopes for his speedy recovery.” Every member standing. We have just passed through another exciting period of our branch history, namely, an advance of the Clickers minimum wage to 28/- and Pressmen to 25/- per week. It has taken place with very little friction, the majority of employers having loyally carried out the award. What friction there was, arose on firms where it was least expected. Several firms wanted to commence paying the advance on January 6th instead of the first, forgetting that the few shillings were quite as valuable to our members as to themselves. One large firm retained the advance until the 18th inst., and then paid the arrears, what would have happened if we neglected our obligations so long? Another firm, the Clickers not being organised till just prior to the award, we obtained an advance of 8/- per week in one case; 6/- each in five cases; 5/- each in two cases; and 2/- in one case—50/- among nine. The employer stating we could not blame him for not paying more than he was obliged. [This employer was not federated.] We have four cases of compensation this month arising through the minimum wage, which we hope the Council will endorse. One at Rawson's; one at Dun's Lane, Co-op.; one at Hobson's; and one at Freer and Summer's.

LEEDS.—In submitting our returns this month, we deeply regret to hear of the serious illness of our General Secretary, and trust that he may speedily have a change for the better, and thus be able to resume his duties at the head offices. Trade with us is not so brisk, and we would urge upon our members at present not to call this way if they can avoid it. We would urge upon all members who make it a practice to remain 4s. in arrears, to endeavour, if possible, not to allow their arrears to exceed this amount, for if they do they are out of benefit for four weeks from the date their arrears are reduced to four shillings.

LEEDS No. 2.—Trade here is quiet at present, though all our members, with the exception of about two, are in work. We are going to organise this month, if possible, now that the holidays are over. We are sorry to hear of the General Secretary's serious illness, but trust he will be spared to help us for many a year yet. We have had a little bit of trouble with one of the employers' with reference to working his men longer hours than is recognised by our branch, but after a visit from the Investigator and the Secretary of the branch, the employer promised to comply with our request.

LONDON METRO.—At a meeting of the joint committees a resolution of deep sympathy was passed with our General Secretary, Mr. W. Inskip, in his serious illness, and fervent hopes were expressed for his early and complete restoration to health.

LONDON SOUTH.—We were very sorry to hear of the serious illness of our General Secretary, and a resolution of condolence and sympathy was unanimously passed with him in his affliction, and a wish was expressed for his speedy and complete recovery.

LONDON EAST.—In sending our returns this month we have to report trade as being still very slack. We heard with very great regret of Mr. Inskip's illness, and sincerely trust he may be speedily restored to health again. We thank the Council for the £2 granted for organizing purposes which shall be used to the best advantage.

LONDON CITY.—In reporting this month we are pleased to say there is a brighter prospect, for the year has begun with a slight improvement in trade. The year 1895 was indeed an eventful one; what with the lock-out, and its disastrous effect upon trade generally; the illness of our General President, Mr. Hornidge; followed by the alarming illness of our respected General Secretary, Mr. Inskip. Truly the members have cause to remember the year that has just closed. Much anxiety has been evinced by our members concerning Mr. Inskip, during his illness, and they unanimously wish him a speedy return to good health. Although we differ from him in our opinions on the pauper alien question, we did not take any part (although pressed to do so by a neighbouring branch) in the meeting that was held condemning the action of Messrs. Inskip and Freak. We feel compelled to mention this, because the London East Branch voted £1 from the funds and paid a delegate to assist in organizing this meeting to denounce our officials, and shortly after obtained a grant from the Council for organizing and asking members to join them.

MANCHESTER.—In addressing you this month we are very pleased to announce that we have succeeded in getting a settlement on Leibstein's shop, after a very tough struggle lasting eight weeks, and we have no doubt it has taught him a lesson that he will not very soon forget, as he tried every means in his power to defeat us and crush us out of existence, not only by introducing a lasting machine, but also by importing a very large number of Jew accommodators from London East End. However, we managed to checkmate him by getting them out again and sending them back—in fact, during the struggle, we got out 35 of his splendid talent. We must again take this opportunity of thanking the following branches for their kindness in coming to our rescue, as there is not the slightest doubt but for them we should have suffered an ignominious defeat. We hope that the result will be an incentive for all shopmates in Manchester to at once become members of our Union. The names of the branches and the amounts sent are: Leicester No. 1, £25; Leicester No. 2, £2; Leeds No. 1, £5; Hinckley, £2 2s.; and Kendal, £2. We are very pleased to hear that Mr. Inskip is making progress towards convalescence, and hope that he may soon be able to transact business at his office once more, and that his health will be more satisfactory during the present year than in the past.

NORWICH.—The situation here is not at all encouraging, there being indications of trouble in the near future. The matter referred to in the Council's address of last month, respecting the firm of Sexton and Sons, is far from satisfactory, especially as the firm refuses to be bound to pay the minimum wage to those working in conjunction with machinery, but fall back upon the old story that while they are perfectly willing to fall in with anything the Manufacturers' Association decides upon, and would cheerfully pay the wages if others did, they will not undertake to pay it until the whole of the manufacturers have agreed to do so; but they know that the manufacturers have decided not to entertain the principle of a minimum wage if they can possibly help it. This is proved by the fact that when we gave notice and brought the question before the Board, the employers said they had no power to deal with such a matter, notwithstanding the rule distinctly states that the objects of the Board shall be to arbitrate on any question or dispute affecting the trade. Upon this we sent our request to the Manufacturers' Association direct through their Secretary, which he laid before their meeting, and the reply they sent was that they could not entertain the principle of a minimum wage, but this has by no means satisfied us, as we are determined to have a minimum fixed for day workers, and shall use every endeavour to bring it about as soon as possible. In conclusion, let us say that we are all extremely glad to hear that our General Secretary is progressing favourably, and that before very long we hope to see him restored to his usual health and vigour.

NORWICH No. 2.—The new year, so far as our branch is concerned, has commenced well, most of the shops being on full swing, while one or two have commenced overtime already. We hope our members will seize the opportunity to pay off their arrears, so as to augment our branch funds, in order to be prepared for the struggle when it comes. The General President, Mr. Hornidge, being in Norwich settling the dispute at Sexton & Son's, expressed a desire to meet our committee, also to address a meeting of the members respecting the resolutions submitted by our branch to the Council. This meeting was held before we had an opportunity of laying the letter from the Council before our members. Seeing that Norwich is being continually (and not without good reason) held up to ridicule for its bad organization and low wages by other shoe centres, our members thought Mr. Hornidge displayed a somewhat pessimistic spirit—in fact, the whole tone of his address tended rather to repress than to encourage, one of his chief points being that he could not see his way clear to sanction the spending of the accumulated moneys of the older members to further the cause of so young a branch as ours—a rather weak argument, seeing that only this year all those funds were spent in the late struggle. But by a letter received from the General Secretary since, we are convinced Mr. Hornidge was not voicing the sentiments of the majority of the Council, since we are encouraged to urge our claims before the Arbitration Board, with the understanding that the Council are prepared to back us up at an early date in our reasonable demands, providing we can well organize the City. We intend to try and make the Arbitration Board recognise us as a Branch of the National Union. Of course this can best be done by those outside coming in, and those inside the Union keeping up their contributions, so as to become entitled to benefit at the earliest possible moment. The No. 1 Branch are prepared to back us up in every conceivable way. During the month we have voted 5s. to the Quelch men at Croydon, and 10s. to the Belfast and Clyde Shipbuilders' lock-out.

NORTHAMPTON.—Trade is very slack here at present, and employers are still putting down machinery, which means a quickened output and consequent displacement of hand labour, which under a proper system would not take place, and will not when once the workers are fully alive to their own powers. This quickened output means a still faster method of making wealth (material), but until a great change takes place in the workers' attitude towards these and cognate questions, very little of such increased wealth will go into the hands of those that create and make the same. It is to be hoped that the members during 1896 will take a greater interest in these matters and in the Society, there being a constant need for watchfulness, and moreover a determination amongst the members that no one shall be allowed to work at the trade who is not a unionist (trade). There are some persons who are short-sighted enough and shallow enough to say that trade unionism is a failure; if this is so, the opposite must be true—that “free labour” is a success. Let these gentlemen go to those trades wherein “free labour” is in vogue, and see for themselves the conditions of work and price paid for labour, because the highest wages and best conditions, according to these gentlemen, are existent in trades where no organisation exists, whereas, as a matter of fact, it is well known that the best conditions, shortest hours, and highest wages are in those trades where trades’ unionism is strong. The action of some men inclines one to the idea that they are too mean to pay the 6d. per week, while only too willing to take any advantage which may be secured. It is time that in our trade, at least, the pace was made too hot for such persons, and it is to be hoped that the members will not any longer allow these persons to take the bread out of their mouths, by working at a trade and refusing to keep up the advantage gained by their contributing their fair quota towards the Society.

NORTHAMPTON No. 2.—At our monthly meeting, a good number of our members being present, a unanimous resolution of condolence and sympathy was passed with our General Secretary (Mr. W. Inskip) in his serious illness, and that he may have a speedy recovery, and be spared to be with us many years yet, was the earnest wish of all present.

STAFFORD.—In sending this report we are sorry to inform you that the new year has opened most gloomily for us, inasmuch as Mr. Hollin (who is putting down a plant of lasting machines) discharged the whole of his pieceworkers in the bottoming department. This unprecedented action, as may be expected, caused great consternation here, seeing that no less than fifty men were discharged. After fruitless interviews between the branch officials and the firm, it was decided to apply to the Council. We were perfectly aware that the rules do not apply to the displacement of labour by machinery, still we held to the opinion that the moral support of the Council would be of great service to us, and this surmise proved correct. The Council promptly sent the General President, Mr. W. B. Hornidge, who handled the difficult matter with success. He ultimately induced the firm to reinstate the whole of the men until February 1st; meanwhile we hope they may be able to obtain employment elsewhere. We are exceedingly sorry to hear of the illness of our General Secretary, which brings to mind the fact that we have been singularly unfortunate in having our General President and General Secretary prostrate with illness, just at the time when their services were most needed. We are glad Mr. Inskip is improving, and trust he may soon be sufficiently recovered to resume his official duties.

STONE.—In reporting this month we are sorry to say trade is very bad at most shops, and short time is the order of the day. We were alarmed to hear of the serious illness of Mr. Inskip, and earnestly hope he is better by this time. We held our annual dinner on the 27th December, when an excellent spread was provided by our hostess, Mrs. Harvey. When the cloth was removed our president, Mr. Albert Smith, took the chair, and was supported by members of the Bakers’, Carpenters’ and Joiners’, and Coopers’ Unions. Councillor W. H. Phillips was also present, and there was a large attendance of members. In reply to the toast, “Success to Trade Unionism,” Mr. H. Emery, district secretary to the Bakers’ Union, from Hanley, made a vigorous speech in support of trade unionist principles. A most enjoyable evening was brought to a close with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

TO THE MEMBERS.

FELLOW-MEMBERS,

As is customary at the conclusion of the Half-Yearly Audit, we now beg to lay before you the result of our investigations into the financial position of our Union from June 30th to December 31st, 1895.

It will be observed that the expenditure for the Trade Department is the lowest that has been disbursed for many years, and we are exceedingly gratified to be able to congratulate our members upon the fact that there has been a gain on this department alone of the splendid sum of £8234 17s. 5d. during the past half year.

We can also congratulate the members upon the further fact that the Sick Account shows a considerable improvement, there being a gain in this department of £1205 11s. 3d.

The total funds now in the hands of the Council amount to £20,452 10s. 11d., showing a total gain on the two departments during the last half year of £9440 8s. 8d.

Thus it will be seen that the progress made since the ever-memorable Lock-out has been of the most satisfactory character, and must be very gratifying to each member of our Union.

It is also our pleasure to again testify to the efficient manner in which the books, etc. are kept, everything being done in a clear, precise, and business-like style. We have not found a single error in the manipulation of the books, and every facility has been given us for the purpose of conducting a thorough investigation.

We remain,

Yours fraternally,

LEICESTER :
CO-OPERATIVE PRINTING SOCIETY LIMITED,
VAUXHALL STREET, CAUSEWAY LANE.

Telegraphic Address—

“ INSKIP, LEICESTER.”

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Every precaution is taken by us to ensure accuracy in these Reports, our correspondents being men on whom we can rely ; should, however, any errors creep into them, upon the same being pointed out to us, we shall be most happy to give the same prominence to the correction as to the original matter. As these Reports are exclusively for the use of Members, the information contained therein must not be divulged.

NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

FEBRUARY 22, 1896.

FELLOW MEMBERS,

We have been many times charged by the capitalists with being the means of damaging trade, and driving it from our shores, thereby robbing the workmen of labour they otherwise would have had to perform ; but we venture to say no act of ours has ever had such damaging effect upon trade as has the action of the combination of capitalists, known as

who, buying up hides in every quarter, and at almost any price, drove the prices of leather up to an artificial value, and who, by means of their syndicate, hoped to keep them up. Circumstances, however, have been too strong for them, and they have been at last compelled to sell at lower rates—but, mark the effect. No sooner does it become known to buyers that the prices of leather are somewhat easier, than they immediately stop all orders, and the promising outlook foreshadowed in the early part of the year has doomed us to disappointment.

TRADE HAS FALLEN OFF to a considerable extent, and we would here draw your attention to the anomaly existing, as the leading spirits of this unhealthy combination are men who are continually deriding trades unionism, and doing their best to break-up combinations amongst the workpeople, whose only objects in combination are to obtain a living wage, and provision against sickness and death.

As a result of this check, numbers have been discharged, and disputes have been more rife in the various centres, the most important ones being at the Co-operative Society (Shieldhall, Glasgow), Baker Bros. (Wolverhampton), Salomon's (London), Quelch's (Croydon), and Clarke's (Kilmarnock).

Dealing with the

as being the most important by reason of the numbers affected, and the cost involved, the facts are, shortly, as follows :—

In the early part of December, a dispute arose as to men being discharged for what is known as breakages—that is the material giving way during the process of making—the management requiring the men to pull the work up, and upon the men refusing to do so, they were discharged. As the men acted illegally by coming out without instructions, we refused to support them, and after being out eight days the following agreement was entered into between the management and the workmen's representatives :

(1) That a Committee of ten be formed, consisting of five workmen and five directors, to fully investigate the charges of tyranny, etc., brought against the under-manager, and that, in the meantime, all the men return to work, with the exception of the man who was discharged, whose case will also be considered by said Committee, and the result of their investigations made known as soon as possible.

(2) Also, we can have no objection to the men forming a committee to inquire into any matter of importance they think necessary, and, if any grievance exists of sufficient importance to lay before the manager, they shall put the same in writing, and bring it under his notice. Failing any settlement, they can then appeal to the Board of Directors.

(3) We will also pledge ourselves to the principle of arbitration generally, and are willing to discuss some scheme having that object in view. Details of constitution and duties to be fully considered and defined before the formation of such Board.

As soon as the men commenced work again, this agreement was set at naught by the foreman, and eventually repudiated by the management, and we had the matter investigated; and as the agreement had been drafted so short a time, we insisted upon the Directors adhering to the terms of that agreement. This they refused to do, and as a consequence we withdrew the men. They have now been out some five weeks, and negotiations have been taking place between representatives of the Directors and also of the Union, but up to the present, without effect.

We have also offered to submit the questions in dispute to the Joint Committee of Co-operators and Trade Unionists, elected each year by the Co-operative Union on the one hand, and the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress on the other, each Congress year by year electing this Committee, to whom all disputes between Co-operative Societies and Trade Unions shall be relegated; but for some—at present—unexplained reason, the Directors have refused to submit the case to the said Committee.

There has been a meeting of this Joint Committee held in Manchester, and it was decided at that meeting that unless the Directors agree to submit their case for adjudication, an independent investigation should take place, and a report presented to the Co-operative and Trades Union Congress, as it was felt that this being the first serious case which had cropped up, it was a farce to call in existence this Committee, and then not allow it to perform the functions for which it was elected.

The latest proposals are as follows:—

DIRECTORS' PROPOSALS.

(1) Shops Committee to be composed of five, two to be drawn from the affected department, and one each from any other three departments in the factory which the men may select.

(2) That the duties of the Committee will be to enquire into any matter of importance they may think necessary.

(3) Any workman dismissed by the foreman for faulty workmanship, or any other cause, shall, if he desires, after his dismissal, appeal to above Committee, and said Committee can, if they think necessary, put the matter in writing, and submit the same to the manager for decision. If the decision is unsatisfactory to the men, they can appeal to the Board of Directors.

(4) No man shall be held responsible for damage done to work not caused by himself, but which has been done in another department. The manager, however, holds the right at any time to trace back inefficient work to any particular individual, and deal with same accordingly.

(5) Breakages occurring in material in the hands of the workmen can only be adjudicated upon by the management, whose decision shall be final.

WORKMEN'S PROPOSALS.

Constitution of Committee.

(1) We would agree to two members only being drawn from the department where the dispute arises, and one from each of the other departments. This would meet the views of your Board so far as your objection to having a majority on the Committee from the department where the dispute occurs.

Powers of Committee.

(2) That the duties of the Committee will be to inquire into any matter of importance they think necessary.

(3) Should any dispute arise between the foreman and the workman as to the cause of any breakage, the Committee shall apply to the Manager for permission to inspect the work in question, when, should they be of opinion that the fault does not rest with the workman, they shall put the case in writing and submit it to the manager for his investigation. Failing any settlement, they can then appeal to the Board of Directors.

(4) Any man who has shopped work to which objection has been taken by the foreman, for the cause specified in Clause 3 of these proposals, shall be supplied with other work to go on with pending investigation.

(5) No man shall be held responsible for any work that has been passed by the foreman as correct, and has been sent into another department, and is damaged there by the carelessness or incompetence of the workmen in that department.

(6) Failing any settlement being arranged on the lines indicated in the foregoing, we are prepared to submit the whole question to the judgment of the National Committee of representative Co-operators and Trades' Unionists, and hereby pledge ourselves to abide by whatever decision they may arrive at.

We still hold to the opinion that the Directors ought to adhere to the agreement made in December, and we also endorse the definition of that agreement as contained in the men's proposals. Whether we are right or wrong we are prepared to submit to the Committee above referred to.

It having come to our knowledge that an effort is being made by employers in various parts of the country to induce our members to enter into agreements to work for them for two or three years, thereby not only breaking our rules, but practically placing the men at the mercy of the employers should a dispute arise and the men be withdrawn. We cannot too strongly reprehend the conduct of some of the men who have accepted these agreements, and we strongly urge upon all those who are offered it, the necessity of refusing to enter into any such agreement, but to steer clear of all such attempts, and thus not work against the interests of their fellow-workers. At

it appears that an arrangement had been entered into between the branch officials and the firm, that he should make a certain class of small work at less than the statement price. This agreement appears to have been signed in 1891, without either our knowledge or consent, and some time ago we were asked to give the support of the Union to Salomon's men, as he was insisting upon having his work made below the lowest line on the lowest statement in London. Not knowing of this previous arrangement, we gave the necessary permission, and the men have been out for some 10 weeks, and as there was no signs of a settlement, we decided to compensate the men and block the shop. It is only right here to state that had we have known of this previous agreement, we should not have sanctioned the men coming out, in the first instance, as we will be no party to these private arrangements just to suit the convenience of people for the time being, and then, as is so frequently the case, causing us considerable financial responsibility to regain that which the men had no business to have surrendered in the first instance, by making these private arrangements. In the case of

it will be remembered that the men had been out for some time, and that a satisfactory settlement was effected by Mr. Freak, but scarcely had the men got settled to work again than an attempt was made by the firm to enforce a reduction of 1d. per pair on a particular boot, and after the case had been carefully investigated by the branch officers, we decided to send Mr. Votier, who, after several interviews with the firm, succeeded in obtaining the correct wages, and the men are now working satisfactorily. At the firm refused to abide by the award of Lord James on the boy question and the minimum wage, claiming they had a right to pay what wages they liked, and to employ any number of boys they liked. As this had been a standing grievance for some time, the Council was requested to deal with the matter, and accordingly the President had several interviews with the firm who, however, chose to be obstreperous, and accordingly the men were withdrawn, and after being out for a few days, another interview took place between the President of the Union, the local officials, and the firm, when a satisfactory settlement was come to and signed, and the men immediately resumed work.

On page 13 we reproduce from the newspapers a copy of the preliminary proposals of the Employers' Federation, who, imbued with a spirit of philanthropy, and by no means (so they say) in opposition to the Union, have launched a so-called

PROVIDENT SCHEME.

We mention it here so that you may be satisfied we have not lost sight of it; but before dealing with it in any way, or expressing an opinion on it, or even making any comments on their scheme, we prefer to wait for the details of the same, and then no doubt we shall have something to say upon it.

We also notice the efforts of some members of the Federation who, not at all in opposition to the Union, are seeking to form a FREE LABOUR UNION OR ASSOCIATION.

These efforts have to be carefully watched, and should there be any good in them, then we shall advise the adoption of them by our members. Otherwise, as a matter of self-protection, we shall do our best to defeat the objects which, under the surface, no doubt actuate the promoters.

On pages 14—21 will be found the

for delegates to the ensuing conference, except in the case of Kettering No. 1, where, we understand, they have refused to nominate delegates on the ground that the last conference decided to hold the next conference at Manchester instead of at Kettering.

We are well aware that it was a great disappointment to their delegates when it was decided to hold it at Manchester, but we cannot conceive a branch being so unwise as to cut off its own representation, simply because, by our democratic method of election, they were defeated on that occasion. We think it would have been far more dignified on their part if they had contented themselves with the protest they made at the last conference, and asked for the next conference to be held at Kettering, and we now urge upon them the necessity of rectifying this mistake, and we have decided to accord the necessary powers to enable them to do so if they choose.

In the case of Kingswood, we regret to state that in consequence of their financial position, there will be no voting necessary for a delegate from that branch, as, if elected, the delegate would be disqualified by rule from sitting at the conference.

on the nominations must take place on the March monthly night, and the voting papers returned to the General Secretary not later than March 15th, or the votes will be disqualified.

ALTERATIONS, AMENDMENTS, AND ADDITIONS TO RULES.

As the agenda paper has to be in the hands of delegates prior to the conference, it is imperative that all branches who desire to suggest any alteration, amendment, or addition to the existing rules, shall carefully consider them at a meeting of the members of the branch not later than March monthly night, and if passed by a majority of the members present, they must be sent in to the General Secretary not later than March 15th, if they desire them to be considered by the conference, as time will be required to tabulate them in their proper order so that they may be issued to the delegates for consideration.

The attention of branch officers is more particularly called to this matter, in sending these particulars in, so that they may be duly considered, as on them largely rests the responsibility of

SPECIAL NOTICE TO BRANCH SECRETARIES.

The month ending March 2nd being a five weeks' month, Branch Secretaries must make out their returns, and pay for same accordingly.

BRANCH TRADE REPORTS.

BRISTOL.—In our report for this month we are pleased to state that trade shows a little sign of improvement, and, generally speaking, much to the advantage of the dayworkers; and the pieceworkers, as a rule, where machinery exists, are still suffering the scarcity of employment they have so long experienced. We can imagine that our heavy lists of scratched members has been very much noticed in other centres, and we will here state that a considerable portion of such has been caused by the introduction of machinery, which has forced a number on the unemployed market. This we know is a general grievance, and becomes a problem not too easy to solve. With the improvement in trade—such as it is—our Organising Committee has been reconstructed, and a few shop's meetings convened for the purpose of dealing with enforced and attempted reductions and infringements has been the means of the lost members again joining the Union. We intend to push on our organising programme if solicited means will permit it, and we trust the labours of the committee will be a future encouragement, both to the committee and the Union, by the results which we anticipate. The financial position of our Union, as set forth in the Half-yearly just issued, is such that all members should heartily appreciate, but its encouraging statements as to trade improvements up to that time does not embrace this centre, inasmuch as the lengthy depression of trade with us has been most acutely felt. We propose a change of "office" for the more central accommodation of our members, and from February 22, 1896, the business transactions of the Branch will be conducted at 30, Wilson Street, St. Paul's. We are pleased to learn of improvement in health of our General Secretary, and trust for a complete recovery.

BIRMINGHAM.—Since our last returns things are going better with us, many of our members having obtained employment. We have also to state that one of our firms that ceased operations at Xmas will, we have cause to believe, commence again shortly. This firm has employed many men who were settled in the immediate neighbourhood for many years, and coming at the time it did made it sharp, some of them doing nothing for eight weeks.

The federated employers in this town are asking for a revision of portions of our statement, and our Secretary was instructed to make a request to the Secretary of the Federation what articles and classes they wished the men to discuss. A Board meeting was called, and a special meeting of the men, but the whole thing up to the present has collapsed. The request for certain portions to lay before the men, we have cause to believe, caused the employers some trouble and dissent, particularly coming at a time when an employer is leaving the town to get country labour, and our thoughts are that the federated employers are cutting their country friend by asking for a revision of certain articles that they may compete with those outside the town. The expense of leaving us will run well into the thousands, so, with the extra expense of carriage to and from the warehouse here, it will take a cheap labour market some years to pay off even a small percentage of the original outlay. Our Federation is getting rather on a low edge, being now reduced to eight employers. During the month we have had many appeals for various objects from Secretaries, and we are sorry to state that our debt to Council, and our Branch debts, left us to pay by our late Secretary, completely stops us, however willing to be liberal to our friends.

BARNESLEY.—We are just about in the same position as last report, namely, short time, 8.30 to 4 being the rule, when we are expected to get what will keep us from the Workhouse or from starving. It is the same old game, a few months overtime, and when the orders are completed we have short time and very little work for the other eight or nine months. We have received a report from Leicester on the unemployed question, and should be very pleased to see it adopted, especially in our own trade. We think if overtime was abolished there would be more regular work. It is most gratifying to hear of the recovery of our General Secretary, and hope that both him and the General President will, in the future, have better health than what they have been having during the last year. We hope to send a better report next time.

CORK.—Trade is very fair here at present, except in one shop, which is a little affected by the introduction of machinery, but we do not anticipate very much annoyance in this direction, as machinery has proved to be a great failure in this town, and not at all adapted to the classes of work which the more intelligent of our population demand. We are pleased to state that we have been partially successful in the organisation of a number of men, who has been outside the pale of our Union for a long time, namely, the employés of Messrs. Dwyers and Co., and we are sanguine that we shall enrol a much larger number in the near future; but let it be understood by the men who suffered much through the action of those men that we did not admit them as cheaply as they may suppose, for although we induced them to join, we did also succeed in compelling them to pay a very substantial entrance fee, which will, we trust, remind them in future that they cannot work against the interest of our society with impunity. Now that we have extended the hand of fellowship to them, they may be assured that we will never revert to the past, but look forward to a bright and prosperous future for this Branch, which has suffered many trials and vicissitudes in its eventful career. We are very pleased to hear of the recovery of our General Secretary (Mr. William Inskip), a fact which gives the greatest pleasure to every member of this Branch.

DERBY.—In sending our returns for this month we are extremely sorry to have to note the death of one of our members, Thomas Briggs, who has been a great sufferer for a long time, and his family were in very untoward circumstances; but his fellow-workmen did the best they could under the circumstances, and have paid the cost of the interment, and handed over the full amount to the widow and children. These are the actions of true Trade Unionists in endeavouring to lend a hand to help those who cannot help themselves, this being one of the objects of our Union. We are pleased to hear of the recovery of our energetic General Secretary (Mr. W. Inskip), and trust he may be long spared amongst us to push forward the interests of our Union. Trade remains rather quiet with us, and it is to be hoped for better times and increased trade.

DESBOROUGH.—Trade is rather slack here at present, some of our members only having one day in a week. During the month we have had our General President (Mr. W. B. Hornidge) here to address a public meeting, and he gave a very interesting address on "Organisation." Our Branch here is practically at a standstill. We wish the members would attend the meetings better, and show more interest in the working of the Branch, and help us to raise it to a more prosperous position, but while there is so much apathy shown we shall never succeed. We have one case for compensation, F. Baldwin, working at Smith's, a branch firm from Kettering, who has been discharged for asking for a better price for his work, which we hope the Council will endorse.

EDINBURGH.—In submitting our report for the month we regret to say, with the advance of the year, trade with us shows little sign of improvement; but we hope to be able to chronicle a more satisfactory report next month.

GLASGOW.—In addressing you this month we have to report that the dispute at the Co-operative factory, which we reported last month, and which was caused by the directors refusing to grant to the men the rights (under the deed of settlement of the previous dispute) to appoint a committee of investigation, whose duties were to inquire into any matter of importance that they thought necessary. One of the things the men thought necessary to inquire into was the frequent flaws and breakages which occurred in the material, and for which the men were held responsible, and which they had to make good at their own cost, even though the men (to use the manager's own words) took every precaution to prevent such flaws or breakages. Mr. Smith, who investigated the dispute, submitted the men's case to the General Council, who gave instructions for the withdrawal of the men. The men have now been out for four weeks, and there is still no prospects of a settlement. We have asked the directors to allow the points in dispute to go to arbitration, and have suggested the National Committee, who are composed of Trade Unionists and Co-operators as a suitable Arbitration Board, but up to the time of writing the directors have refused to entertain our proposals. We here again take this opportunity of thanking the following Branches for their prompt and generous response to our appeal:—

GLASGOW No. 2.—Since last month's issue the affairs of the Co-operative Stores at Shieldhall has developed into a lock-out with our members, all hands being told on Monday, January 20th, that their services would not be required until they settled with Branch No. 1, which up to date (February 13th) has not come off. As our membership in this factory is but small, only one girl a financial member—and there are over 300 girls employed by this so-called co-op.—it was considered a very unfair action by our Committee to see those girls out in the cold (their own fault granted) depending on their earnings for their support, so it was deemed advisable to issue appeals to branches in our Union for help, which has been responded to by Kendall £1, Higham and Rushden £1, Worcester 10/-, Cork 10/-, for which we return our thanks. Several letters have appeared in the Daily Record expressing sympathy with those girls who were not connected with our Union; but a meeting was held in the Boilermakers' Hall, Govan, on Thursday Afternoon., February 6th, when Miss Irwin, Hon. Sec. to Women's Protective League, and Miss Carrie D'Martyn, a brilliant speaker, explained in plain terms to the girls present their position now, and what difference it would have made had they been like their brothers or fathers connected with the Union. The result of their addresses to those present was that 73 girls sent in their names to join No. 2 Branch. It will be seen, that up-to-date 10 members have left us, this lock-out causing nine of them to migrate to England; but it is to be hoped they will return soon as they were good members, and such as them give their officials no trouble, but are a credit to the branch they belong to.

HECKMONDWIKE.—In submitting our report for this month we are sorry to say there is a falling off in trade since last month, but still trade is moderate for this time of year, and there seems good prospects as the Co-operative works are extending their premises. We also wish to state that there is no truth whatever in the rumour stating that Martin Hunt, late of this branch, was working whilst receiving sick pay.

HINCKLEY.—We are pleased to state that few of our members are out of work, although trade is anything but brisk, which we think is accounted for by factors refusing to give orders, unless they can have goods at reduced prices, on account of the fall in the leather market. Disputes during the month have been frequent, most of them being settled satisfactorily, while others have been referred to the Arbitration Board, which will meet before this reaches our members, when we hope to obtain good results. We are sorry to state that a section of our members refused to accept the decision of the Committee of Inquiry re Oakline question, although they were told that the question would be reconsidered at the Board meeting, when the alteration required might be agreed to.

IPSWICH.—In sending our report this month we are pleased to state that trade is beginning to revive, and we hope those members that owe large book debts will make an effort to bring them down. We have had some trouble with one of our members, through the committee refusing to grant him a permit to work outside, as they thought they were justified in refusing the same.

KILMARNOCK.—In addressing you this month we have to state that trade is very bad here, and we are having a little trouble over the machinery, which we trust we shall tide over. We may here state that the President and Secretary has been discharged on account of their action re the Machinery Question. Mr. Dobbin, who investigated the dispute, had not the slightest doubt with regard to their dismissal, and recommended them for compensation, which has been granted, and which we hope the Council will endorse.

LEEDS.—In submitting our report this month we regret that trade here is exceedingly dull. Much of this may be attributed to the mildness of the weather, and therefore there is not that use for heavy boots for which this centre is noted. We have granted five pounds to the Glasgow Dispute, and trust that the employees will be successful, as we think that it is a case of bad management in the factory that is the main cause of the dispute.

LEEDS No. 2.—Trade here is quiet, a good few of shops being on short time. We have been organising during the last two or three weeks, but it is hard work inducing them to join us. We have to report also that the employers are evading the minimum agreed to at the Conciliation Board. We have had several complaints of this sort, and also on the boy question. We have investigated these, and have come to the conclusion that the employers have a private understanding among themselves. In fact, one of the federated employers told us that they did not intend to give the minimum unless the man went and asked for it. If this is allowed, it means that non-unionists can work for any wage the employer may offer. We shall certainly expect the Council to take some steps in this matter, as it vitally affects our branch.

LONDON SOUTH.—In sending our report this month, we are sorry to say that trade is still bad. We have had a series of disputes at one of our large firms in this district. We had a large Shops' Meeting of the firm of Messrs. Rabbits, who introduced several alterations in their system of working, and so has to have this firm well represented by the workmen to wait upon the Manager, they appointed six lasters and six finishers together with the Secretary to lay their grievances before the said Manager, who received us with that kindly spirit when after being with him some three hours and considering some fourteen items, he gave way in most instances which was very satisfactory to the men. But there was one class of work several men had out that has taken some time to settle, and that was in the first place given out as a Women's Persian Back and Glaze Front, 8½d. lasting, after which the firm put in a Glaze Back which increased the value of this boot. We had several meetings and deputations waited upon the firm in respect to this boot, and it was finally decided to give 10d. lasting, and 7½d. finishing, only two men losing any time, which at one time it looked that we should have to send for an investigator. At our branch meeting it was resolved to ask the Council for a grant for organizing purposes, as several of our members have left us on account of the levy and slackness of trade. We have also granted J. Perry £1 as compensation for loss of work on Solomon's, of Pentonville, which we hope the Council will endorse.

LONDON EAST.—In sending our report this month, we are sorry to say that the trade is still in a very unsettled state. We held a public meeting for organizing purposes, when Mr. Freak and Mr. O'Grady addressed the meeting. We thank those gentlemen for their kind assistance which they rendered us, and we hope it will be a success.

NOTTINGHAM.—In addressing you this month, we are sorry to report there is no improvement in trade, many of our members only just making above half-time. At our quarterly meeting, our branch granted £1 10s. in aid of the Labourers' Lock-Out on the Clyde and Belfast. We are in negotiations with our employers both at Nottingham and Hucknall to obtain the minimum wage for our members that are considerably over 20 years of age, the employers promising us that they would pay some time back, but up to now we have failed to obtain it. So we have given them till April 4th to fulfill their promise, and should they refuse to pay by that time, we shall have to call in the assistance of our Council. At the firm of Parker & Booths' we have consented to make a White Bottom and Waist, Iron Strip, on a Girls' Seconds Boot as Ground Work.

NORWICH No. 2.—Trade in our branches is very good, especially in the clicking department. We don't think there is a clicker out of employment. Several of our members are seizing this opportunity and are paying off their arrears, which we hope will be general. Our organising committee is still at work, and, though their efforts are not so successful as we should wish, we still keep adding to our numbers slowly. During the month we submitted certain resolutions to the Manufacturers' Association, including a 54 hours working week, the employment of boys, and the fixing of a minimum wage. The manufacturers declined to accede to any of our just and reasonable demands. We beg to thank the Council for the encouraging tone of their correspondence on the subject. Our branch, at their last monthly meeting, unanimously decided not to ask for the assistance of the Council to gain any of the above objects, just yet. We must thoroughly organise ourselves, and then we feel sure that when our branch is in a better state, both financially and numerically, the Council will be only too pleased to render us all the assistance necessary to gain the said objects. A general rise in clickers' wages, we hope, is taking place. One large firm have conceded an advance to most of their men, while at another the clickers have sent in a demand for a 10 per cent, rise. We hope when the clickers, who signed for 15 months at one firm, hear of this they will feel comfortable and regret having done so, although their employer won't see them suffer! seeing that by getting them to sign he thinks of getting a cut at that most detestable Union.

NORTHAMPTON.—In sending the report for the month, attention should just be drawn to the fact that the Shoe and Leather Record has thought fit to call attention to the remarks contained in last month's report as to machinery; but then the Record's deductions are about as correct as is usual with them, when they talk about our detestation of machinery. So far from this being the case, we wish the machines would do all the work and allow us to enjoy life, seeing that under the present system of "misgovernment" for a very large number of people no enjoyment is possible, but instead of enjoyment a continual drudgery. And we again repeat that once the people awake to their true position, and use their power to bring about a "just" system of government, no amount of machinery will displace people to make them suffer simply to enrich the few. Members are particularly requested to keep the present statements intact, as several attempts have been made lately to break the same. It is also requested that the members will insist upon the Factory Act being carried out, the employers in a number of instances evading the same, such Act has been passed for the benefit of workpeople, and it is hoped that any and all cases of evasion will be reported. The members attention is again called to the fact that some persons who had no scruples in drawing their 10/- per week during the Lock-Out are still outside our ranks, these said persons are quite willing to hold out their hand for any benefits but to ask for any payment however small back again is beyond the question, but there are methods of dealing with them as some have already found, and it is hoped that means will be adopted to let such persons know, and that in no unmistakeable manner, what is thought of them. We would again remind the members of using our powers to get into power politically, and so make sure of effectually bettering our condition and that in the best and quickest manner.

NORTHAMPTON No. 2.—In reporting this month, we have to state that trade is very quiet for this time of the year, a few of our members being out of work and several of the largest factories on short time. We are sorry to state that we have not as yet received the Umpire's decision as to our wages question, as he wishes to visit several more local factories and probably one or two at Leicester before giving his award; and he also wishes for further evidence as to the liability of accidents to the Pressmen, which has been carefully prepared and forwarded to him, so that the members can see there is no delay on our side to further the object desired. We are pleased to state we have a Factory Inspector now residing in Northampton, and if the members have any complaints to make as to ventilation or other unsatisfactory conditions of their workshops in accordance with the new Act, our Secretary will be only too pleased to forward the same to him, so that the complaint will be investigated at once.

NORTHAMPTON No. 3.—In submitting our report, we regret that some of our members have left us since the Lock-Out, but we hope they will see the error they made and join again. There are openings now for good Operators in the town and district. We have nominated our President, Mr. W. Roberts, as Delegate to the Conference and hope he will be successful, as we are the only Machine Operators Branch at present belonging to the Union, and therefore would very much like to see a representative of the Sewers and Stitchers at the Conference; not only to represent the Northampton Operatives but others who belong to the Union in other districts. So far we have not been successful, but hope we shall be at some future time. We would like other branches to take this matter into consideration, and see if the operators cannot have a representative at the forthcoming Conference.

WOLVERHAMPTON,—In addressing you this month we have to report trade here very quiet. We are sorry to say our prediction in the December report re the minimum wage to be paid to youths over 20 years of age, working in conjunction with lasting and finishing machines, did not turn out as we expected, as we had every confidence that there would be no serious friction on either the firm of Messrs. Craddock's or Messrs. Baker's. The matter being placed in the hands of the Council, they at once sent down Mr. Hornidge. He, in conjunction with Secretary and President, at once interviewed Messrs. Baker's and Craddock's, the latter firm at once agreeing to pay the 28s. per week, which meant an advance of 16s. per week to one youth and 12s. to another. The men and youths had to be withdrawn from Messrs. Baker's before a settlement could be arrived at, as the firm stated they did not intend to recognise the award of Lord James that youths of 20 years of age should receive men's wages. After the men and youths had been out a week the firm agreed to pay, which means advances to several youths ranging from 4s. to 12s. per week, also agreeing to meet the branch officials in regard to other youths' claims when they arrive at the age of 20 years. As soon as notices were served on the firm on behalf of our members, all the youths at once handed in their notices, which enabled us to empty the lasting and finishing rooms. A different state of things occurred in the clicking room, we having several members in that department whose notices were handed in with the others. A meeting in this department was called together by A. Weaver—a so-called Labour Representative on the Town Council, who was once a member of ours. He, on this occasion, not being satisfied with turning accommodator himself, wielded sufficient influence upon the other clickers to pass a resolution repudiating the Union's demands and pledging themselves to remain loyal to the firm, which they did. At a mass meeting of the branch, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Council and to Mr. Hornidge. We also thank those branch officials who rendered us such valuable assistance in keeping men away during the dispute.

THE FEDERATION'S PROVIDENT SCHEME.

Extract from the Leicester Daily Post, February 14th, 1895.

THE following is the report of the Committee appointed to draw up a Sick Benefit and Provident Scheme for boot and shoe operatives, and submitted to a meeting of the Executive of the Federation, held in London on Wednesday last when the same was formally adopted:—

Your Committee, in considering the subject, have thought it best not to attempt to formulate a detailed scheme until the principle has been discussed, and the main lines have been settled by the Federation. In making the following recommendations, they have taken into consideration the facts now stated:—

1. That since the formation of existing societies, established for giving monetary aid during sickness, old age pensions, and other benevolent purposes in connection with the Boot and Shoe trade, the wholesale trade has changed and developed to such an unforeseen extent that such societies are inadequate for present requirements.

2. That the existence of such societies has been of great benefit in not only giving help during sickness and pensions in old age, but in promoting good feeling between the various sections of the trade, and employers and employed.

3. That it is not practicable to adapt and bring within the reach of all employees of the trade of to day the societies now existing.

4. That no society exists, identified with the trade:—

(a) Which is available for all employees;

(b) Whose funds are used for benevolent purposes only; or

(c) Which grants old age pensions.

Your Committee, therefore, recommends the formation of a Sick Benefit and Old Age Pension Society in connection with the Wholesale Boot and Shoe Trade.

That employers and employed of all ages be eligible for membership.

With a view of strengthening the financial position of such society, and promoting mutual good feeling and interest, your Committee recommend that, in addition to the subscriptions of the members, employers who are also members shall contribute a sum equal to 10 per cent. of the subscriptions of their employees, and shall also undertake the cost of collection and management, except the expenses of the central or head office.

That the following be the scale of benefits payable under the scheme:—Sick Pay, male members under 16 years, 6s. per week; 16 to 18 years, 8s. per week; 18 to 21 years, 10s. per week; 21 years and over, 12s. 6d. per week. Female members under 18 years, 5s. per week; 18 to 21 years, 6s. 6d. per week; 21 years and over, 8s. per week. (Maternity cases excepted.)

The above amounts to be payable for 13 weeks, and half the amount for a further 13 weeks, if required.

Members to be clear on the books for 12 months before receiving further sick pay.

Funeral Allowance.—The sum of £5 to be paid to legal representative of any deceased member.

Old Age Pension Fund.—That a separate subscription be paid for membership, and that all members shall receive a weekly pension of 5s. upon reaching the age of 60 years.

Your Committee further recommend that an annual dinner or meeting be held in connection with the Society.

That no affiliated branch shall be started in any factory where the manufacturer does not agree to contribute 10 per cent. on the amount of the workpeople's contribution, but in case of an employee moving to a non-affiliated shop he shall not lose the benefit of the Society.

That a Committee be appointed (with power to engage the services of an Actuary) for the purpose of arranging a scale of subscriptions necessary for carrying out the foregoing, drafting rules, and other necessary preliminaries, and that such Committee report to the next General Meeting of the Federation.

W. H. CHAMBERLIN, Secretary.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Every precaution is taken by us to ensure accuracy in these Reports, our correspondents being men on whom we can rely ; should, however, any errors creep into them, upon the same being pointed out to us, we shall be most happy to give the same prominence to the correction as to the original matter. As these Reports are exclusively for the use of Members, the information contained therein must not be divulged.

NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

MARCH 22ND, 1896.

FELLOW WORKMEN,

There has been a very heavy crop of disputes during the month, again signifying the old, old story that as soon as trade gets a bit slack the employers at once take advantage of it by trying to reduce the wages of the workmen, thus illustrating the necessity of men being at all times prepared to meet such emergencies. Amongst the disputes may be mentioned Coe, Church and McPhearson (Bristol), Morgan and Co. (Brynmawr), Reggles (Birmingham), Halliday (Bramley), McLeish (Dundee), Co-operative Society (Glasgow), Jarvis and Co. (Hinckley), Clarke (Kilmarnock), Greenwood, Branch, Rabbitts, and others (London), Barrows, Mansfield, Metcalf, Hucknall, Cooper, and others (Northampton), &c. In most instances a settlement has been arrived at with the branch officials, but space will not permit us to give the full particulars of only the most serious ones with which we have had to deal.

The first in order is the dispute at the Co-operative Society (Shieldhall, Glasgow). This dispute still drags wearily along, and what is more there are no definite signs of a settlement at the present time. We are aware that extensive alterations are being made, and machinery is being put down, which will, as soon as the present dispute is settled, cause a revolution in the system of working to that in operation when the men came out. We need scarcely assure you that every effort has been made by us to settle this dispute, not only because of the heavy financial expenses to the Union, but also to the good feeling of trade unionists and co-operators, which behoves them to work hand in hand, instead of and calling each other names, and generally creating a feeling which it will take years to eradicate.

We have purposely, through these columns and in our communications to the outside world, avoided personalities, and for the benefit of all we here give a true and correct account of the dispute:—

In December last a number of men were discharged for that which is known there as breakages, but better known in other places as accidents, caused in pulling work off the lat and machines. The management refused to pay extra for these breakages, such as split vamp—split either through the fact of them being skived too thin, or through the tension of the machines cutting the leather. When these breakages occurred, the men were required to pull-up and re-make without any extra remuneration. The men (unwisely, we think) came out on their own resources, and, after being out a few days, the following agreement was entered into.

(1.) That a Committee of ten be formed, consisting of five workmen and five Directors, to fully investigate the charges of tyranny, etc., brought against the under-manager, and that, in the meantime, all the men return to work, with the exception of the man who was discharged, whose case will also be considered by the said committee, and the result of their investigations made known as soon as possible.

(2.) Also, we cau have no objection to the men forming a Committee to inquire into any matter of importance they think necessary; and, if any grievance exists, of sufficient importance to lay before the manager, they shall put same in writing, and bring under his notice. Failing any settlement, they can then appeal to the Board of Directors.

(3.) We will also pledge ourselves to the principle of arbitration generally, and are willing to discuss some scheme having that object in view. Details of constitution and duties to be fully considered and defined before the formation of such Board.

After a short time this agreement was repudiated, and what we now desire is that the agreement entered into should be carried out to its logical issue.

It has been said that the men were out to insist upon the committee appointed by the workmen to usurp the place of the foreman, and that the workmen wanted to practically manage the working of the factory themselves. This we repudiate, and distinctly state that in the proposals the men submitted this was carefully guarded against, and we have no wish to interfere with the management of the firm. What we did do was to ask that they should pay the extras for the extra labour incurred through these breakages.

Another matter is now in dispute, and that is, over the minimum wage question. The Clickers and Pressmen have no recognised minimum wage at the present time; the Lasters and Finishers minimum wage was fixed some time ago, but under the new order of things it has become practically unjust. We have, therefore, decided to go in for

AN ALL ROUND MINIMUM OF 30s. PER WEEK.

This may seem high, but it must be remembered that house rents and cost of living is almost as high in Glasgow as it is in London, if not higher, where the minimum wage has for some time been 30s. In asking this at the hands of the Directors we are only asking the Co-operative Society to pay that which is paid by private firms under similar circumstances.

We may here mention incidently that last year we pledged ourselves, to the Clickers and Pressmen, at the commencement of this year, to do our best to obtain for them a minimum wage of 30s. ; now, as the men are out, we thought it best to avoid future strife, and try and settle the matter at the same time.

It must be borne in mind that we wish to emphatically point out that all through this dispute we have offered to submit the questions in dispute to the arbitrament of the national committee—composed of Co-operators on the one hand, and Trades Unionists on the other hand ; this has been repeatedly refused by the directors, and we have again decided to submit to the said committee, and we are prepared to abide honourably by its decision. As the rules of the said committee provide for such, we herewith append them for the benefit of our members.

RULES OF THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE OF CO-OPERATORS AND TRADES UNIONISTS.

1. That there be a joint committee, consisting of four representatives from the Trades Union Parliamentary Committee, and four representatives from the Co-operative Union.
2. That the duty of this committee shall be to make full enquiry into all disputes arising between co-operative societies and their employees.
3. That the committee, on hearing of any such dispute, shall communicate with the parties thereto, and offer their services as arbitrators.
4. That, in the event of the offer of the committee being declined, they shall have power, on their own initiative, to make all necessary enquiry, if in their discretion such action be deemed justifiable.
5. That the committee shall make a report of the result of their enquiry :—
 - (a) To the parties to the dispute.
 - (b) To the respective Congresses.

But it shall be understood that when the committee take action on their own initiative their decision shall not be considered as binding on either party.

We have instructed the General Secretary to communicate with the General Secretary of the Co-operative Society (Mr. J. C. Gray), asking him to immediately call the Committee together, and should the Directors again refuse to lay their case before the Committee, it will show that they have a very bad case indeed and which will show which side is right and which is wrong. At

MORGAN & CO.'S, OF BRYMMAWR,

(a Federated Firm), a dispute arose respecting a nailed boot, on which the employers, contrary to the Terms of Settlement, because the men refused to make the work at their price, stopped some fifteen of them, and refused to give them other work to go on with pending a settlement. The men offered to make the work under protest until the matter had been settled at the nearest Board without effect, a number of the men being out 12 days.

As soon as this came to our knowledge, we sent an investigator and requested the firm to reinstate the men. This they refused to do, and we were communicated with, when we at once communicated with the Secretary of the Federation. After the men had been out 12 days as before stated, the firm agreed for them to resume work pending the matter being settled. We are many times hearing of breaches of the terms of settlement by the men, but a more glaring case than this cannot be pointed to throughout the kingdom, and as it involved us in a liability amounting to £25, we have sent on the bill, and it remains to be seen whether it will be honoured or not. At great dissatisfaction has existed amongst the Clickers, as to the enormous task sought to be imposed for the money the firm were paying; in fact, the men allege that it was impossible to do the quantity fixed for them, and it was most annoying as men were frequently being discharged and complaints made to the Committee. An application was received from the branch requesting us to allow them to put in a piece-work statement which they had drafted. As we were not masters of the contents of this statement, we were unable to do that, but sent an investigator who interviewed the firm, and eventually drew out a list and made the following offers to the firm:—

First. That the men should work piece-work pure and simple, on a Piece-work Statement to be arranged.

Second. That they should work at their present rates of wages, an agreement being entered into whereby the men should cut 144 pairs of boots and shoes per week from the following materials: Glacé kid, Ooze, and Russian calf. If all kid work, 156 pairs, or 168 pairs of shoes; or, if preferable, an average of 162 pairs per week.

Mock kids, an average of 180 pairs, including vamps.

We have received a communication from the firm to the effect that the offers shall be duly considered, and an answer sent on at an early date. We trust that the acceptance of one or the other of these will remove the cause of grievance on that particular firm. At a dispute arose as to the finishing of a certain boot in a particular way. Here, however, the men took it upon themselves to come out without instructions, and we promptly repudiated any liability, and instructed them to go back to work. In the meantime negotiations are pending with a view to their having the question submitted to the Board; and what we think would be the best course, now that we are pledged to arbitration, is for a section of the Board, composed solely of manufacturers and workmen from the first and second-class shops, to deal with all questions emanating from them, and thus remove one of the most serious objections the men have had to arbitration.

At Stafford, the President of the Union has been busy during the past month, we having decided that the branch should go in for the Indoor working and minimum rate of wages. Considerable opposition was anticipated by us, not only on the part of a section of the employers, but the workmen; but we are pleased to state, from the report given in by the president, not only are the bulk of the men taking to it with avidity, but the employers, seeing how futile it would be to oppose us, are falling into line. From the quotations given in, we are not at all surprised at the men being enthusiastic, as it means to a number of them—and a large number too—a substantial advance of wages, more regular hours, and, we trust, cleaner and better homes than in the past. The employers have not as yet all given in their adhesion, but in the event of their being obstinate, we have decided to withdraw the men without further delay. At this stage we cannot help but say that our thanks are due both to the men and the employers for the manner in which they have met these questions.

On pp. 16 and 17 will be found for delegates to the forthcoming Conference. In the case of Aberdeen, Arbroath, and Dundee, it will be observed there is a tie between Jas. Morrice (Aberdeen) and A. Herald (Arbroath), and in the case of Nottingham and Higham and Rushden there is a tie for the second seat. It will therefore be necessary for a second vote to take place on the April Monthly Night, and the results sent in immediately upon the same being known. Due notice will be sent to the branches interested, and the papers forwarded.

'THE RESULT OF THE VOTING

We also publish a list of the

AMENDMENTS AND ALTERATIONS TO RULES,

that have come in. We are not suprised at the small number of the same, as the rules have from time to time been put through such a searching supervision. What is more, we are very glad of it, because it will enable us at the Conference to deal with questions of most serious moment, involving as they do, the future success or otherwise of the Union, and it will enable the delegates in conference with ourselves, not only to see the difficulties, but realise aud provide against them.

The full list of these, together with those proposed by us, and the agenda of questions which we intend to submit to the consideration of the delegates, will be sent in due course to those responsible.

It having been decided to hold an on July 27th, and subsequent days, we have decided that the Union shall be directly represented by two delegates. We have also decided that they shall be elected by the vote of the Union, and we therefore ask for nominations. Each financial member of the Union will be entitled to be nominated. It will not, however, be necessary to nominate the General Secretary, as he will be there by virtue of being a member of the Trades Union Congress Parliamentary Committee.

Nominations must take place on the April monthly night, and the papers sent in to the General Secretary not later than April 15th.

INSTRUCTIONS TO BRANCH SECRETARIES.

Secretaries will please remember that the month ending April 6th, is a five weeks month, and that the returns must be made out and cash sent in accordingly.

There appears to be a misunderstanding respecting the Travelling Rule. Once more we have to state that a financial member is entitled to £1 within any one year, from January 1st to December 31st, whether he be on strike, lock-out, or not, he can draw no more.

We have again to state that it is imperative on the part of Secretaries, that when relieving members on the Saturday, they should deduct the contributions, and not leave to the following Secretary the unpleasant task of having to deduct two weeks' contributions.

We trust, having once more called attention to these things, that Secretaries will act in accordance with the conditions laid down.

Yours most respectfully,

THE COUNCIL,

W. B. HORNIDGE, Gen. President.

W. H. LOWE, Treasurer.

FRANK SHEPPARD, Bristol.

WILLIAM VOTIER, London

ALEX SMITH, Arbroath.

WM. INSKIP, General Secretary.

BRANCH TRADE REPORTS.

BIRMINGHAM.—We are pleased to state that the month has passed away without any excitement, as regards disputes. Our men are, as yet, not all employed, and those that are, not fully. The organising in Birmingham and district has been very successful, and should it continue we soon shall have cause to be pleased with our branch. Deaths have been very frequent among us. The son of one of our employers was followed to his last resting place by 40 of his employees, who, as a token of respect for the dead and living, sent a beautiful wreath. Two of our members' wives have passed away during the month, one very suddenly. These members being very popular have the sympathy, we are sure, of all the members.

BARNSELEY.—We are sorry to have to repeat the same tale—short time, and very little work during that time, and to make matters worse we have been stopped all this week for alteration of engine—work that could have been done at holiday time, but when trade is slack with us we generally have all the obstacles put in our way to make us have less to do, and then when it is their time to get orders out, they expect us to work and make ourselves into slaves to assist them in their efforts to get as many orders off as it is possible to do in the time, though they might send more out if they would only give us something to do in slackier times. We are sorry that we cannot help any of the appeals that keep coming in, for we are earning so little money week after week that we really have not enough to live on, without trying to help others as we should like; moreover, we have no branch fund to fall back on, as we sent every shilling we had in when the call was made on us last year.

BRAMLEY.—Trade here is very slack, this being our worst season. We have had a dispute here respecting the price to be paid for making 13's and 14's, men's. The work was ultimately withdrawn and given to a day-hand. At our last monthly meeting it was decided by resolution to apply to Council for a grant of money to be used for organising purposes. Notwithstanding the generous support accorded to the non-unionists during the lock-out, there are many yet who are outside the pale of our Union.

COLCHESTER.—In sending our report this month we are sorry to say that trade here is very quiet, and we should advise all members on travel not to come this way, as men are shifting from here daily.

DERBY.—We have nothing of much importance to report this month, trade remaining fairly good just now, but we do not think it will be of a lasting period. We have had one petty dispute, which was promptly settled, and our members are doing their best to organise and induce the outsiders to join our Union, and thereby assist in protecting our interests both financially and morally, and endeavour to better the condition of the workers generally; but still there are a few amongst us who sprag the wheels of progress, and they will be dealt with in due course.

DESBOROUGH.—Trade is very slack here at present, and there is not much sign of improvement. We have had a slight dispute at J. Cheaney's, who has been trying to reduce his prices, but am glad to say that it was soon settled in favour of the men. T. Crick and Co., of Leicester, who have had a branch factory here for a number of years have given their day hands a week's notice, as they are going to remove their work to Sileby. Let us hope they will pay their men better wages there than he did here.

GLASGOW.—In addressing you this month we regret having to report that the dispute at the Co-operative factory still continues. We had hopes that the directors would ere now have recoiled from the unreasonable position taken up by them, and have allowed the question to go to the joint committee of co-operators and trade unionists for adjudication, and their refusal to adopt this course is very suggestive of their either having a very weak case, or they have no confidence in the committee being able to give a fair decision. In view of the large amount of machinery that has been laid down, and the consequent displacement of men which will take place when work is resumed, we have agreed to petition the Council in favour of raising the minimum wage to 30s. a week for men working in conjunction with machinery, and we hope the Council will accede to our request. Trade is very fair in the other shops in town, most of our members being fully employed. We again take this opportunity of thanking the following branches for their generous response to our appeal:—

Belfast	£1 0 0	Wellingborough	£0 10 0

GLASGOW No. 2.—“Again!” So shouted our boys, as they cheered Mr. A. Smith, the Council member, when he, at our general meeting, announced the glad tidings of joy that the Council had granted Branch No. 2 leave to introduce their minimum wage of 30s. per week. He also read a copy of the statement he had sent to the directors of the co-op. store regarding the demand of Branch No. 2, so that members returning will be aware of the fact that Glasgow has now got a minimum wage of 30s.—and see that you get it, or more. As regards the lock-out of our members, it is still continuing, and to those branches who replied to our appeals with grants, we return them thanks for their generosity. The following are the branches that have sent in donations up to date:—

Kendal	£1 0 0	National Union of Labourers,
Plymouth	£1 0 0	Glasgow Branch	£0 10 0
Rushden	£1 0 0	Worcester	£0 10 0
London Metro--Salisbury		Cork	£0 10 0
Section	£1 4 0	Aberdeen	£0 10 0
Norwich No. 2	£1 0 0	Leeds No. 2	£0 10 0
Operative Bricklayers—		Northampton No. 3	£0 10 0
Glasgow Branch	£1 0 0	Arbroath	£1 10 0
Kettering	£1 0 0	Maybole	£2 0 0
Leicester No. 2	£5 0 0	Norwich	£3 0 0
Kilmarnock	£2 0 0	Chesterfield	£0 15 0
Dundee	£2 0 0	Wellingborough	£0 10 6
Northampton	£0 10 0

The total amount received being £27 9s. 6d., which sum has been disbursed amongst those locked-out, married members and females who are in distress, and if there is still any branches who are willing to send us any grants, such shall be acknowledged with thanks. Trade here at present is fair, the only portion busy is the tan or brown boot and shoe line. As will be seen in report, we have lost seven of our members, but hope to see them return.

HIGHAM AND RUSHDEN.—In sending our returns this month we have to report trade quiet in this district, although some firms seem to have a fairly good swing of work, whilst others have been working short time. The firms at Irthlingborough are especially noticeable in this respect. We once again wish to call the attention of members, whose arrears exceed the limit, to bring themselves into compliance, as we are continually having to refuse members their benefits owing to this. It would be well for those, also, who make a practice of keeping their arrears at 4s., to reduce it, for the least hitch that occurs, such as holidays, &c., they are thrown out of benefit and suspended for a month, which is not pleasant when added to sickness and other misfortunes.

IPSWICH.—In addressing you this month we are sorry to place some of our old members in the scratch list, but we find it is more trouble to get contributions off men that earn a good wage than it is from those that have a large family to support, and working at a low wage. We hope that as trade is improving that those with large book debts will reduce them, instead of being scratched.

KETTERING.—We are sorry to have to report that trade is still very quiet here, many of our members only being partially employed. At our quarterly meeting held on Monday, March 2, great dissatisfaction was expressed by our members at that paragraph in the Council's report which referred to Kettering, and the meeting refused to pass the report with that paragraph in it. All we ask is a fair field and no favour ; but to place the matter in the report without giving the whole of the circumstances, was very unfair to us and misleading to the public. You are aware that the course adopted at the last conference was contrary to all precedent, and what is more you cannot point to one single advantage to be gained by taking the conference to Manchester. Why, the advantages are all the other way. In the first place you are taking the conference out of the districts where the bulk of the members live. Why, it will take the united strength of Manchester, Heckmondwike, Kendal, and Newcastle-on-Tyne to send one delegate to the conference. In the second place it would cost the Union more than 10s. each extra for railway fare alone for every delegate who attends the conference, and we think the money would be better in the funds of our Union than in the pockets of the railway directors. Then, again, by going to Manchester you gratify the personal ambition of one man, and offer an insult to more than 1200 good financial members. We know you do not admit this, but we contend you cannot put any other construction upon it. Had the claims of Manchester stood upon "all fours" with the claims of Kettering we should have been amongst the first to have congratulated them upon their success. The conference, by deciding to go to Manchester, did so in the face of all precedent and against the best interests of the Union, and when our delegates returned they were unable to give any satisfactory reason why the conference had taken this unusual course. Mr. Hornidge attended our quarterly meeting on behalf of the Council, and made an eloquent appeal to the members to reconsider their decision, but he failed to convince them that the action of the last conference was not a direct insult to the branch, and they again decided not to nominate delegates to the conference. Our members felt that the time has come when the branches should speak out, and let the delegates know that these conferences are held for the purpose of building up our Union, and that it is their duty to place the interests of the Union before their own personal pleasure.

[We regret the Kettering members should direct their observations to us, as a Council, as the bulk of the present Council supported the resolution for Kettering, but the vote was taken in a democratic manner and in strict conformity with rule, hence we publish the above in full.—THE COUNCIL.]

KILMARNOCK.—In sending our report we have to say trade is very bad here. Our export branch being seriously disturbed by the state of affairs in Brazil. Some of our members are consequently working short time, others going about idle, while a number are struggling in various ways to battle the common foe—want ! Our dispute is now over, and the position of those working in conjunction with machines is clearly defined. We earnestly hope the branch may be free from trouble for a long time. Our members trust the Council will endorse the recommendation of the investigator re the dismissal of our secretary and president. May the above report be a warning to members on travel to give Kilmarnock a wide berth.

LEICESTER No. 2.—Trade moderate, a number being out of work, while others are on short time. We have a few compensation cases arising out of the minimum wage advance, which we hope the Council will endorse, viz., two cases at Preston's, one at Jackson's, one at F. Taylor's, one at the Belgrave Rubber Co., one at H. Garner's, one at G. Clarke's, and two at Toone and Black's, Wigston. The award re cutting upper leather by machinery is proving very useful. In one case it secured an advance of 10s. per week. The total result of the advance, as far as we know, is as follows:—One at 10s., three at 8s., three at 7s., 11 at 6s., five at 5s., four at 4s., nine at 3s., 275 at 2s., 130 at 1s., or about £45 per week among 450 persons. We have no doubt there are a number of cases on small firms that have not come under our notice. A number of our members obtained an advance who were not affected by the minimum wage. We would also remind our members that the wage usually paid on the Revolutionary presses, better known as the "Jumper," is 30s. and upwards per week in this district, which in our opinion is little enough. We have also obtained several cases of back pay, where men have been kept on at less than the minimum without a permit. These are a few more illustrations of the benefits of combination.

LEEDS.—In submitting our report this month, we regret that trade here is very bad indeed. Many of our largest factories are working short time; in fact, we have never known trade here to be in such a stagnant state before, and we hope that members of the Union in search of employment will not call here if it can be possibly avoided, as there is not the least prospects of obtaining employment.

LEEDS No. 2.—We are sorry to report trade here is very bad at present, most of the shops being on short time, and members find it very hard to pay contributions. At our last monthly meeting it was decided to give notice of alteration of rules at the forthcoming conference. We should like the advise of Council in reference to the minimum wage question, also as to boy limit, of which we enclose a detailed report, as our members are dissatisfied with the present state of affairs.

LONDON METRO.—In sending in our report this month we are sorry to say trade is not good, and disputes as plentiful as ever. We give the following full report to save a misunderstanding:—Some time ago the finishers of John Branch's complained that they had a black waist to make with acid breast and top-piece. Mr. Freak was instructed to claim for black waist according to decision come to. Having waited on the firm three times at intervals of about a week, and failing to settle, Mr. Freak wrote him, on February 20th, on this and two other questions, telling him that some years ago, by mutual arrangement, it was decided that if black waist and fiddle breast and top-piece they were to be paid for as fiddles, but if black breast and top-piece, the Joint Committee said no extra could be claimed. Ultimately that was acceded to by the firm, but on Tuesday, March 3rd, the men again waited on the Joint Committee and claimed they should be paid the extra on black waist, however the breast or top-piece was finished. Mr. Freak again waited on the firm on Thursday, March 12th, when he said he would abide by the paying on the coloured breast, but not on the black. Messrs. Chapman and Freak agreed to refer this back to the Joint Committee. On Friday morning, March 13th, a man came to the office and was instructed to go on with the work under protest, but did not do so. On the same evening, a deputation came before the committee, and said all the men were out. On Saturday morning Mr. Freak saw Mr. Branch for the first time, when he agreed to get three or four second-class employers together to meet three or four finishers from second-class statement houses, to book the work under protest in the meantime, and to pay all arrears if it went against him. Mr. Freak having reported to the men, urged them to adopt this course. They refused, and an investigation was wired for on the Saturday, and they adjourned their meeting at the "Buck's Head," Chilton Street, until Monday morning, March 16th, to receive the investigator. Messrs. O'Grady and Freak attended the meeting held at the Buck's Head, on Monday morning, March 16th. A telegram was read from Mr. Craig (of the 14th), likewise a confirmatory note, bearing the same date, and letter from Mr. Branch to him, bearing the same date, demanding the men to resume work. Committee of inquiry to be held on same Monday evening, at 6 p.m. A telegram was received from Mr. Inskip instructing the men to resume work (the question to be dealt with by the committee of inquiry and Board), promising that Mr. Lowe being in London the following day, should call. A lengthy discussion was held, when it was resolved by 36 to 17 that the men do not resume work till the investigator arrived.

Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, 4th Meeting, Monday, March 2nd, 1896, at 6 p.m. Present, on behalf of employers, T. Clark, H. Gorbald, G. Barnes, T. Lilley (in the chair). Present, on behalf of workmen, C. Solomon, G. Brown, Lambson, A. Adams, H. Brown, G. Abbott, C. Freak (in the vice-chair). Minutes read and confirmed. An apology was read from Mr. Kaufman. The following questions were discussed:—(1). As to the deduction to be made from finishers for lasting up their work, as it leaves the knifing machines. This was referred to the committee of inquiry with the understanding no reduction was to be made in the meantime. (2). Classification of seamless blocked shoe. This had been adjourned for the production of shoe. It was again referred back for the shoe to be produced, or Mr. J. Fursse to pay the outstanding back money. (3)

As to the deduction for heeling girls' work by machine on Messrs. H. and G. Barnes. This was postponed until the report of arbitrators is received on Mr. J. Fursse's on a similar question. (4). Classification of box calf. Mr. Barnes moved that it be paid for as calf kid. Mr. Freak, that it be paid for as glace kid. This was referred to the arbitrators. (5). Questions affecting Mr. H. Gorbould, and other first-class employers, awaiting adoption of new rules. Postponed until new rules are adopted. (6). Arbitrators report on deductions for heeling girls' work by machine on J. Fursse's. It was reported that Mr. Manfield had been too ill to attend to this question yet. (7). Report of arbitrators' decision on the question of minimum wage for men working in conjunction with lasting and finishing machinery. A lengthy report was read, which said that Mr. Manfield had come to the conclusion that it was impracticable and undesirable that a minimum should be fixed, inasmuch, he alleges, that it would give an undue advantage to unassociated houses. (8). Consideration of draft rules adopted by the Joint Committee at Leicester, and submitted for adoption by this Board, with or without amendments in matter of detail. This was postponed until the next meeting of the Board. The Board then adjourned for seven weeks, unless called together earlier by the committee of inquiry.

Committee of Inquiry, Monday, March 16th, 1896, at 6 p.m.—Present, Employers, G. Barnes, L. Weber; Workmen, H. Brown, C. Freak. Questions of John Branch's black waist. Finisher wants the same price as fiddle. Mr. Barnes called attention to the fact that on mock kid work a strip waist was $\frac{1}{2}$ d. more than black, and in this case the men wanted 1d. more for black waist than strip. A representative of the firm was present who reported that the men had left work in a body on Friday, and had not yet returned to work. Mr. Freak reported on the whole case, when the Committee of Inquiry decided the case could not be gone into until such time as the men resume work. The following classifications were then brought on:—(1). Brown calf shoe referred back to be marked by employer and workmen. (2). Austin, of Mare-street, submitted a levant shoe similar to one previously made, for which $7\frac{1}{2}$ d. was paid for lasting, and 8d. finishing, fiddle. Employer claimed it is a new shoe, and wanted it classed according to statement. The shoe in question, not being finished, was referred back to be finished and marked by employer and workmen as a fair sample. (3) Mr. Kaufman submitted a Dongola shoe to be classed. Men claiming in D, employer wanting it in E. This was referred to the full Board. (4) A Persian glace, patent vamp and cap, quarter over raw edge. Claimed in E, offered in F. Referred to full Board.

LONDON EAST.—In addressing you this month we are sorry to say that Mr. Whyte, Bethnal Green Road, is giving work out to both lasters and finishers. We have had to compensate one of our members with £1, which we hope the Council will endorse. In spite of the new Factory Acts, and the increase of Factory Inspectors, the sweating system is being carried on the same as usual in both garret and cellar. We, therefore, appeal to the Council to send the District Agent, with the Factory Inspector of the same district, to see into the matter. We are pleased to learn of improvement in health of our General Secretary, and trust for a complete recovery.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—Trade in this Branch since the Christmas holidays has been decidedly bad, worse in fact than it has been for a number of years, Dixon's and Brook's shop being especially affected. Our only dispute during the month has been over the boy question at Pearson's, but thanks to the intervention of the Council in sending down Mr. Buckle to investigate, matters have been arranged amicably.

NOTTINGHAM.—Trade in Nottingham has not yet improved anything like it ought to be at this season of the year. A deputation from the Circular Hosiery Society visited our last meeting, appealing for help for their workmen, now on strike against a reduction of wages. The Branch granted them £2. We are still in negotiations with our employers in Nottingham and Hucknall to obtain the minimum wage for our members that are considerably over twenty years of age.

Our Secretary visited Hucknall and tried to ascertain from the employer if he was willing to pay on and after April 4th next, but he did not succeed in getting a definite answer, though on the following Saturday the employer gave a week's notice to two of our members concerned to leave his employ. We ask the Council to take the matter up on our behalf, as we don't think such proceedings ought to be allowed, or we shall never be able to establish the minimum wage for our young members, especially as this employer has been given a year's grace. All the members concerned being more than twenty-one years of age.

NORTHAMPTON.—The men's trade here is somewhat quiet. The ladies' is fairly good for lasters, but no chance whatever for finishers. During the month two cases of interest have been settled by the Board—to wit, the sum of £2 10s., paid by the Manufacturers' Association to Mr. Carter's men, dispute money which he would not pay; and 6s. 7½d. to one of Messrs. Cooper's men for work which the man had out, and when he disputed the same, the firm taken such work away with the result that they had the pleasure or otherwise of paying this workman for taking it away and another workman to whom they had given such work to do. It is to be hoped that the workmen will keep their eyes open as to the practices of the present Government, which, up to the present, are certainly in contradistinction to their promises of last year, the breaking of the Fair Wage Clause by Mr. Goschen, is a very good beginning for such a Government, which made such profuse promises to the workers; and the present policy of spending the surplus of cash which it is their good fortune to inherit is being spent, not for the reduction of taxes, which would help the workers, but create, if they can, a still wider spirit of militarism and fighting men, by building ships which are to be used, so they say, to protect our merchantmen, but as a matter of fact they will be used, if necessary in their interests (that is, the Government), to blow up other workmen who, like us, are the pawns upon the board. How much longer this foolish game is going on depends entirely upon the workers, and it is to be hoped that ere long the workmen will awake to their true position, and insist upon good Governments. This can only be done by men being united, and so using their unions as the benefit accruing shall be permanent and lasting, by co-operating together for mutual benefits, and so making life more secure, happy, and enjoyable than it is at present.

STAFFORD.—By the time these lines reach our fellow-members, Stafford will have struck its blow for the principles of in-door labour, and the minimum wage of 28s. for lasters, finishers, and clickers, and 25s. for pressmen. It may be necessary to note that the notices for our employers to provide workshops for our members were sent in on December 12th, 1894, and expired in March, 1895, but at the latter date our Union was engaged in the great struggle with the Federation, and we were of opinion that the Council were sufficiently involved in the battle they had in hand, and we in Stafford waived our claim to their services. Acting upon instructions from our members, our Secretary waited upon the Council in January, and they sent the General President here to discover if there was any change in the opinions of the men. A large meeting was held on January 30th, and an unanimous vote was given in favour of both the workshops question and the minimum. The General President then circularised the whole of the employers, inviting them to confer with us. With the exception of three who attended, and five who sent verbal or written apologies, our employers treated us with contempt. Mr. Hornidge issued an ultimatum, calling upon all employers to provide the necessary workshops, and to also pay the minimum by Monday, March 16th, or the men will be withdrawn from those shops who do not comply. Great benefits are already being felt at this action, for the wages of clickers and pressmen are being raised in many instances, which gives the lie direct to those among us who are saying that the Union is of no benefit to those employed in the departments named. Until recently the value of a clickers' labour here was entirely in the hands of his employer, but by belonging to the Union, they now discover that they who never should have lost the right, have a voice in the value of the labour they perform. We are confident we shall be victorious, but it would be foolish to disguise the fact that there is certain to be some difficulty on a few of the firms.

REVISED RULES

For Boards of Arbitration for the Boot and Shoe Trade, drafted by the General Joint Committee, and Settled by Lord James, pursuant to Resolution IV. of the Board of Trade Terms of Settlement, dated 19th April, 1895, to be submitted to and adopted by the Local Boards with or without Amendment in matters of detail.

RULES OF THE BOARD OF CONCILIATION AND ARBITRATION FOR THE BOOT AND SHOE TRADE OF

I.—The Board shall be named the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration for the Boot and Shoe Trade of

II.—The Board shall be deemed to be constituted under, and bound by, the Terms of Settlement arranged at the Conference, held at the Offices of the Board of Trade, on the 19th day of April, 1895, between representatives of the Federated Associations of Boot and Shoe Manufacturers and the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives.

III.—That the Terms of Settlement mentioned in the preceding Rule II., and which are set out in the Schedule hereto, must be deemed to apply to the proceedings of the Board, and the Board shall have no power to over-ride or amend such Terms of Settlement, or to make rules which shall in any way contravene them.

In accordance with the Terms of Settlement, the Board shall have full power to settle all questions submitted to it concerning wages, hours of labour, and the conditions of employment of all classes of workpeople represented thereon within its district, which it is found impossible to settle in the first place between employer and employed, or secondly, between their representatives.

IV.—That every statement of wages, provision for minimum wage, regulations as to hours of labour, or conditions of employment, decision of the Board and Award of Arbitrators, shall apply in all cases where an employer and his workpeople are represented by the Board. Provided no Board shall claim jurisdiction over the conditions and terms of employment of workpeople outside its district. But no actual work shall be sent out of a district which has been the subject of an award in that district.

V.—That the Board shall be constituted as follows :—Six representatives of the manufacturers, and six representatives of the workmen, residents in the district ; three of each to form a quorum. The representatives to be elected by a Special or General Meeting of their own bodies, who shall serve for one year and be eligible for re-election. That no Member of the Board shall vote upon a question affecting an establishment in which he is directly interested as an employer or workman.

VI.—That the Board shall at its first and Annual Meetings elect a Chairman Vice-Chairman, Secretary, and Committee of Enquiry, consisting of two manufacturers and two workmen, or appoint sectional or subsidiary Boards consisting of four manufacturers and four workmen, who shall hold office in like manner to the Board. In any case where two candidates proposed for the Chairmanship are of different classes, and the votes recorded for them are equal, the candidate belonging to the class from which the Chairman was not elected in the previous year shall be declared to be elected.

VII.—That the Board at its first Meeting elect an Umpire, or in case of disagreement each side shall, within seven days, elect an Arbitrator, to whom shall be remitted for arbitration any question referred to the Board under the Board of Trade terms of settlement, which it is unable to settle or determine. Should the two Arbitrators not agree, the question shall be referred to an Umpire appointed by themselves, or failing such an appointment, to an Umpire, to be appointed by the President of the Board of Trade for the time being. The decision of the Umpire in each case shall be final and binding on all parties. In case of the death or resignation of an Umpire or Arbitrator his successor shall be appointed at the first subsequent Meeting of the Board.

VIII.—The question whether the representatives of the Press shall or shall not be admitted to any of the Meetings of the Board shall be determined by the majority of votes of those present. In case of the numbers of those voting on such question being equal, the Chairman may give a second or casting vote.

IX.—That the Board shall meet at such times as it may determine, but not less often than once a quarter, and on a requisition signed by three of its members (specifying the nature of the business to be considered) being lodged with the Secretary, who shall within seven (but not less than three) days notify the whole Board of such meeting, stating the terms of the requisition.

X.—That all questions submitted by the Committee of Enquiry to the Board for consideration, and by the Board to the Umpire or Arbitrators for adjudication, shall be embodied in writing, stating clearly the nature of the question or dispute at issue, such statements to be lodged with the Secretary at least three days prior to the Board Meeting, or sitting of Umpire or Arbitrators. Notice of other business to be brought before the Board shall be given whenever practicable, but the order in which such business shall be taken to be left to the Board.

XI.—That if at any meeting of the Board both the Chairman and Vice-Chairman are absent, the majority present shall elect a Chairman. The Chairman shall only have one vote.

XII.—That if at any Meeting of the Board the number present is unequal, the right of discussion is reserved to all; but whichever body is larger than the other must withdraw by arrangement so many of their colleagues as are in excess before a question is put to the vote.

XIII.—That in case of resignation, death, or continued non-attendance of any Member of the Board, that side of the Board to which such Member has been elected may choose another person to fill up the vacancy, who shall serve until the Board retires.

XIV.—That the procedure in cases of disputes between an employer and his workmen should be as nearly as possible the following:—

- (a) The workmen shall first bring the matter before the employer or foreman.
- (b) Should they not be able to agree, the representatives of the Employers and the Employers' Association and the representatives of the Workmen's Union shall endeavour to settle the matter in dispute.
- (c) If the representatives referred to in sub-section b are unable to arrange terms, the Secretary of the Board shall forthwith advise the Committee of Enquiry of the dispute.
- (a) In the event of the Committee of Enquiry being unable to settle the dispute, it shall be referred to the Board, and failing a decision, then to the Umpire or Arbitrators, who shall be asked to give their decision within seven days from the date of hearing.

XV.—That when a dispute cannot be settled between an employer and his workmen, or the representatives of both, the same rate of wages, or hours of labour or conditions of employment, that obtained prior to the dispute, shall continue until a decision is given by the Committee of Enquiry, or Board, or Arbitrators, as the case may be. If there be no precedent as to wages, hours or conditions, a provisional resolution on these questions may be given by the Committee of Enquiry, or Board, or Arbitrators, and must be observed, but without prejudice to either party to the dispute.

XVI.—That all referred questions or disputes shall be submitted by Members of the Board, with liberty to call witnesses on either side ; the work in dispute to be submitted at all such meetings for inspection. Provided that where witnesses are to be called by either side of the Board, or by either of the parties to the dispute, no evidence shall be taken, unless six days' notice has been given of the character of the evidence intended to be given, and of the locality from which the witnesses intended to be called will be brought.

XVII.—That there must be no suspension of work either at the instigation of the employers or workmen, the main object of the Board being to prevent this. If any suspension of work takes place the Board may refuse to enquire into the matter in dispute till work is resumed ; whilst the fact of its having been interrupted will be taken into account on considering the question. That in order that the complainant or complainants may not lose through waiting, any recommendation of the Committee of Enquiry, or any decision of the Board shall be made to date back to the time of the complaint being sent in.

XVIII.—Should any case arise in which Rule XVII. as to suspension of work, should be contravened, a meeting of the Board may be called immediately and without previous notice by the Chairman to consider the case.

XIX.—That any expenses incurred by the Board are to be borne equally by the employers and workmen.

XX.—That no alteration or addition be made to these rules except at a Quarterly Meeting, or at a Special Meeting convened for that purpose. Notice of any proposed alteration shall be given in writing one month previous to such meeting.

[The Schedule referred to in Rule III. to follow.]

A. E. W. CHAMBERLIN,

Secretary to the Joint Committee.

International Socialist Workers

AND Trade Union Congress.

LONDON, 1896.

The Organising Committee, to the Workers of all Countries.

DEAR COMRADES AND FELLOW WORKERS,

We are very pleased to be able to inform you that our first circular of invitation has met with the most friendly reception from the workers of the whole world.

Already the chief working-class organisations of Europe, America, and Australia, have notified their intention to be represented at London in 1896. Besides this we have received intimation that a large number of trades have decided to hold International Congresses of their particular trade during the week of the General International Congress. While we cannot, of course, undertake the organisation of these very important we shall be glad to be of any service if we can, as a Central body, in putting into communication the trade organisations of the different countries.

International Congresses of Particular Trades,

The International Congress of 1896 will sit on Monday, July 27th, and the Five Following Days, in the large hall of St. Martin's Town Hall, Charing Cross Road, near the Charing Cross Station, and facing Trafalgar Square.

There will be

Rooms arranged for the Delegates of each Nationality to hold their own sittings; and also

Special Rooms for each of the Commissions, made up of delegates from each nationality, who will consider the various resolutions on the Agenda Paper, grouped under certain definite heads. Information as to

will be published at an early date. We shall be pleased at any time to give organisations any information as to hotels, lodgings, and prices, that they may ask for.

The workers of Great Britain and Ireland are looking forward to welcoming their comrades, and to showing to the classes that the workers of all countries are united as to the principles which will bring about the complete political and economic freedom of the working class.

We repeat with this invitation the resolution as to the admission of delegates that was passed at Zürich in 1893. By this resolution we have of necessity been bound in issuing our invitations to the Congress of 1896. "All Trades Unions shall be admitted to the Congress : also those Socialist Parties and Organisations which recognise the necessity of the organisation of the workers and of political action."

"By 'political action' is meant that the working-class organisations seek, as far as possible, to use or conquer political rights and the machinery of legislation, for the furthering of the interests of the proletariat and the conquest of political power."

Each organisation desiring to be represented at the Congress must send to the Organising Committee the

on or before July 1st. The Organising Committee recognise that this is not possible in all cases, but are anxious to know approximately, by July 1st, the number of delegates for whom they will have to find accommodation.

Each organisation will be supplied with as many Admission Cards as the number of delegates appointed by it. No delegate will be admitted to the Congress without showing the admission card at the hall door.

Each nationality will examine the Credentials of its own delegates, and draw up a whose credentials have been accepted or rejected. This list, together with the credentials, shall be handed over to the Organising Committee in order that the list of delegates may be printed.

In the event of disputed credentials the Bureau (Standing Orders Committee) shall decide in the first instance. In the case of an appeal against their decision the question shall be finally decided by the Congress.

Delegates whose credentials are accepted shall be provided with a card bearing their name, by the Organising Committee.

The Organising Committee have drawn up the following

PROVISIONAL STANDING ORDERS.

1. That an open-air public demonstration be held in Hyde Park, on Sunday afternoon, July 26th, at 3 p.m., in favour of International Peace, at which representatives of the foreign delegations will be invited to speak.

2. That a reception be given by the Organising Committee to the delegates at 8 p.m., Sunday, July 26th.

3. That at 9 a.m., Monday, July 27th, the delegates of the various nationalities meet in the separate rooms arranged for the nationalities to—

(a) Elect a President and Secretary for the nationality ;

(b) Verify the mandates of their delegates, and draw up for the Organising Committee the statement as to the composition of their delegation ;

(c) Elect two delegates from each nationality to serve on the Bureau (Standing Orders Committee) ;

(d) Elect two members from each nationality to serve upon each of the Commissions dealing with the groups of resolutions on the Agenda Paper.

4. That all resolutions and subjects proposed for discussion be grouped by the Organising Committee of the Congress under certain definite headings, and handed over by them to the respective Commissions.

5. That any resolution or subject for discussion that cannot thus be grouped with others as forming a division of one of these headings shall be submitted to the Congress after the main groups of questions have been settled, if there is still any time remaining.

6. That at the meeting of the Congress at 11 on Monday, July 27th, an English-speaking chairman, appointed by the Organising Committee, shall preside, with, as vice-chairmen, a French-speaking and German-speaking delegate, invited by the Organising Committee. The Chairman shall deliver an address of welcome, and the vice-chairmen respond. The Congress shall adjourn at 1 p.m., and the various Commissions meet in the latter part of the day.

7. That the Congress sit on Tuesday and succeeding days from 10 to 12.30 and 2 to 5.
8. That on Tuesday the first business of the Congress shall be the reports of the nationalities as to their delegations, and the acceptance or rejection by the Congress of the credentials.
9. That after this the reports of Commissions be taken.
10. The various Commissions meeting separately on Monday afternoon and afterwards shall study and discuss all resolutions bearing on the particular question referred to them. Each Commission shall prepare a report on its particular question and a resolution. If a Commission is not unanimous, it may prepare a minority report and a second resolution.
11. No amendment to Standing Orders or the arrangement of the agenda shall be accepted after Monday.
12. That the limit of speeches be for the reporter of each Commission 20 minutes ; for all others 10 minutes ; and that no speaker speak more than once on the same subject. At any time a motion to suspend this Standing Order can be made and voted on by the Congress.
13. Upon resolutions dealing with fundamental questions of principle the voting shall be by nationalities. On questions of detail the voting shall be by show of hands.
14. That the Organising Committee recommend to the Bureau (Standing Orders Committee) the appointment on successive days of chairmen of different nationalities.

Already a large number of resolutions have been sent in from different organisations in different countries. The chief points comprised in these resolutions are : War and Arbitration, Pauper Aliens, the Eight Hours Day, Child Labour, the General Strike, the Agricultural Question, Piece Work, Colonial Policy, Conflicts between Capital and Labour.

The Last Day for sending in Resolutions to be placed on the Agenda Paper has been finally fixed for May 1st, 1896. After that date no resolutions will be accepted by the Organising Committee.

You are hereby earnestly requested to forward any resolutions you may desire to place upon the Agenda at as early a date as possible, and to proceed in due course to determine the number of your delegates, and to elect them.

The response to our invitation has exceeded even our sanguine expectations. There is every promise that the International Congress of 1896 will be of a magnitude and importance surpassed by none of its predecessors. The old International held its first Congress in England in 1864, at the old St. Martin's Hall. From the Congress of 1896 we may hope for the firm founding of a new international understanding between the workers of the world.

WORKERS OF ALL COUNTRIES UNITE !

Fraternally yours,

THE ORGANISING COMMITTEE.

WILLIAM THORNE, Secretary.

WILLIAM INSKIP, Treasurer.

EDWARD AVELING and A. SMITH, Translating Secretaries.

All the above are suggestions for saving the time of the Congress. The Congress is sovereign, and will finally decide on all questions as to the Standing Orders and Agenda.

Proposed Alterations and Amendments to General Rules

BY THE COUNCIL & BRANCHES.

RULE 1.

NORTHAMPTON.—Object 3.—Strike out “where practicable” and add the words “kit for day workers.”

Object 12.—Strike out the word “any” and insert the word “all.”

RULE 2.

NORTHAMPTON.—Strike out “Leicester” and add “either London or Northampton.”

RULE 4.

LONDON METRO No 2.—After the word “meeting,” in line 11, strike out the words “consisting of one representative from each and every district in the Union,” and insert the words “based upon the same representation as the conference.”

RULE 5.

GLASGOW No. 2.—Paragraph 1, line 5.—The words “registered” and “financial” be taken out, and that paragraph to read as after branch officers, “when, if they find the applicant to be a member of the Union the officers shall give the member his voting paper,” and so on.

LONDON METRO. No 1.—Paragraph 7.—To strike out all words commencing with the word “the” in line 3 down to the word “five” in line 6, and insert “the accounts of the Union shall be audited by a chartered accountant.”

RULE 10.

LONDON METRO. No. 1.—Paragraph 5.—To add, “and should the agent find a constituency with reasonable prospects, in his opinion, of being returned to Parliament, at his request the Council shall immediately take the vote of the country whether he shall contest the constituency or not, the majority of the votes given deciding whether he shall run or not.”

Also, “The Parliamentary agent shall be required to give in a form of resignation (not dated) as agent of the Union as soon as he is put up for office as M.P., to be used if necessary should he be found to be working against the programme of the Union ; and should the Council, or any branch of the Union, be of opinion such member is not doing his duty, they shall have power to call for a vote of the Union, and upon the vote being of that opinion, his resignation shall be filled in and accepted.”

RULE 11.

LEICESTER No. 1.—Paragraph 9.—To insert in line 4 the words, “per week” after the words “per member.”

LONDON METRO. No 1.—Paragraph 12, line 5.—“To strike out the words “or any other cause,” and insert after the paragraph, “A branch shall have power to withdraw from the Union by a vote of a majority of all its members at a meeting properly warned for that purpose, after paying all dues and demands to the Union, and shall receive from the central funds their fair share of the monies of the Union in accordance with the numbers of their financial members at the time of the secession. The conference likewise shall have power to expel a branch, the above conditions being complied with.”

LONDON METRO. No. 2.—Delete clause 12 entirely.

MANCHESTER.—To ask the reason why paragraph 5 has not been in operation.

RULE 13.

HIGHAM AND RUSHDEN.—New Paragraph.—“That boys under the age of 16 shall be all allowed to join upon the same terms as female members, and receive the same benefits.”

LONDON METRO. No. 2.—Delete clause 14 entirely

NORWICH.—Paragraph 14, line 7.—After the word “Secretary” insert “providing that in case of a manufacturer conducting his business on fair lines, and conforming to the conditions laid down by the Union or Arbitration Board existing in the town, or, in case of a foreman or manager, he does not engage himself or assist his employer in reducing wages, or in any other way working against the interest of the Union.”

RULE 15.

BRISTOL.—Seeing that Rule 15 of the Union pledges its members to arbitration, and to the terms of agreement entered into between the Union and the Federation, “All expenses incurred on the workmen’s side be borne by the Union fund.”

LEEDS No. 1.—Add to paragraph 3.—“That all expenses of the workmen’s side on all Boards of Conciliation and Arbitration shall be defrayed by the Union.”

RULE 16.

LONDON METRO. No. 1.—To add to Paragraph 5.—“and a detailed account, giving names of shops and members receiving dispute pay, which shall be published in the next half-yearly report after such disputes.”

RULE 17.

NORTHAMPTON No. 3.—Paragraph 1.—To add : “In case of a general lock-out or strike, a vote to be taken by ballot of all financial members as to what amount per week they shall receive during the time such dispute shall last.”

LONDON METRO. No. 1.—New Paragraph.—“That under no circumstance shall the Council have power to reduce a member’s benefit while there is any money in the Union to pay it; the biennial conference only having power to alter the benefits.”

MANCHESTER.—To ask for more definite instructions as to paragraphs 5 and 7.

Paragraph 9.—Strike out last number 27, and insert 24.

NORTHAMPTON.—Paragraph 2.—The Branch Secretary to notify dispute manager.

Paragraph 8.—Strike out the words “financial” and add “until their cards are clear.”

RULE 18.

MANCHESTER.—Paragraph 1.—Strike out the word “modified” in line 6.

NOTTINGHAM.—Add “The maximum benefit granted under this rule to be 10s. per week for 12 weeks, the pay to cease immediately the member obtains employment.”

RULE 19.

ARBROATH.—“That the rule relating to travelling assistance be altered to enable members to draw £3 yearly instead of £1, as at present.”

“That the names of members who have drawn their full amount of travelling assistance be not published in the Monthly Report.”

RULE 20.

Paragraph 1.—Travelling relief to men on dispute. Is it to be counted?

Paragraph 6.—Is probation to be served under new travelling law when fare has been paid?

Paragraph 7.—One relief in three months in same town.

MANCHESTER.—Paragraph 7.—Strike out the remainder of rule from the word “branch” in line 4.

RULE 22.

LEEDS No. 1.—Paragraph 3.—Delete after the word “working” in line 4.

Clearer definition of Rule 22, paragraph 1.

LEICESTER No. 2.—Paragraph 7.—To make rule more definite.

Also to move: “That all overtime be paid at the rate of time-and-a-quarter.”

NORTHAMPTON.—Clause 3.—Explanation.

RULE 23.

Clause 1.—Add, “but should any member owe more than eight weeks’ contributions during such probationary period, he shall serve four weeks before becoming entitled to trade benefits after reducing his debt to 4s.”

RULE 24.

LEICESTER No 1.—Paragraph 4.—To invest half sick pay.

NORTHAMPTON.—Clause 3 shall apply whether the name has appeared in the scratched list or not.

Clause 4.—Strike out the words “and receive half pay.”

Clause 6.—Alter “2s. 6d.” to “1s.”

Clause 10.—Strike out from line 13 to 15.

RULE 25.

LEICESTER No. 1.—Paragraph 5.—Explain highest “financial candidate.”

MANCHESTER.—Paragraph 2.—To ask for explanation of last two lines from the word “place.”

NORTHAMPTON.—To alter the basis of representatives to Conference by reducing the number of delegates from the big branches, and allowing the smaller branches an opportunity of being represented.

RULE 36.

BRISTOL No. 2.—Paragraph 10 (extra): “That in the event of a member declaring on the sick fund, and not having a clear card, his or her arrears shall be reduced by the paying of double contributions each week until the debt is paid.”

GLASGOW No. 2.—Paragraph 10, line 6.—“All arrears to be deducted from the first sick instalment paid as ailment;” also “members must be clear at the end of each financial year of their branch.”

LEICESTER No. 1.—Paragraph 5.—Define “twelve consecutive weeks in twelve consecutive months.”

Delete £35 and insert £36.

Delete £17 10s. and insert £18.

LEEDS No. 1.—Paragraph 5.—Strike out 10s. in line 1 and insert 12s. in line 3. Strike out 5s. and insert 6s. After the word “pay,” insert, in line 7, “and that at least he or she shall have worked 13 weeks during the above probation, except in cases of failing eyesight, or loss of limb.”

NORWICH.—Paragraph 15.—To read, “That in the event of any member being totally incapacitated for the space of two years from following his employment, such member shall not be entitled to further sick pay.”

NORWICH No. 2.—Paragraph 14.—Delete the whole of the rule up to “consecutive months” in line 5. The rule to read: “Members joining over 40 years of age shall join for trade purposes only.”

NORTHAMPTON.—Clause 6.—Strike out part of line 6, part of line 7, and add at end of clause: “The sick and funeral section, 2s. 6d. first offence, 5s. second offence.

Clause 24.—Strike out the whole of clause, and put in its place, “Persons over 40 years of age shall join for trade purposes only.

RULE 37.

NORTHAMPTON.—Clause 1, line 2.—Alter to £1 10s. Strike out lines 3 and 4. Strike out Clause 3.

GENERAL SUGGESTIONS.

ABERDEEN.—“That the Council repay the funds borrowed from branches by setting off monthly one penny per week per member till the funds borrowed be repaid.”

BELFAST, CORK, AND DUBLIN.—“That this conference regards the establishment of boot manufactories in every town and city (where a branch exists) by the National Union as the surest means of promoting the best interests of its members, and further resolve that a special committee be appointed to carry out this undertaking.”

LEICESTER NO. 1 :—

A proposal for re-arrangement of voting for Union representatives to Trades Union Congress on similar lines to the present method of electing Council members.

To ask the Council when they propose to return the money borrowed from branches.

Owing to the expiration of the award of Lord James in September next, we are of opinion that to count as men those over 18 and under 20 years of age, and not to pay them the minimum wage, is against the interests of the adult members. To move that the Council take the necessary steps to have the award so amended as to remove this anomaly.

To move that the minimum wage for riveters and finishers shall be not less than 30s. per week, and that youths working in these departments shall receive a minimum wage of 22s. per week from 17 to 18, 24s. per week from 18 to 19, and 26s. per week from 19 to 20 years of age.

To move that steps be taken to put into operation Object 6, Rule 1.

To move that any member being victimised for adherence to trade union principles shall be compensated at the discretion of the branch executive. Minimum amount to be £1 and the maximum amount £5.

LEICESTER NO. 2.—“That the Council be instructed to repay the loan advanced by the above branch.”

ARBROATH.—“That two pages of the Monthly Report be reserved for the use of members who have any matter of importance or interest to communicate to the Union generally.”

“That every report issued by the E.C. be published in our Monthly Report.”

“That branches be allowed to put aside a certain sum yearly to enable them to pay any of their members who may be elected on municipal bodies.”

CHESTERFIELD.—“That in future all branches should be entitled to send one delegate to the Conference.”

HIGHAM AND RUSHDEN.—New Rule.—That 20% per annum of the savings of the trade department be devoted for the extension of boot and shoe co-operative productive societies and retail shops in the various centres of the Union, and also to assist those already started who may be in financial difficulties, by granting loans from the above fund at a small percentage.

[The above rule to be subject to the following conditions : That all members of such co-operative societies shall also be members of the trade union.]

LEEDS NO. 1.—“That in the event of a national strike, or lock-out, financial members out of work, and in union benefits, shall be entitled to strike or lock-out pay.”

LEEDS NO. 2.—“That in case of a general strike or lock-out all members who are financial with their branch shall receive full benefits, whether they are in work or not at the time such strike or lock-out is declared.”

LONDON METRO. NO. 1.—New Rule.—“That branches shall have power to run candidates (who shall be members of the branch nominated from) for Boards of Guardians, Vestries, Parish or District Councils, School Boards, County Councils, or any administrative body, and such members, if elected, shall be paid trade union wages from the funds of the Union for such time as they may lose in the execution of their duties.”

LONDON METRO. NO. 2.—New Rule.—“Should a strike or lock-out take place affecting a branch or branches, the terms of settlement shall be voted upon by ballot, by members affected, before acceptance.”

MANCHESTER.—That the time has arrived when the Council should enforce paragraph 3 in Rule 1 as to the grindery question, which we believe to be a direct infringement of the Truck Act.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Every precaution is taken by us to ensure accuracy in these Reports, our correspondents being men on whom we can rely ; should, however, any errors creep into them, upon the same being pointed out to us, we shall be most happy to give the same prominence to the correction as to the original matter. As these Reports are exclusively for the use of Members, the information contained therein must not be divulged.

NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

APRIL 30TH, 1896.

FELLOW WORKMEN,

we are pleased to report that the dispute which has existed for twelve weeks at the Shieldhall Works, Glasgow (Scottish Wholesale Co-operative Society), is now at an end. At a meeting of the Directors it was decided to appoint three of their members to meet an equal number of the men at a conference, and gave them full powers to close the dispute in case there was a likelihood of a satisfactory settlement being arrived at.

The three directors appointed on the one side were Messrs. Peter Glasse, John Arthur, and John Adams, together with the manager. Mr. Albert Johnson. On the other side there was Mr. John Burden, secretary of the Glasgow No. 1 Branch ; Mr. A. Smith, the Council member for that district, and investigator, who has had charge of the dispute from the start ; and the General Secretary (Mr. W. Inskip, J.P.) After several protracted interviews, all of which were of a business and not personal character, the following were entered into, and signed by the contracting parties.

“ 31st March, 1896.

With a view of settling the existing dispute between the Directors of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society and the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives, the following conditions of agreement have been entered into between

PETER GLASSE.

JOHN ARTHUR.

ALBERT JOHNSON.

JOHN ADAMS.

representing the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, and JOHN BURDEN.

W. INSKIP.

ALEX. SMITH.

representing the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives.

“(1) In the event of any breakage occurring in the Piece Work Lasters Department (the same not being the fault of the workman), and should the workman in such department be required to undo and remake he shall be paid double rates for same, but should the fault be the workman's he shall receive no payment for re-making, but can have the option of purchasing the boots at wholesale price.

- (2) That in future the wages of the Clickers shall not be less than 30/- per week.
- (3) That the wages of Pressmen be not less than 28/- per week.
- (4) That the wages of Time Lasters be not less than 30/- per week.
- (5) That the wages of Time Finishers be not less than 30/- per week.
- (6) But in any of the above departments special cases will be considered, and by mutual agreement special permit may be given to work for less than the above rates by the officials of the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives.
- (7) That the National Committee representing the Co-operative Union and the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades' Union Congress be thanked by both sides for their offer of services in the above disputes.
- (8) That in future should any dispute arise between the management and workmen regarding breakages or any other matter the same shall be submitted, in the first instance, by the workman to the management, and failing a settlement the dispute shall then be dealt with by the representatives of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale and the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives.

No Strike or Lockout to take place pending such investigation."

PETER GLASSE	JOHN ARTHUR.
ALBERT JOHNSON.	JOHN ADAMS.
ALEX. SMITH.	JOHN BURDEN.
WM. INSKIP.

In the light of our later experiences it will be observed that the settlement is not only highly creditable to the directors, but also considerably favourable to the workmen, inasmuch that it provides for the

of our Union having work on the machines (in some cases) by having a permit from the Branch officials and the manager of the Co-operative Society.

It also provides that each man who was discharged or came out on strike should be reinstated, thus proving that no animosity exists on the part of the manager, and, we trust, his foreman.

As is well known in the trade another exhibition has taken place in London, at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, and it is evidently clear that the inventors have fixed upon the Shoe Trade for the purpose of developing machinery. The Good-year Company had a most excellent display, and some of the machines would be best described by us as being marvellous. On the other hand, the so-called "Model Factory" was by no means modern, and would be best described as being a "farce."

The only other feature in the exhibition which attracted our attention was the remarkable growth of the staining processes which have been, and are being, introduced for the bottoms, it being simply a revolution in the art of bottom finishing.

Matters affecting a number of our Branches have been long held in abeyance, pending Sir Courtenay Boyle's interpretation, and it will be pleasing to them to know that an interview took place last week between Sir Courtenay Boyle, Ald. S. Lennard, J.P., and our General Secretary, Mr. W. Inskip, J.P., when the matters in dispute were discussed, and Sir Courtenay promised to send his decision in writing. At the time of going to press the decision is not to hand. We will communicate it to the branches interested as soon as possible.

We are enabled to submit for the consideration of officers and members, a complete copy of which will be found on pp. 18—23.

From this, it will be observed that amendments submitted by the various branches are by no means so numerous as at previous Conferences, which will enable the delegates to thoroughly go into the various proposals, affecting as they do the vital interests of the Union, in its relations with the Employers' Federation.

We would strongly urge upon the Members the necessity of carefully considering the various propositions and deliberating with their representatives as to the best course to be pursued.

On page 8 will be found the result of the voting in the two districts where a tie resulted.

On page 17 will be found the nominations for Two Delegates to represent the Union at the forthcoming International Congress to be held in London. Voting for the same will take place on the May monthly night, and the papers returned to the General Secretary's Office not later than MAY 15th, or the same will be disqualified.

An application having been received from the London Metro. Branch for the financial support of the Union to obtain a statement on the firm of Quelch's, Croydon, one of their sections, permission was accorded, and the President of the Union (Mr. W. B. Hornidge) has been down there, and we are pleased to report that he has been successful in obtaining a statement of wages for the men, which is a substantial advance on the wages previously paid, and it is all the more gratifying to know the statement has been obtained without having to withdraw a solitary member from the shop, and without any expense to the Union.

Yours most respectfully,

THE COUNCIL,

W. B. HORNIDGE, Gen. President.

W. H. LOWE, Treasurer.

FRANK SHEPPARD, Bristol.

WILLIAM VOTIER, London

ALEX SMITH, Arbroath.

ROBERT MOORE, Leicester.

DANIEL STANTON, Northampton.

WM. INSKIP, General Secretary.

BRANCH TRADE REPORTS.

ABERDEEN.—Trade has been bad here during the past month, the largest shop being two days a week off, and no immediate prospect of an improvement. We have established a section at Keith, a town fifty miles north of this, and though the number of members there is small we trust soon to be able to report an increase. We are sorry to have to report that our section at Ellon is in a most unsatisfactory condition, the membership having now fallen away to four. We believe there is few places more in need of the Union's aid than Ellon, yet most of the men working there seem to prefer to submit to any conditions imposed on them by their employer rather than pay a paltry sixpence a week to their trade union.

BRISTOL.—The improvement in trade so anxiously awaited has not yet shown itself in this centre, much to the regret of manufacturers and workmen alike, and the present outlook of those effected is anything but hopeful. We regret to note that the past few weeks has recorded the discharge of a number of our members, and to whom can be accredited a lengthy membership with our union. We further regret that a few who had been acting as shop's stewards are amongst the number referred to, and we unhesitatingly assert that for reasons clearly brought before our notice, that the "spotting" method has prompted the action. A special Board meeting has previously been held for the purpose of dealing with objectionable tactics as adopted by one of our leading manufacturing firms, and the decision of such unanimously instructed an objectionable notice, as posted up, being withdrawn. Just previous to Easter a differently worded notice was posted up, and being similar in its meaning the men, as a body, have naturally offered their objections, inasmuch as the ruling of the Board has been ignored, and a further meeting of such has been hastily convened to deal with the position. In the interests of peace we are hoping that wise council of the Board will prevail, and that the position of the Board will prove itself to be a power capable of performing the duties for which it was formed. We are looking forward to the forthcoming Conference as helping to solve many of the difficulties which directly and indirectly effect the interests of our members, and may the debate of such be awarded with beneficial results.

BARNESLEY. We are sorry to state that trade is still very slack here, which makes it very bad for members to keep up their contributions. We have been compelled to scratch two more this month, for we cannot pay for them if they will make no effort to pay themselves. We are sorry to see by the reports from other branches that trade is very bad in most of the towns, but we hope to see a better report next time.

BRAMLEY.—Trade here continues to be very slack. Bad trade is attributed to so many causes, it is difficult to fix upon the right one except the unsoundness of the commercial system. In consequence of the holidays our monthly meeting was held on the 14th April. There is every indication that we shall give the necessary three months' notice to put in our uniform statement. Hitherto we have had no written or printed statement mutually agreed upon. Thanks to the Council for their grant of £2 for organising purposes.

CORK.—In submitting our report this month we are exceedingly pleased to announce that our secretary has successfully organised the men engaged in our trade in Waterford to an extent that far exceeded our most sanguine expectations, twenty-six members being enrolled, and more expected to follow, including a number of apprentices who are on their last year of apprenticeship. This indeed is a source of great pleasure to us, and will, we are certain, be hailed by all members of our union with satisfaction. At present the trade in Waterford is only in its infancy, and there are good prospects of it attaining much larger dimensions in the near future. In justice to the men there we are bound to state that a more determined and intelligent body of men it has never been our good fortune to come in contact with on any former occasion. They have maintained their wages without the aid of society for a period of five years. With such men we have no fear as to the future, they having now a section of our union firmly established, and its aims and objects thoroughly understood. We give them all greeting, and promise them every assistance in the power of this branch should the necessity ever arise. Trade is fair both in Cork and Waterford at present.

EDINBURGH.—Since submitting our report, trade with us has greatly revived, every place being in full swing, the Co-operative Store being conspicuous for its rapid progress towards a flourishing trade. Although we were compelled to withdraw the men from this firm through their having, we believe, accepted work to make for Shieldhall, Glasgow.

GLASGOW.—In reporting on the state of trade here this month we have to state that it is good for lasters, many of the employers finding it difficult to obtain the number of men required. This in a measure is no doubt the result of the dispute at the Co-operative factory being settled, as many of these employers were in receipt of repeat orders from the Co-operative Society, and immediately the dispute was settled they were left without the requisite number of men to complete them. Now that this dispute is settled, and in the most favourable terms to the men, the minimum wage being raised from 27/- to 30/- for clickers, lasters, and finishers, and 28/- for pressmen. The men have also the right in case of breakages or any other dispute, to appeal beyond the decision of the foremen to the manager, and failing satisfactory settlement can then appeal to representatives of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society and the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives. The greatest praise is due to Mr. Smith for the manner in which he conducted this dispute, and also to Mr. Inskip, our General Secretary, for the final settlement. We wish again to thank those branches who so generously responded to our appeal: Birmingham, £1 11s. 6d.; London Metro., £2.

GLASGOW No. 2.—Now that the Co-operative Store at Shieldhall is in a settled state, the committee of this branch return thanks to those branches and sections for their kind grants in answer to appeals sent out since last month's report. We have received from Glasgow No. 3 £1, Ipswich £1, Birmingham £1 11s. 6d., bringing the total up to £31 1s. 0d., which has been disbursed in the following manner: To each married member of our branch 3/- per week over the Union allowance, which amounted to £18 12s. 0d.; to the Ways and Means Committee on behalf of the distressed girls £10, leaving in hand £2 9s. 0d. This committee (the Ways and Means) has exerted themselves most assiduously on behalf of the girls who were locked out. It is to be hoped it will be a final lesson to those who are not in our Union, for if it is not, should such a thing take place again (which is likely), they need not look for public support, so that the best advice to give is that all connected with the manufacture of boots and shoes—male and female—unite, whereas by doing this you will not require to stand at the gates of public works and football matches, with boxes in your hands, begging and shouting out "on strike." Our members are returning home, and we are glad to see them back, and we daresay they are glad themselves to return to their homes once more. Trade here at present is fair, but cannot say it is over brisk. The shops that were doing the work for the Store will resume their old style, the extra hands they had having left. Good for the minimum.

HECKMONDWIKE.—In sending our report for this month we are sorry to state that trade is very moderate here, the Co-operative works being on short time, from nine till six.

IPSWICH.—In addressing you this month we are sorry to state that one of our members, named E. Butcher, has gone to work for a shop that is on block, after receiving support from our branch.

KILMARNOCK.—We are sorry to have to report trade as bad, especially our export branch. For a considerable time the men working at it have been on short time, and now take the opportunity of leaving on account of the change brought about by the settlement in the Scottish Wholesale Society. Trade seems to have opened generally in Glasgow, and many of our numbers are finding work there—a happy relief for some.

LEEDS.—In submitting our report this month we regret that a number of firms are working short time, and there is little prospect of full time been worked for some time to come. We are pleased to report that at last the Jewish workers in the boot and shoe trade have seen the necessity of better combination, and the results of several meetings with them have resulted in a Jewish section being formed, the same to be allied with the No. 1 Branch, and in future we hope they will insist on statement wages being paid to all workers.

LEEDS No. 2.—In sending our report we are sorry to report trade here as being very bad. Some of our members are unable to pay their contributions, working in many cases only about three days a week; some of the masters too having given their employees almost a fortnight's holiday at Easter. We hope that clickers and pressmen will give this city a wide berth at present.

LONDON METRO.—In submitting our report this month we are sorry to say trade is bad. We have not yet settled the reception of the new rules upon the Board. The following is a condensed report of the proceedings there:—

Ninth Meeting of Committee of Enquiry, Basma House, London Wall Avenue, Monday, April 20th, 1896, at 5 p.m. Present, G. Barnes, H. Brown, C. Freak. Questions: (1) Classification of a glace sheep ladies' Oxford shoe offered in F, claimed in E from Mr. Elkins, referred back to be finished and properly marked. (2) As to the deduction to be made from finishers for putting the work on the last after they leave the knifing machine, referred to full Board. (3) Question of Dongola shoe from Kauffman's, offered in E, claimed in D, referred to full Board.

Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, Fifth Meeting, Basma House, London Wall Avenue, Monday, April 20th, at 6 p.m. Present, on behalf of employers, T. Lilley, G. Barnes, H. Gorbald, and T. Clark. Present, on behalf of workmen, G. Brown, H. Brown, Lambson, A. Adams, G. Abbott, C. Solomon, and C. Freak. Minutes read and confirmed. Minutes of the eighth and ninth meetings of the Committee of Enquiry were read. The following questions arising therefrom were dealt with: (1) Dongola shoe from Kaufman's was classed in D. (2) Glace sheep, patent vamp and cap, run and turned shoe, offered in F, claimed in E, was referred to the Arbitrators. (3) Question of deduction for lasting work after the knife, Mr. Barnes moved that there be 3d. per dozen deducted. Mr. Freak said the assumption was that lasts should be in when given to the finisher, and moved, as an amendment, "That when finishers put in the lasts they receive 3d. per dozen extra," upon which a discussion arose, and it was finally agreed that the labour entailed was not sufficient to make a deduction or give an extra; present customs to remain. Adjourned matters arising out of the minutes of the Committee of Enquiry. (1) Classification of seamless blocked shoe. It was reported that a letter was sent to Mr. J. Fursse, but there had been no reply. Mr. Barnes moved, "Seeing the employer will make no more of these the question drop." Mr. Freak replied if the men cannot have this settled, so as to receive the back money, he should feel it his duty to instruct them not to make any work under protest. The Chairman said this would be wrong, but after a discussion, pro. and con., it was resolved that Mr. Fursse be again written, telling him he must produce the shoe for classification, or pay the back money. (2) As to the deduction for heeling girls' work on Messrs. H. and G. Barnes' shop, awaiting decision of Arbitrators on Mr. J. Fursse's question. (3) Classification of box calf; report matter submitted to the Arbitrators. Mr. William Hickson had replied that he only consented to continue as Arbitrator until matters then pending were disposed of. (4) Questions affecting Mr. H. Gorbald and others awaiting adoption of revised rules. (5) Report of Arbitrators decision on deduction for heeling girls' work on Mr. J. Fursse's shop not yet received, Sir Philip Manfield still being unable to leave his room. Permits were granted to the following members: James Long, Robert Davis, W. G. Jacoby, John Ragan, and James Auer. The following question was next brought on: Consideration of revised rules drafted by the Joint Committee under the Board of Trade terms of settlement, and submitted to this Board for adoption, with or without amendments in matters of detail. The following are proposed amendments received by the secretary, Mr. J. A. Craig, from Mr. H. Brown: Rule 3, par 2, to delete on line 4 "of all classes of workpeople represented thereon," and insert "upon all shops below the first and second class statement shops." Rule 4, to delete in lines 4 and 5, "in all cases were an employer and his workpeople are represented by the Board," and insert "upon all shops other than first and second class statement shops, and that no employer paying to those statements, and no workman working to those statements, shall be eligible to sit upon this Board." Upon this Mr. Lilley, the chairman, stated that this altered the entire principles of the settlement, and was out of order, inasmuch as this Board has no power to alter the rules only in matters of detail, and this affected the principle. A long discussion took place pro. and con. when, by resolution, the Board was adjourned to this night month.

MAYBOLE AND AYR.—In addressing you this month we regret to state that trade here still keeps in a very languishing condition, the usual activity at this season being conspicuous by its absence. We would, therefore, advise all in search of employment to avoid coming this way in the meantime.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—Trade has not improved in the least since our last report, consequently several of our members are figuring in the list of scratchings; but we hope that now the Easter holidays are past they will endeavour to have themselves reinstated before our next returns are due. We have had during the month another dispute on the boy question, this time at the shop of Mr. Mosgrove, of Berwick, in which only one of our members were involved, he having to leave because he would not work in conjunction with an exorbitant number of boys. Our committee had the case under consideration, and after having heard the result of the interview between our president and Mr. Mosgrove, unanimously agreed to grant the member in question compensation to the amount of £1, which they hope the Council will endorse. We would again draw attention to the apathy of members in not attending our meetings, and hope they will pay a little more attention to Union matters, thus keeping themselves acquainted with all matters of importance connected with the trade.

NORWICH.—In addressing you this month we are pleased to state that trade here is moderately good, with the exception of one or two firms the makers are fairly employed—of course the sewround trade has fallen off considerably on most shops. The topic of the day is the introduction of machinery, and all kinds of opinions are expressed concerning what effect it will have on the trade in Norwich. The employers side of the Arbitration Board still refuse to discuss the minimum wage question, and when we appealed to the Manufacturers' Association they passed a resolution refusing to entertain the question, as they considered it would throw a number of workmen out of employment. This is a matter the manufacturers generally trouble themselves very little about, and we feel surprised that all at once they should feel such a deep regard for their workman; but is this their real objection to a minimum wage being fixed? We are of opinion it is not, our experience tells us that the main object is to introduce as much unskilled labour into their machine rooms as possible, and to offer what they are pleased to call good opportunities to men outside the trade to take jobs at lower wages than our members are allowed to work at. There is just one redeeming feature about their action, and that is, they express themselves willing to adopt a piecework statement in connection with machinery, so perhaps when the piecework statement is completed between the National Union and the Federation they will be willing to accept it without further trouble. We hope they will. We are sorry to see that a number of finishers have made up their minds that, as machinery is being introduced, there is no further need for them to belong to the Union. This, we think, is a great mistake, and we know from experience that it is far easier to grapple with these questions when men are united, but when men are disorganised they are glad to accept any terms their master chose to offer.

NORTHAMPTON.—Trade, so far as the men's department is concerned, is not up to the present in any way up to what is usually expected at this time of the year. Ladies' work is fairly up to the average, but there are, unfortunately, some few shops on short time. The New Factory Act proves once again the "urgent" need for more workmen being in the House of Commons to look after the interests of the workers, such Acts not coming up to the expectations of a number of workers. Nor indeed will any Bill come up to the workers' expectations until such time as we cease fighting amongst ourselves, and concentrate our strength and force to get workmen representatives in every department of public life. It is also doubtful whether the large amount of money continually being spent upon law cases could not, or would not, be better spent in getting hold of the legislative machine, and so framing the laws by which we are governed as to put it outside of the pale of any court, to give such decisions as have in a number of cases been given during even the last few years. This, of course, will only be when we become wise enough to act together, and vote solidly for advance. May that time soon come.

WORCESTER.—We are sorry to say that trade has fallen off considerably since our last report, but hope it will soon revive, as we have had a long stretch of slack time, and our members have had a hard struggle to keep up their contributions. We hope that our fellow-unionists will excuse us if they should not receive any help to the appeals that we have received for assistance in draws, &c. We are very sorry to say that our town is in a very disorganised state at the present time, and we should be much obliged if our Council could send one of their number down to stir us up a bit, as we think we should get some of the outsiders to come and join us, and help to swell our ranks. All our members are pleased to see that our General Secretary is out and able to attend to business again, and hope his health will continue to improve so that we can see him down amongst us soon.

Proposed Alterations and Amendments to General Rules

BY THE COUNCIL & BRANCHES.

RULE 1.

MANCHESTER.—Par. 3.—That the time has arrived when the Council should enforce the grindery question, which we believe to be a direct infringement of the Truck Act.

NORTHAMPTON.—Par. 3.—Strike out “where practicable” and add the words “kit for day workers.”

LEICESTER.—Par. 6.—To move that steps be taken to put this par. into operation.

NORTHAMPTON.—Par. 12.—Strike out the word “any” and insert the word “all.”

RULE 2.

NORTHAMPTON.—Strike out “Leicester” and add “either London or Northampton.”

RULE 4.

LONDON METRO No 2.—After the word “meeting,” in line 11, strike out the words “consisting of one representative from each and every district in the Union,” and insert the words “based upon the same representation as the conference.”

RULE 5.

GLASGOW No. 2.—Paragraph 1, line 5.—The words “registered” and “financial” be taken out, and that paragraph to read as after branch officers, “when, if they find the applicant to be a member of the Union the officers shall give the member his voting paper,” and so on.

LONDON METRO. No 1.—Paragraph 7.—To strike out all words commencing with the word “the” in line 3 down to the word “five” in line 6, and insert “the accounts of the Union shall be audited” by a chartered accountant.”

RULE 10.

LONDON METRO. No. 1.—Paragraph 5.—To add, “and should the agent find a constituency with reasonable prospects, in his opinion, of being returned to Parliament, at his request the Council shall immediately take the vote of the country whether he shall contest the constituency or not, the majority of the votes given deciding whether he shall run or not.”

Also, “The Parliamentary agent shall be required to give in a form of resignation (not dated) as agent of the Union as soon as he is put up for office as M.P., to be used if necessary should he be found to be working against the programme of the Union; and should the Council, or any branch of the Union, be of opinion such member is not doing his duty, they shall have power to call for a vote of the Union, and upon the vote being of that opinion, his resignation shall be filled in and accepted.”

ARBROATH.—Par. 5.—Delete whole par. and insert the par. passed at the Stafford Conference.

LONDON METRO.—Par. 6: Strike out all of the paragraph.

RULE 11.

MANCHESTER.—Par. 5.—To ask the reason why this par. has not been in operation.

LONDON METRO. NO. 1.—Paragraph 12, line 5.—“To strike out the words “or any other cause,” and insert after the paragraph, “A branch shall have power to withdraw from the Union by a vote of a majority of all its members at a meeting properly warned for that purpose, after paying all dues and demands to the Union, and shall receive from the central funds their fair share of the monies of the Union in accordance with the numbers of their financial members at the time of the secession. The conference likewise shall have power to expel a branch, the above conditions being complied with.”

LONDON METRO. NO. 2.—Par. 12.—Delete entirely.

RULE 13.

HIGHAM AND RUSHDEN.—Par. 1.—Add: “That boys under the age of 16 shall be all allowed to join upon the same terms as female members, and receive the same benefits.”

LONDON METRO. NO. 2.—Par. 14.—Delete entirely

NORWICH.—Paragraph 14, line 7.—After the word “Secretary” insert “providing that in case of a manufacturer conducting his business on fair lines, and conforming to the conditions laid down by the Union or Arbitration Board existing in the town, or, in case of a foreman or manager, he does not engage himself or assist his employer in reducing wages, or in any other way working against the interest of the Union.”

RULE 15.

BRISTOL.—New Par.—“All expenses incurred on the workmen’s side of the Arbitration Board be borne by the Union funds.”

LEEDS NO. 1.—New Par.—“That all expenses of the workmen’s side on all Boards of Conciliation and Arbitration shall be defrayed by the Union.”

RULE 16.

Line 3 : Delete whole line.

Line 4 : Delete whole line.

Par. 3 : Delete whole par.

COUNCIL'S PROPOSALS.

The Council to submit a statement to the Conference as to the relations existing between the Employers' Federation and the Union, a definition of the Terms of Settlement, and to ask the Conference to give such instructions as may by them be deemed necessary to the Executive for the time being in relation thereto.

The Council to lay before the Conference a statement as to the financial liabilities of the Union, and its relation to the Employers' Federation and the branches of the Union.

The Council to ask the Conference for instructions regarding the branch funds borrowed by them during the late Lock-out, and the Conference to pass such resolutions as may be deemed necessary.

The Council to ask the Conference to take into consideration what steps should be taken upon the expiry of Sir Henry James' (now Lord James) Award.

The Council to ask the Conference to consider the advisability of asking for a National Minimum Wage for Clickers, Pressmen, Lasters, and Finishers, and the steps to be taken (if any) to obtain the same.

The Council to ask the Conference to consider the question of Piece-work Statements versus Day-work.

The Council to ask the conference to consider the best means of organisation, and to pass such resolutions as may be deemed necessary in relation thereto.

The Council to ask if there shall be any alteration in the representation of the Union at the Trades Union Congress. If so, they submit the three following alternatives :—

- 1st.—That there shall be four representatives to represent the Union, the Executive to pay the whole of the cost from the Central Fund.
- 2nd.—That a representative from each and every district shall be elected in like manner to the existing method of election for Council members, the Executive to pay the contributions to the Parliamentary Committee's fund, and the districts to pay the expenses and entrance fees of the delegates in their particular district.
- 3rd.—That the Council pay the contribution to the Parliamentary Committee's fund, and the branch in the district successful in obtaining the delegate, shall pay his expenses and entrance fee as formerly.

The General Secretary to lay before the Conference the action of the Judges in the cases of Wilkins v. Lyons, Bowerman v. The Linotype Company, and Pye v. Bailey, under the "Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act 1875," and to ask the Conference what share of responsibility they are prepared to take (if any) in pressing the matter to the final appeal prior to asking for fresh legislation.

The Council to ask the Conference for a resolution making it compulsory on branches who have branch funds and owe money to the Executive to keep clear month by month. In the event of their failing to do so, the Executive to be empowered to withhold the benefits of the Union until such debt is paid, even though it does not amount to the sum specified by rules.

GENERAL SUGGESTIONS.

ABERDEEN.—"That the Council repay the funds borrowed from branches by setting off monthly one penny per week per member till the funds borrowed be repaid."

LEICESTER NO. 1 :—

To ask the Council when they propose to return the money borrowed from branches.

LEICESTER NO. 2.—"That the Council be instructed to repay the loan advanced by the Leicester No. 2 branch."

BELFAST, CORK, AND DUBLIN.—"That this conference regards the establishment of boot manufactories in every town and city (where a branch exists) by the National Union as the surest means of promoting the best interests of its members, and further resolve that a special committee be appointed to carry out this undertaking."

HIGHAM AND RUSHDEN.—New Rule.—"That 20% per annum of the savings of the trade department be devoted for the extension of boot and shoe co-operative productive societies and retail shops in the various centres of the Union, and also to assist those already started who may be in financial difficulties, by granting loans from the above fund at a small percentage."

[The above rule to be subject to the following conditions : That all members of such co-operative societies shall also be members of the trade union.]

CHESTERFIELD.—"That in future all branches should be entitled to send one delegate to the Conference."

LEICESTER NO. 1.—A proposal for re-arrangement of voting for Union representatives to Trades Union Congress on similar lines to the present method of electing Council members.

ARBROATH :—

“That the following be an instruction to all delegates representing the Union at the Trades Union Congress : ‘That on any question which has been decided, either by vote of the Union or by delegates assembled in Conference, the same shall be the policy of the Union, and delegates must vote strictly in accordance therewith.’”

“That the Union representatives to the Trade Union Congress be instructed to oppose the present system of voting, and that they support the principle of each delegate having but one vote.”

Owing to the expiration of the award of Lord James in September next, we are of opinion that to count as men those over 18 and under 20 years of age, and not to pay them the minimum wage, is against the interests of the adult members. To move that the Council take the necessary steps to have the award so amended as to remove this anomaly.

To move that the minimum wage for riveters and finishers shall be not less than 30s. per week, and that youths working in these departments shall receive a minimum wage of 22s. per week from 17 to 18, 24s. per week from 18 to 19, and 26s. per week from 19 to 20 years of age.

ARBROATH.—“That two pages of the Monthly Report be reserved for the use of members who have any matter of importance or interest to communicate to the Union generally.”

“That every report issued by the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress be published in our Monthly Report.”

“That branches be allowed to put aside a certain sum yearly to enable them to pay any of their members who may be elected on municipal bodies.”

LONDON METRO. NO. 1.—New Rule.—“That branches shall have power to run candidates (who shall be members of the branch nominated from) for Boards of Guardians, Vestries, Parish or District Councils, School Boards, County Councils, or any administrative body, and such members, if elected, shall be paid trade union wages from the funds of the Union for such time as they may lose in the execution of their duties.”

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Every precaution is taken by us to ensure accuracy in these Reports, our correspondents being men on whom we can rely ; should, however, any errors creep into them, upon the same being pointed out to us, we shall be most happy to give the same prominence to the correction as to the original matter. As these Reports are exclusively for the use of Members, the information contained therein must not be divulged.

NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

MAY 22ND, 1896.

FELLOW MEMBERS,

SIR COURTENAY BOYLE'S AWARD.

We are pleased to announce that the long looked for decision on the various questions affecting our branches, which were submitted to Sir Courtenay Boyle, are duly to hand. We append the decision on the various points, and comment on them in the order in which they appear :—

AWARD.

1.—The first of the points submitted to me relates to a code of working rules issued by the manufacturers of Northampton, which the Union claim are not “reasonable regulations for time keeping and the preservation of order” in a factory or workshop. The question whether or not these rules are reasonable is a question of fact and not of interpretation, and one on which I can give no award. Understanding, however, from Mr. Inskip, representing the National Union, and Mr. Lennard, representing the Employers' Federation, that both parties desire my opinion as to the proper authority under the Terms of Settlement to decide whether a particular rule is or is not a reasonable regulation within the meaning of paragraph 5, Section C., of the Terms of Settlement. I decide that it is the duty of the Board of Arbitration for the District to determine such a question.

2.—The second question relates to the power of the Chairman to refuse to allow discussion by a local Board of a matter placed upon the Agenda relating to country work. I am asked “whether the Terms of Settlement give the power into the hands of the Chairman to refuse to discuss any question concerning wages, hours of labour, and the conditions of employment of the workpeople represented at the Board.”

I decide that the Terms of Settlement do not distinctly determine the extent of the power of the Chairman of Boards which are presumably settled by the Rules and By-laws of such Boards. Since the terms of Settlement contain provisions excluding certain questions from the consideration of Boards, it appears to follow that the rules of such Boards should provide some means, either through the Chairman or otherwise, of carrying these provisions into effect. The Terms of Settlement give no power to me or any other Umpire to correct or reverse an erroneous decision of a Board or its Chairman. The only remedy lies with the Board itself.

NOTE.—The above is my decision on the only point of interpretation submitted to me with regard to this question. The following is merely intended as a friendly suggestion, for the purpose of removing a difficulty.

It has been represented to me that in the case which gave rise to the point of interpretation submitted, the question which the workmen desired to raise was not the general question of country work, but whether or not the particular work sent out of the district had been the subject of an award in that district. If such be the case a notice might be placed on the Agenda paper which would clearly bring the discussion within the province of the Board.

3.—It is alleged by the Union that a certain firm at Leicester, claim that they have a right to work day-work conjointly with piece-work in one department; and it is contended by the Union that this is contrary to Section I of the Terms of Settlement. I understand that the facts as alleged are disputed, but the accuracy of the allegation is not for me to determine. I am asked to interpret the latter half of Section I of the Terms of Settlement, and to decide whether or not it refers to any processes other than those performed by "Lasting and Finishing machine workers and those working in connection therewith." The words in question are as follows :—

"Any manufacturer to have the option of adopting piece-work or continuing day work; it being understood that the whole of the operatives working on any one process shall be put on one or the other system, which shall not be changed oftener than once in six months."

The question raised is one of very considerable difficulty, but after weighing all the circumstances I decide that the above sentence forms part of a clause dealing solely with statements for "lasting and finishing machine workers and those working in connection therewith," and is not to be understood to refer to any other processes.

4.—It is stated by the Union that certain employers in Bristol and Northampton claim that under the Terms of Settlement certain agreements and decisions of arbitration boards with regard to minimum wages are only applicable to members of the Union, and that the employers, though represented upon the Boards, are at liberty to employ non-unionists on terms not recognised in these agreements, though performing the same work as members of the Union. This claim appears to be based on the phrase used in clause 5 of the Terms of Settlement :—

"All classes of work-people represented thereon."

It is claimed that non-unionists are not represented upon the Boards. It is, however, my clear opinion, that the term "classes of workpeople" in the Terms of Settlement, was intended to distinguish the workpeople performing different processes, e.g., clickers, lasters, finishers, &c., and has no reference to membership or non-membership of a particular Association. The Boards are, therefore, competent to fix the rate of wages and conditions of employment of all workmen, whether members of the Union or not, belonging to these classes within a particular district, employed by a manufacturer who is represented at the Board of Arbitration. There is nothing in the Terms of Settlement to restrict to members of the Union the operation of previous agreements fixing the wages or conditions of employment of particular classes of workmen.

(Signed)

COURTENAY BOYLE.

May 6th, 1896.

We have been charged from time to time with making a very unsatisfactory settlement. This we may point out is largely due to the manner in which the Terms of

Settlement have been interpreted by the employers, but from the decisions given from time to time it is proved beyond doubt that

OUR INTERPRETATION IS THE CORRECT ONE.

We might here explain the principal cause of the difference in the interpretation is the fact that at the time the Terms of Settlement were arrived at the employers' representatives refused to sit at the same table, or, in fact, in the same room as our representatives, although repeatedly requested to do so by our side, and as a consequence Sir Courtenay Boyle had to continually pass from the one room to the other, and, in fact, act as the medium between us. No wonder, therefore, that they should interpret points which to them should have one meaning, and our side interpret them to have another ; but, to the credit of Sir Courtenay Boyle, be it said that he has in all his decisions acted strictly honourable in his interpretation.

With respect to the first question, the employers at Northampton simply drafted these rules, posted them up, and insisted upon the men working to them, without the men in any sense having a voice in manipulating them. It will be observed in his decision he says : " It is the duty of the Board of Arbitration for the district to determine such a question." This is throughout the whole of the controversy.

With respect to the second question, although he is strictly correct in his ruling, the suggestion he makes, which we have every reason to believe the other side will honourably carry out, answers our purpose, and taken in conjunction with Lord James' award that we shall have alternate chairmen, makes that also satisfactory, as we shall put a notice on the agenda paper at Leicester having reference to the question at issue.

With regard to the third question the decision is very satisfactory respecting Lasters and Finishers, but by no means so satisfactory as regards the Clickers and Pressmen ; but in their case it must be borne in mind that piece-work is a rarity, and consequently will not affect them in the manner in which it would affect the Lasters and Finishers. We shall, at the forthcoming Conference, consider whether we shall not take the necessary steps to obtain the same ruling for the Clickers and Pressmen as now applies for the Lasters and Finishers.

A more preposterous position has never been taken up by employers than the one sought to be imposed in Leicester, Bristol, Leeds, Northampton, and elsewhere, viz. : That the statement of wages, the minimum rate of wages, hours of labour, etc., agreed or arbitrated upon, should only apply to members of the Union, and not to non-Unionists. Sir Courtenay Boyle's decision thereon should, settle this question, when he says : " There is nothing in the Terms of Settlement to restrict to members of the Union the operation of previous agreements, fixing the wages, and conditions of employment of particular classes of workmen."

ONCE FOR ALL,

Thus, on the whole, we feel that the decisions

JUSTIFY US IN THE POSITION WE TOOK UP, and we trust the same feeling will animate every member of the Union, as well as the non-unionists, when they read them.

The dispute at

respecting the minimum wage, has now come to an end, and we are pleased to say the settlement is highly satisfactory to the branch officers and members concerned.

It will be remembered that the President (Mr. Hornidge), in conjunction with Mr. Chapman, representing the Amalgamated Union, was instructed to press for a minimum wage, and as a result of their negotiations, the majority of the employers immediately complied; but in the case of Barton and Riley's, although they make as good work and require the best possible skill of any firm in Stafford, refused to accede to it, and the men were ultimately withdrawn. After being out some time, negotiations took place, and the firm offered to close, but there were on the firm. These men, it appears, had entered into an agreement, and as the Stafford men had acted so well, we thought it advisable that the men should not resume work until we had some clear understanding as to the position of these five men. Ultimately, we suggested, that the accommodators in question should join the Union, pay their fines, and thus be allowed to continue at work. After some delay, these terms were accepted, and the men are now working harmoniously on the firm.

With the exception of London Metro., there have been but few disputes reported during the month. In the case of London, the disputes that have occurred have been mostly questions of interpretation of the second-class statement, if we except the case of Greenwood's, where has been in existence to such an extent that we were constrained to give the necessary powers to enforce the ordinary conditions, or a piece-work statement. At the time of writing the firm has not accepted our conditions, and as the negotiations have been going on so long, we were determined to bring the matter to an issue, and the workpeople both there and at the branch of the firm at Ipswich, have been instructed to cease work. We do not, however, anticipate that this will last any length of time, but that a settlement will speedily be come to.

In view of the Conference, we have issued this report earlier than usual, and we hope in our next issue to be able to give the results of the Conference.

NOTICE TO BRANCH SECRETARIES.

Branch Secretaries will please note that all letters appertaining to the business of the Union, FROM SATURDAY, MAY 23RD, TO SATURDAY, MAY 30TH, must be addressed to—

WILLIAM INSKIP, J.P.,
Assize Courts Hotel,
Strangeways,
Manchester.

Also, should the Branches require an increased number of the next report containing an account of the business transacted at the conference, the orders should be sent in either on the return sheet, or by post-card not later than June 20th.

Yours most respectfully,

THE COUNCIL,

W. B. HORNIDGE, Gen. President.

W. H. LOWE, Treasurer.

FRANK SHEPPARD, Bristol.

WILLIAM VOTIER, London

ALEX SMITH, Arbroath.

ROBERT MOORE, Leicester.

DANIEL STANTON, Northampton.

WM. INSKIP, General Secretary.

BRANCH TRADE REPORTS.

ABERDEEN.—Trade here, at present, is the worst we have experienced for years past, and we would advise members against coming this way in search of employment for some time, as there is little hope of meeting anything but disappointment. We have just passed through the excitement of a bye-election in the Northern division of the City. On the one side was an official Liberal (Captain Pirie), with the usual Liberal programme, and on the other, Mr. Tom Mann, who ran his candidature on purely Socialistic lines. The fight was short and sharp, and though Mr. Mann did not succeed in capturing the seat, we must confess that the result was very satisfactory. Dr. Hunter, the previous member, was returned at every election for many years past with majorities of from 3,500 to 4,000, and now Mr. Tom Mann comes, an undisguised Socialist, and at one bound takes down the Liberal majority to 430. We notice there are many theories put forward to account for the extraordinary reduction of over 3,000 in the Liberal majority, but we are convinced there is but one way of accounting for it, viz., that it is the outcome of a radical change of opinion among a large section of the working class, now set free to act without bias by the resignation of the late member, Dr. Hunter, who was held in very high esteem by the great mass of the electors of the Northern division.

BIRMINGHAM.—Our report for this month is not without interest to our members. We have scratched several of our members, some of them finding their debts so large have rejoined as new members. We have put in for the statement to be paid on Mr. Fabery's shop, which has good financial workmen there. The employer wished for a month to consider the matter, when he thinks he shall be able to conform to our wishes. We hope so. At another shop, Layton's, we hope the men will continue paying, so that we can then say we have all the shops in touch in the town. Our arbitration members have received another notice from the employers for a revision of certain portions of our statement, which they intend asking us to discuss. We are pushing forward our brown and specials passed by the old Board, which we are sorry to say, through the neglect of bookkeeping by our absconding secretary, we are not in the possession of minutes for upwards of three years, which, when done, will save us considerable annoyance. The men working at Bromsgrove are placing themselves with us. We are pleased to state that our secretary has undertaken to give a portion of his time in organising the town. A club-house has been appointed, and things at present are going on very well. Netherton, Old Hill, and other places are paying up, and in a short time we shall be able to return members from these districts. Little's men are hard to deal with; they are willing, but frightened to join, not being able to trust one another in the least. Meetings here are no good, only house visiting seems to succeed. The bill of our absconding secretary left unpaid are still coming in, when will the liabilities of this man end? Trade continues quiet.

BARNESLEY.—In submitting our report for this month we are sorry to state that trade here is worse than it has ever been before, day hands working thirty hours a week some weeks, and other weeks none, and the piece hands not getting two days a weeks. We are struggling to pay our contributions, but it is a matter of great privation to do so, our branch fund being done we have nothing to lend to deserving members whom we should like to help, but we hope after the holidays are over we shall have a better way of going on than we have at the present. We hope that at the Conference the suggestions by the Aberdeen, Leicester No. 1, and Chesterfield branches may be adopted.

COLCHESTER.—In sending our report this month we are pleased to state that trade has brightened up a bit. We still hope to make a few members, so that our old standing branch will come to its proper footing, instead of being scratched out of it. It is our hope in time to get amongst the men, and advise them for their own good, as we find that one firm in this town are paying a man, after serving two years' apprenticeship, 12s. per week, and the majority there are working for 5s. and 6s. less than the minimum wage, and we can honestly say that when we were at our strength there was not a single man in Colchester, who was a member of our branch, getting less than 26s. per week. We believe the more the men are pressed the sooner they join the Union, and rather than have our branch missing, and our funds lost, we will try, try again.

DAVENTRY.—In addressing you this month we are sorry to state that several of our members are likely to leave the trade, and go to others. We are afraid that next month we shall have to report more leaving, as trade is in such a wretched state. We really do not know how they live, but some are selling their furniture, and many are going to work in the railway tunnel which is being made close to Daventry.

DERBY.—There is a slight improvement in trade here, and most of the men are fully employed; but it is much needed, and we do not think there are many vacancies for employment here. We have just had a dispute, which looked very threatening indeed, in respect to one of our late members defying the branch officials and the rules of the Union. Pressure had to be brought to bear by us, and Mr. Phillipps, the employer, conceded to our request, and now that we have cleared the ground of our opponents we hope to have a quiet and peaceful time in Derby. Several new members are joining us, and what apparently looked like a serious struggle has all ended in peace.

DESBOROUGH.—In addressing you this month we have to report that trade here is still rather slack. We regret to say that our branch president, Mr. T. Bennett, has decided, from private reasons, to retire from his office. During the last month there has been a dispute at Messrs. Toone and Black's factory amongst the rivetters, their manager giving some women's work out at a reduction of 6d. per dozen, but the men refused to make them. The manager told them the old tale, that if they would make them they could find them plenty of work up to Whitsuntide, but if they refused they would be very short. The men decided not to make them, and after being out two days Mr. Toone said they would have them made on the lasting machines. Only three of the men were members of the Union, so that none of our branch officials went to interview Mr. Toone on the matter. We hope that it will be an inducement for the rest of the men to join at once. Cheaney's have again tried to reduce a certain class of men's work 6d. per dozen, but the investigator, Mr. T. Bennett, has succeeded in getting it put on again without any bother.

GLASGOW No. 2.—The committee of this branch return thanks to the Liverpool branch for the grant of 10s., received on behalf of the late lock-out. Trade at present is fair, mostly in the tan line, owing to the splendid weather we are having at present. By the next report the Conference at Manchester will be over, so we may look out for some reading.

HECKMONDWIKE.—In submitting our report for this month we are sorry to state that trade shows no improvement here, in fact it is worse, trade being very bad indeed. The Co-operative Works are going from nine till four, and we shall be lucky when we get them hours in.

HIGHAM AND RUSHDEN.—In sending our returns this month we have to report trade as being very quiet. Several disputes have occurred during the month, but have been satisfactorily settled. We also regret to state that much apathy and indifference exists in our district, even the majority of our own members do not take the proper interest in the welfare of the society as they ought, and we would remind them that if they desire to see the principles of Trade Unionism upheld, and the branch in a more prosperous position, it is their duty to take more active interest in the society by attending the meetings more regularly, and recording their votes when a ballot takes place, and to use their best efforts in organising amongst their fellow-workers, who hold aloof from the Union, but who are continually reaping the benefit of combination without sharing any of the responsibility in obtaining it. The Trade Unionists of this country ought to arouse themselves to a proper share of their responsibility, and use every legitimate means in their power to counteract the deadly influence which the Government, the Free Labour Associations, and the Law Courts are bringing to bear upon the Trade Unions.

IPSWICH.—In addressing you this month we are sorry to state that trade has fallen off with all our shops, which is unusual with them, but we hope trade will soon improve.

KILMARNOCK.—We have to report little improvement in the state of trade in our branch. One of our employers (Fergusson's) having to sign a trust deed a number of our members were thrown idle. We hope this factory may soon be working again. We have some difficulty regarding the minimum wage in our subsection (Kilmaurs), but the officers are straining every possible means to have the matter settled without the intervention of the Council.

LEEDS.—In submitting our returns this month we regret that trade with us still remains in a bad state, many firms here are working very short time indeed. We hope that the time is not far distant when an effort will be made to produce a lighter class of goods, believing that this can be accomplished if only the employers and employees will adapt themselves to it. We would also urge upon all clickers, pressmen, lasters, and finishers, who have not yet joined the Union to at once do so, believing, as we do, that it is only by combination that the current rate of wages and the conditions of labour can be maintained. Should there be any operatives above the age of twenty years, who are not getting the minimum wage, let them at once join the Union, and then ask that their rights be conceded, and thus prove themselves worthy of the name of men.

LEEDS No. 2.—In sending our report this month we are sorry to state that trade is not improving as we should like to see it. Our members find it hard to pay their subscriptions, and a number of them are sadly in arrears. We hope when they see this it will inspire them to try and straighten up, and if they would only do as we advise them, that is, when they are working full time to pay all arrears. With reference to the Conference, held in May, we wish to impress upon the delegates who attend that meeting that something must be done with regard to clickers and pressmen and the minimum wage. We here, in Leeds, have got an award of the noble sum of 26s. per week for clickers and 23s. for pressmen, and we find in nearly every case when a youth reaches the age of twenty, as soon as he asks for the minimum wage his employer says he is not worth it, and will not pay it. We should like to know what is going to be done in this matter, for we begin to think Arbitration Boards are of no use to No. 2 Branches.

NOTTINGHAM.—We have only a moderate trade considering that it is just previous to Whitsuntide holidays—we never remember it worse. Our branch has paid an enormous amount of sick pay out during the last half year, in fact we have broken all previous records, but we hope with the continued warm weather to have a great change in this department. At our monthly meeting we discussed the circular from the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress re the Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act, 1875, and we passed a resolution, urging upon the Parliamentary Committee and Trades Unionists generally, the advantage of using their influence to alter the Act, so that picketing and communicating information in times of strikes and lock-outs be legal. We also decided to grant 10/- to enable the various leaders of the trades unions now restrained from picketing to take their cases to the House of Lords.

NORTHAMPTON.—Trade is very fair here at present, especially so far as ladies work is concerned, and we hope it may continue to be for some time. During the month the manufacturers have had their annual meeting in this town, and re-elected Mr. Hickson as president for the year. The report of the year's work as reported in the local papers, and Mr. Hickson's speech were considered to be somewhat misleading, accordingly, the Press were invited to the last meeting of the branch, when the President and Secretary pointed out the inaccuracies in the same from the workman's point of view. It is to be hoped that the members will keep a sharp look out at the present time to prevent any encroachment on their privileges; those privileges are very few indeed, and an attempt is being made to curtail even those. We would point out the serious position of Trade Unionists at the present time—what with the free labourers on the one hand, the unfair legal decisions of the judges on the other, and the attitude of the Admiralty on the Fair Wage Clause, should make us as workmen, not only think seriously, but act vigorously, and put into positions only those persons who are prepared to alter for the better our conditions. It is useless for us to grumble at the present state of affairs if we make no effort to alter them ourselves. We have the power to alter them, and to have society so constructed and governed, that life will not be, as it is at present, to very large numbers, a continual drudgery, but a joyous and happy existence. This will be when we, the workers, use our strength, talent, power, influence, and vote for advancement and reform.

STAFFORD.—In sending our returns, we are pleased to report that indoor labour now prevails in every firm in Stafford, and we are pleased to say without having to withdraw a single man. We were not so fortunate in obtaining our minimum of 28/-; we had a very difficult task, as the Clickers here have been in receipt of such exceedingly low wages in the past. We have been successful in establishing the minimum for competent men, and also obtaining a substantial advance of wages, for those who were not presumably worth it, on every firm save one, and that exception is Messrs. Barton & Riley. These employers distinctly refused to make any alteration in the wages paid to their Clickers, the wages ranging from 14/- to 27/- per week. All arguments having been exhausted, the Council gave us permission to take action, which we did, and in a fortnight we had completely drained the firm of every man, woman, girl and boy, with the exception of five “gentlemen” who accommodated while their male and female fellow-workers were out. After a fierce battle of three weeks, the firm gave in to every demand made by the men, and then a new difficulty arose. These accommodators were men who have worked against our interests as often as opportunities have presented themselves, and our men were determined that till they had joined the Union, and paid a fine, they would not return to work. The employers naturally ranged themselves on the side of these fine people, and obtained the assistance of the trade journals, who as usual, made themselves ludicrous by their inaccuracies and mis-statements. Our people fought on bravely, and on May 12th a final interview was held with the firm, who decided to place no obstacle in the way of a settlement, and eventually the accommodators decided to join the Union, and pay a fine of 10/- each, which amount had been decided by the Branch Executive, thus securing a conviction. In the afternoon the money was paid by the foreman Clicker at our Club-house, and will be handed over to the Stafford Infirmary. We had intended to have published the five names, but seeing they have paid the fine and become members, we trust we may eventually publish their names as financial members, and if possible make better men of them. We cannot close this report without expressing our admiration at the splendid conduct and discipline of the people out, especially the females, who have joined us in large numbers.

WORCESTER.—In submitting our report this month we are pleased to say that trade has improved a little, and we hope it will continue to do so. We are pleased to report that our Trades Council are going to have a big mass meeting of all the trades in the town to see if they can, by getting some of the best speakers possible, bring the benefits of trades unionism before the working men of Worcester, as they think that there are hundreds of men in the town that would join our ranks if they only understood the benefits to be derived from belonging to us, and we hope that our esteemed general secretary, Mr. Inskip, will be able to come down to represent us at the meeting, as we are much in need of some good organising work being done in our branch, and we think this is the very best way to get at the men that are outside our union at the present time, and we hope that the efforts of the Trades Council will be as successful in this undertaking as they have been in the past. We would earnestly ask our members to attend our monthly meetings, and show by their presence that they take a real interest in trades unionism.

Result of the Voting for International Congress Delegates.

THE TRADES UNION CONGRESS PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

IMPORTANT CASES UNDER THE 'Conspiracy & Protection of Property Act,' 1875.

To the Officers and Members of Trade Societies.

GENTLEMEN,

The Parliamentary Committee at their meeting on the 9th April, 1896, had under consideration three cases which have arisen and are now pending under the above Act of Parliament. These cases are in connection with important Trade Societies affiliated with the London Trades Council and Trades Union Congress, viz., the London Compositors, the National Plate Glass Bevelers' Trade Union, and the Amalgamated Society of Fancy Leather Workers. In each of the cases action has been taken in the Law Courts against the leaders of the respective Trade Unions, under the clauses respecting picketing during a Trade dispute, and in one case, viz., that of Mr. P. C. Wilkins, the General Secretary of the Fancy Leather Workers, and another member of the Executive Committee of that Trade Union, the action was heard in the Appeal Court, before Justices Lindley, Kaye, and Smith, on the 19th of March last, and the judgment given by the three Judges was "That an injunction should be granted to restrain the defendants and their agents from watching and besetting plaintiff's works for the purpose of persuading or otherwise preventing persons from working for them, or for any other purpose in order merely to obtain or communicate information."

In another case, viz., that of Mr. J. Pye, Organiser and General Secretary of the National Plate Glass Bevelers' Trade Union, and nine other members of that Society, action was taken in the Law Courts against these persons on February 28th, 1896, under the picketing clauses of the above Act. The case was heard by Mr. Justice Cave, and, at the conclusion of the hearing, the judge granted an interim injunction against the defendants, restraining them from picketing, under almost identical terms as stated in the previous case.

In the third and last case, viz., that of Mr. C. W. Bowerman, General Secretary of the London Society of Compositors, the action is somewhat different, as in this case Mr. Bowerman has been threatened with a civil action, of which no date is yet fixed; but in the meantime, he has been served with an interim injunction, restraining him from taking any action under the picketing clauses of the Act.

We may say that in each of the above cases civil actions are pending and damages claimed against each of the defendants.

These cases were considered of so much importance by your Committee, that they agreed to receive a deputation composed of the persons directly affected, accompanied by a deputation from the London Trades' Council, who made statements to your Committee, conveying to them the information above referred to. After the deputation withdrew, the Committee went fully into the whole of the details of this question, and, at the conclusion of their deliberations, they decided that, seeing this is a matter of the greatest importance to the whole of the Trade Union movement, and one that threatens the very existence and constitution of all Trade Societies, they have decided to consult and take counsel with the individual Trades composing the Congress as to what course should be pursued in the present dilemma.

Your Committee desire to place the following questions before the respective trades of the country, and would esteem it a great favour if each trade will go fully into the subject and send their replies to this office at their earliest convenience; such replies will be carefully considered by your Committee, who will determine their action accordingly.

QUESTIONS.

- 1.—Shall these proceedings be taken to the House of Lords, appealing against the decision already given in the Lower Courts? If so, will the trades be prepared to defray the expenses of so doing, which will be very considerable?
- 2.—Shall steps be taken to secure fresh legislation that will make more clear and definite the picketing clauses of the "Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act"?
- 3.—Are there any other suggestions relative to this question which the Trades desire to offer?
- 4.—If your Trade is in favour of No. 1 question, what amount will your Trade be willing to contribute towards such proceedings?

INSPECTION OF BOILERS.

In consequence of a complaint from Mr. F. A. Fox, the South Wales District Secretary of the Boiler Makers, Iron and Steel Shipbuilders' Association, in respect to an important resolution dealing with the above subject which had been passed by Congress, but unintentionally omitted from the Cardiff Congress Report, the Parliamentary Committee decided to ask Mr. J. H. Wilson, M.P., to introduce an amendment in the House of Commons on the first available opportunity to any Bill which may be brought in dealing with the subject, and Mr. Wilson has consented to do so. The Committee were very sorry at this omission, and trusts that the action herein taken will satisfy Mr. Fox and his friends.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY BILL.

The Parliamentary Committee, at their meeting on the 8th instant, had under consideration the question of the "Employers' Liability Bill." It was pointed out by the Secretary that he had asked Mr. John Burns, M.P., to introduce in the present session of Parliament the Employers' Liability Bill, as decided upon by Congress. The Secretary also explained to the Committee that he had been in consultation with an eminent barrister, who had suggested to him that the Bill would be greatly improved by adding two additional clauses:—First, "That an Employer should have thrown upon him the onus of proof, instead of, as at present, the workman having to prove his case in any legal action under the Act"; and second, "That an Employer should be compelled by the Act to produce his line of defence which he intends to take against any action that may be brought by a workman, in the same way that the workman has to show his line of action before he can substantiate his claim for damages." The Committee fully approved of the additional Amendments, and endorsed the action of the Secretary in getting same inserted in the Bill. The Committee had also under consideration a very important pamphlet, which had been issued by the Sun newspaper, containing a number of valuable articles dealing with every phase of the question of Employers' Liability, and instructed the Secretary to get a sufficient number of the pamphlets to supply each Trade with a copy. Trades requiring any additional copies of the pamphlet may secure them by writing to the "Tudor Publishing Company," Tudor Street, London, E.C., the price of which is £1 per thousand copies.

Yours, on behalf of the Parliamentary Committee,

S. WOODS (Secretary).

SPECIAL APPEAL FOR FUNDS.

At a Meeting of the Parliamentary Committee on the 8th April, 1896, it was decided to make a respectful and special earnest appeal to all the Trades in connection with the Congress, for funds to carry on the Congress work, and also to remind the Trades that the work in connection with the Trades Union Congress is increasing and extending year by year, consequently larger funds are required if the work is to be done efficiently and well. The demands made on the funds of the Congress has been greater this year than any previous year during its existence, and this has been in consequence of having to carry out many important resolutions passed by Congress at Norwich and Cardiff, among which we may mention the following : The appointment of a Committee to arrange a Scheme of Federation of Trades ; the American delegations, and the expenses in making arrangements for the forthcoming International Congress ; also we may point out that the cost of printing has very largely increased during the past two years, and this is chiefly on account of the great amount of information included with the Report of Congress, but the Committee felt that the large amount of valuable information which was included with the Report of last year was of so much interest to the Trades that it was more than worth the additional outlay, seeing it was information which should be in possession of all Trade Unionists ; and, although the extra cost had to be borne by the Committee, yet no higher charge was made for the Reports. We may state, on account of the special items above mentioned, alone during the past two years amounted to Nine Hundred Pounds [£900].

The Committee, notwithstanding the extra expenditure, have been very loath to make any special demand on the Trades, but now they feel it indispensably necessary to make this special appeal on account of the low state of the funds at their disposal.

In addition to the above, your Committee have had during the year to perform important and difficult duties ; what with the greater increase in the number of Trades represented, the many proposals to be submitted to Parliament—which have necessarily to be prepared with great care and deliberation, involving considerable expense—and have required a greater amount of time and attention from your Committee.

We trust that all the Trades in connection with the Congress will respond most liberally to this OUR SPECIAL APPEAL. There are also many Trades, who enjoy the fruits of the labours of the Parliamentary Committee, who for many years have not contributed to the expenses incurred in their interests, we hope these Trades may be led this year to express their appreciation of our labours by contributing as liberally as possible to the funds of the Committee.

We are, Gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,

ED. COWEY (Chairman).	F. CHANDLER.
D. HOLMES (Vice-Chairman).	G. FERGUSON.
W. INSKIP (Treasurer).	W. THORNE.

S. WOODS (Secretary).

P.S.—Post Office Orders and Cheques should be made payable to the Treasurer, MR. W. INSKIP, and sent to the Secretary at 19, Buckingham Street, Strand, London, W.C.

PRELIMINARY NOTICE OF CONGRESS.

The Twenty Ninth Annual Trades' Union Congress will be held in the Assembly Rooms, George Street, Edinburgh, on Monday, September 7th, 1896, and five following days.

The Parliamentary Committee, together with the Edinburgh Trades' Council, have much pleasure in offering to the Trade Societies of the Kingdom a cordial invitation to send representatives to the Congress.

The Credential Form (herewith enclosed) should be carefully filled up in every particular and returned to the Secretary of the Parliamentary Committee as early as possible.

CONGRESS PROGRAMME.

It is imperative that all Resolutions intended for the Programme must be signed by the Secretary and Chairman of the Society sending them, and must reach the Secretary of the Parliamentary Committee not later than July 24th. No Society shall be allowed more than Three Resolutions.

We beg to call attention to Standing Order No. 3, Section 3, which provides for the closing of accounts fourteen days prior to the holding of each Congress.

Nominations for Secretary and Parliamentary Committee, also any Amendments to Standing Orders, must reach the Secretary of the Parliamentary Committee not later than July 24th.

In order to avoid the difficulties which have arisen in past years in consequence of many Societies sending their subscriptions after the accounts have been closed, the Committee have determined this year to adhere strictly to the Standing Order relating to accounts, and no moneys will be received or Delegates credentials issued after the 21st of August.

Societies who have not yet paid for their Congress Reports will greatly oblige by doing so at once.

Secretaries who are acquainted with any Societies who may not be in receipt of Circulars will greatly oblige by forwarding to us, as early as possible, the name and address of the person or persons to whom the same may be forwarded.

Full particulars with regard to Lodgings, &c., will be sent with a later Circular.

We are Gentlemen,

Yours very truly,

ED. COWEY (Chairman).
D. HOLMES (Vice-Chairman).
W. INSKIP (Treasurer).
J. MAWDSLEY.
E. HARFORD.
J. HAVELOCK WILSON.

Signed on behalf of the Edinburgh Trades,

JOHN TAYLOR, President.
H. W. STEWART, } Joint
J. MALLINSON, } Secretaries.

N.B.—Will the trades kindly send on to the Secretary the number of copies of the Congress Reports which they will require of this year's Congress in order to assist the Parliamentary Committee in giving their orders for printing.

Welcome to Manchester.

The PRESIDENT opened the Conference by calling upon the General Secretary to read the Roll Call.

It was found that several Delegates were not in their places, but they put in an appearance shortly afterwards, and explained that they had been unable to reach the Hall in time owing to the traffic being stopped in consequence of the procession of school children through the streets. The explanation was accepted as satisfactory.

The PRESIDENT then called upon Mr. W. Ward, secretary of the Manchester Branch, to address the Delegates.

Mr. WARD, who was received with applause, said: On behalf of the officers and members of the Manchester Branch of our Union, I beg to offer you a most cordial and hearty welcome to Cottonopolis, and whilst hoping that your deliberation in conference may prove beneficial to the Union, whose interests are dear to the heart of every man amongst us, we hope that you all, during your little pleasant relaxations from business, may try to visit the various places of interest in the neighbourhood. Although Manchester itself is grimy enough, we happen to be specially favoured in the picturesque character of our surroundings. It is proposed that, amongst many other sights to be seen, you should pay a visit to that triumph of engineering skill and monument to our commercial enterprise, the Manchester Ship Canal, and, generally speaking, we hope to make your sojourn in our great cotton city pleasant to yourselves individually and useful to the Union collectively, so that in returning to your homes you may carry away impressions of an agreeable character, and remember with pleasure your visit to what we have the pretention to call the Metropolis of the North.

The PRESIDENT thanked the officers and members of Manchester for their kindly welcome, and trusted with them that the results of the Conference would be beneficial to the Union, and that their stay in the City would be an enjoyable one.

Election of Conference Secretary.

Mr. W. WARD had very great pleasure in proposing that Councillor H. H. Woolley, of Leicester, be appointed. He was sorry to say the member they had intended for the position had died suddenly, to the great regret of their members.

Mr. ADAMS seconded, and the motion was carried unanimously.

Doorkeeper.

Mr. MORETON moved that Mr. J. Mason, president of the Manchester Branch, be elected doorkeeper.

Mr. J. MASON (Norwich) seconded, and it was agreed to.

Tellers.

Mr. POULTON proposed Mr. S. Adams (Northampton) and Mr. CURLEY proposed Mr. J. Duncan (Leicester).—Agreed.

Credential's Committee.

Mr. WILLIAMSON proposed Mr. E. L. Poulton, Mr. DUNCAN moved Mr. Curley, and Mr. BUCKLE moved Mr. J. Sweeney.

The nominations were then closed, and the three nominated declared elected.

Duration of Sittings.

Mr. WARD proposed that the Conference adjourn at Two o'clock on Monday, and that the sittings for subsequent days be from 9.30 a.m. till 12.30, and 2 p.m. till 5. He hoped the Delegates would adjourn at Two o'clock that day, as arrangements had been made to take party for a trip on the Ship Canal. He also thought three hours in the morning and three in the afternoon quite sufficient.

Mr. HAMMOND seconded.

Mr. ADAMS moved, as an amendment, that they sit until Three o'clock that day. He did not want to see the business left until the last day, and then rushed. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. BUTLER seconded the amendment.

There voted for the amendment 7, against 29. Mr. Ward's proposition was then declared carried.

President's Address.

The PRESIDENT then delivered his address, as follows:—

GENTLEMEN,

Since our last Biennial Conference, held at Edinburgh in 1894, we have passed through the greatest crisis that our trade has ever known. The causes that led up to the lamentable lock-out of 1895 are well known to you, suffice it to say that your representatives on the different Boards throughout the country found almost all points that were considered by them to be of importance to those they represented, either ignored, or an endeavour made to shelve them by the gentlemen on the other side. Again, at the National Conference of Employers and Workmen, things generally became much strained, and the resignation of Sir Thomas Wright from the presidency of the Conference precipitated this crisis. The employers in the November of 1894 submitted their famous seven proposals to your Executive, and gave us eleven days' to consider them, desirous of discussing them, we asked if the National Conference was still in existence, as we were bound to give, or receive, three months' notice for alteration of conditions, which those proposals meant. We did not receive any definite answer to that question, but the manufacturers at the different Boards had, undoubtedly, received instructions not to discuss certain points, which was not what we considered, applying the principle of Arbitration, and consequently opposed the employers dealing with those questions only that they felt inclined to, this necessitated the calling of a Special Delegate Meeting in the January of 1895, where the whole position was discussed, and your Executive were instructed to take the vote of the Union as to the policy there laid down. That was done, and the vote strengthened the hands of the Executive in resisting the employers. At last, in March, came the lock-out.

The worry and trouble of that time you have all experienced, and I can only say that I never wish to witness such a time again, after weeks of struggling the officials of the Board of Trade offered their services as mediators. Four of the employers and four of your Council met time after time, under the chairmanship of Sir Courtenay Boyle, and discussed points at issue. Eventually, terms of settlement were agreed to, which I feel, when properly understood and applied by both sides, will tend to better the trade generally. Those terms gave rise to some misunderstanding on both sides, but I feel convinced that our members who have watched the course of events since must have come to the conclusion that, through the decisions given by Sir Courtenay Boyle, re interpretation placed upon them by the employers, we have gained points that were denied us by the other side.

The struggle that we had following on those of our fellow-workers in other industries leads me to believe that there is a necessity for further organisation amongst the workers of all trades, and joint action when any particular trade is affected. (Hear, hear.)

While dealing with this I can only express my thanks to those of other trades who so kindly aided us by moral and pecuniary means during the struggle.

To those officers and members also, who, by their hard work and self sacrifice, done so much for us, I also tender my best thanks.

There is one aspect of ours, as of other trades, that will not be conducive to the benefit of those working at them, that is, the tendency to rush work through in short seasons, that will need the attention of those whom it affects by, if possible, the abolition of overtime and the shortening of the hours of labour, so enabling those who have, unfortunately, to walk the streets unemployed, an opportunity to live by their labour, and not depend upon charity to exist.

As one means toward that end the Leicester Trades Council, during November and December last year, inaugurated a Conference between employer and worker, which resulted in the issue of a joint appeal, to manufacturers and workers, requesting the former as far as possible to divide the work equally amongst their employees, and to the latter asking them to be satisfied with a fair share. It would be as well if this example were more generally followed in other centres.

Now, gentlemen, on the agenda you will find some items that will need your coolest attention, one that purposes giving power to Branches to withdraw from our Union means revolutionising our present system of government, and requires carefully dealing with. (Applause.)

Another to alter the present basis of representation is, to my mind, opposed to the democratic ideas of the bulk of our members. (Hear, hear.)

Again, the state of the Sick Fund will need to be seriously considered, and, if possible, put upon a more sound basis.

The relations between the Federation and ourselves will need your deepest attention, so that your Executive may understand what should be their future policy.

I am pleased to say that at present we are at peace generally throughout the kingdom, and sincerely hope that in the future we shall be enabled to settle differences without having to resort to the old methods, either of strikes or lock-outs, which are disastrous to both sides, but mainly so to the workers.

We are informed that there is a general slackening down in our trade, which is patent to those who know our larger centres, that is due to many causes. The great amount of machinery that is used now is, no doubt, one cause, and again working overtime tends to a greater amount of slackness between seasons.

I may congratulate the members on the financial conditions of the funds after the terrible strain of last year, and as you see there are a few motions on the agenda dealing with cash had from Branches it would not be out of place to suggest careful consideration of the whole position. I am firmly of opinion that a strong balance in the Central Fund will do more to preserve peace than an empty treasury. (Hear, hear.) As we do not know what may occur one day from another, through the machinations of those who, to a great extent, govern the leather market, and in the event of complications it is as well to have a fair banking account.

Now as to the state of trade I am afraid that the coming season will try our resources to the utmost. The factors and retailers are fairly well stocked, and at present there does not appear to be the likelihood of a boom. In many of our centres trade has not been up to the average of what it was in years lately past, and I am afraid that the latter end of this year is not likely to be better than the early part has been.

In conclusion allow me to give to you all, old friends and new acquaintances, a hearty welcome to this our twelfth Conference, hoping that your deliberations may bear good fruit for those you represent. (Applause.)

Mr. DUNCAN moved the adoption of the President's address, and that it be printed and circulated to the members. He could say from the close observation he had been able to make of the manner in which he carried out his duties, both during the late lock-out and at other times, that they had been done in a way which redounded greatly to his credit.

Mr. LEEDHAM seconded, and it was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT thanked the Delegates for the adoption of his address, and had great pleasure in calling upon the General Secretary to read his report.

GENERAL SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Mr. INSKIP, who had a cordial reception, then read his report, as follows :—

GENTLEMEN,

In accordance with my usual practice, I have the honour to present you herewith with a brief resumé of the principal events that have occurred since our last Conference. At that time those of you who were present will remember that I stated we had stirring times in front of us, and I do not think it is any exaggeration on my part when I say that no Union ever went through such a crisis, and with such results, as ours has gone through since that period.

The question of

then engaged your serious attention, and it was pointed out that inventors had got hold of our trade, and that we might make up our minds to face the machinery problem. At the Edinburgh Conference you appointed a committee to carefully consider the question, and promulgate a modus vivendi whereby the Executive and the Branches could be guided in their dealings with the employers. That committee was unable to carry out your desires, and the matter was relegated to the Council, who appointed a sub-committee, which was equally unsuccessful, after carefully going into the question and giving it every consideration. In fact, the one thing wanting by both the committee of the Conference and the sub-committee of the Council, was practical experience. (Hear, hear). As prognosticated at that time machinery has made rapid progress, and we now have data to work upon, and it will be for you to consider in one of the proposals emanating from the Executive what course of action you will take in reference thereto.

Referring, for a moment, to the proposed alterations, additions, etc. to the Rules, it will be observed that, with the exception of the usual crop of proposed amendments giving increased benefits, and the absence of any proposal to find the means wherewith to provide the additional benefits, they are of a remarkably meagre nature, and I do hope that the delegates will take this sentence to heart, and that is, that they will speedily dispose of them, so that we may have ample time to discuss the more momentous questions which your Executive, as well as myself, desire that you should carefully deal with, and that your decisions may not be either hurried or ill-timed, for upon the decisions arrived at upon the questions on which we lay the greatest stress depends even financially or otherwise.

A word here in reference to the Union's liabilities, it appears to be thought by a number of our Branches that, with the assistance of Arbitration, the liabilities of the Union are not nearly so great as they were prior to its initiation ; but I would point out that whilst we are not so liable to a casual dispute as we were, yet the experience of the past year should convince all thoughtful men that it is absolutely necessary to have a

BIG CENTRAL FUND,

(hear, hear,) because the exigencies of a strike or lock-out might involve us in a serious dilemma. Those who refer to my report at the Stafford Conference will find that I then stated it was necessary that we should have a central fund of £100,000. Our experience in the late lock-out fully confirmed that statement (hear, hear), and I again repeat it, with all the force and experience at my command.

Whilst not attempting to encroach upon the preserves of the president (Mr. W. B. Hornidge), yet I cannot help referring to the instituted by the employers in 1895. That it meant immense sacrifice on the part of the men goes without saying, but its results did, in my opinion, justify any and every sacrifice the members were called upon to make, for it is now patent to all that the employers intended to crush out the Union, but, to the honour of the members, and I am proud to say it, they held the traditions of the past. By this I mean the traditions of the old shoemaker who was not only known to stick to his last, but stick until the last in defence of his rights, whether political, social, or in defence of his wages.

Whilst in this connection it behoves me to refer to the

and the conditions then agreed upon. I have no need to labour them, as a good explanation will be found in this Month's Report, copies of which you will have before you ; but I may here state that the four representatives who then represented you were placed in the most invidious position men could be placed in, and to my colleagues at least, I wish to give all due credit as to their sterling worth in the responsible position they occupied, which was, no doubt, the most trying crisis of their lives.

The relations between the Federation and the Union will be duly submitted to you, as also will the question of what steps shall be taken either to renew or improve the award of Sir Henry (now Lord) James on the boy question, which expires in September of this year.

Then again, the question of asking for a national minimum wage for all operatives is a most important matter, and one that it behoves you to carefully consider prior to coming to a decision.

You will also observe that the Executive ask you to consider the question of organisation. This matter has engaged your attention with satisfactory results at previous conferences, but in consequence of the introduction of machinery, and the tendency to employ outside labour, it is the more imperative, that in the light of our experience, you should formulate some system which should embrace the organisation of in our trade.

The question of piece-work and day-work, which you will remember is one of the principal items for which we fought, must also be considered by you, with a view to demonstrating the pros. and cons. of both these systems.

I shall also be expected, in my report, to make some reference as to

OUR FINANCIAL POSITION.

Personally, I am strongly of opinion that, sooner or later, the contributions will have to be raised to meet the continually growing benefits given, and that instead of the money being sub-divided into three parts, the whole shall go into the Central Fund, and distributed by the items of Branch management, travelling, dispute, sick, etc., as required, from the said fund, as is the case with all the most prosperous Unions now in existence. I append a table of the income and expenditure up to the day prior to leaving for this Conference, but whilst it shows remarkable results, since it was only last April when the funds were practically exhausted, yet you would be well advised to hesitate before increasing the benefits, as the liabilities to the branches and the prospective liabilities, as will be shown to you by me as soon as you have disposed of the amendments, will put a different complexion upon the said balance sheet. The Executive have decided to continue their old system of having the money available, so that in case of emergency it may be utilised. In this connection you will be asked seriously to consider the financial status of the Union, and from what I know of the Executive they confidently look to you to rise to the occasion.

There is one other matter of a personal character I should like to mention, and that is, the kindness of the officers and members shown me, without exception, during my trying and severe illness, which, there is no doubt, either in the minds of the doctors or ourselves, was brought on by the strain caused during the lock-out. I should like to tell you how much I appreciate the kindness of the officers and members, but it is beyond me, and you, as well they, must kindly take the word for the deed. (Applause.)

Space does not allow me to continue my criticisms further, but I should like to say, in conclusion, that after the many experiences of conferences in connection with the Union, I know of not one on which the responsibility rested upon the delegates so heavily as it rests upon you, and I ask you to remember that “Honour and fame from no condition rise:

Act well your part, there all the honour lies.” (Applause).

Believe me to remain as hitherto,

Your friend and well-wisher,

WILLIAM INSKIP,

General Secretary.

The General Secretary then called the attention of the Delegates to the following Table and Bills:—

TO MAKE BETTER PROVISION FOR THE SETTLEMENT OF TRADE DISPUTES.

BE IT ENACTED by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same as follows :

- 1.—(1) Any board established either before or after the passing of this Act, which is constituted for the purpose of settling disputes between employers and workmen by conciliation or arbitration (in this Act referred to as a conciliation board), may apply to the Board of Trade for registration under this Act.
- (2) The application must be accompanied by copies of the constitution, bye-laws, and regulations of the conciliation board, with such information as the Board of Trade may require.
- (3) The Board of Trade shall keep a register of conciliation boards and enter therein with respect to each registered board its name and principal office, and such other particulars as the Board of Trade may think expedient.
- (4) Every registered conciliation board shall furnish such returns, reports of its proceedings, and other documents as the Board of Trade may require.
- (5) The Board of Trade may, on being satisfied that a registered conciliation board has ceased to exist or to act, remove its name from the register.
- (6) Subject to any agreement to the contrary, proceedings for conciliation before a conciliation board shall be conducted in accordance with the regulations of the board in that behalf.

2.—Where there is an agreement in writing to submit to the arbitration of a conciliation board or of any other person or persons any present or future difference between an employer, or any class of employers, and workmen, or between different classes of workmen, the provisions of the Arbitration Act, 1889, set forth in the Schedule to this Act, but no other provisions of that Act, shall apply throughout the United Kingdom, subject to the following qualifications, namely—

- (1) Unless the submission relates to an existing agreement enforceable by law, it shall not be irrevocable or have effect as an order of court, and the award thereon shall not be enforced as a judgment or order of court :
- (2) Subject to any agreement to the contrary, a person shall not be required to produce any books or accounts showing the profit or loss in his trade or business, nor to produce the books or accounts of any trade union, nor to answer any question as to profit or loss, or as to books or accounts of a trade union, which he objects to answer :
- (3) Where there is any question as to the rate of future wages, or the future price of labour or workmanship, the parties to the arbitration, or any of them, may deposit or otherwise secure a sum of money to be paid in the event of any breach of the award ; but, subject as aforesaid, nothing in this Act shall authorise any arbitrator or umpire to fix compulsorily the rate of future wages, or the future price of labour or workmanship :

Provisions as to arbitrations in trade disputes 52 and 53 Vict.,
c. 49

(4) In paragraph (c) of the First Schedule to the Arbitration Act, 1889 (which fixes the time for making the award), "one month" shall be substituted for "three months":

(5) The powers of the High Court under sections five and nine of that Act may be exercised also by the Board of Trade:

(6) References to the Court, or to the High Court, shall be construed, with respect to Scotland as references to the Court of Session, and with respect to Ireland as references to the High Court in Ireland.

3.—(1) Where a difference exists or is apprehended between an employer, or any class of employers, and workmen, or between different classes of workmen, the Board of Trade may, if they think fit, exercise all or any of the following powers, namely—

Powers of Board of Trade as to trade disputes

(a) inquire into the causes and circumstances of the difference, and make such report, if any, thereon as appears to the Board expedient:

(b) take such steps as to the Board may seem expedient for the purpose of enabling the parties to the difference to meet together, by themselves or their representatives, under the presidency of a chairman mutually agreed upon or nominated by the Board of Trade or by some other person or body, with a view to the amicable settlement of the difference;

(c) on the application of employers or workmen interested, and after taking into consideration the existence and adequacy of means available for conciliation in the district or trade and the circumstances of the case, appoint a person or persons to act as conciliator or as a board of conciliation;

(d) on the application of both parties to the difference, appoint an arbitrator.

(2) If any person is so appointed to act as conciliator, he shall inquire into the causes and circumstances of the difference by communication with the parties, and otherwise shall endeavour to bring about a settlement of the difference, and shall report his proceedings to the Board of Trade.

(3) If a settlement of the difference is affected either by conciliation or by arbitration, a memorandum of the terms thereof shall be drawn up and signed by the parties or their representatives, and a copy thereof shall be delivered to and kept by the Board of Trade.

4.—If it appears to the Board of Trade that in any district or trade adequate means do not exist for having disputes submitted to a conciliation board for the district or trade, they may appoint any person or persons to inquire into the conditions of the district or trade, and to confer with employers and employed, and, if they think fit, with any local authority, as to the expediency of establishing a conciliation board for the district or trade.

Power for Board of Trade to aid in establishment of conciliation boards

5.—The Board of Trade shall from time to time present to Parliament a report of their proceedings under this Act.

Report to Parliament

6.—The expenses incurred by the Board of Trade in the execution of this Act shall be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament.

Expenses of Board of Trade

7.—In the application of this Act to Scotland—

(1) The expression "judge" shall mean the Lord Ordinary officiating on the Bills:

Application to Scotland

- (2) The expressions “arbitrator” and “umpire” shall mean respectively arbiter and oversman :
- (3) The expression “sue out a writ of subpoena ad testificandum” or a “writ of subpoena duces tecum” shall mean obtain diligence in common form against witnesses or havers :
- (4) The expression “writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum” shall mean warrant to produce a prisoner.

Repeal of 5 Geo.
4, c. 96 and 30
and 31 Vict., c.

Short title

8.—The Masters and Workmen Arbitration Act, 1824, and the Councils of Conciliation Act, 1867, are hereby repealed.

9.—This Act may be cited as the Conciliation Act, 1896.

—❧— A BILL —❧—

TO AMEND THE TRUCK ACTS.

BE IT ENACTED by the Queen’s most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :

Deductions
or payments in respect of fines

- 1.—(1) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman, for or in respect of any fine, unless—
 - (a) the contract is in writing signed by the workman ; and
 - (b) the contract specifies the acts or omissions in respect of which the fine may be imposed, and the amount of the fine or the particulars from which that amount may be ascertained ; and
 - (c) the fine imposed under that contract is in respect of some act or omission which causes or is likely to cause damage or loss to the employer, or interruption or hindrance to his business ; and
 - (d) the amount of the fine is fair and reasonable having regard to all the circumstances of the case.
- (2) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment, unless—
 - (a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid ; and
 - (b) particulars in writing showing the nature and amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

Deductions or payments in respect of damaged goods

- 2.—(1) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for or in respect of bad or negligent work or injury to the materials or other property of the employer, unless—
 - (a) the contract is in writing, signed by the workman ; and
 - (b) the deduction of payment to be made under the contract does not exceed the actual or estimated damage or loss occasioned to the employer by the act or omission of the workman, or of some person over whom he has control, or for whom he has by the contract agreed to be responsible ; and
 - (c) the amount of the deduction or payment is fair and reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

(2) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless—

- (a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid ; and
- (b) particulars in writing showing the nature and amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

3.—(1) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for, or in respect of, materials, the use of tools or machines, standing room, light, heat, or any other thing to be done or provided by the employer in relation to the work or labour of the workman unless—

Deductions or payments in respect of materials

- (a) the contract is in writing signed by the workman ; and
- (b) the sum to be paid or deducted under the contract in respect of materials, use of tools or machines, standing room, light, heat, or any other thing, does not exceed the actual or estimated cost thereof to the employer ; and
- (c) the amount of the deduction or payment is fair and reasonable having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

(2) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless—

- (a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, and in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid ; and
- (b) particulars in writing showing the nature and amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

4.—If any employer enters into any contract contrary to this Act, or makes any deduction or receives any payment contrary to this Act, he shall be guilty of an offence against the Truck Act, 1831, and shall be liable to the penalties imposed by section nine of that Act as if the offence were an offence in that section mentioned.

Penalty

1 and 2 Will. 4, c. 37

5.—Any workman may recover any sum deducted by or paid to his employer contrary to this Act, provided that where he has consented to or acquiesced in any such deduction or payment, he shall only recover the excess which has been deducted or paid over the amount, if any, which the court may find to have been fair and reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

Recovery of payments or deductions

6.—(1) Every person who has made any contract purporting or intending to operate as a contract under this Act, shall, on demand in writing by one of Her Majesty's inspectors of factories or of mines, produce the contract or a true copy thereof at any convenient time and place to be named by the inspector, and the inspector shall be at liberty to take a copy of the same or of any part thereof.

Production of contract

(2) If any person fails to comply with this section he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding forty shillings.

Saving as to contracts and payments illegal under existing Acts 1 and 2 Will. 4, c. 37, 50 and 51 Vict., c. 46, 37 and 38 Vict., c. 48

7.—Nothing in this Act shall make lawful any contract or payment which is illegal under the Truck Acts, 1831 and 1887, or under the Hosiery Manufacture (Wages) Act, 1874.

8.—This Act shall come into operation at the expiration of two months from the passing thereof.

Commencement of Act

9.—This Act may be cited as the Truck Act, 1896 ; and the Truck Acts, 1831 and 1887, and this Act, may be cited collectively as the Truck Acts, 1831 to 1896, and expressions used in this Act shall have the same meaning as in the Truck Acts, 1831 and 1887.

Short title and construction

Mr. COURT, in moving that the report be printed and circulated amongst the members of the Union, said they must all be struck with the able and business-like manner in which Mr. Inskip had presented his report. (Applause.) It was one that would well repay the careful consideration of every one present, and also of every member of the Union. (Applause.)

Mr. T. ALLEN seconded, and the motion was carried.

Mr. SWEENEY presented the report of the Credential's Committee, and stated they were all correct with the exception of four, which had not been signed by the president of the branch. They were satisfied, however, that the four delegates in question were the duly elected representatives of their districts.

Mr. INSKIP added that he was quite satisfied everyone present had been duly elected by the members he represented.

The report was accepted as satisfactory on the motion of Mr. W. H. REYNOLDS, seconded by Mr. C. WILLIAMSON.

Mr. WOOLLEY asked whether the Conference understood by accepting the address of the President and the report of the General Secretary that it committed itself to the contents of the same.

The PRESIDENT: It should be distinctly understood that, by accepting my own address and the report of the General Secretary, the Conference is not committing itself to the opinions contained therein. They are simply an expression of the personal opinions of Mr. Inskip and myself.

The Representation of Kettering.

Mr. INSKIP: You will have observed by the reports that Kettering have refused to elect representatives to attend here this week. Every effort has been made by the Council to induce them to alter their decision, but without avail. They have even sent the President down to one of their meetings, with a view to inducing them to nominate delegates, but they even then declined to do so. I received a letter on May 23rd from Rothwell, which is a considerable section of the Kettering Branch, to the effect that they did not agree with the action taken by the Kettering Branch, and stating that, in their opinion, the excuse put forward by the Kettering members was a paltry one (hear, hear), so that it will be seen that this action is not so unanimous as they would have us believe.

The Position of the Kingswood Branch.

Mr. CURLEY asked what was the position of the representative from Kingswood.

Mr. INSKIP: I have communicated with Mr. Hallaran to the effect, and it is distinctly understood that unless the Conference decides otherwise, the branch or himself pays his expenses. He is not here to vote. He is here to offer any explanation upon a most unpleasant piece of business, which will be brought before you. He sits there by courtesy.

A DELEGATE asked why his credentials had been sent.

Mr. INSKIP: Merely to admit him into the room. So far as he himself is concerned, unless the Conference, by resolution, endorses him being there, he is not a legal member of this Conference, and I must again ask that he be not allowed to vote unless you so decide.

Mr. SWEENEY moved that Mr. Hallaran be admitted into the Conference.

The PRESIDENT, with all due respect, suggested that they did not deal with the Kingswood matter until they had heard the merits and de-merits of the case. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. RICHARDS moved the suspension of business to consider the Kingswood question.

Mr. SWEENEY seconded.

Mr. MASON asked the question whether, by the rules of the Union, the Conference had the power to rehabilitate an unfinancial branch.

The PRESIDENT ruled that by the rules of the Union they had not the power to rehabilitate an unfinancial branch.

The suspension of business to consider the Kingswood position was carried.

Mr. INSKIP, after the ruling of the chairman, was practically at a loss to see what use there was of any discussion, because if they had not the power to rehabilitate the branch it was useless for the delegate from Kingswood sitting any longer. He thought, with all due deference to the chairman, that if they decided it it would simply be for them to vote this money, and make them financial, and then it would follow that the Delegate would be entitled to sit and take part in the Conference.

The PRESIDENT asked for a motion that the matter be discussed.

Mr. RICHARDS moved that the matter re the Kingswood position be now discussed.—Agreed.

Mr. INSKIP: I have now to submit to the Conference the fact that the Kingswood branch owes £252 3s 5d., or 11s. per member. I may also state that the Council took upon itself the responsibility of allowing them dispute benefits until the Conference met. I think it is no breach of faith when I say I did not agree with that, because it was contrary to rule. But there is this injustice. We had urgent appeals, not only from Kingswood itself, but also from Bristol, which would, undoubtedly, be seriously injured, and who has itself already more than enough to contend with. Had this branch have collapsed, and it meant the collapsing of the branch had this not been done. No doubt Mr. Hallaran and the Bristol delegates will point out to you what it would have meant, and what it would have involved them in, in the event of the Council allowing the branch to have collapsed. It would also, undoubtedly, seriously affect Leeds, where the heavier class of goods are also made, but there the fact remains, and unless this Conference itself does something for them they cannot continue a branch of this Union. I, personally, have the greatest sympathy with Mr. Hallaran, and those responsible at Kingswood. I know well what they have to contend with, and the Council will give me credit for doing all I could to put them in a better position. I have been down personally, and we have sent men time after time to try and arouse the enthusiasm of the men, and I ask if you make them financial to-day if they would not again be in the same position as they now stand in two months time? I do not want you to think I am at all opposed to them. I am not opposed to them. I would do anything of a reasonable character that I could to assist them, but I want the delegates to consider that if you do it for Kingswood you will have to do it for some one else sooner or later. It offers an inducement to men not to pay their contributions. (Hear, hear.) In conclusion, I would do anything I could to assist them to maintain their position. I would go out of my way to do so, but I have to state the bare facts.

Mr. ADAMS asked whether it was a fact that they had a number of members who should have been scratched, owing to their not having paid the levy, and had not been.

Mr. CLARKE asked what amount the Kingswood branch paid to probationary members during the lock-out.

Mr. PAGE: How many members had the Kingswood branch before the imposition of the levy, and how many have they now?

Mr. SHEPPARD suggested that Mr. Hallaran make his statement at this juncture, which would probably throw some light on these and other questions.

Mr. BUTLER asked the General Secretary what would be the position of the members who were financial with the Kingswood branch.

Mr. INSKIP: In that case they would be required to pay 4s. 4d. into the nearest financial branch, which in this case would be Bristol, and then they could join by clearance; but they must pay 4s. 4d. towards their branch debt at Kingswood, and join at Bristol.

Mr. HALLARAN wished at once to say that he had nothing to complain of in the statement made by the General Secretary. He wished to call attention to one portion of Mr. Inskip's speech, and that was, that the circumstances at Kingswood were exceptional, which justified the action they had taken up, and there are circumstances which had not occurred in any other branch. The secretary had properly pointed out that the district was a difficult one. The difficulties they had had to face were many. The men were not so well organised as they were in other places, and for many years past trade has not been as bad as that they experienced last year, and unfortunately for their members, just at that time, the levy was enforced. A number of their members also did not start to work immediately after the lock-out, which is mostly explained by there being no less than fourteen manufacturers in the Bankruptcy Court, owing to the lock-out. They had no branch funds at the commencement of the lock-out. They expended a great amount of money to non-unionists at the time of the Kingswood lock-out. However, he had not yet lost all hope of converting the Kingswood men into becoming good members of the Union, and placing the branch in a flourishing condition. It had already been pointed out how much Bristol would suffer if the Kingswood branch was done away with, and, undoubtedly, Leeds would also be affected to a great extent. They asked that Kingswood should at least have another chance, and he would ask that they look at the matter not only from a business point of view, but also from the fellow-feeling of Trade Unionists, knowing it is only through the levy they were in this position. They did not question the action of the Council, and they were willing to pay were it in their power to do so. He trusted the Conference would give the Kingswood branch another chance, and thus enable them to pay their way in the future as in the past.

Mr. ADAMS explained that in Northampton they kept strictly to the rule in scratching members who owed more than 6s. 6d., including the levies, and that explained the large number whom they had been compelled to put through the scratched column. They were in nearly every instance men who had got financial just for the lock-out, and who had run out again as soon as the lock-out ended. He thought if the Kingswood branch had done the same they would not have found themselves in the position they occupied that day.

Mr. GREEN moved: "That £200 be placed to the credit of the Kingswood branch, to place them in a financial position with the Union." He called the attention of the Conference to Rule 11, par. 11, which states the Council shall have power to grant assistance in case of emergency up to the amount of £20, and take a vote of the Union if it is thought necessary to increase that amount.

Mr. O'GRADY seconded.

Mr. INSKIP suggested that the resolution should read as follows: "That a sufficient sum of money be taken from the central funds of the Union, and placed to the credit of the Kingswood branch, to enable it to be financial."

Mr. GREEN accepted that.

Mr. FREAK did not think there was any necessity for taking money from the central fund. Seeing that the numbers of Kingswood had dropped to 458, and 100 had fallen away since the levy was imposed, and if the branch is disbanded they lose something like 540 members, for that 540 would have to pay at least 4s. 4d. He should certainly support that the levy be not enforced in the case of Kingswood.

Mr. SWEENEY also supported. He thought that as Kingswood so largely affects Bristol and Leeds, some effort should be made to keep them a branch of the Union. He had had some experience of the difficulties the officials of the Kingswood branch had to face, and the kind of men they had to deal with, and he did not want another.

Mr. STANTON also supported. From what the General Secretary had told them they would see the circumstances in the Kingswood district were very exceptional.

Mr. SHEPPARD laid emphasis on the difficulties the Kingswood branch had had to face, and pointed out the demoralising effect the closing of the branch would have on the surrounding district. There was one factory in Street employing something like 200 hands, and other large factories had sprung up in Somersetshire, which they must try and organise, and if they let Kingswood slip through their fingers they would be asked why did you not organise Kingswood before you come to us. Once we lose Kingswood it will take a great many years to get hold of the district again, and as it was only something like £130 they, as a Union, were being asked to forego, he thought it would be to the best interests of all concerned to pass the resolution.

Mr. ADAMS moved an amendment: "That delegates be asked to do their best, on returning to their various branches, to recommend that grants be made to the Kingswood branch to place them in a financial position with the Union." He had no wish to be antagonistic to Kingswood. Northampton would do its share, and he thought other branches would do the same.

Mr. DUNCAN moved that the discussion be adjourned until Tuesday morning.

Mr. LEEDHAM seconded, but it was not carried.

Mr. POULTON seconded Mr. Adam's amendment. He did not think the Kingswood branch would have been in this position had members been scratched at the proper time. They had had the same difficulty to contend with at Northampton. He strongly protested against the central fund being used to pay the debt of one branch.

Mr. CURLEY supported the resolution. He remarked that they were sent there with power to use their own judgment on any question brought before the Conference.

Mr. MORETON also supported the resolution. He said that when investigating disputes in his capacity as a member of the Executive, Kingswood was continually being thrown at him, the wages paid there being below anything paid for a similar class of goods elsewhere.

Mr. VOTIER thought the matter had been somewhat laboured. Supposing the amendment was carried, what was the position of the Kingswood branch in the meantime. He, in conjunction with the General Secretary, opposed that they should forego the levy, in common fairness to the other members.

Mr. JAMES spoke to the resolution. He did not think it looked well for the Northampton representatives to go there and crow as to what they have done.

Mr. POULTON: We have no desire to "crow." We have had the same difficulty to surmount, and have simply carried out the rule.

The PRESIDENT: I have no doubt Mr. James will withdraw that remark.

Mr. JAMES withdrew.

Mr. RICHARDS moved that the question be now put.

This was carried by 31, against 15.

The amendment was put, and there voted for 21, against 29.

For the resolution 29, against 10.

Mr. DOBBIN said the resolution was in direct contradiction to the rules, and one of the most absurd ever passed at a Conference.

The Conference then adjourned until 9.30. a.m. Tuesday.

On Monday afternoon the delegates, by invitation of the Manchester branch, enjoyed a trip down the Ship Canal to Irlam and back.

SECOND DAY (Tuesday).

The GENERAL SECRETARY called the roll, all the delegates being present.

The minutes of Monday's proceedings were read and confirmed.

The GENERAL SECRETARY said he had received a letter from the Boot and Shoe Workers Union of America, as follows :—

BOSTON, MASS.,

MAY 14TH, 1896.

Wm. Inskip, 17, Silver Street, Leicester, England.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,

As the time draws near when our Annual Convention will meet, I am reminded that I have been sadly negligent in my duties for not having corresponded with you at an earlier date.

I presume you are aware of the amalgamation that took place one year ago, when the shoe workers of this country at last started out on the platform of a "United Craft."

I send you herewith a copy of the proceedings of our first or joint Convention held one year ago, also samples of the supplies we furnish, constitutions, etc.

You will notice our members are not yet up to the point where they are willing to contribute as much as do your members.

You will also note the absence of any beneficial features.

Your experienced eye will discover many points in which our organisation is inferior to yours.

Yet we are not discouraged. The results achieved here within the last 15 months denote progress, and we expect to show greater results in the future.

We shall, no doubt, amend and improve our laws from time to time as you no doubt have done, and the labour of years will no doubt bear fruit.

I also send you copy of circular containing amendments to be acted upon at our next Convention. Amendment No. 1 of that contains my idea of what the financial plan of a Trade Union should be.

In reading our constitution you will notice one of our "aims and objects" to be "to establish a system of intercommunication with the boot and shoe workers of other countries."

It would seem to me that one of the first matters that should be considered would be an interchange of cards.

I have many times heard expressions to that effect, particularly in Lynn, which is my home, and where we have quite a number of the English shoe workers that are among our best members.

You will notice we are located at the old stand of the L.C.U. of America,

I have continued to receive your Monthly Report, and have profited by its perusal. I trust you will continue to send it, with the necessary change of name, and I will send you ours, which, from copies enclosed, you will notice is yet in its infancy, but which will include new features as the organisation continues to develop.

I should regard it as a favour if you could find it convenient to reply in season to have your letter read at our Convention, which meets in Boston, June 15, America Hall, 724, Washington Street, and would suggest that it contain an expression of your views of a basis for an interchange of cards. Should you see Mr. Cowrie or Mr. Mawdsley please convey to them my sincere regard.

I hope to see you in America this year, as I should like to show you some of our modern shoe factories, where shoes and human life are ground out at high pressure.

Trusting that the future relations between your organisation and ours will be of a character that will wipe out National lines, and be promotion of the best interests of the members of both, as well as of all other wage workers,

I remain, with best wishes for yourself personally, and awaiting your reply,

Fraternally yours,

H. M. EATON.

Mr. INSKIP thought it would be very proper if that Conference was to send a letter acknowledging the receipt and exchanging greetings, so that it should reach them in time for their convention.

Mr. FREAK was quite in favour of exchanging greetings with their American comrades, but as for exchanging cards we had a sick fund, and it would be unfair to exchange cards under those circumstances. He suggested that the word "trade" should be inserted, so as to declare in favour of the exchange of trade cards only.

Mr. INSKIP moved—

"That this Conference having heard the letter from Mr. H. M. Eaton, of the National Shoe Workers' Union of America, hereby expresses its satisfaction at the same, and in return instructs the General Secretary to write, offering our hearty sympathy with the efforts being made to organise the workers in the Boot and Shoe Trade of the United States, and further, sends its hearty greetings and good wishes to the Convention."

The following is the reply sent by Mr. Inskip :—

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

JUNE 3RD, 1896.

Mr. H. M. Eaton, Boston, Mass.

DEAR MR. EATON,

Your letter indeed came very opportune, as it arrived just prior to our holding our Biennial Conference, and I took the opportunity of reading it to the Delegates assembled. They were very pleased indeed at the contents of the same, and the kindly feeling displayed therein, and after a short discussion, in which the Delegates expressed themselves as being very desirous of extending the principles of Trade Unionism and Federation, the following resolution was unanimously carried :—

“That this Conference having heard the letter from Mr. H. M. Eaton, of the National Shoe Worker's Union of America, hereby expresses its satisfaction at the same, and in return instructs the General Secretary to write, offering our hearty sympathy with the efforts being made to organise the workers in the Boot and Shoe Trade of the United States, and further, sends its hearty greetings and good wishes to the Convention.”

The Delegates also expressed themselves as being quite in favour of an interchange of Trade Cards.

May I also add my personal sympathy with your movement, and to express my appreciation of your personal references to myself. You will be pleased to know that I have practically recovered from a long and serious illness. After many years of experience I feel that the workmen must be combined to protect their interests, for capitalists are alike in all countries.

I have the opinion that there are the elements amongst the American shoe makers which go to make good sturdy Trade Unionists, and I trust the efforts made on their behalf will result in a great augmentation of your numbers, so that the time will not be far distant when you will even exceed us in the number of members belonging your Union.

With fraternal greetings from the President, the Executive Council, the Delegates assembled, and the Members generally, including myself,

Believe me to remain,

Yours most respectfully,

WM. INSKIP, General Secretary.

The Grindery Question.

Mr. W. WARD moved—

Paragraph 3, Rule 1, “That the time has arrived when the Council should enforce the grindery question, which we believe to be a direct infringement of the Truck Act.”

He said that this was a question which caused them a deal of trouble in Manchester, the employers charging more for grindery than what they could get it for themselves, but what they complained of most was that if the employers found a man buying his grindery otherwise than through the firm he was discharged. They contended that this was a distinct violation of the Truck Act. They desired the Council to take up a case, and force it to an issue, and, if possible, get a verdict on the matter.

Mr. J. BRAILSFORD seconded.

Mr. BURDEN supported. In Scotland there was no such thing as having to find grindery, and up to now they had been able to say if you wants the boots manufacturing you will have to find the materials to make them with.

Mr. MASON asked whether there was not a provision on the Manchester statement to the effect that grindery should be found at market prices.

Mr. WARD said there was an item on the statement to that effect, but the employers had evaded it.

Mr. MASON thought the matter was in the hands of the Manchester branch. (Hear, hear.) They should see that the provisions of the statement were duly observed. He took it that the Council would give their support in the event of a bona fide case being brought forward.

Mr. INSKIP said that on this resolution he had taken legal advice with the view of ascertaining whether it was not illegal for men to find the grindery. The following was the letter he had received in reply to his enquiries :—

73, LONDON ROAD, LEICESTER,

25TH MAY, 1896.

DEAR MR. INSKIP,

After receiving your letter of the 16th ult. I called several times, but did not succeed in meeting with you. Doubtless you will have seen by the daily newspapers that the present session of Parliament is now engaged with a revision and amendment of the Truck Act, and I hoped that you would already have got a print of such Bill through Mr. Broadhurst, or some other source. In the meantime, however, I beg to enclose cutting from the Leicester Daily Post, some weeks ago, having just the questions touched on that you refer to. I have underlined the pertinent part for your perusal and consideration. From it you will see that it deals with your enquiry as to :

1. Whether, although employers, undoubtedly make profit out of supplying—really selling—grindery to the hands it is legal to do so ?
2. Is it in consonance with law that a master should make it a condition of employment that the man must purchase from him ?
3. Can employers also charge rent for use of machines belonging to themselves, and which cannot become the workwoman's own ?
4. Is it legal for masters to charge for supplying power to drive their own machines ?

As to the first three points I fear they must all be answered affirmatively. With regard to the last, it does not seem quite free from doubt, but as the Act at present stands, and judging this point by analogy and purity of logical reasoning, I incline to the view that it also would be held against the employee. As doubtless you will see, by the amending Bill, the existing provisions will be now made much more stringent against the employer.

Trusting that this short and hurried note will be sufficient for your present needs, and with kindest regards, believe me,

Faithfully yours,

J. B. WARING.

Mr. INSKIP said it would be seen that the letter practically left the matter just where it was. They had heard of cases where employers had charged as much as 1s. and 1s. 6d. per week rent on the operative's own machine, where in some cases the operatives had taken their own machines inside the factory to work them. This, of course, referred to female operatives, and if the Executive had some encouragement from the Conference they would have a cut at one or two of these employers who were making exorbitant profits of the grindery supplied to the workpeople—(hear, hear)—especially those who were charging machine rent, and if they could not get it one way they would try and do it by some other means.

Mr. WARD accepted the suggestion of the General Secretary, on the understanding that the Executive would take action in reference to the matter.

Mr. FREAK thought it would be better to vote on the question.

The PRESIDENT : It is customary for the mover of a resolution to withdraw with the consent of his seconder.

Mr. CORT instanced a case where an employer was sued through the County Court for charging 2s. 6d. machine rent, and the verdict was in favour of the employer. In Leicester they insisted that only market prices should be charged for grindery, and they had been largely successful in that respect.

Mr. WOOLLEY thought it did not require any such vote as that before the Conference. If it was proposed that the Conference empower the Executive to press this question forward that would meet the case.

Mr. SWEENEY asked whether this would be considered a National question

The PRESIDENT : Yes. Wherever it has been found possible to break down this system we have done so. We shall take the first opportunity of bringing the matter before the Federation, with a view to its being discussed at the various Boards of Arbitration.

Mr. GREEN asked whether it was within the power of the Council to enforce the question? They heard at the time the Terms of Settlement were being signed that the grindery question was to be brought before the conference of employers and workmen, and that it was to be one condition of settlement that the grindery should be found. Therefore, he failed to see that they had any power.

The PRESIDENT said that was not correct. It was agreed that the question should be withdrawn, as it would undoubtedly have prevented the settlement they did obtain. It was brought forward at the Conference as a counter proposal to one emanating from the employers.

Mr. POULTON asked whether the finishers at Nottingham paid for grindery.

Mr. BRAILSFORD : The grindery is found for finishers as well as benchmen.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

Northampton moved on paragraph 3, Rule 1, to strike out the words "where practicable" and add the words "kit for day workers."

Mr. INSKIP said the Council were prepared to accept the resolution, thus saving time in discussion. Agreed.

The Eight Hours' Day.

Leicester had given notice to move on paragraph 6, of Rule 1, "That steps be taken to put this paragraph into operation."

Mr. INSKIP said the Council were also willing to agree to this resolution.

Mr. M. CURLEY asked whether the Council would give them any definite time when they would take any steps in the matter.

Mr. INSKIP : It is impossible to give you a date.

Mr. CURLEY said it was no use them going there as delegates if the matter was to be passed over in the manner it was proposed that morning. Eight hours was sufficient for any man to work. It was no use bringing the matter up year after year if nothing definite was arrived at. He considered it should be made a National question. (Hear, hear.) He moved the resolution.

The PRESIDENT considered it was a National question. He suggested the advisability of bringing the matter before the local Boards of Arbitration. To his mind they should first make a move in the direction of the absolute abolition of overtime.

Mr. INSKIP suggested that in both the cases of grindery and the eight hours simultaneous notice should be given to all local boards, when the matters would have had to be adjudicated upon, and then sent to the National Conference. It was ridiculous to have it on the agenda whilst there was a system of men working any hours they liked.

Mr. HUDSON seconded. He stated that cases had been known in Leicester, only recently, where men had been working as many as 12, 13, and even 14 hours a day.

Mr. RICHARDS said it appeared the resolution was moved with a view to preventing overtime. He agreed that the matter had been shelved too long. Ten years ago the Union declared in favour of an eight hours' day. He quite understood the difficulties the Council would have to contend with, but he hoped they would give some undertaking that between then and the next Conference they would do their utmost in the matter.

Mr. INSKIP thought the time of the Council was occupied with matters of much greater moment.

Mr. W. H. LOWE was sorry to hear that cases of overtime, such as Mr. Hudson had mentioned, had occurred in Leicester. So far as his branch was concerned he did not think there had been any such case. For a considerable number of years hundreds of clickers had been out of work in Leicester, and the No. 2 Branch had been endeavouring to carry out the rule in regard to overtime as stringently as possible.

Mr. RICHARDS desired to explain that cases such as Mr. Hudson had mentioned were not sanctioned by the officials. It was only after the cases occurred that the officials heard anything about them.

Mr. CORT said the officials of the Leicester branch had no knowledge of any such case as Mr. Hudson had mentioned. If members knew of such cases it was their duty to report them to the officials of their branch. (Hear, hear.) He did not believe that 14 hours, as had been stated, was in existence.

Mr. LEEDHAM mentioned a case, where a member of the Union in Leicester, after working for his firm in the day-time, went to another firm to work at night. (Hisses.) He did not consider the time was yet ripe for the Union to press for the eight hours' day.

The PRESIDENT : That is a question for the branch.

Mr. VOTIER was surprised to hear that statement made. Rule 22, paragraph 7, said no member shall work overtime systematically, and if a member knew of overtime being worked systematically it was the duty of that member to report the matter to the branch officials. (Hear, hear.) He thought the first move should be to insist upon the strict observance of the 54 hours' per week.

Mr. INSKIP said they had been an hour on that question, not a solitary delegate had spoken against it, and the Executive agreed to it.

Mr. JAMES pointed out the difficulties of men engaged on piece-work as against those on day-work. Mr. Sheppard and himself had not averaged more than five hours' a day. They could not get the work to do, but the day-work men had been working overtime.

Mr. WOOLLEY said one delegate had laid the blame for systematic overtime upon the men. That, it seemed to him, was impossible. He thought the only way out of the difficulty, as regarded overtime, was its total prohibition.

The proposition was then put and carried practically unanimously, 28 voting for it.

Northampton had given notice to strike out the word "any" and insert the word "all," in paragraph 12, of Rule 1.

Mr. POULTON said they could not see that it made any difference, and no reason why it should be altered. He withdrew the motion.

Seat of Government.

Northampton had also given notice to delete "Leicester," and insert either "London or Northampton."

The PRESIDENT ruled that this was entirely out of order. The matter would be dealt with later on.

London and the Council.

Mr. GREEN (London No. 2) moved—

To strike out after the word "meeting," in line 11, Rule 4, "consisting of one representative from each and every Union," and insert the words "based upon the same representation as the Conference."

He said they were aware that there had been a certain amount of trouble in London, with the result that the Council had invited the London members to impeach them. It was not fair that only one representative from the district impeaching the Council should be present, and had the basis of representation been the same by which the Conference was called together, they would have had no hesitation in taking up the challenge of the Council. The Council were only elected once in two years, and it might happen that they lose the confidence of the members the month after election, but they would remain in office until the next election. That was somewhat the position of the Council member for their district.

Mr. PAGE seconded. He thought all the delegates would see, according to the rule as it then stood, the branch that impeached the Council's conduct had not a fair opportunity of challenging them, or getting a fair verdict from the Union. They had had some considerable trouble with the Council over certain things they had done, including the imposition of the levy.

Mr. CURLEY rose to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT said he desired to give every delegate fair play, but he trusted they would do the work in a business-like manner.

Mr. PAGE, continuing, remarked that the members of that Conference did not seem to appreciate the manner in which he had stated his remarks, but he thought the rule needed some alteration, because it placed in the hands of the Council the direct veto upon the wishes of any branch.

Mr. INSKIP rose, on behalf of the Council, to oppose the resolution. He first asked Mr. Green whether he (Mr. Inskip) fully understood him to say that had the representation been on the same principle as that Conference, London would have impeached the Council?

Mr. GREEN : At first, no ; but on second consideration, yes.

Mr. INSKIP, continuing, said he got a distinct assurance from the London branches that they did not desire to impeach the Council, and he asked Mr. Green by whose authority he made that statement to that Conference, after the answer of the London branches to the Council as to impeachment.

Mr. GREEN : Some correspondence took place after that, and these things were pointed out. I say again that at first we were not, but afterwards, yes.

Mr. INSKIP : Have you any authority for saying that ?

The PRESIDENT said Mr. Green's statement was contrary to what he had been led to believe. He had been distinctly told in London that they had no opposition to the Council.

Mr. GREEN : I object to our chairman taking any partiality in this matter. I have said, and I say again, that there are two or three men on the Council who we should strongly oppose.

Mr. FREAK wished it to be distinctly understood that he did not take any of the responsibility of Mr. Green's remarks. He was strongly opposed to attempting to impeach the Council. (Applause.)

Mr. INSKIP thanked Mr. Freak for his kindness in this matter, and the principle objection to that alteration of the rule was the question of cost. The only thing that could be brought forward in support of the alteration was that the delegate representing the impeaching branch would not get fair play. He thought this was an injustice to the other delegates who might be elected, and whom they could trust to view the matter in a spirit of impartiality. He was pleased to say, up to the present, that rule had never been put into operation. They had the remedy largely in their own district. They elected their own representatives. If they did not suit them, out them, and put someone in their places who did. (Hear, hear.) That Conference would cost, in round figures, £300. Would London be prepared to forfeit that in the event of the decision being against them. (No.) He need not labour the matter. He thought enough had been said to justify them in keeping the rule as it was.

Mr. FREAK supported the resolution. He had no desire to impeach the Council. It was not a desirable thing that any Council should be impeached. He thought the expense should be an item in favour of the proposition, for no branch would run the risk of losing £300 unless they had what they considered a very strong case. Mr. Votier was twice censured by their members. On the first occasion, at a meeting of 700 members, one solitary hand was held up in his favour ; and on the second occasion the vote was passed absolutely unanimously, every hand being held up against him, yet he was still on the Council, and sitting there to-day. The resolution would simply be a protection to branches.

Mr. WHITBY (Ipswich) said their branch was in the same district as London, as was also Norwich and other places; and he wanted to know why they should be charged with a portion of the expense if London desired to impeach the Council.

Mr. PAGE said the branch wishing to impeach the Council, must first obtain the sanction of the other branches in the district.

Mr. POULTON opposed the resolution. He should be sorry if, in their Union, gentlemen could not be found to properly judge the matter with unbiased minds.

Mr. CORT said it seemed to him that the matter was brought there simply because one man was not giving satisfaction.

Mr. VOTIER thought the matter had resolved itself merely into a personal attack upon himself. He had been charged with not answering questions in reference to the Terms of Settlement or disputes of which he may have had knowledge. That he denied. When asked questions for the purpose of information and guidance, he had always done his best to answer those questions, but he felt that was not so, and he refused, as they had already had a meeting at the Charrington Hall for the purpose of hearing an explanation of the Terms of Settlement, at which the General Secretary, in conjunction with himself, attended, but they could not get a hearing, and on two occasions he had attended meetings for a like purpose.

Mr. PAGE rose to a point of order. Mr. Votier was misrepresenting the facts.

The PRESIDENT: This is the fifth time you have been on your legs over this motion.

Mr. VOTIER, continuing, said he was not misrepresenting the facts. He quoted the resolution passed calling upon him to resign, which he pointed out did not emanate from London itself, but from the joint committee. The London officials had tried to put the whole responsibility upon him. He thought the whole matter amounted to that of the ridiculous.

Mr. GREEN, in replying, said if it was not London's intention to impeach the Council what right had Mr. Inskip to address a meeting, and speak for Mr. Votier. Was it to protect him? Why did Mr. Inskip send a telegram to one of the meetings, threatening the London members if they passed that resolution?

Mr. VOTIER rose to a point of order, and asked Mr. Green to produce the telegram.

Mr. GREEN: Does Mr. Inskip deny sending that telegram? Mr. Votier spoke for three hours, and had a fair hearing, and then the meeting went against him.

The PRESIDENT said there was too much personal animosity being introduced (Applause.) It was anything but creditable to that Conference.

Mr. GREEN said he had no personal animosity against anyone. That was the only chance they had in two years of airing any grievance they might have. He believed in a Conference, because they always got fair play. Mr. Votier asked whether he had been impeached. Yes, at two mass meetings, one single hand being held up in his favour. They had put this resolution on the paper because they thought that, with a larger Conference, they would get greater advantages.

The proposition was then put, and there voted for the resolution 6, against 37.

Limitation of Speeches.

At this juncture the PRESIDENT asked that the Conference should empower him to make some limitation of speeches, for the purpose of facilitating business.

Mr. RICHARDS moved that three minutes be allowed.

Mr. INSKIP hoped the Conference would not restrict him when dealing with the Council's proposals.

Mr. CORT moved that five minutes be allowed the mover of a resolution, and three minutes to subsequent speakers, with the right to reply.

Mr. RICHARDS accepted five minutes. He seconded Mr. Cort's proposition.

Mr. FREAK quite agreed that the General Secretary should not be restricted when making his statements on the Council's proposals. He moved as an amendment that ten minutes be allowed the movers of propositions, and other speakers five minutes. He thought that would give a better chance to those who were not accustomed to public speaking.

For the resolution 21, against 20.

Mr. FREAK said he had never interfered with anyone while they were speaking yet. He asked if a speaker had not finished when his time was up would the President allow him to finish?

The PRESIDENT: I should have to carry the rule into effect.

Rule 5.

Mr. AYTON (Glasgow No. 2) moved—

Paragraph 1, line 5, of Rule 5, that the words "registered" and "financial" be taken out, and that paragraph to read as after branch officers, "when, if they find the applicant to be a member of the Union the officers shall give the member his voting paper," and so on.

He thought the rule as it then stood was detrimental to those members who were in the branch, but had not yet been registered with the Council. It would tend to create more interest amongst those members in the workings of the branch and Union.

Mr. BURDEN seconded.

Mr. SMITH opposed on behalf of the Council. He did not think it right that a member who had only just joined the Union should have as great a power as a member who had been paying into the Union for years. (Hear, hear.) It would be against the best interests of the Union.

The motion was lost, three only voting in its favour.

Auditing the Union Accounts.

Mr. O'GRADY (London Metro.) moved—

Paragraph 7, of Rule 5, to strike out all words commencing with the word "the" in line 3, down to the word "five" in line 6, and insert "the accounts of the Union shall be audited by a chartered accountant."

His reason for moving that resolution was more particularly through a financial difficulty that had occurred between his branch and the General Secretary, which he had made every effort to get cleared up, which up to the present had not been done. It was a simple matter of £200, and it affected the central fund. The trade income of the London Metro. branch, in the Monthly Report for January, was stated at £370 17s. 8d. He said that should read £570 17s. 8d., leaving £200 to be accounted for. He had gone carefully through the matter over and over again, and he still contended that to be correct, that amount should read £570 17s. 8d. He wanted the matter cleared up, and contended that the last Half-yearly Balance Sheet was not a correct one. He thought the time had arrived when the accounts of the Union should be audited by a chartered accountant, and he did it in the interests of the Union to which he belonged.

Mr. FREAK formally seconded.

Mr. POULTON asked Mr. O'Grady how he thought the mistake had occurred.

Mr. O'GRADY said to follow the matter up they would have to refer back to the July, 1895 Report, where it stated "Erratum, on pages 17 and 30, read cash to balance £3,133 15s. 9d." He stated he had been to Leicester over the matter, and he believed the auditors were convinced that his position was correct. Having left Leicester he received no official communication, but in the next Report he found a deduction was made on his trade account.

Mr. INSKIP said he was not aware they intended to raise this question, but he was prepared to give an explanation. He read the following letter he had sent to Mr. Freak:—

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER, MARCH 6TH, 1896.

DEAR SIR,

In answer to your letter of yesterday's date, I have to draw your attention to the fact that, in March last, £200 was advanced by Mr. O'Grady to Mr. Votier for the purposes of the lock-out, and when informed of this by Mr. Votier, I decided, as the branch owed a substantial sum to the Union, to utilise it to pay off their arrears. (Applause.) I accordingly sent a receipt for £200 as cash, which you will find in the March, 1895, account, and in the March Monthly summary.

This money I never received, but gave credit for it as loaned to Council, and as expenditure for dispute purposes. Consequently, when I came to make up my Half-yearly Balance Sheet, this £200 told against me, and hence the frequent interviews. As the Half-yearly had appeared, however, our only course was, as I had given credit in the previous half year in the trade account, to make the totals continue the same. I had no alternative but to take it off the trade department this half year, so that the full year shows exactly the amounts that I actually received, and places the accounts correctly.

I should have thought that you would have asked Mr. O'Grady this question, as not only has he been here, but we have had correspondence in reference to it, and I have but to add, in conclusion, that the mixing of these accounts in this fashion has not only caused me endless trouble, but annoyance as well, and I will take care for future only to give receipts for cash when directly received.

Yours truly,

W. INSKIP.

Mr. INSKIP, in further explanation, said he gave credit for the £200 advanced to Mr. Votier as cash for returns, and loaned to Council as well, and consequently, when he came to make up his accounts, he found he was £200 short of cash he should have had in hand. If they would put together the amount of cash actually received from them for the whole twelve months they would get the explanation of the £200 in this half year. (Applause.) From the tone of Mr. O'Grady's remarks it must be something of a personal character.

Mr. O'GRADY: Nothing of the kind.

Mr. INSKIP, continuing, said Mr. O'Grady had distinctly told him (Mr. Inskip) that he was satisfied he (Mr. Inskip) had not had it. He (Mr. O'Grady) had said he was satisfied that, so far as the £200 was concerned, he paid it over to Mr. Votier. He had stated he was satisfied that he did not send him (Mr. Inskip) £200 in March, 1895. Had London have done the same as Leicester, Northampton, and other places, and sent in the branch funds in accordance with instructions—(hear, hear)—there would have been no possibility of any mistake, instead of Mr. Votier having to get £200 in one week, £100 another week, and so on. There was no mistake in the Leicester accounts, or Northampton's, Kettering's, Leed's, and other places. He regretted Mr. O'Grady's tone. Had he have said he was not clear upon it he could have understood it, and would have done all he could to have explained it. He might add that the auditors had had the matter in hand, so had the Council, and they were perfectly satisfied that he was correct. Mr. Votier had the £200, and it was expended in the lock-out, as Mr. Green and Mr. O'Grady knew. As to the chartered accountant neither the Council or himself had any objection to the accounts being audited by a public accountant if the Conference thought fit, but he did say the balance-sheet as they now issued it was the best, clearest, and most concise of any issued by Trade Unions in the United Kingdom. (Applause.) The work would not be done so satisfactorily as at the present time because of the technical knowledge necessary, and which would not be possessed by a chartered accountant. In addition to the half-yearly audit the accounts are audited every month by the President and Treasurer, and a monthly balance-sheet presented to the Council. To be consistent they must have a chartered accountant for the branch accounts as well—(hear, hear)—which would mean that they would require a permanent accountant, and he did not think there was anything that would justify that. He was in rather a delicate position on the matter. He did not care who they chose for auditors. He did not care who they were, so long as they were elected by the vote of the Union, and had the confidence of the members. (Applause.) He hoped Mr. O'Grady would give him the credit he deserved.

Mr. POULTON spoke against the alteration of the rule. He had had the honour of being elected one of the Union auditors, and he would say that he went down somewhat prejudiced against Mr. Inskip, and the way in which their books were kept, as he told Mr. Inskip at the time, but what he saw completely changed his opinion, and he was convinced that if all the branch secretaries would examine their accounts, and carry out their duties as they should do, it was impossible for the accounts to go wrong. He could not understand how Mr. O'Grady had got wrong if he examined his accounts as he should do. The suggested alteration was a most unnecessary one, and he was surprised at its being brought forward.

Mr. HAMMOND said he could not sit still while there was even a suspicion of misappropriation.

Mr. O'GRADY : I never intimated that there was.

Mr. HAMMOND, continuing. He wished to endorse the remarks of the General Secretary that if London had done its duty, and sent in the cash according to instructions, that difficulty would not have occurred. (Applause.) As one of the auditors he gave it as his opinion that a chartered accountant would not be able to grasp the technicalities of the business, as well as a branch secretary, whose duties, to some extent, would fit him for the duty of auditing the union accounts. A chartered accountant would not be as useful as branch officials who had had some little experience of the work required.

Mr. GREEN said they had no feeling in the matter. He was very glad indeed the auditors were satisfied it was all right. He had been through the accounts with Mr. O'Grady for the last eighteen months with a view to finding a solution. He was not exactly clear upon it now. He supported the resolution, not from any matter of sentiment, but from a business point of view.

Mr. BRAILSFORD opposed the resolution. It would be much better not to change, there was no necessity for doing so whatever.

Mr. LOWE said there was a rule which stated that the accounts should be audited monthly by the President and Treasurer. He supposed the alteration only meant half-yearly, as there was no suggestion to alter that rule.

Mr. BUSH supported the resolution. All large societies employed a chartered accountant. He did not support the resolution because he thought there was anything wrong. He quite believed up to the present the auditors had faithfully done their duty, but he held there was a great liability of mistake on the part of those who were not so much accustomed to figures. He did not think the financial difficulty with the London branch was one that should be brought to that Conference. The employment of a chartered accountant would be no more expensive than the present system of auditing the accounts.

Mr. WOOLLEY thought the question as to whether there had been a mistake made was the most important question before the Conference. (Hear, hear.) For a time it was his duty to audit the accounts of the Union monthly; and he agreed with Mr. Poulton that if every secretary would do his duty it was absolutely impossible for the head office to go wrong in the accounts. The cleverest manipulator of figures would find it absolutely impossible to go wrong with his accounts. The mistake seemed to him so simple, he did not understand how Mr. O'Grady had got wrong. He had never had any difficulty in his account with the head office. If there had been any little matter, it had never gone beyond the next returns. It seemed to him that at least Mr. O'Grady ought to express to that Conference either their satisfaction or dissatisfaction of the way the £200 had been accounted for.

Mr. O'GRADY : I am very glad to hear that Mr. Inskip is satisfied.

Mr. WOOLLEY : You are careful not to say you are satisfied. You should take up one position or the other. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. O'GRADY: I may not be satisfied.

Mr. WOOLLEY: Then that is the position you should take up. He did not say Mr. Inskip was infallible, but he knew that he (Mr. Inskip) would give every facility for any official or member to examine the income or expenditure during anything like reasonable hours. Mr. Inskip (hear, hear).

Mr. SWEENEY also opposed the resolution.

Mr. ADAMS moved that the question be now put.

Mr. CURLEY asked if Mr. Votier had any explanation to make on this matter.

Mr. VOTIER said the question was nothing to do with him.

Mr. INSKIP asked that Mr. O'Grady should have the right to reply.

It was agreed that the question be now put by 30 votes to 8.

The PRESIDENT was about to put the motion, when

Mr. FREAK protested most strongly. It was distinctly understood that the mover of the resolution should have the right to reply.

The PRESIDENT: As it appears to be the desire of the Conference, I call upon Mr. O'Grady to reply.

Mr. O'GRADY, in the first place, wished them to thoroughly dispossess their minds of his having any idea of misappropriation. He still maintained that to be correct that item must read £570 17s. 8d. in his accounts. He had endeavoured to get the matter cleared up. If they did not agree to the chartered accountant he asked them to call upon the President to take up the position as prescribed in paragraph 2 of rule 10, and go and examine the books and accounts of the London Metro. Branch. He did not feel confidence in the last Half-yearly Report, and until he did, he thought he was only doing his duty in bringing that question before the Conference. He dealt with the matter from a business point of view. Let them make every investigation into the matter, and if there had been a mistake made, let them clear it up. As to the expense of a chartered accountant he thought it would not be any more than at the present time. He left the matter in their hands.

The resolution was then put, and defeated by 33 votes to 7.

Rule 10.

The Parliamentary Agent.

London Metro. No. 1 moved.—Paragraph 5.—To add, "and should the agent find a constituency with reasonable prospects, in his opinion, of being returned to Parliament, at his request the Council shall immediately take the vote of the country whether he shall contest the constituency or not, the majority of the votes given deciding whether he shall run or not."

Also, "The Parliamentary agent shall be required to give in a form of resignation (not dated) as agent of the Union as soon as he is put up for office as M.P., to be used if necessary should he be found to be working against the programme of the Union; and should the Council, or any branch of the Union, be of opinion such member is not doing his duty, they shall have power to call for a vote of the Union, and upon the vote being of that opinion, his resignation shall be filled in and accepted."

Mr. INSKIP suggested that the Conference should deal with the proposals separately, taking the first portion first, as the Council were of opinion that the latter part of the suggestion was illegal.

Mr. G. PAGE, in moving the first portion of the suggestion, said the London members were of opinion that the Executive Council were opposed to the present Parliamentary agent. They considered that the Council had had an opportunity of running their present agent, but refused to take advantage of the chance. If the Council had taken the opportunity offered they would have most likely had a representative in the House of Commons to-day, which would have been of great service just now, and our London members were strongly of opinion that if the agent thought he had a chance for any constituency he ought to have some choice as to which constituency he should run for. He believed the only item on the programme of the agent was the Nationalisation of Land, etc., with which the Council could not agree with. It was with regret that the London members heard that our General Secretary was supporting a man with as broad principles as either Mr. Ald. Lennard or Mr. J. G. Ward had, in opposition to a labour candidate pure and simple. It was evident, if they read Mr. W. Inskip's letter of resignation, that he had no desire to support the programme which was passed and adopted at our last Conference in Edinburgh, and he (Mr. Page) thought it was the duty of the Council or agent to take their instructions from the voice and vote of the Conference. He was strongly of opinion that Mr. Inskip's resignation was a direct insult to the committee which sat and drafted that programme. Mr. Inskip, in his resignation, talked about confiscation being the outcome of the resolution passed at the Edinburgh Conference, but he (Mr. Page) would challenge Mr. Inskip, with all his ability and experience, to suggest any other method of putting a stop to the exportation of labour that was going on at the present time.

Mr. LAMBSON seconded the proposed addition from London Metro.

Mr. W. VOTIER said that in the resolution emanating from London there was too much of the one man, and he, therefore, moved as an amendment,

“That should the Council or a branch find a constituency, with a reasonable prospect of the Union agent being returned, the Council shall immediately take the vote of the Union as to whether he shall contest the seat or not.”

He thought that the amendment would be more in accord with the democratic principles of the Union. As far as the Council were concerned, Mr. Inskip stated that they had a compact between the Liberal party and the Trades Council at Leicester.

Mr. CURLEY rose to a point of order, and stated that there was no compact between the two parties in Leicester.

Mr. VOTIER, continuing, said that the last speaker was aware that Mr. Henry Broadhurst was a Labour candidate, and he was supported by the Liberals, and the Council, although requested to run their candidate, refused to do so because they would be opposing a genuine Labour candidate if they did so. They had no objection whatever against Mr. Charles Freak, and he hoped that he would soon be able to represent the Union in the House of Parliament.

Mr. H. MORETON seconded the amendment.

Mr. R. WATSON asked what the compact spoken of was.

Mr. W. VOTIER said it was a verbal understanding and compact between the Liberal and Labour parties, that they should not oppose each other, and that the Liberals would support the Labour candidates.

Mr. W. INSKIP opposed the resolution, and said he wished that their London friends would give others credit for honesty of purpose as well as themselves, and said that every time the London delegates rose to speak they insulted someone. Now as to the resolution the Council were not, as mentioned by Mr. Page, opposed in any degree to Mr. Charles Freak, but he (Mr. Inskip) having resigned from the Parliamentary agent because he did not agree with the item of Land Nationalisation and the means of production, he could not support Mr. Freak, who accepted the programme he (Mr. Inskip) had resigned on, and he told the Conference at Edinburgh so. There was nothing whatever said on the Council about being opposed to and not going to run Mr. Freak. He was as strongly of opinion to-day, as ever he was in his life, that our Union ought to have a representative in the House of Commons. With respect to the Leicester election, the Council were expecting the lock-out every day, and therefore did not feel justified in incurring extra liabilities at that juncture. There was no compact as spoken of in existence, what it was there was a mutual understanding between the two parties, under which a number of Labour candidates were elected to the Municipal Council and other bodies. He, himself, was elected under that understanding, for one of the most aristocratic wards in the town, and he polled the highest number of votes that had ever been polled by a member of the Council. Recently the Trades Council had run a candidate on their own independence, with the result that he cut a most ignominious figure, simply because they would not run hand in hand with the Liberal party, whom the majority of working men supported. Now with respect to the second portion of the addition from London it was illegal. A member of Parliament is elected by any constituency—not by the Union—and he is their representative there until he is beaten at another election, and no registrar would accept such a resolution as moved by the London delegates in the rules, as it would be contrary to the laws of Parliament.

Mr. D. STANTON said no constituency would accept a candidate with such a condition attached to this programme as required to do by the London delegates. No constituency would be prepared to hand over its political rights to any trade union. As regards Leicester the Council were not approached until Mr. Burgess had been selected. (No.) If fault rested with anyone for what occurred at the Leicester election it was with the Independent Labour Party for the action they took.

Mr. CURLEY said he did not rise to support the resolution, as he believed it was undemocratic, but to deny the statement made by Mr. Stanton, as the Leicester Trades Council wrote to our Council long before they invited Mr. Burgess to stand.

Mr. R. MOORE said he, for one, never heard of any invitation being given to the Council.

Mr. CURLEY, continuing, said it was misleading to say that a compact existed between the Liberal party and the Trades Council.

Mr. J. BURDEN rose to a point of order, and asked whether they were discussing the Leicester election or the London suggestions.

The PRESIDENT said the Conference could not discuss the internal workings of the political parties at Leicester, and appealed to the delegates to speak to the questions before the chair.

Mr. CURLEY said he was of opinion that had the Council been a mind to run their agent, Mr. Freak would have been a representative of Leicester to-day.

Mr. LEEDHAM said that had either Mr. Inskip or Mr. Freak run for Leicester they would not have stood the least chance of beating Mr. Hy. Broadhurst.

Mr. BUSH stated that this was not the place to discuss the political situation of Leicester.

Mr. RICHARDS supported the amendment as suggested by Mr. Votier. Previous to the statement made by the General Secretary he thought the same as other members, that the Council had not done their best to find a constituency for the Parliamentary Agent. He knew of no compact being entered into between the Labour and the Liberal Parties.

The PRESIDENT : The General Secretary said there was a tacit understanding.

Mr. INSKIP : Before Mr. Richards was known.

Mr. RICHARDS continuing, said it was not always age that gave intellect. He was sorry that Mr. Stanton should so far have forgotten himself as to make the statement he did. Mr. Broadhurst, the Labour man so-called, had already been nominated by a member of their Council before Mr. Burgess was invited to be their candidate. He very much regretted that Mr. Freak did not attempt to run for Leicester on that occasion because, had the members of the Union proved true, his election would have been assured ; but some men put their Liberalism before their Labour.

Mr. FREAK said it was simply with the view of getting to know on whom should rest the responsibility of the matter being brought forward that the London men had brought that resolution there. Supposing the first part of the resolution was carried, it would simply mean getting the voice of the country as to whether the Parliamentary Agent should run for the constituency or not. In London it was said that they should not have this rule on their books if no machinery was provided whereby it could be put in motion. They had no right to insert a paragraph in the rules if they did not intend to carry it out. As the rule read, it did not say by whom the Parliamentary Agent should be brought forward. He should have no particular objection to the amendment himself. The one object of the London men was to take some steps to put this rule into operation.

Mr. MASON supported the amendment. They might move and carry resolutions, but they would never carry them into effect while they were sub-divided as they were to-day.

Mr. POULTON also supported the amendment. Referring to Mr. Inskip's resignation from Parliamentary candidate at Northampton, he was satisfied it was done in a perfectly honourable manner. He agreed with the last speaker, that until they had closed up their ranks, they were not likely to get anything they wanted. They had already spent more money than they were justified in the matter. There was no doubt that if they had a representative in the House at the present time, they would be able to get clauses inserted in the Truck Act which was then before the House, which would be of immense advantage to the Union, and until they did get a representative there, those in power would take precious little notice of them.

Mr. CALDER also supported the amendment.

Mr. O'GRADY supported the resolution. It seemed to him a small matter as to the Parliamentary Agent being added to the amendment. What harm did it do ? Rule 14, paragraph 7, distinctly stated :—"The Parliamentary Agent shall pledge himself to, and seek to carry out, the Labour Programme as laid down from time to time by the biennial Conference of the Union, together with the Newcastle Programme, or cease to hold office." He thought if the Parliamentary Agent should at any time cease to represent the views of the Union, he should be asked to retire. There was nothing like being safe-guarded.

Mr. SHEPPARD did not think either the resolution or the amendment supplied us with the machinery wherewith to put the present rule into effect ; they simply define the process to be pursued. He was of opinion that a constituency should be chosen in times of peace, and that the Parliamentary Agent should nurse that constituency, and then contest the seat at the first favourable opportunity. If there happened to be a bye-election they would have to take a vote of the country as to whether that constituency should be contested or no, and most probably by the time the voting was completed it would be too late to contest that seat, and they would have to wait another five or six years. He thought it would be best for the Conference to select a constituency to be "nursed" until the first favourable opportunity presented itself.

Mr. WATSON said as to finding a constituency and "nursing" it, the Council had not been able to do so, simply because there was nothing in the Rules to say it should be done.

It was moved, seconded, and carried, that the question be put.

Mr. PAGE, in his reply, said as to Mr. Inskip's assertion that the London Delegates insulted the Council, he would only refer the members of the Conference to the Monthly Reports for the purpose of seeing whether the Council had not insulted Londoners. It had been said that Mr. Inskip's retirement was done in an honourable manner. He had not said it was not, but he noticed Mr. Inskip would accept the ultimate nationalisation of the means of production, etc., so that ultimately he was in favour of "confiscation." He concluded by saying he knew the Council were against London.

The PRESIDENT said he personally would do anything he could for London, and he knew other members of the Council would do the same. It was not fair to make these repeated charges against the Council.

Mr. Votier's amendment was then put, 36 voting for, and 4 against.

For Mr. Page's resolution, 9 ; against, 38.

The second portion of London's proposition was then dealt with.

The PRESIDENT said it had been asserted on the Council that it could not be carried into effect, and that if they, in their wisdom, liked to pass it, it would not pass the Registrar.

Mr. GREEN formally moved the resolution.

Mr. INSKIP said the paragraph proposed to be inserted in the rules was illegal. It would be possible for a representative to get into Parliament, and then do something for himself, and even depart from the Union's programme; but he could still continue to represent that constituency. All they could do would be to stop the money he received from the Union. It was the constituency who elected him—not the Union, and only the constituency could call upon him to resign. The resolution would not pass any registrar.

Mr. SMITH quoted Rule 14, paragraph 7, which he thought exactly met the case.

Mr. CORT was also of that opinion. He moved that they proceed to the next business.

This was carried by 31 to 7.

Mr. MORRICE moved—

“That the whole of paragraph 5, of Rule 10, be deleted, and the paragraph passed at the Stafford Conference be inserted.”

He understood that the paragraph passed at the Stafford Conference was to the effect that the Parliamentary agent should run independent of either political party.

Mr. SMITH said it was with the view of the Parliamentary agent running on strictly independent lines that this motion was brought forward.

Mr. PAGE seconded.

It was agreed to pass on to the next business.

London Metro. had given notice to strike out the whole of paragraph 6, of Rule 10, but as a result of the voting on London's suggested alteration to paragraph 7, of Rule 5, this fell to the ground.

Rule 11.

The Council Attendances.

Paragraph 5.—Manchester asked the reason why this paragraph has not been in operation?

Mr. INSKIP explained that it was an oversight, but they would see in the reports they had before them that the whole attendances for the past four years were inserted, to show that there was nothing to hide from the members.

This explanation was accepted.

The Levy Question.

Mr. DUNCAN moved paragraph 9, to insert in line 4 the words “per week” after the words “per member.”

Mr. CURLEY seconded.

Mr. FREAK moved that we proceed to the next business.—This was lost.

Mr. CORT moved to amend the resolution as follows:—

“The Council shall have power in all cases of emergency, when the Trade or Sick Funds of the Union is reduced to less than £7,000, to call a special levy throughout the Union, such levy not to exceed 1s. per member per week until the above sum is reached, pending a vote of the Union upon any further levy.”

Mr. DUNCAN accepted this.

Mr. FREAK asked how many weeks this would be put on the members?

Mr. INSKIP: Until the vote of the Union had been taken to say what the levy was to be.

Mr. RICHARDS said the Council could only put the 1s. levy on until the fund had reached £7,000, if the amendment was carried.

Mr. GREEN said he was instructed to oppose all questions suggesting a levy by the London members (nothing afresh), and he was of opinion that it would be bad for the Union if the levy was put on again, as he knew a number of their members would not pay a levy.

Mr. FREAK said if this was passed the Council could put the levy on until the funds had reached £100,000 as required by the Council.

Mr. WOOLLEY thought Leicester would agree to strike out the word “further,” and insert the word “continuous,” if that would suit the London delegates. The reason they wanted this alteration was to prevent the Council from putting on more than one shilling per week as a levy until the funds reached £7000.

Mr. FREAK: Do we understand then that the levy will be taken off as soon as the £7000 is reached?

Mr. INSKIP said the Council would stop the levy when the funds reached £7000, unless the Union voted otherwise.

Mr. PAGE stated that hundreds of members had been lost because of the levy having been imposed upon them; they were joining the Old Amalgamated Society.

Mr. ALLEN supported the resolution, and said he thought Leicester members should have every credit for the way in which they paid their levies ; also the collectors for the manner in which they collected the same.

Mr. JAMES thought if the Council had stated the amount of levy they were going to put on the members they would have paid better, as members would not pay for that sole reason. He was sorry they did not carry the Bristol resolution at the Stafford Conference; had they have done, they would have given the members plenty of time whilst trade was better than it was at the present time, and would also have had a central fund of £100,000, which would have enabled the Union to have beaten the Federation.

The PRESIDENT thought there was a misunderstanding amongst the delegates re the levy. If the one shilling per week levy was put on, the Council could only keep it on until the £7000 was reached, but they would have to ask the vote of the Union for any further levy.

Mr. POULTON said the rules plainly stated "until the £7000 was reached."

Mr. GOLDSBOROUGH also supported the resolution.

The resolution was then put, and 46 voted for the amended resolution, and one against : it was, therefore, carried.

The Power of Branches to Withdraw.

Mr. FREAK proposed—

Paragraph 12, line 5, to strike out the words "or any other cause," and insert after the paragraph, "a branch shall have power to withdraw from the Union by a vote of a majority of all its members at a meeting properly warned for that purpose, after paying all dues and demands to the Union, and shall receive from the central funds their fair share of the monies of the Union in accordance with the numbers of their financial members at the time of the secession. The Conference likewise shall have power to expel a branch, the above conditions being complied with."

In doing so, he said the London members had no intention of seceding from the Union, even though they had strong suggestions from different members of the Executive of the Union to do so, and run on their own, just because the London members did not agree with some of the Council's dealings and ruling in various methods affecting London. Therefore, London members were of opinion that if a branch not agreeing with the Executive on different questions should have the right to withdraw from the Union, and they should also have their fair share of the funds they had helped to build up, and, on the other hand, the Conference, if they thought that they could best do without any branch, should also have the same power.

Mr. O'GRADY seconded the resolution. He had no idea himself of seceding from the National Union, although it had been repeatedly thrown in the teeth of the London men that if they did not like certain things the best thing they could do was to clear out. He had always advised that London did not intend to clear out. He maintained that there was credit due to London for many of the things that were theirs to-day.

Mr. ADAMS asked if it was a fact that members of the Council had told the London men the best thing they could do was to clear out ?

The PRESIDENT thought two of their friends had gone out of their way to make somewhat heated insinuations.

Mr. GREEN supported, and without any humbug about it. He believed in stating there what was being openly expressed in London. The fact of the matter was, Londoners had had enough of the continual threats which had been meted out to them by the Council, and if these threats were not discontinued he had no hesitation in saying that the London men would take that step. The feeling in London had been very bitter, and it did no good to stand there and try to gloss the matter over. Mr. Moore had made remarks which, to say the least, were very irritating to the feelings of the London members, when they had done their best, and all the Council members had said the same, perhaps not in exactly the same words, but at least in the same spirit. Ever since he had been a member of the Union he had worked as hard as anyone in its interests, and he intended to do so, but he, for one, was not going to sit down under this continual threatening.

Mr. MOORE admitted that he had made some strong remarks respecting this matter, but he said the action of the London men had justified anything that might have been said. He instanced a meeting called in London for the purpose of giving the Council an opportunity of explaining their position, which was the first time the majority of the Council had been to London, and they were howled down, cat-called, etc., and could not get a hearing, and the meeting broke up in the utmost confusion. He strongly condemned the action of the London men with regard to the levy. In Leicester they had paid £3,500 without a murmur, whereas London still owed something like £200 on that account, very nearly as much as Kingswood. His advice to London was to pay their debts.

Mr. DUNCAN could not support the resolution, because he believed in unity.

Mr. POULTON was surprised to hear an old trades unionist, such as Mr. Freak, support a sectional trades union. Mr. Freak said he objected to so much power getting into the Council's hands, but Mr. O'Grady said London was entitled to credit for some of the things obtained by the Union. Seeing that these things had been obtained, how then could they charge the Council with bad management on their part? It was a retrograde movement, and calculated to still further weaken their position, which was bad enough already. He hoped the London delegates would see their way clear to withdraw the resolution.

Mr. CURLEY said he remembered that (some eight years ago at Norwich) they had several questions emanating from Leicester, and he was pleased to say that some of them were passed, and the Union had felt the benefit of them; but the London representatives then complained that they were having too much of Leicester. He was beginning to think they were having too much of London. He did not believe in humbug, but this resolution was the biggest piece of humbug that could be brought before a body of sensible men.

Mr. STANTON was surprised to hear the London men complain of the Council using threats towards them; the boot was on the other leg. As soon as they could not have their own way in all things, there came from them votes of censure on the Council. Referring to the meeting called in London for the Council to explain their position, when they were howled down and refused a hearing, could they wonder that there was some amount of feeling shown, and some strong words used, after such treatment. Unless Londoners were prepared to act loyally to the principles of the Union, and stand by the Executive, they were not worthy of being members of a great Union. (Hear, hear.) The London men had tried to intimidate the Council into granting them benefits, which they, in other branches could not get.

Mr. PAGE said the reports issued by the Council just after the settlement of the lock-out, and at other times, had aggravated the position. He quoted the portions of the Council's address which referred to London in the June and July 1895 reports. He referred to a meeting when they had a so-called explanation of the Terms of Settlement.

Mr. VOTIER: Will Mr. Page explain what he means by so-called explanation?

Mr. PAGE, continuing, said he did ask Mr. Votier for some explanation, but Mr. Votier's reply was that he was at the meeting as a member of the branch, and not as a Council member.

Mr. INSKIP said when he saw that proposed paragraph, he thought it had been sent in in something like the manner that a number of the votes of censure had been sent, and he had been told of the latter to just put them into the waste paper basket, and take no notice of them, as that would be the best thing to do with them. It was an insult to the delegates and their intelligence to ask them to vote for that resolution. Mr. Green admits their intentions are, if possible, to secede from the Union.

Mr. GREEN: No, no.

Mr. INSKIP: I distinctly heard it, and it will be in the report. He also heard Messrs. Freak and O'Grady deny their intention of seceding from the Union. What did the resolution mean? That no Council member should be allowed to go in their own office, for the branch offices were the Union offices, paid for out of the Union funds; and they asked them to vote for that. In the case of Mr. Green, he was not surprised at his action. He never wanted to join them, because he lost his position as General Secretary, and he had never forgiven them for it.

The PRESIDENT hoped these personalities would not be continued.

Mr. INSKIP: There had been no man done more for the purpose of getting London into line than he had. He thought the London men would admit that. Complaints had been made at the tone of some of his letters. What he had done was, when they asked for more benefits, he had written and told them they would not be allowed. They wanted more for their members than what the rules provide, and which the contributions they paid did not allow. (Hear, hear.) He said, advisedly, that had the officials of London done the same as had been done in other branches, and advised the members to pay the levy, they would have heard very little of that matter to-day. They deliberately advised the men not to pay the levy. He went up, at the request of the Council, and asked for the books, and he found instances upon instances where they were paying men, who owed 7s., sick pay. (Shame.) Could they wonder at the Council being against them in some of the things they had done. He would do anything he could to have this friction stopped. It had been worse the last two years than ever it had been. They said when the Council did wrong they should certainly tell them of it, and most certainly when London did wrong the Council would continue to tell them of it (applause), and when they could not do that they had no right to continue in that position. (Hear, hear.) They had had far more bother with London since the clickers joined them. Only that week he had sent £80 away over a dispute of the London No. 2 branch, for action they had taken at the instigation of that branch. They had had more trouble with that branch than with the biggest branch in the Union. Ever since they had been members the Council had done nothing right to their way of thinking. They had the alternative in their own hands. If they (the Council) did not suit them, let them appoint someone who did. That would be the best way, and perhaps the kindest thing they ever did to some of them, at least. As to the debt owing by London, the Council did not think it fair that they should keep that money there, getting the interest on it, which ought to go into the central fund; whilst Leicester, Northampton, Kettering, etc., cleared up their accounts with the Council every month. In conclusion, if London would only abide by the rules, and carry them out, there was no reason why they should not work peacefully together: he had no personal animosity; he had never exhibited any at London; he had always taken up the position he did that day; he advised the rule; he insisted upon the rule; he disallowed anything contrary to rule. If they were prepared to do that, the Council were prepared to help them in every possible way; but they asked in this that the branch shall have the power to secede when they liked, but the Council were not to have the power of expelling them when they liked. If this was passed—which he had not the least doubt it would not be, and that it would be treated in the same manner as other resolutions emanating from London—the Council would be absolutely at the mercy of the branch, and when that time arrived they would cease to exist as a Union.

The debate was then adjourned, and the Conference rose until 9-30 Wednesday morning.

THIRD DAY (Wednesday).

The Conference was resumed at 9-40 on Wednesday morning, the President in the chair. The roll was called by the General Secretary, every delegate answering to his name.

The CONFERENCE SECRETARY read the minutes of the previous day's proceedings, and after a slight correction on the suggestion of Mr. VOTIER, Mr. HAMMOND moved, and Mr. ADAMS seconded their adoption.—Carried.

The discussion was resumed on the London proposal in reference to paragraph 12, of Rule 11.

Mr. ADAMS was sorry so much time had been taken up by the discussion on that question. He did not think the proposal emanated from the London delegates, but rather from what they called the new Trade Unionists—(hear, hear)—who opposed Trade Unionism as they understood it, and did all they could to hinder their progress. He hoped their London friends would see their way clear to withdraw the resolution. He took it they were there to try and, if possible, get better conditions for their members, but he thought that resolution would tend in exactly the opposite direction. The Terms of Settlement perhaps were not all they wanted, but their representatives at the Board of Trade did the best they possibly could do under the circumstances. No place suffered more than Northampton as a result of that Settlement in having its liberty taken away, but that was all past, and it did no good to discuss it then. London might have its grievances too, but they must not think they were going to force the hands of the Conference. He should like to know what steps had been taken in reference to London paying benefits to members who owed 7s., who, of course, had no right to those benefits.

Mr. SWEENEY also asked, as a member of the Union, whether it was true that that benefit had been paid to the London members who owed 7s.; also how many members had received the benefit, and what action the Council had taken in reference to the matter?

Mr. INSKIP said when examining their books he took just sufficient cases for his purpose, and he found 20 that owed 7s. who had been paid benefits, but it was only just to Mr. O'Grady in explanation to say that they passed a resolution to the effect that they would only pay 1s. levy instead of 4s. He never found a solitary instance of Mr. O'Grady paying benefits to a man who owed above 4s. legitimate contributions, but with the 3s. owing on the levy, and which should have been put to the members debts, it made 7s. The Council ordered this to be stopped, and after that no more illegitimate benefits were paid, and under the circumstances the Council took no further action.

Mr. ADAMS claimed that the rule had been broken by the London branch. They in Northampton added the levy to the member's debt, and did not pay anyone who owed more than 4s., including contributions and levies.

Mr. SWEENEY held that London was wrong. If they would act more in accord with the principles of Trade Unionism they would not be in the position they were that day. It was most unfair to other branches to hear of benefits being paid to men who owed 7s. to the Union, and the other branches had a right to be protected.

Mr. FREAK rose to a point of order. Were they discussing the levy?

The PRESIDENT thought there was scarcely any necessity to bring up the question of the levy at any length.

Mr. SWEENEY: I think the best way is to move that we proceed to the next business. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. ADAMS seconded.

Mr. FREAK said it was not common decency to boycott a question in that manner.

The next business was carried by 28 votes to 11.

Mr. LAMBSON protested against the closure being applied before he had had an opportunity of explaining the opinions of the members of his branch.

London Metro. No. 2 had given notice to delete the whole of paragraph 12, Rule 11.

Mr. GREEN said after the ruling of the Chairman, and the courtesy shown towards London by the delegates, he would withdraw the proposal.

Boy Members.

Higham and Rushden had given notice to add, on paragraph 1, Rule 13, "That boys under the age of 16 shall be all allowed to join upon the same terms as female members, and receive the same benefits."

Mr. BRAILSFORD said this resolution emanated from the Rushden branch, which was in the district he and his colleague represented. So far as they in Nottingham were concerned they did not know whether it would be wise to pass the resolution. He would like an expression of opinion from some of the larger branches on the matter.

Mr. HUDSON seconded. There were a large number of boys working at the trade who did not belong to the Union at present, and he thought if they could join on the same conditions as females, viz., 3d. per week, it would be of much assistance to them, until they reached the age of 16, when he supposed they would pay 6d., as the resolution said under 16.

Mr. INSKIP was rather surprised that a member of the Leices'er branch should have seconded that resolution. It would be interesting to hear what some of the branch secretaries had to say. They had got scores of boys under 16 full financial members of the Union. They preferred to have full benefits, and were as clever as some of the men. What were they going to do with them. He thought the proposal was impracticable, and hoped it would not be pressed.

Mr. POULTON supported the direct negative to the proposal. He would like to know if when the boys start in the trade they have got to serve a four years' apprenticeship. Further, he should also like to know why the apprenticeship system was struck out of their rules.

Mr. BURDEN said in England the trade was apparently flooded with boys, whilst in Scotland they were doing their utmost to keep the number of boys entering the trade as low as possible. They had no system of controlling the boy question in England. He thought it was unfair.

The PRESIDENT said the Council had endeavoured, as far as they possibly could, to restrict the number of boys entering the trade.

Mr. SWEENEY said the boy question was a troublesome one to them in Leeds. He mentioned a case, where a man working in connection with machinery, had two boys.

The PRESIDENT: Do I understand that the men working on day wages are allowed to have two boys each?

Mr. SWEENEY: Yes.

The PRESIDENT: I want to understand. Are they paid weekly?

Mr. SWEENEY: Yes; and the boys are not apprenticed.

The PRESIDENT said that was illegal. The rule is one boy to three men, so that if there were 15 men there would be five boys allowed.

Mr. INSKIP said they had a system in Leeds which it would be well they should keep to.

Mr. JAMES referred to a case where the boys worked in teams.

Mr. SHEPPARD: They are apprenticed.

Mr. PRICKETT mentioned that on a firm in Daventry two men and 18 boys were employed, and the boys were taking the work from the men who paid into the Union, but were walking the streets having nothing to do.

Mr. INSKIP: How many men are there working in the firm. If it is Stead and Simpson's that you are referring to we will at once give them notice to bring them into line.

Mr. MORETON said they should endeavour to get boys to join the Union as early as they could. He had paid dispute pay to boys who were very little over that age.

Mr. RICHARDS was not surprised that the matter had been brought forward, but their experiences in Leicester were that they got the boys to join as easily before that age as after. They had a number of boys under that age who had received sick pay, dispute, and compensation. He was sure they would grumble if they were only allowed to receive half benefits, although they would only have to pay half contributions. He must say these boys were for the most part a credit to the Union. They had had a dispute, and had to withdraw the workpeople, and everyone was under 16 years of age, but they were all entitled to benefit. It was a nursery shop.

Mr. CORT would like to say that the boys were not on the employer's time, which placed them in exactly the same position as men. In a great many cases they could not get the men to make this nursery work.

Mr. LOWE said he understood that Lord James' award applied to both day-workers and piece-workers, to prevent the number of boys going into the trade.

The proposition was then put, and lost by 27 to 4.

The Position of Foremen.

Mr. GREEN had great pleasure in moving that the whole of paragraph 14, of Rule 13, be deleted. He was instructed to bring this matter forward, because they thought it was nothing but a farce to reduce a man's contribution because he took up a position as foreman, as he went into a better position as a rule, and could better than ever afford to pay the full contributions. They should sooner increase the contribution. He also contended that some of these foremen were the worst enemies they had to contend with. The General Secretary had also told them repeatedly that sick members were a loss to the Union.

Mr. HAMMOND seconded.

Mr. BUSH did not think it would be wise to lessen the number of members on principle. (Hear, hear.) He recognised the fact that the sick fund did not pay, and he begged to move, as an amendment, "That those leaving the trade fund and going on the sick shall pay 4d. per week instead of 3d. as formally, 3d. to go to the Union sick fund, and 1d. to remain with the branch."

Mr. ALLEN seconded the amendment.

Mr. INSKIP admitted the force of Mr. Green's remarks as to some of those who had left them being the worst parties they had to deal with. (Hear, hear.) On the other hand, there were some who left them who were very anxious to keep up their connection with the Union, so that in the event of them being discharged they could rejoin, and still be entitled to benefits. In the case of those who turned out tyrants, it was better that they should keep them within their ranks, so that they should have some little control over them. He was bound to say they had had but little loss over the sick members. Then there were the old and well-tried servants of the Union who had now left them, but who still desired to be connected with the Union. Were they going to deny them the opportunity of being still in connection with them to that extent? If the resolution was passed it would mean a serious diminution of their numbers. They wanted to get a better hold of everyone in the trade, employers included. He trusted that, with this explanation, Mr. Green would see his way clear to withdraw the resolution. He could quite understand the view which had prompted them to bring it forward.

Mr. POULTON opposed the resolution. It would be much better to have those men with them than against them. He asked whether it was not a fact that at the Stafford Conference the London delegates did not support a motion in favour of allowing foremen to remain in the Union.

The PRESIDENT said he believed that was so.

Mr. WOOLLEY said he should oppose both resolution and amendment. There were a good many old and respected members of the Union who still paid to the sick fund for the purpose of keeping up their connection with the Union, and there were also a number of members who took the position of foremen who remained loyal to them. He questioned whether they could legally expel these sick members.

The PRESIDENT: Certainly we could.

Mr. WHITBY opposed the resolution. He had had some experience of being a foreman, and if he had severed his connection with the Union he could not have rejoined on going back to the bench, which would be unfair.

Mr. MASON also opposed. He could understand the argument that some of these men turned out their worst enemies, but a number of them remained true, and he would be sorry to see them entirely struck off. As to the argument that if they could not trust them in the meeting, they could not trust them in other places; he thought they should trust them inside.

Mr. MOORE supported the resolution. He did not believe the rule when first drafted was intended to apply to the men who took up position as foremen.

Mr. WARD opposed. He had one or two members who had been foremen for four years, and who paid the full contribution.

Mr. CART also opposed. They had a number of foremen cease work with the men at the time of the lock-out, and who did not go back. He pointed out the injustice it would have been to those men had they not have been allowed to rejoin the Union.

Mr. GREEN, replying on the discussion, did not think they had much control over these men, they were at the beck and call of the employers, or they would not have the positions. They could not serve two masters.

Mr. GOLDSBOROUGH asked whether the resolution was retrospective or not.

Mr. GREEN replied in the negative.

A resolution that the Conference proceed to the next business was carried by a large majority.

Mr. FREAK rose to a point of order. Was not a resolution to proceed to the next business after the mover of a resolution had replied out of order?

The PRESIDENT said he certainly had no right to refuse to accept a motion to proceed to the next business.

Mr. FREAK said they did not want to be made a laughing stock of, the proper course would have been to have put the resolution to the vote.

Mr. MASON moved—

Paragraph 14, line 7, after the word "secretary" insert "providing that in case of a manufacturer conducting his business on fair lines, and conforming to the conditions laid down by the Union or Arbitration Board existing in the town, or, in case of a foreman or manager, he does not engage himself or assist his employer in reducing wages, or in any other way working against the interest of the Union."

A number of these men did just what the employers dictated to them to do, and he thought the rule should be so that they could pull up these men when they became defaulters, the same as they did other members. He admitted there were a number of honourable exceptions, who were well worthy of being members of the Union. It seemed to him inconsistent that if they could not trust them in their meetings that they should trust them in any other way.

Mr. INSKIP said the matter was met by Rule 32, which stated "any person accommodating an employer, or in any other way working against the interests of the Union, shall, on being found guilty, cease to be entitled to any of the benefits of the Union, pending payment of such fines as may be imposed, etc." The course to pursue was to bring the defaulting member before the branch, and fine them in accordance with that rule, and expel them if it was repeated. In fact, he questioned whether the proposal was in order. If they passed it, however much these men worked against the interests of the Union, they could not do anything with them.

The PRESIDENT said Rule 32 covered the matter fully.

Mr. INSKIP suggested that the words "Such fine to apply to both trade and sick members" be added to Rule 32.

Mr. MASON accepted that suggestion, and withdrew his resolution.—Agreed.

The Expenses of Arbitration Boards.

Mr. JAMES moved that a new paragraph be added to Rule 15, as follows:—

"All expenses incurred on the workmen's side of the Arbitration Board be borne by the Union funds."

He said they were continually being told that Arbitration Boards were the saviours of the Union funds, and that being so they considered the expenses incurred by those Boards should be a Union liability. It was an expenditure forced upon the branches, and for which the Union ought to be responsible.

Mr. SWEENEY, in seconding, said the work of the Arbitration Boards which was now done by the officials of the various branches would otherwise have to be done by the Executive.

Mr. WHITBY opposed the resolution. He thought the branches got as much benefit as the Union from the system of Arbitration, and should be willing to pay a fair share. The Union paid for all loss of time, deputations, etc., which he thought was sufficient.

Mr. SMITH contended that the Union already paid a fairly good proportion of the expenses of Arbitration Boards. It paid for all loss of time and costs of appeal to umpire. The local branches had gained considerable benefit by the establishment of these Boards, financially and otherwise. He did not think they had much to complain of.

Mr. POULTON asked Mr. James whether he meant that permanent officials should be paid out of the central fund?

Mr. JAMES answered that if the officials were engaged after office hours he certainly thought they should be paid for the time they were so engaged. It was nothing but right. If the meeting took place during office hours it would place a different complexion on it altogether.

Mr. WOOLLEY said he hoped the Council did not take up the position as stated by Mr. James. They had most of their meetings in the day time, and he always charged the officials' time to the Council, and it had always been allowed. (Laughter.) Of course the officials were not paid twice, but the amount received from the Council was credited to their branch funds.

Mr. INSKIP: I will see into that.

Mr. WOOLLEY said he was told that that was the proper course to pursue.

Mr. INSKIP: No, no.

Mr. WOOLLEY supported the resolution. He thought it nothing but right that the Union should pay all expenses incurred by the Board.

Mr. INSKIP: Does Mr. Woolley charge for my time, as I am a member of that Board?

Mr. WOOLLEY: Most decidedly. (Laughter.)

Mr. INSKIP: I have never received a penny for it, and I was not aware of its being charged.

Mr. PAGE, while supporting the proposal, roundly condemned the whole system of arbitration. Since arbitration had been established they had spent as much as £56,000 in six weeks. It was arbitration which had cost London so much, and had provoked such an amount of dissatisfaction.

Mr. POULTON opposed the resolution, because he believed in maintaining some local independence. For their part they paid nothing for rent of room, as they meet at the offices of the Employers' Association, and they would not consent to pay any, for they would sooner invite the manufacturers to sit at their own offices. Branches had received a great amount of benefit from the Arbitration Boards, and should be willing to pay their quota of the expenses incurred.

Mr. SHEPPARD supported the resolution. He considered the payment of these expenses was a heavy burden upon the smaller branches. In Bristol they paid the secretary of the Board £20 per year. £10 was paid by the workmen, and £10 by the employers. The 2d. per week kept from the members' contribution for branch management did not cover all these expenses.

Mr. LEEDHAM was strongly of opinion that the Union should pay all expenses of arbitration, seeing that they were responsible for the introduction of the system.

Mr. VOTER considered that branches might continue to pay their small quota of expenses, as at present. There ought, however, to be a clear understanding as to the payment of permanent officials whilst on Arbitration Board work. He thought those officials should be paid for their time if they were engaged outside their usual hours.

The PRESIDENT said he had been engaged many hours on Arbitration Board work outside his usual hours, and had never been paid a penny for it.

Mr. FREAK considered that if permanent officials had to attend the Board meetings after office hours they should be paid for overtime, just as men who were working overtime in a shop.

Mr. SWEENEY said, as a permanent official of the Leeds branch, he had spent a great amount of time on the business of the Arbitration Board after the usual office hours, but he had never received any pay for the same from the Union.

Mr. ADAMS said, as a permanent official at Northampton, he never had any time. He had never received any pay for his work on the Arbitration Board.

The PRESIDENT said it was not a question as to whether permanent officials were to be paid. It was whether the branches should pay any share of the expenses.

Mr. INSKIP said Mr. Woolley's statement had come upon him by surprise. He had not the slightest idea that the Union was being charged for the time of the Leicester officials on Arbitration Board work, and that the amounts were credited to the branch funds. Had proper details have been sent in it would have been examined and crossed off. The expenses of the Leicester Arbitration Board were very small. He wanted to do for one branch the same as he did for the other, to divide the expenses incurred between the Union and the branches. The Union should pay for all time lost of a reasonable character, but not for permanent officials' time when the work was done during office hours. With respect to the £20 paid to the secretary of the Board at Bristol. It was too much for the work he had to perform, and it was a good thing he had not got him (Mr. Inskip) to deal with. He was told that sometimes they did not have above three or four meetings a year. He got something over £1 is. a meeting, whilst their men got 3s. 6d.

A DELEGATE: He is not scabbing it.

Mr. INSKIP, continuing, said he was the secretary of the Manufacturers' Association by the bye. ("Oh!") The responsibilities on the central fund had increased enormously, owing to the combination amongst the employers and other causes, and their prospective liabilities had increased a hundredfold. They had better decrease the amount paid into the branches and put more into the central fund, than put another burden on to that fund, because that would be the most successful way of getting the best of the Federation. It might seem a small matter to the delegates, but he calculated it would come to something like £200 per year extra if the whole of the expenses were paid by the Union. The Union already paid the lion's share of the expenses, and he strongly urged them not to ask more from the central fund.

Mr. CORT moved, as an amendment—

"That all expenses incurred at the meetings of the various Arbitration Boards for time actually lost, together with unipires', referees', and witnesses' expenses, only be borne by the Union."

Considering the prospective liabilities, which are serious, he thought the branches might continue paying their share. This would place all branches on an equal footing.

Mr. REYNOLDS seconded the amendment. That was exactly what they had been doing in his branch.

Mr. GREEN said that as a permanent official he always took his 3s. 6d. for a Board meeting. He believed every permanent official should be paid for extra services rendered.

Mr. BUTLER supported the amendment.

Mr. RICHARDS supported the resolution. He did not think the remarks of Mr. Green would apply. It was a branch matter. He presumed that if the resolution was carried other branches would do the same as Leicester had been doing. Charge the Council, and pay it into the branch funds.

Mr. CURLEY supported the resolution. He believed in having funds, but it did not matter to him whether it was central or branch funds. It was all one central fund belonging to the Union. He said that if called out by Mr. Woolley to do branch work he would receive 7s. 6d. for the day, but on Union business, including Arbitration Board, he would only receive 7s. He would, therefore, be scabbing it to the amount of 3d. the half day. He strongly objected to the statement of Mr. Page that £56,000 had been spent under a system of arbitration. It was because they were not working under a system of arbitration at that time that this money was spent. If arbitration had been in force then the money would not have been spent.

Mr. BURDEN supported the resolution.

Mr. JAMES, replying on the discussion, said Mr. Inskip insisted upon them not taking more money from the central fund. His experience was that it was all one central fund, whether in the hands of branches or not. Bristol had not received the benefit from arbitration which was claimed for it. He did not think there was any unfairness in the resolution.

Mr. Cort's amendment was then put, and lost by 25 to 23.

For the resolution 23, against 24.

Mr. JAMES challenged the vote on the resolution.

Upon a re-count it was found that 26 voted against the resolution.

Mr. FREAK asked what was the position as a result of the voting.

The PRESIDENT said the position would remain exactly as it was. The Council would continue to pay their share as hitherto.

Detailing the Dispute Pay.

Mr. O'GRADY (London) moved—

Paragraph 5, Rule 16, to add, “and a detailed account, giving names of shops and members receiving dispute pay, which shall be published in the next Half-yearly Report after such disputes.”

He did so because it would be a check on investigators, in the same manner as the detailed account of the sick pay was a check on the branch secretaries. He could tell the delegates that the London members were very sore at the smallness of the details in regard to the lock-out, and contended that if the Council could not give the names of the members, the least they could have done would have been to put the amount each shop cost instead of simply putting the branch so much. He (Mr. O'Grady) knew it would be a big job, but contended that it would pay for the extra trouble, and would be the best way of dealing with the same. They had a case some time back were two shops were put down to one, and when the members saw the same, they naturally wanted an explanation; so we asked Mr. Inskip for an explanation, and he said that it was through Mr. Votier having several shops to attend to at the same time, the amount, instead of being put down separately, was put down to the one shop.

Mr. ADAMS seconded the resolution.

Mr. INSKIP said it was only natural that this resolution should have come from London, but he must ask them who is going to allow me to incur this extra expense; if this had been done in the lock-out it would have meant that over 30,000 names would have to be printed, which would have made as large a book as the Annual Registry, and he did not suppose the members would be willing to pay for all this extra expense. With regard to the case mentioned by Mr. O'Grady, when Mr. Votier settled up, it was all put down to the one shop, instead of being detailed. When I received the communication from Mr. O'Grady, I sent the sheets to Mr. Votier, for him to show the members who were dissatisfied.

Mr. O'GRADY: That did not satisfy the members then.

The PRESIDENT: Is it a fact that the members were dissatisfied with the explanations given?

Mr. INSKIP said if the members had liked they could have asked Mr. G. Green for any explanation, as he did most of the sheets up.

Mr. VOTIER stated that he had three shops to investigate when this matter occurred, and when he settled up with Mr. Inskip he put so much to each shop. When the members saw it they asked for an explanation, which he gave them, telling them the amount of the three shops must have been put down to the one; so when he attended the next Council meeting he mentioned the matter to the General Secretary, and he gave me permission to take the sheets down and personally explain the same to the men, which he did, and the men expressed themselves satisfied with the explanation.

Mr. INSKIP: I should like to ask Mr. O'Grady whether he has estimated the cost of the extra work he wishes to impose. We have worked it out, and it would cost close on eighteenpence per copy, and I say we are not justified in making this extra expense, and I, therefore, on behalf of the Council, oppose the resolution.

Mr. PAGE supported the resolution, and stated that he, for one, was dissatisfied with the meagre way in which the lock-out expenditure was dealt with by the Council in the Half-yearly Report, and he did not think this resolution would incur any great extra expense, but the Council should pay for the same, as it would be the means for the members to check their secretaries and investigators.

Mr. O'GRADY replying, said it could be done in just the same manner as the sick pay was done. He did not think it would make the reports cost 1s. 6d. each as stated by Mr. Inskip, but if they did cost any extra he did not suppose the members would pay for the same, as they could read all the important parts in the Record before the members had the Reports.

Mr. INSKIP: That is not true, because no Reports leave the office until the last Friday in the month, when they are sent to the branches, and the Record is out on Thursday night, so a week has to elapse before the report can appear in the Record.

Mr. O'GRADY said, in conclusion, that he hoped the delegates would support the resolution, so that every member of the Union could see what was being paid in dispute pay, and whom to.

The question was then put, and 7 voted for the resolution, and 31 against, therefore it was lost.

The Conference then adjourned for dinner.

On the resumption at Two o'clock all the delegates answered to their names when the roll was called.

Mr. GREEN moved, as a new paragraph—

“Should a strike or lock-out take place affecting a branch or branches, the Terms of Settlement shall be voted upon by ballot, by members affected, before acceptance.”

He said it must be patent after the dissatisfaction that existed over the Terms of Settlement in the last lock-out, that something of this kind was wanted, so that the members should take upon selves the responsibility of a settlement instead of putting it all on the shoulders of eight men. Most of the large Unions did it, so he trusted that ours would.

Mr. SWEENEY seconded the proposition, believing it would be better for all concerned, as it gave the members a chance before the Terms of Settlement were signed of disagreeing with them, instead of after the same were signed. Although he was of opinion that the Council at the time of the lock-out done their very best to obtain a good settlement. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. BURDEN moved, as an amendment—

“That should a general lock-out or strike be declared the Council shall have full power to settle the same.”

Mr. DOBBIN seconded the amendment.

The PRESIDENT, however, ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. WOOLLEY did not understand by that resolution what it was their London friends required, and he thought it should be made more explicit. Did they mean if a shop was locked out, or came out on strike, the men should only consult themselves whether they accept the Terms of Settlement which had been arrived at by an investigator sent by the Council, and should have the power to refuse the terms if they liked?

Mr. VOTIER had no doubt but that those responsible for framing this resolution wanted the vote of the Union. If another lock-out occurred before the Terms of Settlement were signed.

Mr. GREEN: The resolution is perfectly plain. If a shop is affected the branch where that shop is in shall accept, or otherwise, the Terms of Settlement.

Mr. INSKIP said that this resolution abrogated all existing rules. It simply meant that the men working in a shop could decide whether it was a legal dispute or not, and also that the Council should not have the slightest power to say that it was an illegal strike, and would be unable to withhold strike money.

Mr. GREEN: It is nothing of the sort. If a particular shop, say in London, was to strike, it meant that the London branch would have to take a vote before any settlement was arrived at, therefore I cannot see where we abrogate any existing rules.

Mr. INSKIP: It abrogates the right of the Council to step in and investigate the dispute. Mr. Green himself has written asking for full powers to withdraw men from any shop just when he likes and fancies they ought to be withdrawn. This was one of the things which has raised the umbrage of the London men with the Council, as the Council insist upon one of their members, or the district agent, investigating any dispute before the men are withdrawn.

Mr. VOTIER supported the resolution, as he believed in a democratic Union like theirs they should take the vote of the Union when a lock-out or strike occurs before the Terms of Settlement are signed, as is done in other large democratic Unions.

Mr. ALLEN moved, as an amendment—

“That should a general strike or lock-out take place the Terms of Settlement shall be voted upon by ballot by the whole of the Union.”

Mr. CORT seconded the amendment, and said that he considered the resolution coming from London was an undemocratic one, as he was of opinion that the Council should have full control over all disputes and lock-outs that occur throughout the Union.

Mr. FREAK hoped they would not have to deal with a general lock-out again as long as they lived, but there were likely to be smaller disputes affecting branches, and surely the branches ought to have a voice in the settlement of their own disputes. The amendment would not in any way meet the difficulty now aimed at. He agreed that in the late lock-out the men who represented the Union did their utmost to secure favourable terms, and he did not complain of the settlement, but to call it a golden settlement, or one that raised the position of the workmen, was in the highest degree absurd. In order to meet the objection of the Council he would suggest that the resolution should read: “Should a strike take place with the consent of the Council, or a lock-out, etc.” That would prevent any strike occurring before the dispute had been properly investigated, and the consent of the Council obtained. Every Union took the vote of the members before they closed a dispute, and they should do it in their case.

Mr. MASON did not see any objection to the resolution, especially if the words as suggested by Mr. Freak were inserted. In a number of instances men came out on dispute without knowing exactly what they came out for.

Mr. WOOLLEY was not quite clear upon this. Did he understand that a strike should be at the order of the Council?

Mr. FREAK: It simply means that if a strike does take place, which is not by the consent or order of the Council, the men shall take no vote upon it.

Mr. WOOLLEY saw no necessity for any such resolution, because existing rules would meet all requirements. (Hear, hear.) Something had been said about every proposal that London suggested being opposed. If delegates did oppose these resolutions it was not because they came from London, but because they all tended towards disunity. (Hear, hear.) He denied entirely that the members were not consulted before the Terms of Settlement in the last general lock-out were arrived at. A week before those terms were signed a meeting of the Leicester members was held, and by a unanimous vote they gave the Council absolute power to settle the dispute on the best terms they could get.

Mr. RICHARDS : Conditionally.

Mr. WOOLLEY : Unconditional power and authority was given to the Council to settle the dispute, and every member of the Leicester branch who held up his hand to give the Executive that power, was as much responsible for that settlement as their General Secretary. (Hear, hear.) It would be cowardly to throw the responsibility on the shoulders of their representatives there. (Hear, hear.) He hoped that whenever London was opposed by Leicester, or any other branch, they would give them credit for doing what they thought best for the Union generally. In the case of taking a vote of the Union there would have to be some delay between the Terms of Settlement being drawn up, and the vote of the Union taken, and all the time the money would be running away.

Mr. RICHARDS agreed that before any settlement was arrived at the matter should be relegated to the members of the Union. He desired to repudiate the statement made by Mr. Woolley in relation to the Leicester meeting, and he (Mr. Woolley) knew that what he was stating was incorrect.

The PRESIDENT asked Mr. Richards to withdraw those remarks.

Mr. WOOLLEY said he should insist upon that expression being withdrawn.

Mr. RICHARDS was willing to withdraw.

The PRESIDENT : I am not going to allow a man to speak who calls another man a liar in such unmistakable language unless the remark is withdrawn.

Mr. RICHARDS : Very well. If it is just a matter of sentiment I will withdraw.

The PRESIDENT : It is not a matter of sentiment. Will you withdraw the expression?

Mr. RICHARDS said he knew he did not have the same opportunity as other persons.

The PRESIDENT appealed to his sense of honour. Was it right?

Mr. RICHARDS : Very well, I will withdraw it. He (Mr. Richards) said that at the meeting referred to, he emphatically said that he did not want them to go away with that impression. He could produce a paper containing his speech, in which he stated that he would support the Executive conditionally, that they did not recede one iota from the position they had taken up during the lock-out, and that they would have arbitration pure and simple. He challenged anyone to prove that either of those conditions were carried out.

Mr. ADAMS rose to a point of order. Were they discussing the London resolution or the Leicester branch?

The PRESIDENT desired Mr. Richards to confine his remarks to the resolution before the chair.

Mr. RICHARDS claimed that whenever a settlement was about to be arrived at the members should have a voice as to whether they would accept those terms. Had the Terms of Settlement in the late lock-out been voted upon by the members he was sure they would have been rejected. Since the lock-out the minority in Leicester had turned into a majority. So long as he was a member of the Union he should always claim having a voice in the settlement of a dispute which affected him.

Mr. INSKIP, referring to the matter between Mr. Woolley and Mr. Richards, said that at the meeting a resolution was to the effect "That that meeting having heard the statements made pledges itself, Unionists and non-Unionists, to abide by the consequences, whatever they might be," and the resolution was carried unanimously. It was the meeting, not Mr. Richards. He (Mr. Richards) did not constitute the Leicester branch.

Mr. RICHARDS asked whether that resolution was passed previous to the Terms of Settlement being signed, and did the General Secretary construe that into a vote of confidence on the Terms of Settlement?

Mr. INSKIP : It is absurd, and I pass it by. He (Mr. Inskip) said there could only be one object in that resolution, and that was to take the power from the hands of the Executive, and put it into the hands of branches. He contended that the men were already consulted. No investigator ever withdrew the men on a shop without first consulting the men. In all his experience he had never once withdrawn men from a shop without he had first consulted them. If that was all they wanted, they had it at the present time. In the case of another general strike or lock-out they would adopt a similar course to the one adopted last time. He appealed to the Conference to get on with the business. Valuable time was being wasted, and at this rate the whole week would have gone by before the important questions upon which the Council desired to have the support of the Conference could be reached.

It was moved, seconded, and carried, that the question be now put.

Mr. GREEN said he had the right to reply,

The PRESIDENT ruled that the closure having been carried, Mr. Green was out of order.

Mr. FREAK asked whether the chairman had changed his system of ruling? The ruling of their chairman was different to any chairman he had ever sat under.

Mr. RICHARDS thought it would be better to decline to take any further part in the business.

The amendment was put and carried by 42 to nil.

For the resolution 5, against 36.

The amendment was therefore declared carried.

Mr. SWEENEY wanted to know their position with regard to the closure. He held that either before the closure is carried or afterwards, the mover of a resolution should have the right to reply.

A Protest from the Chairman.

The PRESIDENT said he was desirous of being absolutely impartial, but certain members of the Conference were endeavouring, to the best of their ability, to waste the time of the Conference, and if it continued he should have to ask them to put another chairman in his place. He desired that all things should be discussed fairly and reasonably, but certain members had spoken 10, 11, and 14 minutes, and have got up five or six times to ask questions. If the Conference would be kind enough to abide by his ruling he would see that the mover of a resolution should have a fair opportunity of replying.

Mr. PAGE very much regretted to hear the remarks of the chairman, and he moved, as a protest against the ruling of the chairman, "That the Conference be adjourned until the following (Thursday) morning."

Mr. O'GRADY seconded. He fully understood that the mover of a resolution should have the right to reply.

Mr. VOTIER rose to a point of order. Had it not been decided until what time they should sit?

The PRESIDENT ruled that the motion before the chair was in order.

The motion was rejected by 42 votes to 6.

Mr. FREAK asked whether the chairman gave them to understand that no person should have the right to reply?

The PRESIDENT said he did not. They had 98 items on the agenda, and up to the present time they had only reached the 23rd.

Northampton No. 3 had given notice to add to paragraph 1, Rule 17, the following:—

"In case of a general lock-out or strike, a vote to be taken by ballot of all financial members as to what amount per week they shall receive during the time such dispute shall last."

Mr. POULTON said they had no knowledge of this matter. It emanated from the No. 3 branch, and as they had not communicated in any way with the delegates respecting it they knew nothing of it.

The next business was proceeded with.

The Reduction of Strike Pay.

Mr. PAGE, on behalf of London Metro., moved that the following new paragraph be added to Rule 17:—

"That under no circumstance shall the Council have power to reduce a member's benefit while there is any money in the Union to pay it; the Biennial Conference only having power to alter the benefits."

He hoped that, at last, London had passed a resolution that would receive the support of the Conference. It seemed to him that Conferences were held to make rules that should be carried out for the next two years, and he contended that the Council had no power to reduce the members' benefits during the late lock-out, so far as London was concerned, which was in opposition to the general law. It might be true that in other branches members might agree that their benefits should be reduced, but at all the meetings which took place in London they protested against the reduction of their strike pay. They did not think the Council should have the power to reduce any benefit.

Mr. GREEN seconded.

Mr. INSKIP said those who were present at the Leicester delegate meeting in January, 1895, would remember that he made a statement in private to the delegates, and submitted figures based upon the 10s. per week. Delegates were present from London, but not a solitary voice was raised against those figures, and not one solitary hand was held up against accepting that statement, and the London delegates themselves voted for it.

Mr. GREEN: That is not true. I took strong exception to it. They did not pledge themselves to those figures. They were not asked to vote for 10s., had they have been he should have voted against it.

Mr. CURLEY, as one who was present at the delegate meeting, could thoroughly bear out the statement made by Mr. Inskip. At that meeting the General Secretary did put forward an estimate based on 10s. per week, and he might add that their subsequent experience proved how carefully that estimate had been made, as it turned out to be correct almost to the hundred.

Mr. JAMES said the statement of the General Secretary at the delegate meeting was not voted upon. The men of Bristol would not have refused to pay the levy, nor accept the reduced strike pay, had not the Council surrendered the rights of the men in the Terms of Settlement. He was of opinion that a ballot should have been taken on those terms.

The PRESIDENT said Mr. Inskip had laid before the Council, prior to the delegate meeting, the exact position in which they were placed, the number of members, the amount of money they had got, and how long it would last at 10s. per week, and it was agreed that, before the Council's suggestions were put before the meeting, they should be asked for some practical suggestions; but there was not one solitary suggestion, and the Council's suggestion was then submitted, in conjunction with the statement of the General Secretary. Mr. Inskip, on behalf of their members, could have raised £40,000 or £50,000, but he (the President) personally would not hear of him running the risk, when they could not get the paltry levy imposed upon the members. (Applause.)

Mr. FREAK interposed with a point of order. Was the resolution retrospective? He thought the discussion was irregular.

The PRESIDENT said they were bound to be somewhat retrospective in discussing these matters.

Mr. RICHARDS said he should support the Council in this matter. The statement they produced at the delegate's meeting was clear and definite. He voted for the adoption of the statement, and he was willing to accept his share of the responsibility. The object of the General Secretary was to make the money go over as many weeks as possible—(hear, hear)—and there was not sufficient money to last any length of time at 12s. per week. He was a party to the 10s. per week, and was willing to accept the criticisms of a portion of their members.

Mr. SWEENEY also considered he was a party to the 10s. by not holding up his hand against it. He went back to Leeds from that meeting, and told them he was a party to the 10s., and their members voted and agreed to accept the 10s.

Mr. GOLDSBOROUGH said their members passed a resolution unanimously agreeing to accept the 10s. per week.

Mr. ADAMS asked if it was a fact that at the Conference held before the Leicester delegate meeting it was agreed that, in the event of a general strike or lock-out, the pay should be 10s. per week?

The PRESIDENT said at the Stafford Conference it was decided that the members forego the first fortnight's pay.

Mr. WHITBY thought they should get on with the business. (Hear, hear.) They were not supposed to be discussing the Leicester delegate meeting or the Stafford Conference.

Mr. STANTON was surprised when he saw this resolution on the agenda from London, because at the Stafford Conference they were distinctly told that if they were in a position to pay 12s. per week they would do so, but if not they must be content with the reduced pay. He held in his hand a report where Mr. Freak opposed a levy being put on. What were they to do to raise money? Mr. Freak said he did not want to see another lock-out. Neither did he, but it would come, and that in the near future, unless he was mistaken. He trusted they would accept less than 10s. if the Council found it necessary.

Mr. PAGE said he would like to know whether the rules were not made to be carried out? It was wrong that the Council should have power to reduce the benefits without consulting the members. He wished to protest against the remarks of Mr. Hornidge. He held that the action of the Council in this matter was detrimental to the interests of the men, and he hoped the Conference would not give them the power to reduce the benefits of the Union.

The resolution was defeated by 35 votes to 4.

Leeds had given notice to add to Rule 17 the following:—"That in the event of a National strike, or lock-out, financial members out of work, and in Union benefits, shall be entitled to strike or lock-out pay."

Leeds No. 2 had also given notice of a resolution to the same effect.

On the suggestion of the GENERAL SECRETARY, this matter was left over until the Council's proposals were dealt with.

Mr. POULTON moved—

To add to paragraph 2, Rule 17, "The branch secretary to notify dispute manager."

Mr. INSKIP said the Council were thoroughly agreed to accept this.—Agreed.

Manchester had given notice to ask for more definite instructions on paragraphs 5 and 7, Rule 17.

Mr. WARD said, to facilitate business, he would withdraw those questions if the Conference had no objection.—Agreed.

Mr. POULTON moved—

To strike out the word “financial,” in paragraph 8, Rule 17, and add, “until their cards are clear.”

In doing so, he said they were of opinion that, as the rule then stood, their probationary members were placed in a much more favourable position than the financial members, and they did not think it just. They should be allowed to deduct the arrears owing by a probationary member in times of dispute, the same as in the case of a financial member, which at present they could not do.

Mr. BUTLER seconded.

Mr. PAGE moved that the Conference proceed to the next business.

This was seconded, but defeated by a large majority.

Mr. PAGE opposed, as he did not believe in any member's arrears being deducted from the benefits allowed by the Union.

Mr. FREAK said the rule was not carried into effect. In times of dispute they did not deduct the arrears owing by the members from the dispute pay.

Mr. POULTON admitted that the rule was not put strictly into force, but they thought it should read so as to apply in the same manner to both probationary and financial members.

Mr. LOWE, on behalf of the Council, said they happened to quite agree with Mr. Page on this matter. Sooner than stop the members' contribution at such a time as that, they preferred to make some arrangement whereby he should pay off his arrears when in full work.

Mr. CURLEY supported the proposition. They had no right to exact from a financial member that which they did not from a probationary member.

The PRESIDENT remarked that a man out on strike, who wished for a travelling book, had to be clear before he left the town.

The motion was then put, and lost by a large majority.

Manchester had given notice to strike out the last number “27,” and insert “24,” paragraph 9, Rule 17.

Mr. INSKIP said this was merely a clerical error, and required no vote.—Agreed.

Compensation.

Mr. WARD asked permission to withdraw their proposal to strike out the word “modified” in line 6, paragraph 1, Rule 18.—Granted.

Mr. LEE moved that the following new paragraph be added to Rule 18:—

“That any member being victimised for adherence to Trade Union principles shall be compensated at the discretion of the branch Executive. Minimum amount to be £1, and the maximum amount £5.”

They had had a number of cases where employers had tried to force the men to do more work, and in the event of the men declining, by some tyrannical means, they had forced the men to do more, or they had been discharged and boycotted from obtaining work on other firms. Men dare not, in many cases, give information against their employers because they knew it would mean the sacrificing of their position. He thought £1 was not equitable to meet such cases.

Mr. FREAK asked whether it was not necessary to strike out the first paragraph before this could be inserted.

The PRESIDENT: Not necessarily so.

Mr. GREEN seconded the resolution, and thought it only just that it should be carried. £1 was not sufficient compensation for many of the cases that came under their notice.

The resolution was carried by 33 votes to 15.

The PRESIDENT hoped that branch executives would more closely study applications for compensation than they had done hitherto. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. GOLDSBOROUGH suggested that the names of the delegates and the way they voted be taken.

The PRESIDENT said he could not accept that suggestion then.

Nottingham had given notice to add the following paragraph to Rule 18: “The maximum benefit granted under this rule to be 10s. per week for 12 weeks, the pay to cease immediately the member obtains employment.”

Mr. BRAILSFORD withdrew this proposition, in consequence of the vote on the previous question.

Travelling Assistance.

Mr. INSKIP, on behalf of the Council, moved—

“That the heading of Rule 19 be altered to read, ‘Travelling assistance, whether in search of work, on strike, or lock-out.’”

The reason of this proposed alteration was because some of the secretaries were not aware that they had to count travelling relief what a man receives when he is sent away from a lock-out or strike, in the £1 which a member is entitled to in a year, from January 1st to December 31st.

Mr. POULTON seconded. He had one or two of their Scotch members from Glasgow through the strike, at the Co-operative Society. These members claimed that the relief payed whilst on the road, from a place where there was a dispute, did not count in the £1, although the rule clearly states that a member can only draw £1 in any one year.

Mr. BRAILSFORD said that some of the branch secretaries did not know that it was to be counted.

Mr. INSKIP : That is the rule.

Mr. RICHARDS wished to know whether, when a man was sent away from a dispute, the relief would count in the £1?

Mr. SMITH said, when he issued the travelling books to the men who left Glasgow, he distinctly told them that they could only draw £1 during the year.

Mr. SWEENEY said they had some of their Scottish friends in Leeds who claimed more than they were entitled to, but they refused to pay them.

Mr. WOOLLEY said he also had some of the men come to him. He thought it occurred through the travelling books not having been altered.

Mr. INSKIP said the reason the travelling books were not altered was because they had something like 6,000 on hand at that time, and he did not feel justified in destroying so many.

Mr. BURDEN said he supported what Mr. Smith had said in regard to them telling the men who left Glasgow that they could only draw £1 during the year.

Mr. FREAK said he did not think it ought to be counted, as it would be hard on a man to have to leave owing to a dispute, and only be able to draw the £1.

The PRESIDENT : The rule only provides for a member receiving £1 during the year.

Mr. INSKIP said Mr. Poulton moved at the last Conference that it be 25s., but it was lost, and it was then decided to fix the amount at £1. He stated that Mr. Freak was only wasting time.

Mr. FREAK objected to the remarks of Mr. Inskip.

Mr. INSKIP said as there was only one rule governing the travelling assistance of the Union, he, therefore, trusted the Conference would accept the alteration, so as to help branch secretaries, and investigators of disputes, when sending men away on travel.

The motion was then put, and carried by 40 votes to 2.

The Conference then adjourned until 9.30 on Thursday morning.

FOURTH DAY (Thursday).

The Conference resumed its sittings at 9.30 a.m. on Thursday, May 28th, 1896. Mr. Hornidge (President) in the chair.

The GENERAL SECRETARY called the roll, all the delegates being present.

The minutes of the previous day's proceedings were read by the Conference Secretary.

Mr. ADAMS pointed out one little inaccuracy. The minutes said he supported the resolution from Bristol recommending that the expenses incurred by Arbitration Boards should be borne by the Union. He opposed that.

Mr. GOLDSBOROUGH said the minutes gave it that there was a short discussion on the proposal from Leicester re compensation on rule 18. That was slightly incorrect, there was no discussion.

Mr. FREAK would like inserted in the minutes why Mr. Page moved the adjournment of the Conference—viz., as a protest against the ruling of the Chairman.

With these corrections the minutes were adopted.

Mr. POULTON asked whether he would be in order in moving that the minutes be accepted, with one exception.

The PRESIDENT : You took no exception at the time.

Mr. POULTON : I take exception to the voting on the paragraph proposed by Leicester as to compensation on Rule 18.

The PRESIDENT: I cannot accept that now. It is a question as to whether the minutes are correct or not.

Mr. POULTON asked whether the new paragraph on Rule 18 could be reopened, the same as was done at the Edinburgh Conference.

The PRESIDENT: I cannot allow this matter to be reopened this morning. I have a statement to make on behalf of the Council, who met last evening after the Conference had adjourned, and to facilitate business they suggest that the Conference limit the speeches of the movers of resolutions to five minutes, and of subsequent speakers to three minutes; and that if there is no opposition to a resolution, it be immediately put from the chair. They also suggested that the Conference should adjourn at 12-30 until 1-30, and adjourn at 4-30 to enable the delegates to reach Belle Vue in time for the dinner to which they were invited by the Manchester Branch. The Council also suggested that they should follow the same course on the morrow (Friday), as to the adjournment for dinner, and sit later in the afternoon if found necessary.

Mr. CORT moved, and Mr. WILLIAMSON seconded, that the suggestion of the Council be accepted.

Mr. PAGE suggested that the Council's proposals should not come under this arrangement. This suggestion was accepted, and the proposal of the Council agreed to.

Arbroath had given notice to move "that the Rule be altered to enable members to draw £3 travelling assistance yearly, instead of £1 as at present." Also to add, "that the names of members who have drawn their full amount of travelling assistance be not published in the Monthly Report."

Mr. MORRICE (Aberdeen) said he would withdraw these two proposals, adding that personally he was not in favour of them.

Mr. INSKIP, on behalf of the Council, moved—

That in paragraph 11, line 4, the words "will be empowered to," should be deleted, and the word "must" inserted.—Agreed.

LEICESTER asked explanation of paragraph 1, Rule 20, was travelling relief to men on dispute to be counted.

This explanation was not necessary, in consequence of the voting on the Council's proposal to alter the heading of Rule 16, and the Conference proceeded to the next business.

Mr. WOOLLEY asked whether, under paragraph 6 of Rule 20, probation was to be served under the new travelling law, when fare had been paid. He said the question was in reference to a man drawing travelling assistance when on dispute. The Rule was not clear, and he desired an understanding as to whether probation was to be served under those circumstances.

Mr. INSKIP said he could only say that, including railway fares, a man can only receive £1 within any twelve months, from January to December.

Mr. LEEDHAM: Will that apply in the case of a dispute-manager sending a man away in case of a strike?

Mr. INSKIP: Yes.

Mr. WOOLLEY asked an explanation on paragraph 7 as to granting only one relief in the same town within three months. He wished to know whether that paragraph was to be enforced.

Mr. INSKIP: It did not signify so long as the member did not receive above the £1 in twelve months, from January to December.

Mr. WARD (Manchester) proposed to strike out the remainder of paragraph 7, Rule 20, after the word "branch" in line 4.—Agreed.

Mr. MORRICE (Aberdeen) moved—

To strike out all after the word "forewomen" in paragraph 1, Rule 22, and add "or teaching apprentices."

He said the effect would be that men could only work on time or day wages when teaching apprentices. It emanated only from one or two members of their branch. Personally he did not think it was a wise proposal.

Mr. BURDEN seconded. It meant that no man could work on day work unless in connection with machinery, or whilst teaching apprentices.

Mr. INSKIP did not see the utility of the proposition. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. GREEN moved the next business, and this was carried.

Mr. SWEENEY (Leeds) asked for a clearer definition of paragraph 1, Rule 22.

Mr. INSKIP said the object of this paragraph being put in was to meet the cases where men worked in a shop where there was a lot of bespoke work. He knew of cases where it had been found of great service to allow the employer to have one or two men on day work to make bespoke and odd pairs, thus saving some of their members perhaps the sacrifice of a dozen per week.

Mr. SWEENEY wished to know whether piecework lasters were to be reckoned when deciding the number of boys he is allowed. Was an employer in order in counting the piecework lasters?

Mr. INSKIP said the award of Lord James on the boy question was that each department should be reckoned separately, and certainly lasting was a separate department.

Mr. CURLEY moved the previous question, and this was carried.

Mr. SWEENEY moved—

To delete the whole of paragraph 3, Rule 22, after the word “working” in line 4.

He said his object in moving this was to get some explanation of the team system. In Leeds they had so many systems of working in connection with so-called lasting machines, that they had never been able to get a clear definition from their executive as to the interpretation of the Rule. He wanted an expression of opinion through their general executive as to what should be done in future with regard to the team system on lasting machines. They had six different factories in Leeds, all working different systems in conjunction with lasting machines.

Mr. INSKIP said this question could be more fully gone into when they came to consider the Council's proposal with regard to piece work versus day work. Would it satisfy Mr. Sweeney for the present if he said the Council would appoint an investigator to go down to Leeds, and ascertain whether the machines were only being used as a blind for the purpose of defeating the statement, and, if so, to take steps to remedy the evil?

Mr. SWEENEY intimated that that would be satisfactory.

NORTHAMPTON also asked for an explanation of that paragraph, but it was agreed that the matter stand over until the Council's proposal with regard to piece work versus day work.

Overtime.

Leicester No. 2 had given notice to make paragraph 7, Rule 22, more definite.

Mr. BUSH moved the following resolution :—

“That all day-workers, working over the recognised hours of the shop where they are employed, be paid at the rate of time and a quarter; that all piece-workers have an addition of 2d. per hour over statement price, each day to be reckoned by itself; no overtime to be made unless absolutely necessary.”

He remarked that in Leicester they managed to carry out the resolution with regard to overtime fairly well until the lock-out occurred, but that seemed to dislocate matters a little. They thought this question of overtime should be settled now by the Conference on general lines. The Executive of No. 2 branch at Leicester were decidedly against the principle of overtime, and they were trying all they possibly could to put it down. Their trade was a season's trade, and they experienced great difficulty in trying to regulate this matter. In addition to the manufacturers wanting overtime at different seasons of the year, they found that a great many of the members themselves liked it as well. That being so, they had to fight both their own members and the employers too.

Mr. REYNOLDS seconded, and said in Northampton they had submitted the question of overtime to the Arbitration Board, and it was eventually referred to an umpire, who decided that time and a quarter should be paid for all overtime. Bricklayers were paid time and a quarter for overtime, and he thought some effort should be made to adopt that system in their trade.

A question was asked whether the resolution was in order, seeing that it did not appear on the agenda paper?

The PRESIDENT said if a mover of a resolution found that by some addition he could make the matter more explicit he was in order in doing so.

Mr. VOTIER said he would like an expression of opinion by the Conference as to the position of the men working on those shops who only worked 52½ hours per week. If they worked 54 hours' in one week would the extra hour and a half be considered overtime?

Mr. BOSTOCK supported, because he thought it would be a step in the right direction of the total abolition of overtime.

Mr. VOTIER asked whether they would allow men to work more than 54 hours' in one week?

The PRESIDENT: Unless it is overtime, no.

Mr. BRAILSFORD mentioned a case where there were 30 men employed, and about seven employed on machines. The men on day-work were put on overtime, whilst the piece-workers were sent home with nothing to do. This was not fair, and they should endeavour to do something to alter this state of things.

Mr. GREEN said in London they put the present rule into force as soon as it was passed, and they were fairly successful until the members heard that it was not being enforced in other districts, and then the men openly defied their officials and broke the rule.

Mr. POULTON said in Northampton they did all they possibly could, but there had been very little overtime during the last twelve months.

Mr. SMITH said they all ought to try to carry the existing rule into effect. They ought to try to stop it as much as possible. He must say that since the lock-out branch officials and branch executives had been more to blame respecting overtime than the men had.

Mr. SWEENEY took exception to that remark, as they had asked the Council for their assistance.

Mr. SMITH said he was speaking to the rule, and if the men wanted to work overtime they were to ask permission from the branch executive. It was not a matter for the Council. So long as that rule was there they ought to have stuck to it. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. JAMES said that he and others had not averaged five hours per day for the last two years as piece-workers, and when men did have a chance to make a little overtime they were glad enough to take the opportunity, even in opposition to the officials. On the same firm there were day-workers on overtime, and they could not stop them.

The PRESIDENT: Why not insist upon the rule being carried into effect?

Mr. DUNCAN said immediately after the lock-out, the firm he worked for asked them to work overtime, and they refused.

Mr. CORT supported the proposition. He said they had had applications of this character from different men, and they made enquiries, and in some cases they granted the permission to work overtime, and in others they refused it.

Mr. LEEDHAM opposed, on the ground that the adoption of such restrictions as these would eventually result in their having more unemployed than they had at the present time. The employers could replace these men's labours by putting down an additional machine. If they were going to have restrictions at all they should have them all round, and make it a National question. They should not allow privileges to one shop which they denied others. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. SHEPPARD said it was all very well for them to pass that resolution as a pious opinion, but at present it was impracticable to enforce it. He had had experience of cases where men had gone themselves to the employer, and asked to be put on overtime.

Mr. BURDEN said the Glasgow branch had always acted in accordance with the existing rule. At the Co-operative Stores they had agreed that time and a quarter should be paid for overtime. Executives were not carrying out their duty if they allowed overtime. They should insist upon this rule being enforced—that no member should be allowed to work overtime unless he had the sanction of the Executive.

Mr. POULTON could not see his way to vote for the latter part of the resolution, because, as Mr. James had pointed out, the piece-workers were placed in a very anomalous position. They were rarely able to work 54 hours a week, much less work overtime. They would be doing more good if they could stop day-workers from working overtime.

Mr. CURLEY opposed the resolution, as he never worked overtime. He was prepared to stand by the rules. He had refused to work overtime, and the employer had said, "Very well; if you will not do so you have got to clear out." At that time, when overtime had been in existence a fortnight, the men had to walk about with nothing to do from the Wednesday to Saturday. It would increase the number of unemployed if this resolution was carried out. The present rule should be carried into effect. He did not believe in legalising overtime, and they ought to go in for eight, or even six hours a day.

Mr. FREAK thought it would be best to put a stop to overtime, by insisting upon time and a quarter all round. If that were done there would be but very little overtime worked.

Mr. MASON said he did not see any possibility of this being carried out.

It was moved, seconded, and carried, that the question be now put.

Mr. RICHARDS said he did not think they understood what overtime was yet.

Mr. BUSH said that in other trades generally this system was in force, but there was no overtime made, simply because the employers would not pay the time and a quarter, and that was what they wanted in their case. He would agree to withdraw the latter part of his resolution, and amend it so as to read exactly as it appeared on the agenda paper, viz.: "That all overtime be paid at the rate of time and a quarter."

This was then put, and carried by 36 votes to 10.

Mr. INSKIP said now that that resolution had been passed, it was necessary that there should be a small committee appointed to arrange what constituted overtime, and to draft a resolution which shall be submitted to all Boards of Arbitration simultaneously, so that they would not have one acting in one way and another in a different way.

Mr. POULTON: Can you guarantee that the members will have sufficient independence to claim according to this rule?

The PRESIDENT: Will you kindly ask me something else, please. (Laughter.)

The Conference then proceeded to the appointment of a committee on the overtime question. The voting for the same was as follows:—

Mr. Sweeney	...	31 votes	Mr. James	...	25 votes
„ Adams	...	28 „	„ Bush	...	23 „
„ Freak	...	28 „	„ Burden	...	23 „
„ Cort	...	25 „

The first five were declared elected.

Mr. BARNES asked whether the application for time and a quarter for overtime would be considered an advance of wages under the Terms of Settlement.

The PRESIDENT said they would not regard this as an advance of wages, because they did not desire that members should work overtime.

Mr. RICHARDS: All permanent officials work overtime, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. INSKIP said it would not be considered by them as asking for an advance of wages. The umpire at Northampton had decided that time and a quarter should be paid for overtime, and he did not consider it an advance of wages.

The Committee then withdrew, Mr. Goldsborough acting as teller in the meantime, in place of Mr. Adams.

Mr. POULTON (Northampton) moved—

To add to paragraph 1, Rule 23, the following: “But should any member owe more than eight weeks’ contributions during such probationary period, he shall serve four weeks before becoming entitled to trade benefits after reducing his debt to 4s.”

He said supposing a member allows his debt to reach above 4s., he had to serve a probation from the time he brings his debt down to 4s., and they thought that the same should apply to probationary members.

Mr. INSKIP said the Council did not object to making this rule applicable to both financial and probationary members, and in drafting out the rules he would see that that was done.

This was agreed to.

Mr. POULTON (Northampton) asked if paragraph 3, Rule 24, applied whether the name has appeared in the scratched list or not. This was to meet cases where a man’s name had been sent in with the returns, but had not yet appeared in print. They thought it should apply the same to a man who paid up before his name appeared in the scratched list, the same as it applied to the man whose name did appear.

Mr. WOOLLEY asked whether a man does not become refractory from the fact of his debt exceeding 6s. 6d.

Mr. POULTON said they made the man serve eight weeks, but it did not say that the man should serve the probation.

Mr. INSKIP said he thought all the present Council would back them up in relation to that.

Mr. POULTON was satisfied with that.

Northampton had given notice to strike out the words, “and receive half pay,” from paragraph 4, Rule 24.

Mr. INSKIP referred the Conference to paragraph 14, Rule 36, which covered this matter, so that the proposition could be withdrawn.

Mr. POULTON said he was not satisfied with that. They did not think a man should be allowed to become a sick member at forty years of age.

Mr. INSKIP said the paragraph wanted re-drafting.

Mr. POULTON said they were of opinion that a member should join for trade purposes only at forty years of age. He moved the proposition.

Mr. INSKIP said they wanted to get as many members as they possibly could, and he was of opinion that the present rule—viz., that a member joining at forty years of age should receive half sick pay, and a member joining at forty-five, should join for trade purposes only, was correct (hear, hear), and they should not go lower than that.

Mr. WOOLLEY opposed the suggested alteration. The suggestion of the General Secretary would, in every way, meet the case.

Mr. O’GRADY strongly advised the Conference to accept the suggestion of the General Secretary. It was a wise one, and he thought they would be wanting on their part if they agreed to alter it.

Mr. WILLIAMSON seconded the proposition.

It was moved and seconded that the question be now put, but this was not carried.

Mr. BUSH moved as an amendment—

“That if a member be reinstated within six months, he joins on the old terms, and if he be over forty years of age he shall only receive half sick pay; if over forty-five years of age he shall join for trade purposes only.”

Mr. CORT seconded.

At this point Mr. Inskip announced that they had a visitor in the person of Mr. Thomas Birtwistle, who was for many years General Secretary of the Cotton Operatives, and also a member of the Parliamentary Committee. (Applause.)

Mr. INSKIP said if a man was over forty-five, he would not then be entitled to any sick pay at all, and if they made it as suggested, and he rejoins under six months, he joins on the old terms. That is intelligible enough.

Mr. POULTON said they could accept that.

Mr. PAGE considered they would be doing an injustice to a member who had been obliged to run out through no fault of his own, and then, when he rejoined, just because he was over forty years of age, they should deduct half his benefits. They certainly ought not to do that.

Mr. POULTON said they would withdraw the resolution, and accept the suggestion of the General Secretary.—Agreed.

Mr. POULTON moved—

To alter 2s. 6d., in paragraph 6, Rule 24, to 1s.

He read the whole of the paragraph, and said the reason why they thought this alteration should be made was that every branch should pay off the dues to the Council month by month. (Hear, hear.) They felt somewhat strong that a branch should owe a considerable sum of money to the Council, and it was with a view to try and reduce that which had induced them to bring this matter forward, particularly when the branch had sufficient money to pay off their debts. The money was due to the Council, and they believed a strong central fund was one of the biggest advantages they could have.

Mr. GOLDSBOROUGH seconded, and as a business-like proceeding he felt sure the resolution would commend itself to the Conference.

Mr. PAGE moved that the Conference proceed to the next business. He failed to see any justification for the resolution.

This was lost.

Mr. O'GRADY opposed the resolution. He thought the resolution was directed against the London branch, but if the resolution was passed there were other branches in the country which would be placed in a worse position than London.

Mr. GREEN asked the delegates to vote against the resolution on behalf of the branch to which he belonged. They happened to be in the unfortunate position of having no branch funds, and the result of passing that resolution would be that their branch, for one, would be scratched out of existence. This resolution was directed against one particular branch. ("No, no.") In the case of the London Metro. branch, perhaps there was something to be said on both sides. He appealed to them, on behalf of the branches placed in a similar position to them, not to pass the resolution.

Mr. VOTIER said, so far as the Council were concerned, they were opposed to this resolution being carried into effect.

Mr. POULTON did not know why their London friends should think the resolution was directed against them. They were against no one. The Northamptonshire branches paid their way. Bozeat, with only 14 members, paid its way, and he did not know why other branches could not do the same. They would see by the last Report that a number of smaller branches paid their dues and demands to the Union. It was only as a matter of business that induced them to bring the resolution forward.

The motion was then put, and lost by 35 votes to 10.

Mr. POULTON moved—

To strike out from line 13 to 15, paragraph 10, Rule 24.

The paragraph they had under consideration was an unjust one to the whole of the members of the Union. They said that if a member had cleared his card up to the branch, he should not be called upon to pay 4s. 4d. to the Union. There was sure to be some members in an unfinancial branch who had kept financial, and in such cases as those the member should not be deprived of his benefits because his branch was, unfortunately, unable to pay its way. A member ought not to be called upon to pay 4s. 4d. towards the liquidation of a debt which he had not helped to contract. If the branch could not pay, and the member's card was clear, he should receive his benefits direct from the central fund.

Mr. LEEDHAM seconded.

Mr. INSKIP pointed out that, under those circumstances, the man would not have paid his share to the Union. The branch would not have been scratched had the Union received its share of the member's contributions. They had been absorbed by the branch. The Union would be liable for his benefits, but would not have received a penny of his contributions. The member might have paid his proportionate share to the branch, but it had not been paid to the Union. The member should have protested against his share of the contribution not being paid to the Union.

Mr. WATSON considered that the rule in its present form was a protection to the members themselves. It would make them more careful of their branch funds.

Mr. RICHARDS hoped the question would not be pressed, because it would only encourage branches to pay more benefits than they could really afford, by supplementing the Union benefits.

Mr. VOTIER opposed the resolution. In the event of a branch approaching the point of insolvency, it is the duty of the members to investigate as to why the branch was in that state, and see if they could not place it in a better financial position. They would be wise to reject the resolution.

Mr. MASON said they had some members who belonged to them who, when they found that the branch they were in was becoming insolvent, shifted their quarters to a financial branch, thus shirking their duty to their own branch. Although he was perfectly in sympathy with the member who should be called upon to pay the 4s. 4d. in consequence of the branch's misappropriation, he thought it would be to the best interests of their members, as a whole, to allow the scale to remain as it was.

Mr. REYNOLDS, in supporting the resolution, said that in its present form the rule made innocent members suffer for the guilty. A member might protest in his branch, as Mr. Inskip had suggested, and yet be in a minority.

Mr. POULTON said the present rule was an injustice to their fellow-members. He submitted they ought not to ask the members to pay more than the rules provide for. If a member had paid his dues and demands to the branch he was entitled to the Union's benefits.

The resolution was carried by 26 votes to 10.

Rule 25.

Mr. WARD rose to ask for explanation of the last two lines from the word "place." Referring to the voting for Conference delegates, he said he understood that by this the Council would fix a day for the voting all over the country. He had kept his box sealed up, expecting orders from Leicester to open it and count the votes, and you could well understand his surprise at seeing the result of the Leicester election in the Record two days previously to their meeting. It is on that ground that we should like an explanation.

Mr. INSKIP: I may say that the object in putting this in was for the benefit of the branches who had sections, so that they would know the vote of the branch before the sections voted; therefore, it was felt that there should be some understanding, and vote on the same night with respect to the branches themselves. There was a date fixed, and that was a certain monthly night, when the vote must be taken.

Mr. CURLEY said they did not take the vote on the same night at Leicester and sections, but the voting boxes were all opened together for the town, and they then had the result of the sections. The sections counted to themselves, and sent the result in.

The explanation was accepted by Mr. Ward.

Mr. WOOLLEY asked for explanation as to the "Highest Financial Candidate." If the delegates would look at Rule 25, paragraph 5, which reads as follows:—

"All branches nominating members, or members being nominated, must be financial with the Union on the date of nomination, election, and meeting of Conference, or the delegate elected, if a member of an unfinancial branch, or if himself unfinancial during this period, will be disqualified, and the next highest financial candidate, from a financial branch, shall be entitled to the seat."

The reason they asked this was because their members thought that they had a right to the Kingswood seat, owing to that delegate being sent from an unfinancial branch. He said the General Secretary had asked for the seat, seeing that their next unsuccessful candidate had obtained the highest vote of the Union, but the General Secretary said no, it means the next highest candidate in that particular district. They, therefore, desired an explanation through that Conference.

The PRESIDENT: I may say that the General Secretary will explain.

Mr. INSKIP said Mr. Woolley was correct in saying that they claimed the seat held by the Kingswood representative. He would like the delegates to look at Rule 25, paragraph 1, which reads as follows:—

"A National Conference of delegates from each and every district in the Union, shall meet every two years, the expense to be borne by the Union, when the time and place of meeting for the next Conference shall be balloted for."

It would be seen that it stated "each and every district," therefore, as Leicester does not come in the Kingswood district, they have no right to the seat, although Mr. Woolley insisted upon claiming the seat.

Mr. WOOLLEY: Mr. Inskip is not quite correct. I did not insist.

Mr. INSKIP: You insisted that you had a right to the seat.

Mr. WOOLLEY: I certainly did ask for the same, as that was my interpretation of the rules. He therefore moved that the words "in the district" be inserted after the word "candidate" in line 6.

Mr. POULTON seconded, and it was agreed to.

Basis of Representation at the Conference.

Mr. POULTON, in introducing the question, remarked that as this would reduce the Northampton representation, it could not be urged that they were bringing it forward in their own interests. They believed that, so far as possible, they should give each and every branch of the Union representation at the Conference. Of course, they recognised that it would be impossible to give every small branch a delegate there. He noticed that the President, in his address, referred to this proposal, and characterised it as undemocratic. He (Mr. Poulton) considered that the President's observation was in itself an undemocratic one. Their object should be, as far as possible, to give the widest representation. They believed that whilst some of the smaller branches could not send delegates there they possessed members who would be a valuable acquisition to any Conference that might be held. The resolution he should move was as follows :—

“That branches of 1,000 members, or upwards, shall be represented as follows : ‘Two delegates for the first one thousand members, and one delegate for each additional thousand or fraction of a thousand (such fraction to be not less than 500); but in no case shall any branch send to the Conference more than nine members, and the balance of seats left after such allotment shall be, so far as possible, equally divided between the other branches, 50 delegates to be the maximum representation.’”

This would mean that at the present Conference Leicester would lose five delegates, while Northampton would lose two. He did hope that, although Leicester might be inclined to look at this from the point of view of the loss they would sustain themselves, they would also remember that a large number of their smaller branches, which were equally as valuable to the Union, could not, under existing rules, obtain adequate representation at the Conference. There was no feeling against the Leicester delegates having more representation than anyone else. He was glad to be able to say that, so far as his experience went, the Leicester delegates had always given their voice and votes upon all matters in an unbiassed manner, and had considered everything on its merits. But he did hope they would agree to this proposal, in order that these seven seats might be given to the smaller branches to enable them to be more directly represented at the Conference, and thus be able to explain their own grievances, rather than depute that responsibility to other branches which might not have the same interest in them.

Mr. AYTON seconded the resolution.

Mr. VOTIER, on behalf of the Council, opposed the resolution. He had never heard a more undemocratic proposal than Mr. Poulton's. These Conferences did not represent the branches, but the members. If Leicester happened to have 11,000 of those members then they were entitled to the same proportionate representation of delegates in the branches with only 1,000 members. The Council would be most happy and willing to consider favourable suggestions for a better and more comprehensive way of grouping the smaller branches, but as sure as they began interfering with the present system then they were at once departing from the democratic manner which underlay the whole government of the Union. They would cause great dissatisfaction and ill-feeling amongst their members, who would justly complain that they were not properly represented.

Mr. MASON suggested that the smaller branches, which are grouped together, should be as near together as possible, so as to enable the delegate to go and give a report of the proceedings without any great expense, which would be better than giving a report in writing.

The resolution was then put—10 voted for it, and 24 against.

Rule 36. Sick Rules.

Mr. WOOLLEY moved—

Paragraph 5.—Delete £35 and insert £36.

Paragraph 5.—Delete £17 10s. and insert £18.

He believed that it would be best to have an equal amount.

Mr. POULTON moved, as an amendment, that the amounts be £30 and £15.

Mr. UNDERWOOD seconded the amendment.

Mr. WOOLLEY said he did not object to £30, as he did not think it would affect one man in a thousand.

At this stage the previous question was moved, and carried.

An Errata in the “Leicester Daily Post.”

The PRESIDENT said he had been asked by Mr. Sheppard to allow him to point out an error which occurred in the Leicester Daily Post of the previous day.

Mr. SHEPPARD said in the report of Wednesday's proceedings the name of Mr. James, Bristol, should be substituted for that of Mr. Sheppard, Bristol, in reference to the statement that the Bristol men considered the Council had surrendered the right of the members in agreeing to the Terms of Settlement, etc. He (Mr. Sheppard) did not give utterance to those words; it was Mr. James who made that statement.

It was also pointed out by a Leicester delegate that they had the name of Mr. Hammond as the mover of the amendment to London resolution, re the settlement of strikes, instead of Mr. Allen, Leicester No. 2.

It was decided to ask the reporter to correct, in next issue, which was complied with.

The next item on the agenda was: Leicester “asked for a definition of twelve consecutive weeks in twelve consecutive months.”

A long discussion took place on this, after which it was decided to appoint a special committee to deal with the sick rule entirely, and Messrs. Burden, Lowe, Mason, O'Grady, Poulton and Smith were elected.

Report of Committee on Overtime.

Mr. FREAK then presented the report of the Committee appointed to consider the application of the resolution relating to overtime. It was as follows:—

“It having been decided that 54 hours shall constitute a maximum week's work, any day or piece-worker working over those hours shall be paid time and a quarter, or 25 per cent. over the usual wages received; each day's work shall be taken by itself; overtime shall mean working before or after the usual time of working, the custom of each shop to be the basis.”

They would see that in reference to the piece work and day work they had inserted time and a quarter, or 25 per cent., which would apply to both the piece worker and the day worker, and they said that each day's work shall be taken by itself, because an employer should not get a man to work overtime one day and short time the next, and then say he did not work overtime because he has not exceeded the 54 hours (Hear, hear.) If a member is asked to work an hour later at night, that must be considered overtime, and be paid for as such. They thought the employer had a right to arrange as to what his hours should be during the day. Fifty-four hours would constitute the maximum week's work, and any day or piece-worker working over those hours would be paid time and a quarter, or 25 per cent. above the wages.

Mr. INSKIP added that if they passed that report, or with any subsequent alteration added, he would draft as notice, including the resolution, have it printed, and circulated to the different centres, so that a simultaneous notice could be given to all Board of Arbitration.

Mr. LEEDHAM asked whether the 54 hours' week would interfere with the shops that were working, say, 52½ hours a week.

The PRESIDENT said that so far as the Union was concerned, it had entered into a compact with the Federation that 54 hours should constitute the maximum week's work. They would recollect that Mr. Ward, the then President of the Federation, said that although the hours of his firm was 52½, and it was not likely they would be altered, he would not guarantee that other firms would adopt the same course.

Mr. BUSH was extremely pleased with the Committee's Report, because it practically covered the whole of the points raised by his original proposition. He moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. BOSTOCK seconded.

Mr. LOWE said there was one portion of the report that he could not agree with. He thought that portion alluding to 54 hours, as constituting a week's work, might be left out, to prevent the confusion that must otherwise inevitably arise in connection with those shops which worked less than 54 hours. He maintained that in any case where a firm worked more than the ordinary hours it should be regarded as overtime.

Mr. BUSH understood that the customs of the shop would cover that question.

Mr. LAMBSON asked what the position of a shop working 52 or 52½ hours' per week that wished to go on to the 54 hours. Would the Council support the men in resisting that?

The PRESIDENT said the recognised hours, as he had stated before, between the Union and the Federation was 54 hours' per week.

Mr. REYNOLDS was not quite clear on this matter. 54 being the maximum number of hours for a week's work, had a man on a shop which worked 52½ hours got to work 54 hours before the overtime counted?

Mr. FREAK replied that they were bound to recognise that 54 hours was the recognised maximum week's work. The committee had had that very question under consideration, and they were of opinion that if a man, whose regular hours were 52½, was asked to work an extra hour he should be paid for that extra hour on the basis of his ordinary pay, but should not receive the 25 per cent. extra. The extra quarter, or 25 per cent., should only be paid where a man worked above 54 hours. The committee were unanimously of opinion that that would be the best course to take. He thought that each day standing by itself would cover a good deal of what was done at present.

Mr. REYNOLDS said, supposing an employer was very short of work on the Monday and Tuesday, and on Wednesday and Thursday he gets a big order, and instructs his men to work overtime those two days, would the overtime pay be claimed?

Mr. FREAK: Certainly.

Mr. CORT said they had instances where the work was not coming round quick enough, and the men on the machines were sent away for an hour of two. Then they would be asked to stay at night to make up the time thus lost. He thought that should constitute overtime.

Mr. DUNCAN asked, in the event of the machinery breaking down, and the men sent away for a few hours, and were then asked to make up the time at nights, would that be considered overtime?

Mr. FREAK replied in the affirmative. In that case it would be all the more reason why a man should receive the extra.

Mr. BURDEN said, supposing a man stopped away for two or three hours in one day, and he is then asked to work overtime, could he claim the 25 per cent. extra? If he stops away it is not the fault of the employer.

Mr. GREEN supported the adoption of the report, as he believed it would get London out of a big difficulty.

Mr. INSKIP suggested that the following should be added to the report :—

“ In the event of an employer, whose recognised hours are less than 54, and who requires men to work overtime, the difference between the customary hours and 54 hours, shall be paid for as ordinary time.”

He thought it would be wise to add that.

This suggestion was accepted, and added to the committee's report.

Mr. BURDEN said he had not had an answer to his question. He repeated the question.

Mr. FREAK : Yes, sir. If a man works beyond the recognised hours he has a right to be paid his overtime. It will have the effect of stopping the employer from encouraging overtime, and it will stop the men having the excuse to work overtime, but make up his wages in the beginning of the day.

Mr. INSKIP said in that case the employer had the remedy in his own hands by discharging the man. If an employer kept a man on extra time he (the employer) must pay the man for that extra time.

Mr. HAMMOND thought it would be considerably better to have no mention of the 54 hours at all. They in Stafford worked 52½ hours per week, and he was confident that if the resolution was passed containing any mention of the 54 hours the Stafford employers would take advantage of it, and make their men work up to the 54 hours, especially in their present frame of mind. If the Conference made no reference to the 54 hours in its resolution it would leave them with a free hand, and he hoped they would accept that suggestion. If the first line and a half had not been in there would have been no necessity for the addendum.

The PRESIDENT said the committee were asked to define what constituted overtime. They were bound to define a week's work in the first instance, and they were also bound to recognise that 54 hours was the recognised week's work between the Federation and the Union.

Mr. WATSON asked whether in the case of a man whose ordinary hours are 52, and working 54, would he be paid the ordinary wages for the two hours worked extra?

The PRESIDENT : It is decided that it shall be according to the committee's report. If a man works 48 hours, and that is recognised by his employer as a full week's work, and if he puts in six hours' overtime, making 54 hours, his wages for the extra six hours would be based upon his ordinary wages, but if above 54 hours were worked he would then be entitled to claim the time and a quarter, or 25 per cent. above his ordinary wages.

Mr. RICHARDS was of opinion that all time worked above the regular number of hours recognised by the firm should be reckoned as overtime. He also thought it would be best to make no mention of the 54 hours in the resolution.

Mr. VOTIER also agreed to the suggestion to leave out any mention of the 54 hours. Employers did not work overtime to suit the men's convenience, and when the men were asked to work overtime, to suit the employer, they had a right to claim the extra pay. If a man works above his ordinary recognised hours it was overtime; time worked above the ordinary number of hours certainly ought to be paid as overtime.

Mr. PAGE agreed with the last speaker.

Mr. GOLDSBOROUGH opposed the proposed scheme. They felt that it was thoroughly impracticable. No branch had sufficient power to declare that piece-workers shall not work overtime if they carried the resolution. He repeated that if they abolished overtime within the next seven years they would have done a good stroke of business. He should like to see it carried out, but he thought that he would not do that at present.

Mr. STANTON said 54 hours was the agreement between the Federation and the Union. If an employer worked 54½ they insisted upon him coming down to 54 without any reduction of wages, and they, on the other hand, had the right to insist upon 54 hours being worked.

Mr. CURLEY did not think one portion of the members should be paid extra for the extra time they worked, whilst another portion were not, and that was what the resolution would practically mean. It was not consistent, and would land them into all sorts of difficulties. He opposed the resolution.

Mr. WOOLLEY said the question was nothing to do with the 54 hours. The National Conference settled that for them. There was no necessity for mentioning the 54 hours in the committee's report. Its introduction would only do an injury to those shops who were working less than the 54 hours. (Hear, hear.) He would suggest to the committee, or the Conference, that they agree to make the report read as follows :—

“ Any day or piece-workers working over the recognised number of hours shall be paid time and a quarter, or 25 per cent. over the usual wages received. The custom of each shop to be the basis.”

He thought that would be much clearer if adopted.

Mr. REYNOLDS said they had the system of each day's work to be taken by itself in operation in connection with day-workers. He suggested that that be added to Mr. Woolley's proposal.

Mr. HAMMOND asked whether, having heard an expression of opinion on the part of the Conference, the committee could see their way clear to withdraw the objectionable clause.

Mr. FREAK said without consulting the committee he could not tell.

It was agreed that the matter be referred back to the committee.

At this point, Mr. INSKIP asked that he be allowed to make his statement that night, so that the delegates might consider it in the meantime, and come the following morning prepared with some practical suggestions for the guidance of the Council. He also asked that his statement be made in camera. He did not desire to make his statement while the Press were present, and he might say, in justification of that, that they were only following the tactics pursued by the employers. They had taken advantage of their Conferences being opened to the Press, and he did not propose that they should take advantage of his statement.

Mr. PAGE asked whether Mr. Inskip would give power to the delegates to inform the various members of the branches his definition of the Terms of Settlement.

Mr. INSKIP said, when they had decided the question, and they were in camera, he would answer the question.

Mr. PAGE, before the question was voted upon, desired to make his position perfectly clear, that unless an opportunity was given to the delegates to report to their constituents the definition given by the General Secretary, he did not agree that he would keep the matter to himself.

Mr. INSKIP asked Mr. Page to adopt the usual tactics, and abide by the decision of the Conference. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. PAGE said if it was carried that they go into committee, unless he had the assurance asked for, he would not feel justified in carrying it out.

The PRESIDENT: It is a most unfair position for a delegate to take up.

Mr. FREAK here said the committee on the overtime question had consulted together, and were unanimously of opinion that the suggested alterations of the report would not have the desired effect. They considered they were consulting the best interests of the men who worked less than 54 hours by maintaining that ordinary time should be paid up to 54 hours, and the committee stood by the report as submitted by them in the first instance.

Mr. BURDEN proposed, as an amendment to the committee's report:—

“That if any member is asked to work more than the recognised working hours of the firm by which he is employed he shall be paid time and a quarter for the extra time worked.”

Mr. WOOLLEY seconded the amendment.

The amendment was carried by 23 votes to 21.

A resolution accepting the report of the committee was lost by 26 votes to 23.

Mr. REYNOLDS then moved that the words “each day's work shall be taken by itself” should be added to the resolution.

Mr. BUSH seconded.

This was agreed to by 43 votes against 2.

Mr. VOTIER thought that after the statement made by the General Secretary it would be wise to postpone the consideration of Rule 37, and hear the statement to be made by Mr. Inskip. He took the opportunity of moving: “That the consideration of that rule be postponed until the following morning.”

This was agreed to.

A resolution that the Conference resolve itself into committee was also carried, Mr. FREAK being the only delegate to vote against it.

The representatives of the Press then withdrew.

Mr. DUNCAN, previous to the General Secretary's statement, asked what was the position of Mr. Page, seeing that the Conference had decided to resolve itself into committee?

Mr. PAGE said he would now like to repeat the question he previously asked. Was he entitled, after the statement Mr. Inskip was about to make, to go back to the members of the constituency he represented, and give them the definition of the General Secretary on the Terms of Settlement?

Mr. INSKIP said he was quite content to leave the matter in the hands of the delegates, and if they thought fit to divulge anything he should ask that they use discretion in doing so.

Mr. PAGE: I say unless I am enabled to report to my constituents what are Mr. Inskip's definitions of the Terms of Settlement, I decline to sit and hear the statement he has to make.

Mr. INSKIP: I leave the matter in the hands of delegates.

Mr. SWEENEY: Do I understand we are to be pledged to secrecy?

Mr. INSKIP: I do not ask it. I want you to hear the statement, and then you may decide as to whether it is to be withheld.

Mr. RICHARDS said they would leave it to every member's discretion. Would Mr. Page

Mr. FREAK did not like these closed doors at all, and he protested against it. There were closed doors at the Leicester delegate meeting, when the business of the Union was transacted, and as he was not then present he knew nothing of what took place.

Mr. INSKIP, at the outset, said he regretted to say that the opposition had again come from the usual source. He was once more placed in the position by the Executive of explaining their position, a position he would say to them, which was one not only of grave responsibility, but one out of which they (the Council) could not, like they did at the Leicester delegate meeting, foreshadow a possible way out of the difficulty. Then they had some £60,000 in hand. To-day, on them depended whether the Union was bankrupt or not, and that made the Council feel their position, and induced them to take the Conference into their confidence, and to show the delegates the difficulties they were having to contend with, and perhaps the first thing he might deal with was the question of the Terms of Settlement. When those Terms of Settlement were arrived at the employers' representatives refused to sit in the same room as the workmen's representatives, and they could quite understand that they in one room, and the employees' representatives in another, with Sir Courtenay Boyle as a go-between, he, anxious to get the matter off his hands, made one arrangement with the employers and another with them, not intentionally opposed, but the alteration of words often made a difference in the meaning of a whole sentence, and hence, he said, arose the friction which existed, and which he wished them to see existed to an extent that was hardly dreamed of, which at any moment might bring them into conflict with the Employers' Federation. He was pleased to say that they had been to Sir Courtenay Boyle on the Workmen's Representatives interpretation of the Terms of Settlement, and up to now they had had the verdict in their favour in every instance. They had had their interpretation confirmed by Sir Courtenay Boyle, but he might tell them that the employers had given their (the employers) interpretation, and hence the friction. He would give them one illustration, viz., the action of the employers in Leeds, Leicester, Northampton, Bristol, Birmingham, and, at least, seven out of the nine centres which are affected by the Federation, who, in every instance, had taken spontaneous action, which proved that they had received private communications from the Federation, and they had also had experience which showed them that the employers were prepared to abide by their definite instructions, and the definite interpretation of the Terms of Settlement, which had been supplied to them by the Federation. Then, they knew that the President, Mr. Stanton, Mr. Votier, and himself had made speeches on the Terms of Settlement, and that those speeches had been published, the employers had profited by those speeches by acting in exact opposition to the interpretation which the men's representatives placed upon the Terms of Settlement, and he was bound to say that in all these things the employers had certainly acted in thorough accord. One was, they claimed that a chairman of a Board of Arbitration, who, in all cases, is a manufacturer himself, shall alter the terms as arranged. Then they claimed that they had a right to employ whom they liked, and again they said that all agreements that had been entered into, although the Terms of Settlement expressly provide that all old agreements, conditions, and rates of wages should continue in existence, and not be altered, were cancelled when the Terms of Settlement were arrived at. They also said they could employ whom they liked, pay what wages they liked, and under what conditions they liked, so long as they did not belong to the Union. All these came from the seven different centres, and they had had to deal with them. What was more, the difficulties which the local officials in the seven places he had mentioned (and he thought it would apply to the other two) had had to contend with since the Terms of Settlement were signed, were enormous. They had been ignored, they had been told they had no right to investigate a dispute on behalf of the members they represented, and they had been forced to appeal to him time after time to know what they were to do. The Terms of Settlement stated exactly contrary to this, and they took action, and he wanted them to see, by the correspondence he would read, the difficulties their Executive were met with. He was anxious to give the local officials every credit for doing their best to honourably carry out the Terms of Settlement. They were not only met with the difficulties with the employers, but they were also met with the difficulty of the Board of Trade, and the delay in getting these decisions, which did not tend to a satisfactory state of things, but he would point out, and it was only fair that he should do, that in the meantime he had advised the members to interpret the Terms of Settlement in their way, and in justification of that he had pointed to Sir Courtenay Boyle's awards, and although they had got those awards there was still a crop of questions of interpretation that had to go to Sir Courtenay Boyle, or Lord James, in reference to the Terms of Settlement, and although the branches suffered in this way the Executive suffered more, because they had continual complaints that no action was being taken by the Executive. He also wished to refer to the change of the chairman of the Federation. Mr. Lennard was of a very different to temperament to Mr. Ward. He (Mr. Inskip) then read a considerable amount of correspondence, the following of which was the most important :—

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

NOVEMBER 25TH, 1895.

DEAR SIR COURTENAY,

It is with deep regret that we have to again trouble you on matters appertaining to the Terms of Settlement, but in consequence of the action taken by the employers at Leicester, Bristol, and Northampton, we are bound to appeal to you for your consideration and decision in accordance with paragraph 10 of the Terms of Settlement.

In the first instance, we desire to call your attention to the enclosed copy of rules issued by the manufacturers of Northampton, which we claim are not in accordance with paragraph 5, section C, of the Terms of Settlement, which reads :—

“No Board shall interfere with the right of an employer to make reasonable regulations for time-keeping and the preservation of order in his factory or workshop.”

We therefore claim to be heard in opposition to the rules as submitted.

Second. At a meeting of the Leicester Board of Arbitration held on September 20th, the question was submitted as to a firm named Knight and Co., breaking through an agreement entered into by the said Board. The Chairman (Mr. James Green), who is a manufacturer, refused to allow the matter even to be discussed, and we claim that no chairman under the Terms of Settlement has such powers conferred upon him, and ask to be heard in opposition to the same, more especially as paragraph 5, section B, distinctly states :—

“No Board shall claim jurisdiction over the conditions and terms of employment of workpeople outside its district, providing that no actual work shall be sent out of the district which has been subject to award in that district.”

Third. Also the case of Messrs. Hyde and Son, Leicester, who claim they have a right to work day-work and piece-work conjointly, in one department, in contrary distinction of our ruling of May 24th, 1895.

Fourth. In the case of Bristol, we claim that a bona-fide agreement was entered into by the Bristol Board of Arbitration, that the minimum wage should apply to workmen, and we claim that the following resolution is an agreement within the meaning of the Terms of Settlement. The exact wording of the agreement is as follows :—

“That the recognised minimum wage to workmen working at or following Lasting or Finishing machinery in Bristol, be 28s. per week, subject to any ruling of Sir Henry James respecting a probationary period.”

It was also unanimously agreed at the same meeting, that such resolution come into operation on May 1st, 1895. Since, however, the Terms of Settlement have become operative, the employers allege they have a right to pay non-unionists what they like, and to employ them under what conditions they like. This we entirely repudiate, and ask to be heard in defence of our position.

Fifth. The Northampton employers take up exactly the same position with respect to non-unionists as do the Bristol employers, and we claim to be heard in like manner on that question. In justification of our contention in this matter, we would call your attention to paragraph 5, section I, which reads as follows :—

“That such Boards when reconstructed shall have full powers to settle all questions submitted to them concerning wages, hours of labour, and the conditions of employment to all classes of workpeople represented therein within their districts, which it is found impossible to settle in the first place mutually between the employers and employed, or secondarily, between their representatives, subject to the following conditions.” (See sections A, B, C, and D, paragraph 5, for the above conditions.)

I am sending a copy of this communication to the Secretary and President of the Employers' Federation, who will no doubt communicate to you their version of the same. Perhaps you will then kindly intimate to both sides your pleasure respecting an interview.

Allow me, dear Sir Courtenay, to thank you on behalf of the Executive, in anticipation for your kind consideration of the above questions, and

Believe me to remain,

Yours most respectfully,

WM. INSKIP, General Secretary.

Sir Courtenay Boyle,

Permanent Secretary of the Board of Trade, London.

BOARD OF TRADE, WHITEHALL GARDENS, S.W.,

DECEMBER 5TH, 1895.

DEAR MR. INSKIP,

I have carefully considered your letter of the 25th ultimo, asking for my decision on certain matters under the Terms of Settlement in the Boot and Shoe dispute, and I desire to make the following observations :—

As to (1) it appears to me that the question whether the Rules, or any of them, adopted by the Northampton manufacturers are, or are not, “reasonable,” is one of fact, and not of interpretation.

It is, therefore, not one for me, though it possibly may be for Lord James of Hereford to determine.

With regard to (3) the question whether or not the manufacturers specified have worked day-work and piece-work conjointly, on the same process, contrary to the Terms of Settlement, appears to me to be clearly a question of fact, and not of interpretation.

With regard to (2) the alleged refusal of the chairman of the Leicester Board of Arbitration to allow a discussion on a certain question may involve a point of interpretation, but I must ask you to be good enough to furnish additional details as to the nature of the question submitted to the Board before it is possible for me to form any judgment as to whether this is the case or not.

The question raised (in 4 and 5) as to whether employers have a right to pay non-Unionists what wages, and to employ them under what conditions they choose, appears prima facie to involve a question of interpretation which may be properly referred to me.

Before I give further consideration to this question, I should be much obliged if you would state specifically the precise words or clauses of the Settlement, whose meaning I am asked to explain.

Perhaps you will do the same with regard to the second of the questions which you have put before me.

Upon receiving the information asked for above, I will communicate with you again.

Yours faithfully,

COURTENAY BOYLE.

W. Inskip, J.P., General Secretary.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

FEBRUARY 7TH, 1896.

DEAR SIR COURTENAY,

I am pleased to inform you that the state of my health now permits me to supply you with what necessary information I can for the purpose of assisting you in arriving at a definition of the cases submitted.

Respecting the first question, I am not quite clear as to what it is you desire. You say: "It appears to me that the question as to the rules is a matter of fact, whether they are reasonable or not."

That is just it, and we want to know who is to judge the matter of fact. We are not permitted to have any voice in it, were we to we should say not only are they not reasonable, but that they contravene the new Factory Amendments Act, Clause 10, Section 2, and as we have no voice in it we appeal to you as the proper person to give your interpretation as to whether these rules are, or are not, reasonable. The matters to be referred, under Clause 10, of the Terms of Settlement, to Lord James, do not, in our case, include the one under notice.

With regard to the third question, we positively assert it, as a matter of fact, that the firm did not work previously the two systems conjointly, but they claimed the right to do so if they wished. We want you to say whether they have the power so to do, under Section 1, of the Terms of Settlement.

With respect to questions 4 and 5, we call your attention again to our observations in a previous communication, simply contenting ourselves by pointing out the utter impossibility of our men working amicably in a shop where say, ten men are getting the wages, and ten men are not, but doing the same work under the same conditions. The clause under which we claim you have a right to deal with this matter is Clause 6, which states: "This agreement, and existing and future awards, agreements, decisions of Boards, etc."

Previous to the Terms of Settlement all statements, when accepted and signed by the employers, applied equally to Unionists and non-Unionists in their employ. Therefore, we claim that it will be a violation of existing agreements to attempt this unheard of policy, and we claim to be heard on the question.

Now with respect to question No. 2, the circumstances are as follows: A firm, named Knight and Co., have been in the habit of making thousands of dozens of a particular make, and, as members of the Board of Arbitration, have been paying the recognised Leicester rates, and classing them under the recognised class. They made their samples here, and, as before stated, a large quantity; but upon a dispute arising they commenced to send the work into the country, to be made at considerably less than what they had previously paid to the town workmen. This was, naturally, objected to by the men as breaking through an existing agreement of the Board, which reads as follows:—

"The committee are of opinion that where the samples are made the bulk must be made."

Accordingly, a request was sent in to the secretary of the Board, that the matter should be put on the agenda paper, to be dealt with at the next meeting of the Board. The terms of the notice read as follows:—

“To consider a dispute between Messrs. A. Knight and Co. and their employees as to the question of country work.”

I enclose an agenda paper to prove this. When the matter came up before the Board in due course, the chairman ruled the question out of order.

Now it had come to our knowledge that there had been a meeting of the Employers' Association (of which the chairman is a member), and that they had decided that this question should not be entertained. Therefore, in giving that decision, we claim that the chairman was voicing, not the feelings of the Board of Arbitration, but the decision of the Employers' Association; but we wish to go further than getting a verdict on this particular case, and we desire you to clearly state whether the Terms of Settlement gives the power into the hands of a chairman to refuse to discuss any question concerning wages, hours of labour, and the conditions of employment of the workpeople represented at the Board. (See resolution 5, paragraph 1.)

In conclusion, if you adopt your usual course of having Mr. Ward and myself before you, any further question or point not made clear can be then argued for your edification.

With due respects, believe me to remain,

Yours respectfully,

W. INSKIP.

Sir Courtenay Boyle,

Permanent Secretary of the Board of Trade, London.

BOARD OF TRADE, WHITEHALL GARDENS, S.W.,

MARCH 11TH, 1896.

DEAR MR. INSKIP,

I enclose copy of a letter received from Mr. Lennard, and of my reply thereto. In accordance with that reply, I shall be glad if you will place yourself in communication with Mr. Lennard with a view to settle the precise points of interpretation on which my ruling is desired, either by conference between yourselves or by an informal preliminary conversation here, as may be preferred.

I am,

Yours faithfully,

COURTENAY BOYLE.

W. Inskip, J.P., General Secretary.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

MARCH 13TH, 1896.

DEAR SIR COURTENAY,

I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter, together with copies of the correspondence that has passed between Mr. Alderman Lennard and yourself.

Under the Terms of Settlement either side has the right to appeal to you for your interpretation, in case there is a difference of opinion on the local boards.

Therefore, under the Terms of Settlement, I beg, on behalf of the Executive of the above Union, to ask your interpretation of the questions submitted to you.

I sent the questions, which we desire you to interpret, in a letter dated November 25th, 1895, and in a subsequent letter dated February 17th, 1896. After looking over those letters, I have nothing more to add, and now await your convenience.

Believe me to remain,

Yours respectfully,

W. INSKIP, General Secretary.

Sir Courtenay Boyle,

Permanent Secretary to the Board of Trade, London.

P.S.—I should like to say that in suggesting a personal interview, I did so with the view of giving you every facility, so that you would be enabled to better grasp the questions.

BOARD OF TRADE, WHITEHALL GARDENS, S.W.

MARCH 20TH, 1896.

DEAR MR. INSKIP,

I am in receipt of your letter of the 14th instant. My duty, as you are aware, under the Terms of Settlement, is confined strictly to the interpretation of words or phrases in that Settlement, and does not extend to the decision of the question whether or not a particular set of facts come within those terms. Within these limits I am always ready to give an interpretation of any part of the Terms of Settlement to the best of my ability, in case a difference of opinion arises thereon. But it will be clear to you that, in order to do so, I must have a definite word or phrase referred to me, together with a statement of the exact difference between the parties with regard thereto. In my opinion, some of the questions you have raised in your letters are not in their present form such as I can properly deal with, and the object of my letter of the 11th instant, of which I sent you a copy, was to suggest that you should assist me by determining in concert with Mr. Lennard, the precise points of interpretation involved in these questions on which a difference of opinion exists. This, as it seemed to me, should not be a difficult task, and when it is accomplished, I shall be happy to do my best to decide the points submitted by either party.

This suggestion I venture again to commend to you, and if you consider that an informal conversation here might be of use in assisting you to throw your questions into such a form that any disputed points of interpretation which they involve may be clearly separated from matters of fact, and may thus be conveniently dealt with by me, I shall, as intimated in my letter, be most happy to see you and Mr. Lennard for that purpose. Should these suggestions not meet with your approval, my only course will be to deal as best I can with such points of interpretation if any as appear to me to be directly involved in the questions you have submitted. But I am bound to say that, under these circumstances, it is not likely that any decision of mine will prove satisfactory to the parties.

Yours faithfully,

COURTENAY BOYLE.

W. Inskip, J.P., General Secretary.

"GLENLINDEN," WEST WALK, LEICESTER,

MARCH 19TH, 1896.

DEAR SIR,

I have received a letter from Sir Courtenay Boyle suggesting an interview between yourself and myself, with a view of framing definite terms of reference to him upon questions of interpretation of some of the clauses in the Board of Trade Settlement, which he understands you desire to place before him.

I am going out of town this morning and shall not be back until Tuesday evening next, but any time after that I shall be pleased to meet you for the above purpose. Meantime if you will kindly let me have particulars of the words in the Terms of Settlement, as to the meaning of which there is difference of opinion, I shall be obliged.

I am, yours truly,

SAMUEL LENNARD.

W. Inskip, J.P., General Secretary.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

MARCH 20TH, 1896.

DEAR MR. LENNARD,

I am pleased to know that you are sufficiently recovered, not only to appear in your place on the Leicester Town Council, but also to deal with the questions which have been submitted to Sir Courtenay Boyle, and which have been so long delayed, in some small measure I admit, owing to my illness.

In reply to your note received this morning, where I notice you ask for the particular words in the Terms of Settlement, these I think I have already supplied, but lest you may not have a copy (which I believe you must have had), I enclose you copies of my communications to Sir Courtenay Boyle. In each instance they point to the paragraph and resolution thereon.

What more I can supply I do not know. I am moved to suggest for your convenience if you wish it, a personal interview on Wednesday morning, and a meeting with Sir Courtenay Boyle on Thursday, as our members are getting very impatient as to this protracted delay.

In view of the fact, that we have to meet Sir Courtenay Boyle, may I suggest, to save him further worry and trouble on our questions, that the matters now pending between us on the Leicester Board respecting the new rules, which by arrangement with Lord James, Mr. Ward, and myself, were to be taken as typical rules—not binding on any district—(see Terms of Settlement, paragraph 4), should be also submitted to him, so that the rules may come into operation as speedily as possible, as we wish to say that in spite of the Terms of Settlement, which state in resolution 4, line 2, that the Local Boards shall be immediately reconstituted and their rules revised, that we have not lost sight of the fact that the employers asked for two years. They have all but obtained one, and we have with a view to carrying out our engagements entered into, not openly rebelled against it.

The questions to which I refer are in paragraph one of the new rules with reference to Leicester and district, and the next one, which more directly affects Sir Courtenay, as he was the medium between the two sides, is No. 14 and 15, where in the first instance, we ask and insist that the Union should be recognised directly—first by the questions in dispute, being submitted by the workmen to the employer or his foreman. Failing settlement, that the matter shall be relegated to the representatives of the Union and the employer in question. In the event of them failing to agree, then it should go to the Committee of Enquiry, which represents the local association and the Union, and if necessary, then to the Board and its Umpire. This, you are aware, is objected to, as both you and I are members of that Board.

I offer this course only as a suggestion, so that we may not trouble Sir Courtenay Boyle again within the course of a week or so.

I should like an early intimation from you as to your views upon this matter both as to relegating this question and the dates.

I am sending a copy of your letter and my reply to Sir Courtenay Boyle, so that there should be no advantage taken by either side than what is legitimate.

With the sincere hope that your health has now been thoroughly re-established.

Believe me to remain,

Yours truly,

WM. INSKIP, General Secretary.

Alde man J. Tennard, J.P., Leicester.

Mr. INSKIP, continuing, asked them to imagine the position. Although upon these questions the branches were calling out for clearer definition, they were not allowed to strike, they were not allowed to go to arbitration, and they were not allowed to see Sir Courtenay Boyle. If they were not allowed to do this, they would have to take the remedy in their own hands, and were they in a position to do it? He said they were not in a position to do it. They had not a week's strike pay to begin with; and, undoubtedly, had they have struck a shop, they would have locked out again right throughout the Federation. They (the employers) knew that the Union had no money, and it behoved them to carefully consider the matter, and formulate some scheme whereby they might be placed in such a position as to be able to defend themselves, and be placed upon the same terms as the employers—and he hoped satisfactory ones—for every man on the Executive, although there might be differences of opinion upon matters of administration, was unanimously agreed on this one thing—at least they would sooner throw up their position than suffer humiliation at the hands of the employers without having a fight for it. But they did not want to drag the men into a fight under the conditions referred to without the prospect of their having a chance to win. It was all very well to talk “jingo” on a full stomach, but when the supplies ran out, and the wife and children cried out for bread, it is then that the critical time comes, and the temptation to go in to work even at any price, is too great for a large number of men, and the facilities they are now offering by their provident scheme or Free Labour Association, to say the least, tends to increase that number, for although a member of the Union joins the provident scheme, and in all probability remains true to the Union, he will cease to have any possible chance of obtaining the advantages as given in their rules. It was highly desirable that they should place their members in a position to be on guard against this proposed scheme. On all hands, where machinery was introduced (and it would be introduced to a far greater extent in the near future), their men must get the position on those machines. He had mentioned their financial position. It depended upon them whether the Union was bankrupt or not. If they decided that the money loaned by Council from branches should be paid back then he might tell them they had not enough money to pay it with, and under the circumstances he hoped those present would go back to their branches, and loyally support the necessity of that matter remaining in abeyance for the present, at any rate. Come what might, he had sought to maintain his position, even though it should involve them in the difficulties that had been pointed out to them. It was well known, that by a certain portion of their members, the Union was looked upon merely as a sick benefit society, and if it were not for that they would cease to be members. He should say there was about 10 per cent. of such members, and if they could obtain the sick benefit by means of the proposed Free Labour Association, the probabilities were that they would cease their connection with the Union, and no doubt this was the aim of the Employers' Federation in bringing the matter forward. No doubt they looked at the case of the Shipping Federation, and said to themselves if they could do it, why not the Shoe Trade Federation do it also? That was another matter which called for their serious consideration. In conclusion, he had pointed to some of the remarkable difficulties the Executive had to face. They would not mind facing them if they had a substantial sum at their backs, and this was a question of the gravest character for them and the various branches, and one upon which he thought it was necessary for him to dwell upon. They (the Executive) wanted their hands strengthening in their difficult position, by passing some resolution which should empower them to say "we want these questions dealing with more promptly." (Hear, hear.) It had been going on for twelve months. They wanted the Delegates to rise to the occasion, they wanted the support of their intelligence. He asked the Delegates, on behalf of the Executive, to give them their opinion as to what would be the best course of action to pursue, and to express their practical sympathy with the Executive in their trying position, and such a resolution would be much appreciated by them, and also their humble servant.

Mr. WOOLLEY craved the indulgence of the Conference to move the following resolution, which he thought would be best for all parties concerned. It would have been noticed the difficulty there was in the Conference getting on satisfactorily with the business, and he did not think there were sufficient rules governing the debates. It had been necessary at some conferences to refer certain questions to the Council to deal with, which was not quite satisfactory, and what he was desirous of doing was to suggest a course which would relieve the Conference of that difficulty. He moved—

"That this Conference instructs the Council to frame a code of rules to be called the Conference Standing Orders, to govern and order discussion at Conferences."

Mr. POULTON formally seconded, and it was agreed to.

A DELEGATE suggested that the recommendation of the Council be submitted to the branches before being adopted.

Mr. WOOLLEY thought they should be prepared by the Council and then submitted to the next Conference.

This was agreed to.

The Conference then adjourned until Friday morning.

In the evening the delegates sat down to a dinner at the Zoological Gardens, Belle Vue, Manchester, at the invitation of the officers and members of the Manchester Branch. After full justice had been done to an excellent spread, a short toast list was gone through.

Mr. A. SMITH (Arlbroath) submitted the toast of the Manchester Branch, which was heartily received, and replied to by Mr. WM. WARD.

Mr. FREAK (L.C.C.) gave the toast of the National Union, and, in the course of his remarks, said he was glad to notice that whatever difference of opinion there might be between branch and branch, or branch and the Executive, there had been no black looks cast about during the week, and the utmost good fellowship prevailed amongst the delegates. He thought it one of the greatest honours a man could have in connection with the Union to propose the toast they had before them.

Mr. W. B. HORNIDGE (President of the Union) responded.

The proceedings were interspersed with excellent songs, etc., by Messrs. Hammond (Stafford), Bostock (Leicester), Woolley (Leicester), Hughes (Manchester), and other friends.

FIFTH DAY (Friday).

The GENERAL SECRETARY read the roll call, and all the delegates answered to their names.

The minutes of Thursday's proceedings were read by the Conference Secretary, and a motion that they be confirmed, was carried.

Mr. HASKIP said that it being a holiday week in Manchester the banks closed at eleven a.m., and he asked permission to be absent about that time to enable him to make the necessary arrangements as to obtaining the money they required.

This was agreed to.

Mr. ADAMS did not know whether he would be in order, but he thought they had a good chance of showing their practical sympathy with Kingswood. At previous Conferences the delegates had received 10s. per day, but at this Conference they were entitled to 11s. per day. He would like to suggest that each delegate forego the extra 1s., and that the same be given towards helping Kingswood out of their unfortunate position.

The PRESIDENT said it would be in order if the delegates so decided, but personally he thought they had already shown their practical sympathy with Kingswood. He did not think it would be carried. (Hear, hear.)

It was agreed to proceed with the next business.

In reply to a question, the PRESIDENT said it was the intention of the Council to take their proposals seriatim. Last evening they adjourned, after having heard a statement from the General Secretary as to the relations of the Executive with the Employers' Federation. He went most elaborately into the position, and it was now for them to discuss and offer any suggestion they might have for the guidance of the Council, which they might think worthy of the consideration of the Council. If they could not possibly see their way clear to suggesting any course of action, then would some one move that the Council have the right to deal with the matter should it crop up, in such a manner as they might think best for the interests of the Union. He was open to receive any suggestions.

No suggestions were forthcoming, and the PRESIDENT said if they felt they could not give any practical suggestions to the Executive, he desired that they would, at any rate, do something in the shape of a vote of confidence in the Executive, and give them the power to deal with the matter should there be occasion. They must recognise that there was likely to be another acute crisis before the next Conference, and he felt they had not sufficient to fight the Federation again. He would like to hear some suggestion from those gentlemen who were always cursing the action of the Executive.

Mr. ADAMS said, so far as they were concerned, they did not want the money which they had loaned to the Council paid back immediately.

Mr. INSKIP said that was not the question at issue, as that would come on in its proper order. He appealed for some suggestions in the event of them having to meet the employers again. Supposing it did involve them in a dispute again, the Executive wanted power from the delegates to stick to their guns.

Mr. SWEENEY thought the only course left open was for the delegates to state to the General Secretary and the Executive that they were prepared to stand their ground in the future as they had done in the past, and so far as giving that confidence, which he thought was necessary, if they had to fight again, he said they should give that confidence to their Executive. Referring to the late lock-out he did not think the thing could have been worked better than it was. What they wanted to do was, as Mr. Inskip stated yesterday, to place such power as was necessary in the Executive's hands, and tell them they were prepared to stand by any action they might, in their judgment, think it best to take in the general interests of the Union. Whatever move the employers might make he hoped every delegate would agree to that, and if they were to go through it again stick shoulder to shoulder. He moved that they give the Executive full power to act, and give them the support which is necessary.

Mr. CORT had very great pleasure in seconding that. If they did not take any definite resolution simply because they could not, then they ought to give unbounded confidence to those who represented them. They could not say what was going to transpire within the next twelve months. As local officials, they had been told they had no right to visit the employers in accordance with the Terms of Settlement, they had no voice in anything that affected their members. They had been told time after time they had no right to discuss this and that, and they had no right to see the shopmates for the purpose of consulting them. Although it distinctly stated in the Terms of Settlement, that all these questions should be discussed on the Board of Arbitration, the employers took up that position, and if another sacrifice has got to be made, the least they could do was to support the Executive through thick and thin.

Mr. FREAK thought a prospective resolution of that kind was a little out of place. To give the Executive a vote of confidence and not know what they were going to do was a little too previous. The time would shortly arrive when the different districts would elect their representatives on the Council, and that would be the best vote of confidence they could have.

The PRESIDENT said they did not ask for a vote of confidence, they asked for practical suggestions. He understood that Mr. Sweeney intended by his resolution that they were perfectly satisfied to leave the matter in the hands of the Council.

Mr. INSKIP suggested that the resolution should read as follows :--

"That this Conference, held at Manchester, having heard the statement of the General Secretary, hereby decides to give the Executive, for the time being, full power to deal with all questions as they arise with the Federation, conditionally upon them giving an assurance that, even though they risk another lock-out, they will protect the legitimate interests of the men, either against reductions or the conditions already obtained. In the event of a dead-lock occurring between the Union and Federation, before action is taken, the vote of the Union be ascertained as to the course to be pursued."

Mr. SWEENEY accepted that as his resolution.

Mr. PAGE desired an explanation as to what the Council considered a reduction of wages. In the event of the London Board of Arbitration, on the questions of black waists, deciding that they shall not be paid for on several firms, thus reducing the wages because of the decision of the Board of Arbitration, would that be considered a reduction?

The PRESIDENT answered that if a Board of Arbitration decided what the rate of wages should be, it would be legitimately settled, and the Council would not fight for that.

Mr. VOTIER said there were some shops already paying this extra, and there were a number who were members of the Federation who were not paying, and would not until the Board deals with the question. He should certainly consider it would be a reduction of wages. It was worth paying for, or they would not have paid it.

Mr. INSKIP said he should answer in the affirmative if the employer did not belong to the Board of Arbitration. If he did then they must abide by it, and under those circumstances he should not consider it a direct reduction of wages.

Mr. PAGE said he was bound to differ from that interpretation.

Mr. INSKIP: I am not surprised at that.

Mr. PAGE said it was because they could not get from the Council any distinct definition of what was a reduction that London was in the position it was that day. He would ask what the Council considered a reduction?

Mr. INSKIP: I have answered you.

Mr. PAGE wanted to know upon what grounds the Council, or those who represented the men when the Terms of Settlement were made, guaranteed the £1,000 of their funds?

The PRESIDENT said that was done because they thought it was desirable that they should have some kind of a guarantee from the employers, that they would duly carry out the contracts they entered into, and the employers felt the same in relation to the Union. At that time they wanted the matter settled, as they had come down to less than £3,000. If the employers had have known that they would not have got such good terms as they did. They were only too pleased to get the employers to fix down to a guarantee of £1,000, and he considered the money was well invested. They had to do it for the general good.

Mr. GREEN said the mover of the resolution distinctly stated it was a vote of confidence.

Mr. SWEENEY denied this, as it was merely a resolution to give the Executive full power to deal with the Federation.

Mr. GREEN, continuing, said he took it that the rules gave them full power.

The PRESIDENT said the Council felt the responsibility of their position, and they asked for their help by way of practical suggestions, the same as they did at the Leicester delegate meeting, but unlike that meeting, on the present occasion, they were not able to lay before them any alternatives. If the Conference could not offer them any suggestions, what was their next best move? The Council did not ask for a vote of confidence, they asked for some powers to deal with the matter, and Mr. Sweeney had moved a resolution to that effect. If they disagreed with that let them point out some other method.

Mr. SWEENEY said he did not look upon the resolution as a vote of confidence, it was a motion giving the Executive full power to act. It was their duty, and their interest, to pledge the Conference to give the utmost assistance to the Council.

Mr. ADAMS supported the resolution. They also would do their level best to back up the Council, and he hoped all the other districts would do the same, so that they would be able to go back and say they had asked their Council to do all they possibly could to stop the reductions that were going on, and if they could not get any advance, at any rate keep their wages as they were at the present time. He thought a levy of 10s. should have been imposed instead of 4s. The men grumbled at paying the 4s., and they could only have done the same had they have been called upon to pay 10s.

Mr. INSKIP said they wanted to be in a position, when bringing questions before a Board, to say, "If you do not do these things we go to Sir Courtenay Poyle or Lord James," as the case may be, and they wanted to be able to enforce their right to withdraw from that particular Board if they would not consider the questions brought forward, although probably it would be the means of bringing on a crisis. If the employers would not discuss these questions, it placed the workmen in a dilemma, and they were not prepared to put up with it. That was why they wanted an expression from the Conference whether it was practicable or not, and if they would make some attempt to solve this difficult position, the least they could do was to give the Executive the power to do it.

Mr. BUSH said he heard the statement of the General Secretary with great seriousness, for although they had got through one crisis it appeared to be possible that they might have to meet another. If that was so he hoped they would be more unanimous than they had been upon the question brought before them that week. He was sorry for the position taken up by the members in reference to the levy, because it was a question of money, and, unfortunately for them, they were in a poor position, simply because they had got no money, or not sufficient to go through another lock-out. He was sorry the levy was not continued for a further length of time. If trade was good he should suggest another levy, but, unfortunately, trade was very bad. He supported the resolution,—he felt that they could not make any suggestions. They could only place the power in the hands of the Executive,—they had answered their expectations. They had acted as well as it was possible to act, and in the case of the General President and General Secretary they had done what men could do for the Union, and he did hope the members of the Conference would give their support to the resolution.

Mr. VOTIER desired to take that opportunity of explaining a matter that referred to the Terms of Settlement, as one gentleman had referred to it previously, and that was the grindery question. He did introduce that question when the Terms of Settlement were being discussed, but they knew that the employers would strongly object to finding their own grindery, and it was felt that if that was insisted upon it would have the effect of prolonging the lock-out. The grindery question was dropped in the negotiations re the Terms of Settlement, on condition that the employers gave way on the question of non-Unionists. He defended the action of the representatives of the workmen in agreeing to those Terms of Settlement. They had the full power of the members to do so, and in London they passed a resolution, which was drafted by Mr. Freak, pledging the men to give full power to the Executive. The men did not raise any objection, and passed the resolution unanimously that the Council should have a free hand. When questions of interpretation came up they had instructed the General Secretary to point out what they understood by the Terms of Settlement, and that the members had the right to recognise their interpretation, and the question had been submitted to Sir Courtenay Boyle, and they had come off victorious on every occasion.

Mr. JAMES said he was one of those who were dissatisfied with the Terms of Settlement. He thought the simplest course they could have taken was to take a vote of the Union as to whether those Terms should be accepted or not.

The PRESIDENT said, as to the grindery question, it was decided to bring it forward at the Board of Trade, but they never expected they would be able to carry it. It was simply brought forward as a counter proposal to some of the employer's demands.

Mr. SHEPPARD said it had been stated that the Council had full power to deal with all questions^s as they presented themselves, but everyone knew, so far as the Council were concerned, although previous to having a strike, they had resolutions pledging the support of the members passed in branches throughout the United Kingdom, and the Council did all it was possible to do, yet votes of censure were sent in, and it was because they were not prepared to go through that experience again that they asked them to suggest a course of action for them to take, if it was so, that they had not done their duty to those they represented. Referring to the Arbitration programme it was decided, by a big majority, to go in for Arbitration, and as long as that was so he was going to loyally abide by and support it in the interests of the majority. London had claimed exemption from Arbitration, and they did not think they had any more right to claim that than any other branch throughout the United Kingdom, and he believed it was because they had insisted upon questions going before the Board that London was so much opposed to the Council. They had a case from London where the men claimed that a shoe could not be made at less than best quality, while upon their statement it would be a third's. How was it possible for them to go to an Empire on such questions as those? That was one of the reasons why London and the Council were at loggerheads. If the officials had have taken up the position they should have done, instead of placing obstacles in the way of the Council, the position would long since have righted itself. It was a most unfair position. He pointed out the difficulties the Council had had to face during the last twelve months, and asked the delegates to give them full power to grapple with the questions, and if they could not do that, then give them some suggestion as to the course of action to be taken. If they could not, at any rate give the Council power to do what they thought best under the circumstances which might arise.

Mr. RICHARDS said he could support the resolution provided it does not give the Council power to settle in the event of another crisis before taking a vote of the Union. That was the position he took up, and he thought there were others who held a similar view.

Mr. INSKIP : So long as we are clear that is all we want.

Mr. RICHARDS said if a vote had been taken prior to the Terms of Settlement being signed, the responsibility would have been the members and not the Council's. It was in the Council's own interest that that course should be adopted. With a body of men there were sure to be some grievances outside the pale of the Union, and not for them to interfere with as officers. It should be for those men to come out on strike, and not for them to interfere and force them in again. So long as they did not appeal to them for assistance he did not think they should interfere with them. No doubt the Executive did it with the best of intentions, and they were quite right. The employers had always had the right of discharging men when they liked, but he was sorry to say they had never used it to such a great extent as they had done since the Terms of Settlement. They could meet employers much better before these terms existed than they could at the present time.

Mr. ADAMS would like to see a better feeling exhibited from one delegate to another. There had been a statement made that some officials had tried to place obstacles in the way of the Executive. He hoped that was not true. They should give credit for good intentions, and there should be no vindictive spirit exhibited. He could see that it was impossible to give definite instructions. All they could do was to say to the Executive use your best judgment if the crisis comes. He thought it would be the height of madness to attempt to put a levy on the members at the present juncture.

Mr. QUINN also supported the resolution.

Mr. LAMBSON upheld the action of the London South branch. He asked if there had been a single meeting held where they had gone against the action of the Executive?

Mr. INSKIP said there was not, and he would gladly admit that the London South branch had loyally upheld the Executive in what they had done.

Mr. PAGE wished to ask what was the meaning of the paragraph in the Terms of Settlement, which stated that no previous rules or conditions, or decisions of the local Arbitration Boards shall be altered or rescinded? On that question rested the whole difficulty that had occurred with the London men. Mr. Votier had stated that the first and second class shops were not to be interfered with in any shape or form by the Terms of Settlement. (Mr. Votier : "No.") In consequence of this, men in London were joining the Amalgamated Union, and that was one of the greatest difficulties they had to contend with. They could not get a proper explanation from the officials of that Union, they did not work hand in hand with them. (A voice : "They were joining because they would not pay the levy.") They (the Amalgamated Union) did not recognise the Terms of Settlement.

Mr. VOTIER said he never stated that the Terms of Settlement would not apply to the first and second class shops in London. The Settlement stated that all previous awards, agreements, decisions of Boards, etc. should still remain in existence, and the Terms of Settlement certainly did apply to those particular shops.

The resolution was subsequently put to the meeting, and carried by 36 votes to 3.

Mr. INSKIP asked that those who voted against the resolution would kindly suggest something to put in its place. (Applause.)

Mr. PAGE said the reason he did not vote for the resolution was because he knew the strong controversy that would arise from it, and in face of the unanimous objection of the members in London against their Council member, and he did not see how it was possible that he could vote for that resolution.

The Conference then proceeded to consider the second of the Council's proposals, which was as follows :—

"The Council to lay before the Conference a statement as to the financial liabilities of the Union, and its relation to the Employers' Federation, and the branches of the Union."

Mr. INSKIP said they would remember, that when giving his report he did not read the table of figures affixed to his report. He now wished to refer the Delegates to that table of figures. The bottom corner of the left hand side of that table showed them their exact position, and he might say that the table was got out up till last Friday (May 22nd), and that represented the present state of their funds. He had had occasion to send to Ipswich the sum of £30, so that the total would be reduced by that amount, and that would show absolutely how they stood at that moment. He would draw their attention to the fact that the sick fund was not available in case of dispute, unless similar tactics were adopted to those used by the Council on the last occasion, and for which they were censured in some instances. Their action was, however, approved of in the majority of cases, and he was fain to confess that if they again found themselves in a similar position, he, personally, would take the responsibility of doing ditto. He pointed out that they had in the trade department, in round figures, some £13,000. That was all that was available. He need scarcely say that was not a satisfactory state of things, but if they paid back the money borrowed from branches, they were practically bankrupt, and although he should much like to see it repaid, he was going to ask that they allow it to remain in abeyance for two years, until the next Conference, and by that time they would know what position they occupied and whether it would be possible to repay the loan, and if not, the branches would have to wipe it off as a bad debt. It was a serious position to be placed in, and they could quite understand the anxiety of the Council to get some practical suggestions from the Conference. Personally, he would like to see a levy. That was his opinion. He was quite content that they should decide how and when the levy was to be paid. He was sorry the suggestion brought forward by Mr. James at the Stafford Conference was not carried. He was of opinion that had that been done, they would have had the £100,000, and had they had that amount on the occasion of the late Lock-out, it would have been sufficient to have beaten the Federation. The employers took advantage of them because they knew the Union had no money, and he was of opinion that they would not attempt to run these things if they knew the Union had a sufficiently heavy central fund. He made that suggestion to them, because if they paid back that money they would have none at all left. There need be no resolution saying they would not pay it back, but that they should postpone the repayment until the next Conference. He begged to submit that suggestion on behalf of the Executive. If they did not adopt that suggestion, and they said the money was to be returned, the Council would have to ask for some resolution empowering them to obtain money, because it was impossible to continue the business of the Union without it.

Mr. FREAK proposed—

"That the loans advanced to the Council at the time of the lock-out, by the various branches, should be put on the credit side of the branch, Dr. and Cr."

He believed that would be the best way of dealing with this question. The Council would not then have to pay the money away, but would have it in the bank all the time, and then it would give the branches who owed money to the Council a chance of clearing off their debt.

Mr. INSKIP said if that was carried it meant that the Council would have no money coming in whatever, as it would take a few months to reduce the credit, and he would suggest that the question be postponed until next Conference.

Mr. FREAK's resolution, not being seconded, fell through.

Mr. WILLIAMSON (Northampton) moved—

"That the question of loans, owing by the Council to some of the branches, be postponed until next Conference."

Mr. CORT seconded the last resolution, and in doing so said they had been instructed to vote for the return, but after hearing the explanation of the General Secretary, he thought there would be no difficulty in supporting this resolution, as the members only wished to know whether the Council intended to return the loans.

Mr. INSKIP : The Council intend to own the loans as a debt owing to the different branches.

Mr. SWEENEY said he should support the resolution, although instructed to ask for the return of the loan, but he could now plainly see, after Mr. Inskip's explanation, that it would be impossible for the Council, at the present juncture, to return the same.

Mr. DUNCAN said when their members instructed them to ask for the return of their loan they did not say what date it was to be returned, and as the Council acknowledged the debts he should support the resolution.

Mr. REYNOLDS also had been instructed to ask the Conference for the return of the loan advanced to the Council during the lock-out, but the explanation being satisfactory to him he should support the resolution.

Mr. MORETON moved, as an amendment—

“That should a strike occur in any branch which has loaned money to the Council, should circumstances arise requiring such loan, the Council shall repay the same, or such part of it as may be required.”

He asked the Council if they would add this to their resolution?

The PRESIDENT: The Council cannot accept the amendment as an addition to their resolution.

Mr. PAGE seconded the amendment.

The Conference then adjourned for dinner.

On resuming, the GENERAL SECRETARY read the roll call, when all the delegates answered, with the exception of Mr. Ayton, who came in a little later on.

Continuing the discussion on the question of returning the branch funds as loaned to the Council.

Mr. BUSH supported the resolution moved by Mr. Williamson.

Mr. MASON asked whether, if a branch became unfinancial, yet had a loan in the hands of the Council, would the Council scratch that particular branch?

The PRESIDENT said if a case like that did arise the Council would have to use their discretion in dealing with the same.

Mr. JAMES asked whether Bristol, who had only got £20 odd in hand, would be justified in asking the Council for a return of a portion of their funds?

Mr. INSKIP: Any branch can apply, but whether they get any will have to remain to be seen.

The question was then put—for the amendment 11, against 30.

The amendment being lost, the resolution was put, and 32 voted for it, and 3 against.

The PRESIDENT then declared the resolution carried.

Mr. HAMMOND rose to move a further amendment, when he was ruled out of order.

Mr. INSKIP, for the benefit of the delegates, I will read the loans out, which are as follows:—

Mr. CURLEY asked whether the branches, who did not send any money to the Council, had any branch funds?

Mr. LAMBSON said as far as London South was concerned their trustees had withdrawn £60, and the secretary was only waiting for a letter from the Council asking when it was to be sent.

Mr. INSKIP said all the branches had a circular requesting that the branch funds be sent in immediately, and he would suggest that Mr. Lambson enquire about the same on his return.

Mr. GREEN said the reason why they did not send was because they had none to send.

Report of the Committee appointed to consider the Sick Rules.

Mr. SMITH said the committee had endeavoured to make the rule rather more clear than was the case at present, but there was a difference of opinion, even on the committee, as to what constituted twelve consecutive months. They had drawn up a resolution, which they submitted to the Conference, and which they hoped would be inserted in the rules for the guidance of secretaries, so that all would be on the same lines.

The report of the committee was as follows :—

Paragraph 5, Rule 36, to read—"Male members declaring on the sick fund shall receive 10s. per week for twelve weeks in any twelve consecutive months, and a female member 5s. per week during the same period, provided it is drawn continuously. But should a member declare on the sick fund oftener than once during such twelve months, the whole amount previously drawn, if coming within the twelve months previous to the date on the declaring on certificate, shall be reckoned against him. Example ; Suppose a member drew one day's sick pay on the 29th of May in any year, and declares on again on the 29th of May the following year, that day's pay shall be counted."

Mr. WOOLLEY said that was the way the Leicester branch had interpreted the rule ; Northampton and Kettering had also done the same.

Mr. INSKIP said a man could not draw for two 29ths May in one year into the £6. If he draws on the 29th May he cannot draw for the 29th May the following year.

The PRESIDENT : He cannot draw until the 30th.

Mr. SMITH : Take it 31st December. He draws his pay for the 1st January, and he can draw up to the second day of January the next year so long as he has not exceeded the £6.

Mr. FREAK said the interpretation given by the committee was what they had done in London.

After a number of minor questions had been put and answered, the report of the committee on paragraph 5, rule 36, was adopted, on the motion of Mr. GOLDSBOROUGH, seconded by Mr. WILLIAMSON.

Leeds had given notice to increase the sick benefit from 10s. to 12s. per week. The Committee were opposed to this, and Mr. Sweeney agreed to withdraw it.

Leeds had also given notice on line 7, paragraph 5, to insert after the word "pay," "and that at least he or she shall have worked thirteen weeks during the above probation, except in cases of failing eyesight, or loss of limb."

Mr. SWEENEY said he was prepared to withdraw that also.

Northampton had given notice to strike out part of lines 6 and 7, paragraph 7, and add at the end of paragraph, "the sick and funeral section—2s. 6d. first offence, 5s. second offence."

Mr. ADAMS said they had a case of a member being unable to work in consequence of a cut finger. He attended the races, and it was reported to their officials by another member. They were bound to investigate the case, and they had no alternative but to fine him 10s. according to rule. (Hear, hear.) They thought a sufficient penalty upon the man for his first offence would be 2s. 6d.

Mr. CURLEY thought the man had no right to attend the races while in receipt of sick pay. They had had men working in their garden, and had been fined for it. He thought the rule should remain as it was.

The committee were opposed to the alteration, and it was agreed that the rule remain as at present.

Glasgow No. 2 moved on paragraph 10, line 6, Rule 36, to add, "All arrears to be deducted from the first sick instalment paid as benefit ;" also "members must be clear at the end of each financial year of their branch."

Mr. SMITH said the committee distinctly opposed that.

Bristol No. 2 moved to add to paragraph 10, "That in the event of a member declaring on the sick fund, and not having a clear card, his or her arrears shall be reduced by the paying of double contributions each week until the debt is paid."

The committee were opposed to that.

Northampton moved to strike out the whole of paragraph 14, and insert in its place the following : "Members joining over forty years of age, shall join for trade purposes only."

This fell to the ground in consequence of a previous resolution of the Conference.

Norwich moved that paragraph 15 reads as follows : "That in the event of any member being totally incapacitated, for the space of two years, from following his employment, such member shall not be entitled to further sick pay."

The committee were of opinion that the present paragraph should remain in force.

Northampton moved, on paragraph 1, line 2, Rule 37, to alter "£2 to £1 10s."

This was a proposition to alter the amount of benefit upon the death of a member's wife to £1 10s., the same as was paid upon the death of a female member.

Northampton also desired to move to delete lines 3 and 4, paragraph 1, Rule 37, and to delete the whole of paragraph 3.

The committee were of opinion that the rule should remain as at present.

Mr. MORETON said the Conference gave the committee full power to act in relation to Rules 36 to 37. (Cries of "No. no.")

The PRESIDENT : It was distinctly stated that the committee were to consider the rules, and submit their decision to the Conference.

Mr. RICHARDS moved, and Mr. MORETON seconded, the adoption of the committee's report as submitted.

This was carried by 27 votes to 9.

The Conference then proceeded with the consideration of the fourth of the Council's proposals, which was as follows :—

"The Council to ask the Conference to take into consideration what steps should be taken upon the expiry of Sir Henry James' (now Lord James) award."

Mr. LOWE said, when introducing the question of the number of boys entering the trade, they asked that the ratio should be one boy to five men, but Lord James decided that it should be one boy to three men. That award expired in September of the present year, and it was necessary they should ask that it be increased to one boy to five men. He moved—

"That on the expiration of the award of Lord James, the number of boys employed in the various departments be one to five."

Mr. HAMMOND seconded. They had that in existence in Stafford at the present time.

Mr. WATSON said he supposed they would count from the age of 18, as formerly.

The resolution was carried, 34 voting in its favour, and none against.

Mr. VOTIER moved the next of the Council's proposals—

"The Council to ask the Conference to consider the advisability of asking for a National minimum wage for clickers, pressmen, lasters, and finishers, and the steps to be taken (if any) to obtain the same."

He said this question had been considered at previous Conferences, but they had not been able to arrive at any definite conclusion. It was thought that with machinery being introduced to such a great extent, something in the shape of a minimum wage should be established, with the view of introducing a uniform system. The employers insisted upon the highest quantity of work being turned out, whatever the wages they paid.

Mr. T. ALLEN seconded.

Mr. GREEN asked whether he understood Mr. Votier to include London in this?

Mr. VOTIER said it would not be National if they exempted London.

Mr. GREEN said if they fixed on a minimum of 30s. for the county, it should be, at least, 34s. or 35s. for London, in consequence of the higher rate of living.

Mr. CURLEY moved that they proceed to the next business. The necessity for exempting London showed that the resolution was impracticable. They could not live under the same conditions in all places.

Mr. HUDSON seconded, and this was carried by 26 votes to 20.

Mr. MOORE introduced the following :—

"The Council to ask the Conference to consider the question of piece-work statements versus day-work."

He had always expressed himself in favour of piece-work, but the majority on the Council were in favour of day-work. Piece-work would be the means of putting the slower men on an equality with the better men.

The PRESIDENT said they desired an expression of the Conference in relation to that question. It was a fact that the majority of the Council were in favour of day-work, and yet they were pledged to piece-work.

Mr. LEEDHAM was directly opposed to a piece-work statement. From the experience he had gained during the last 18 months, he was convinced that it was impracticable. If ever they enforced the piece-work statement it would be quality instead of quantity, and it would also have the effect of introducing machinery even at a greater rate than at the present time. The majority of the men he came in contact with were decidedly in favour of day-work. The piece-work statement would have the effect of throwing men into the streets who were employed at the present time, owing to the displacement of their labour by machinery. He hoped they would not pass such a resolution as would instruct their officials or the Council to send that matter before the Board of Arbitration, because he was fully persuaded if they did they would be far worse off than they were at the present time. He should strongly oppose the introduction of piece-work statements.

Mr. INSKIP said they desired an expression of opinion for and against.

Mr. WOOLLEY said paragraph 1 of the Terms of Settlement stated "This Conference is of opinion that a piece-work statement or statements for Lasting and Finishing machine workers, and those working in connection therewith, are desirable." Their members had decided to accept piece-work by a large majority. They were already pledged, and it seemed to him a waste of time to discuss that matter now. They had a committee appointed in Leicester to draft out a piece-work statement and the committee had had several meetings, which had cost them considerable expense, and he believed other branches were hanging back to see the result of the Leicester Committee.

Mr. FREAK moved that they proceed to the next business, and this was carried by 33 votes to 6.

Mr. SMITH brought forward the following:—

"The Council to ask the Conference to consider the best means of organisation, and to pass such resolutions as may be deemed necessary in relation thereto."

He brought this forward on behalf of the Council, who had done what they could to assist branches by making small grants in the ordinary way to enable them to hold meetings, and by other means they thought best. The Council simply asked that if possible they would offer some practical suggestions with the view of the better organisation of the districts throughout the country.

Mr. ADAMS said he had no suggestion to make, what they had been doing was the holding of shops' meetings, and he did not know of any other method. When the time was opportune, they had done everything they possibly could in that direction, and he thought they obtained the best results by that medium.

Mr. WOOLLEY suggested that the Council should submit to branches a proposition that the Council were prepared to pay the expenses of organising the various districts. They had had three or four men per week on Saturdays, to organise the various shops about pay time. One difficulty they had to contend with was that of finding men to take the position of shops' president, because if it got to the knowledge of the employer the man was intimidated, and it was not all men that would take the position. This system entailed some considerable expense upon them, and they made an application for a grant from the Council, who did not mean to be extravagant, and allowed them the sum of £10. He anticipated something like £50. It was not encouraging to branches. He thought the Council should encourage every branch by grants to enable them to adopt some such system as that existing in Leicester. £10 was not sufficient for their purpose, and he suggested that the Council should make substantial grants to branches who suggested taking similar action to their own.

Mr. INSKIP said he was sorry to hear such a branch as Leicester, with all their thousands of pounds (laughter), complain; they could well afford to expend a little in that direction, instead of further reducing the central fund, which the Council were anxious to see built up to a substantial sum as soon as possible. They did not mention the cases where men paid contributions for three, four and five months, and then ceased paying. Not a penny of that goes to the Union, it all goes back to the branch funds, and yet Mr. Woolley said it was no encouragement to a branch. The Council recognised the necessity of organisation, and they wanted the branches to assist them, and they would assist the branches as much as they could. He would admit that if they calculated in accordance with what other branches had had, the Leicester branch had not had nearly so big a sum; and if they had plenty of money, he should not object to spending a substantial sum, but they had not, and he would suggest that a small grant from the central fund, and a large grant from the branch funds, should be divided for the purpose of holding shops' meetings, etc. The branch could afford to be generous, while he repeated the Union was on the verge of bankruptcy until they had £100,000. In the event of the President not being engaged, and any district applied for his services to address meetings, etc., he was sure he (Mr. Hornidge) would be willing to do that, and his expenses would be paid from the central funds. He thought that would be a practical way of organising.

Mr. RICHARDS agreed with the statement of the General Secretary. When they decided to go in for a permanent president, he thought it was understood that he should devote his spare time to organising, but with the large number of disputes he was called upon to investigate, he had very little time to devote to such a purpose.

Mr. POULTON believed although they may have lost some of their members, they had not left them definitely. They, in Northampton, had the same difficulty to contend with respecting getting men to take the position of shop presidents. If it could be somehow arranged that the men could pay their contributions on the spot he thought they would get more members enrolled.

There were a number who would not take the trouble to go up to the office to pay their contributions. They did it at one time very successfully. They had found great difficulty in getting the men to take up that position, as employers often found some way of getting rid of them, upon them undertaking that office.

Mr. GOLDSBOROUGH said he believed he was right in saying that the majority of the men who had left them were day workers. They seemed to imagine that after getting a job as a day worker they were safe for all time and ceased paying to the Union. Another reason he thought was because a number left the factory by another door, and did not see the shop president at all.

The following was the next item on the agenda :—

“The Council to ask if there shall be any alteration in the representation of the Union at the Trades’ Union Congress. If so, they submit the three following alternatives :—

- 1st.—That there shall be four representatives to represent the Union, the Executive to pay the whole of the cost from the Central Fund.
- 2nd.—That a representative from each and every district shall be elected in like manner to the existing method of election for Council members, the Executive to pay the contributions to the Parliamentary Committee’s fund, and the districts to pay the expenses and entrance fees of the delegates in their particular district.
- 3rd.—That the Council pay the contribution to the Parliamentary Committee’s fund, and the branch in the district successful in obtaining the delegate, shall pay his expenses and entrance fee as formerly.”

Mr. INSKIP, in bringing this matter forward, said they must be aware that there had been a radical change in the representation at the Trades’ Union Congress, and that, for the first time, the actual number of representatives was the system that the Congress had adopted, or in other words, representation by numbers. One result of the alteration was that the Council paid the contribution to the Parliamentary Committee, viz., £1 per thousand members, and the Council last year paid £45, whereas the branches, under the old system, used to pay their quota themselves. They felt that some alteration in the system of representation at the Congress should be made. Before last year, if they had eight delegates at the Congress, they had eight tickets, which represented eight votes. The Council had suggested the three alternatives as stated above. The second one was on similar lines as last time, only it would be more definite representation. As for the third, supposing the London Metro. branch got the representative for their district by reason of their numbers, London would pay the delegate’s expenses and entrance fee. If there were more than one, the expenses would be divided between the branches in that particular district. In other words, the system adopted last year was that the delegates from the branches had the voting power for the number of members represented by those branches, and the President and himself divided the remainder the Union (which, of course, they represented) were entitled to, between them.

Mr. FREAK said there was certainly some necessity for an alteration in the system of voting at the Congresses. (Hear, hear.) Last year was the first time they voted by cards. That was, they had a number of cards, each card representing 1,000 members. Mr. Inskip and Mr. Votier had 20,000 votes between them, and the remainder were split up amongst the delegates of the Union who were present. He himself had 2,000 votes, whilst Mr. Inskip had 10,000.

Mr. VOTIER reminded the Conference that Mr. Inskip and Mr. Hornidge were elected to represent the Union, but in consequence of illness the President was unable to attend, and he (Mr. Votier) being the next highest candidate, was asked to attend in his place, whilst Mr. Freak was elected to represent his branch, which was a very different matter.

Mr. FREAK, continuing, said he did not think one representative from each district was enough. He thought the number of representatives they had last time was ten, and if they divided the country up into five districts, and elected two representatives from each district, that would be more adequate representation, and there would then be no question of one man having 20,000 votes against 2,000. He believed in democracy, and he believed in everyone having an equal chance. Their General Secretary had been for many years a member of the Parliamentary Committee, and had also had the honour of being treasurer to that committee for some considerable time past, which he felt sure they all appreciated, and were proud to see him occupy that position, and he thought it was nothing but right to attend the Congresses by virtue of that office. He knew that, as a matter of fact, they were entitled to send 45 representatives, but they did not want that number, it was too expensive. He thought two from each district would be ample, and the General Secretary to go by virtue of his office, but he did not think it right that two men should represent them.

Mr. POULTON pointed out that this would not be fair to the smaller branches. They might find one of their best men in the smallest branches, but he would have no chance of election.

Mr. WATSON moved that two delegates from each district be elected in like manner to the existing method of election for Council members, the Executive to pay the whole of the cost, but that they shall charge it to the branches proportionately.

Mr. VOTIER seconded.

Mr. FREAK moved as an amendment :—

“That the present system of representation at the Trades Congress being unsatisfactory, this Conference decides that in the future there shall be two representatives from each district of the Union, the representation and voting to be the same as in the case of the members of the Council, and that the General Secretary go by virtue of his office ; the expenses of the same to be paid from the central funds, but the branches afterwards to pay their proportionate share so as to recoup the Council.”

Mr. MASON seconded the amendment. He thought that would be far more representative of the Union.

Mr. WOOLLEY thought that as regarded the General Secretary, the General President should also go by virtue of his office.

Mr. FREAK said the reason he suggested that the General Secretary should go was by virtue of his office on the Parliamentary Committee.

A DELEGATE asked whether Mr. Freak would incorporate Mr. Hornidge's name in addition to the General Secretary.

Mr. FREAK declined to do this.

Mr. PAGE supported the resolution. The resolution would mean that the General Secretary and President would have to be elected by the district to which they belonged. If they could not get elected by their members, they had no right to represent them at the Congress.

Mr. WOOLLEY pointed out that if that course were adopted it would mean that they would not be able to send direct representatives from the branch as they had done formerly. He did not see why the General Secretary and General President should not run for the London district just as well as for Leicester.

Mr. Page said he would not object to that if they were members of the London branch.

Eventually the matter was put to the meeting, and there voted in favour of Mr. Freak's amendment 39, against 12.

For Mr. Watson's resolution 9, against 40. Mr. Freak's amendment then became the resolution, and Mr. VOTIER asked whether this would come into operation for the Congress of this year.

The PRESIDENT replied in the negative.

Mr. POULTON then moved as an amendment to the resolution—

“That two members from each district in the Union be sent to the Congress, with the addition of the General Secretary and the General President, who shall go by virtue of their respective offices. The Executive of the Union to pay in the first instance the whole of the expenses, with power to charge such expenses pro. ratio to each branch of the Union.”

He thought it would be an injustice to the Leicester branch to ask that either the General Secretary or the General President should be elected as representatives of the branch. They did not represent the branch, they represented the whole Union. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. FREAK asked whether the whole of the delegates who went, representing the Union, would have equal power of voting.

Mr. INSKIP : Yes ; certainly.

Mr. WILLIAMSON seconded Mr. Poulton's amendment.

Mr. PAGE asked who was going to pay the expenses of the General Secretary and the General President, in the event of this being carried.

The PRESIDENT said that as they went by virtue of their office, the expenses would be paid out to the central fund.

Mr. BUSH asked whether the resolution would interfere with the right of a branch sending a representative direct if they so desired ?

Mr. INSKIP replied that the delegates appointed under those circumstances would be entitled to sit, and have a voice at the Congress, but he would have no voting power, because the branch would already be represented by the delegates elected by the district ; but he again pointed out that that would not refer to the Congress of 1896.

Mr. BUSH, as a protest against the resolution interfering with the right of a branch to send a delegate of its own, moved that they proceed to the next business.

Mr. STANTON seconded, but it was not carried.

It was moved, seconded, and carried, that the vote be now taken.

For Mr. Poulton's amendment 31, against 17.

Mr. Freak's resolution was lost by a large majority, three only voting in its favour.

The amendment was, therefore, declared carried.

In reply to a question as to the expenses,

The PRESIDENT said it should be fully understood that the whole of the expenses of the delegates would be taken out of the branch funds, but that they would be paid out of the central funds ; but the Executive had power to charge such expenses to the branches with their portion of the same.

Mr. BUSH moved that any branch be allowed to send representatives to the Trades' Congress at their own expense, and also that three out of the ten delegates be given to the No. 2 branches.

Mr. RICHARDS thought the branches had that power, even though the resolution was carried.

The PRESIDENT said a branch could send a representative direct, and he would be allowed to sit, but he would not have a vote because the two representatives of his district had already got his vote.

Mr. INSKIP said it was only fair to admit that the result of the resolution would be one of hardship to the Leicester No. 2 branch. It would affect them more than any branch in the Union, because they had been in the habit of sending a representative to the Congress, and under the new order of things it was very doubtful whether they would get their representative elected. He was also bound to say that they had no possibility of giving the representative a vote in the event of one being sent direct from the branch, and he did not think they would be willing to send him under those conditions.

It was agreed to proceed to the next business by 34 votes to 10.

Mr. BUSH rose to a point of order. Now that the next business was carried, did it not mean that the whole subject of the business they were discussing was dropped?

The PRESIDENT : No.

Mr. GREEN moved, and Mr. O'GRADY seconded, the adjournment of the Conference until morning, but this was not carried.

The next business was :—

“The General Secretary to lay before the Conference the action of the Judges in the cases of Wilkins v. Lyons, Bowerman v. The Linotype Company, and Pye v. Bailey, under the ‘Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act, 1875,’ and to ask the Conference what share of responsibility they are prepared to take (if any) in pressing the matter to the final appeal prior to asking for fresh legislation.”

Mr. INSKIP said being a member of the Parliamentary Committee he had been able to go thoroughly into these decisions of the judges. They had had the matter before that committee, and consulted as to what course of action should be pursued, for there could not be the slightest doubt but that the question was a vital one to all trade unions. They thought it was a case that should be taken to appeal, and they were fully alive to the expense of such an undertaking ; hence the appeal issued by the Parliamentary Committee for funds to enable them to carry that object into effect. He suggested that they should guarantee the sum of £100 to the Parliamentary Committee towards enabling them to take the cases to appeal with the view of doing their utmost to get the judgment reversed. The judges absolutely ignored the saving clause of the Bill under which the injunctions were granted.

Mr. GREEN, as one who knew something of the circumstances, had much pleasure in proposing that the sum of £100 be guaranteed to the Parliamentary Committee for that purpose.

Mr. POULTON seconded.

Mr. O'GRADY asked whether that would come out of the central fund.

Mr. INSKIP answered yes, and he would suggest that the larger branches who had funds should also grant a sum to the committee towards the same object.

It transpired that the Leicester branch had already made a grant of £25.

The resolution was carried unanimously, with acclamation.

The next item on the agenda was :—

The Council to ask the Conference for a resolution making it compulsory on branches who have branch funds and owe money to the Executive to keep clear month by month. In the event of their failing to do so, the Executive to be empowered to withhold the benefits of the Union until such debt is paid, even though it does not amount to the sum specified by rules.

Mr. SMITH, in introducing this matter, said they would see by the monthly report that a considerable amount of money was owing to the Council by branches throughout the country. They did not think that should be so. It was not right that branches should keep the money locally which belonged to the Union.

Mr. RICHARDS asked whether this matter was not dealt with when the Conference decided as to the Northampton resolution on rule 24.

The PRESIDENT said that was not so.

Mr. FREAK said they could not agree to this unless they expunged rule 24. He moved that they proceed to the next business.

Mr. PAGE seconded, and it was carried by 25 votes to 23.

This concluded the whole of the Council's proposals, and

The Conference then adjourned until 9.30, Saturday morning.

LAST DAY (Saturday).

The roll was called by Mr. Woolley in the absence of the General Secretary, who had obtained permission of the Conference to attend to the bank arrangements. All the delegates were present.

The minutes of Friday's proceedings were read by the Conference Secretary, and adopted, on the motion of Mr. CORT, seconded by Mr. ADAMS.

Mr. BUSH raised a question as to his resolution of the previous evening. The previous question was carried and he wished to know whether upon that being carried the whole question under discussion was not ruled out of order.

The PRESIDENT said he took it that when the previous question was carried it referred only to the previous resolution before the chair.

Mr. BUSH thought that was against the general rule of debate.

The Delegates decided that they be photographed at the conclusion of the business out of compliment to Mr. Ward, the Secretary of the Manchester branch. It being compulsory on all who sat to take one of the photos.

The Conference then considered the following additions to Rule 17, which were held over pending the consideration of the Council's proposals.

Leeds No. 1.—That in the event of a national strike or lock-out, financial members out of work, and in Union benefits, shall be entitled to strike or lock-out pay."

Leeds 2.—"That in case of a general strike or lock-out all members who are financial with their branch shall receive full benefits, whether they are in work or not at the time such strike or lock-out is declared."

Mr. SWEENEY said during the late Lock-out, they as branch officers had a great difficulty to contend with as to a number of old members who were out of work at that time, and could not get work, and for which they laid the blame on the Union, and were not entitled to dispute pay. There were a number of them good old members, and they thought they should do away with that difficulty. It was their opinion that these men should not be called upon to pay their contribution week by week, and then, in the event of a national strike or lock-out, be debarred from the strike pay. He claimed that a man who did not exceed the 4/- mark was entitled to the benefit. He believed that by doing this they would simply be doing their duty.

Mr. RICHARDS seconded.

Mr. CORT moved that the matter be left in the hands of the Executive.

Mr. S. ADAMS seconded.

Mr. INSKIP opposed the resolution. He did not think they need waste the time of the Conference on the matter, it would be purely and simply out of work pay if the resolution was carried, and they could not afford to pay that out of the 2d. per week paid for trade benefits. If it was insisted upon they must raise the contributions. The Union already paid more benefits than any other Union for the amount of contributions received, and they could not undertake to add to these benefits out of work pay from the contributions received. He maintained that they could not see their way clear to pay out of work benefit out of the 2d. per week under the present condition of the finances.

Mr. REYNOLDS moved the next business, and this was carried by a large majority.

The Team System.

The resolutions from Leeds and Northampton, asking for an explanation on Rule 22, were also left over pending the consideration of the Council's proposals, and the Conference now dealt with the same.

Mr. INSKIP said it fell to his lot to give the desired explanation on this rule, and as to what the intentions were when it was inserted in the rules. They would remember that when machinery was first introduced, the employers organised teams to work in conjunction therewith, to which the Union took no exception, so long as they paid the operatives full statement price. But the employers also did it for the purposes of introducing the team system by hand, and to this the Union took the strongest exception. Also in the case of the team system in conjunction with machinery, the machine would often get out of order, and the employers would then continue the team by hand, thus avoiding the statement wages, and this often made a great difference between the wages earned and the wages received. The Union took exception to this in the case of Lilley and Skinner's, of Bristol, who had been doing this for some time, and they brought the matter before Sir Thomas Wright, when the firm actually stated it was a recognised principle, and had been in existence 18 months. He gave a decision in favour of the firm, but they found that the men on this shop had made agreements with the firm to work on this system. He would like to impress upon the members the great necessity there was of not signing agreements with the employers under any circumstances whatever. They had had cases come under their notice where men had signed an agreement binding them to an employer for two years. What was their position if another crisis came about? The employers brought the matter before the National Conference, they attempting to obtain the team system by hand, but so strongly and successfully did the Union's representatives oppose it that the employers eventually withdrew it. It had cost the Union £100,000 to obtain their statements throughout the country, and they could quite understand that the Council had no desire to lose those statements. Therefore, it was decided to insert in the rules, "members working day or piece-work in teams will be considered to be working against the interests of the Union, and liable to a fine in accordance with Rule 32, or expulsion." That was inserted for the purpose of checking it, but he thought that in a short time the hand laster and the hand finisher would be as great a rarity as the hand-sewn man was at the present time, but he thought it was advisable to continue the objection to the team system by hand. It was also very desirable that their members should obtain the positions on the machines as they were introduced, in preference to outsiders, whom, no-doubt, the employers would attempt to work on the team system. He hoped they would not press for the abolition of this rule. The lasting machines only partly did their work in some cases, they only lasted them down the sides and at the seat, while the men had to last them at the toes.

Mr. ADAMS said there were one or two firms in Northampton where they had the men lasting women's work on day work, and the men making men's work on piece-work. He asked whether they could stop those firms, and insist upon all the men working on one system.

Mr. INSKIP replied that Sir Courtenay Boyle had decided that all on one process should work on one and the same system. He had also decided that lasting was one process, and that award would apply whether the men were making ladies' or men's work.

Mr. LEEDHAM contended that that was one of the most serious questions which had come before them. With regard to the team system, they all worked in teams, and for the life of him he could not see the difference between working in teams in conjunction with machinery or in teams by hand. He said machines were placed in factories as "bogies"; the machines did not do the work. It was the men who stood at the machines who really did the work.

Mr. SWEENEY asked if there was a lasting department, where 20 or 30 men were employed on piecework, and the employer was desirous of having ten more men in another room on day-work, could they claim that the whole of those men should be placed on piece-work?

The PRESIDENT said if any employer wanted 15 or 20 men on weekly wages, they would be asked to pay the whole of the men working on the same process weekly wages, or piece-work.

Mr. POULTON intimated he was satisfied with the explanation.

Mr. SWEENEY moved to delete after the word "working" in line 4 of paragraph 3, Rule 22. He said at the Edinburgh Conference the matter was relegated to the Council, and from that day to this they had been unable to get a definition as to what really constituted the team system.

Mr. BUCKLE seconded.

Mr. INSKIP said he had already given the explanation of that. The matter was relegated to a committee of the Council, who tried to deal with it, but they were unable to define exactly what was the team system owing to the absence of practical experience. He had his own opinion as to what the team system was, but the committee could not see eye to eye with him on the point.

Mr. RICHARDS supported the deletion of the words as suggested.

Mr. CORT opposed any deletion.

Mr. POULTON asked whether if this deletion was carried they could have the team system by hand.

The PRESIDENT: Certainly it does.

For the deletion 4, against, 38.

General Suggestions.

The Conference then proceeded to the consideration of the general suggestions.

The first three suggestions were to the following effect—

Aberdeen.—"That the Council repay the funds borrowed from branches by setting off monthly one penny per week per member till the funds borrowed be repaid."

Leicester No. 1.—"To ask the Council when they propose to return the money borrowed from branches."

Leicester No. 2.—"That the Council be instructed to repay the loan advanced by the Leicester No. 2. branch."

These fell through in consequence of the vote on the Council's proposal dealing with the matter.

Mr. QUINN moved—

Belfast, Cork, and Dublin.—“That this Conference regards the establishment of boot manufactories in every town and city (where a branch exists) by the National Union as the surest means of promoting the best interests of its members, and further resolve that a special committee be appointed to carry out this undertaking.”

He intimated that they would be content if the Conference would adopt the resolution as an expression of opinion.

Upon this understanding the resolution was carried unanimously.

The next item on the Agenda was :—

Higham and Rushden.—New Rule.—“That 20 per cent. per annum of the savings of the trade department be devoted for the extension of boot and shoe co-operative productive societies and retail shops in the various centres of the Union, and also to assist those already started who may be in financial difficulties, by granting loans from the above fund at a small percentage.”

[The above rule to be subject to the following conditions: That all members of such co-operative societies shall also be members of the trade union.]

Mr. BRAILSFORD moved the resolution, it being his duty as representing that branch.

Mr. RICHARDS seconded.

Mr. CORT moved the next business, which was carried by a large majority.

The next two items were :—

Chesterfield.—“That in future all branches shall be entitled to send one delegate to the Conference.”

Leicester No. 1.—“A proposal for re-arrangement of voting for Union representatives to Trades Union Congress on similar lines to the present method of electing Council members.”

These matters had already been dealt with.

The next suggestion emanated from Arbroath, and was as follows :—

“That the following be an instruction to all delegates representing the Union at the Trades Union Congress: ‘That on any question which has been decided, either by vote of the Union or by delegates assembled in Conference, the same shall be the policy of the Union, and delegates must vote strictly in accordance therewith.’”

Mr. INSKIP said the Council were agreed to accept that.—Agreed.

The next business also emanated from Arbroath as follows—

“That the Union representatives to the Trade Union Congress be instructed to oppose the present system of voting, and that they support the principle of each delegate having but one vote.”

Mr. MASON asked if that referred to the system adopted at the Congress last year.

Mr. SMITH (Arbroath) intimated that it did. He did not agree with the resolution himself.

It was agreed to proceed to the next business, which was as follows :—

Leicester No. 1.—Owing to the expiration of the award of Lord James in September next, we are of opinion that to count as men those over 18 and under 20 years of age, and not to pay them the minimum wage, is against the interests of the adult members. To move that the Council take the necessary steps to have the award so amended as to remove this anomaly.

Mr. INSKIP said this matter had been dealt with in connection with the Council's proposals.

Mr. CORT failed to see how that was so. He believed, so far as the Council's proposal on the subject was concerned, it referred to the one boy to five men up to the age of 18, and this was brought forward with a view to providing for those between the age of 18 and 20. He moved the resolution.

Mr. BRAILSFORD seconded, and it was agreed to.

Mr. RICHARDS moved the next paragraph :—

“That the minimum wage for riveters and finishers shall be not less than 30s. per week, and that youths working in these departments shall receive a minimum wage of 22s. per week from 17 to 18, 24s. per week from 18 to 19, and 26s. per week from 19 to 20 years of age.”

Mr. LOWE asked that clickers and pressmen be added to the resolution.

Mr. RICHARDS said they had no clickers or pressmen in their branch, and that, naturally, it was their own branch they were considering at the time. He was quite agreeable to the addition being made. They had had youths at 18 being paid, say 14s. per week, and upon them arriving at the recognised age and asking for the minimum wage, the employer refused to give it to them because it was such a big advance. If they knew of a member who had arrived at the age stipulated and was not getting the minimum, they did what they could by seeing the employer, and if they could not then arrange, they asked the men in the shop what they thought the member was worth, and if they said he was worth the minimum they went to the employer and generally arranged some specified time when the member should come under the minimum of 28s. He was confident there was no other trade which gave greater facilities for entering the trade than theirs did, and there was no trade which gave such great facilities for pushing men out. He hoped the resolution would be agreed to, and he did not exempt London. He thought they should have a national minimum wage. He should prefer 30s. in the country than 30s. in London.

MR. BUSH seconded.

MR. GOLDSBOROUGH suggested that an alteration be made so as to include "all male workers" in the trade.

This was adopted and the resolution agreed to.

The next question was :—

Arbroath.—"That two pages of the Monthly Report be reserved for the use of members who have any matter of importance or interest to communicate to the Union generally."

MR. MORRICE said he would withdraw that.

The next item was :—

"That every report issued by the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress be published in our Monthly Report."

MR. INSKIP said this need not be moved because it was already done. They would see that in the last monthly Report they published circulars issued by the Parliamentary Committee. They were only too pleased to do it.

This was agreed to.

The next item also came from Arbroath :—

"That branches be allowed to put aside a certain sum yearly to enable them to pay any of their members who may be elected on municipal bodies."

MR. SMITH said they wished this to be recognised, for although there was nothing in the rules to that effect, there was nothing against it. They simply wanted to make it legitimate.

THE PRESIDENT said there was nothing in the rules to stop it. The passing of the resolution would simply legalise it, and mean that it should be recognised.

The resolution was agreed to.

The last of the suggestions emanated from the London Metro. branch, and was as follows :—

New Rule.—"That branches shall have power to run candidates (who shall be members of the branch nominated from) for Boards of Guardians, Vestries, Parish or District Councils, School Boards, County Councils, or any administrative body, and such members, if elected, shall be paid trade union wages from the funds of the Union for such time as they may lose in the execution of their duties."

MR. PAGE formally moved the resolution.

MR. O'GRADY seconded.

MR. CORT said it appeared to him that that was a good finish up to the business. They had quite sufficient liabilities on the Union funds at present. It would be well that a little reason should be used, and the liabilities already incurred taken into consideration. He moved that they proceed to the next business.

MR. ADAMS seconded, and it was carried.

for the next two years was the next business to be dealt with.

MR. RICHARDS moved that Leicester be the place appointed.

MR. DUNCAN seconded.

MR. GOLDSBOROUGH said he had to move that the Seat of Government be transferred to Northampton. It had been in Leicester some twenty years. They believed the presence of the Council, combined with other circumstances, had a good effect all round, and they appealed to their Leicester friends to give them a chance.

MR. LAMBSON seconded. He believed the headquarters being fixed at Leicester had been one of the best things that could have happened to that branch in the way of organising, and what it had done for Leicester it would most probably do for other branches.

MR. ADAMS supported the amendment. He thought it advisable that the headquarters should be shifted from time to time. He would not mind it going to either London or Northampton. Let their Leicester friends be generous.

Mr. CURLEY supported the resolution. He believed when the same matter was under discussion at the Stafford Conference it was stated that Northampton was one of the most un-get-at-able places in the whole country. (A Voice : "It is altered now.") The position the Northampton representatives took up was that it was the presence of the Council that accounted for the position occupied by the Leicester branch. He denied that, he said it was the members themselves. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. POULTON thought it could be proved that Leicester had largely benefitted by the headquarters being situated there.

The amendment was then put and there voted 13 for, 32 against. For the resolution 33 against 13.

The concluding item on the agenda was :—

"To decide the place for the next Conference."

Mr. SWEENEY said on behalf of the Leeds Nos. 1 and 2 branches he had pleasure in inviting the delegates to have their next sitting in Leeds, where, he felt confident, they would be able to do some good, and as far as Leeds was concerned, they would do as much for the delegates as any other centre they had been in. He thought it was in 1880 that they had the Conference there before, and he thought they were entitled to have it there again. He assured them they would do all that lay in their power to make the delegates comfortable.

Mr. WARD had great pleasure in seconding that.

Mr. JAMES rose to propose that Bristol be the place for the next Conference. He thought it would be the means of doing great good in that district, and he had much pleasure in proposing it.

Mr. HALLARAN had great pleasure in seconding Mr. James's proposal. He was sure it would be a good thing for them in that district if the Conference decided to go to Bristol. It would help them considerably in organising the district. They had also had an invitation from the Bristol Trades Council, who hoped they would consent to have the next Conference in that city.

Mr. FREAK was of opinion that they ought not to go twice to one town before giving each town a chance. He would like to go to Kettering one week, Bristol the next, and Leeds the next one to that if it was possible. He had spent many happy hours in all three places, and had also received a right royal welcome there. He wanted to propose Kettering. It was a pretty little town, and they were very nice people, and he had never had better treatment than he received at the hands of the Kettering people. It was a big branch of their Union, and he should like to see Kettering carried on the principle that they should not visit one town twice whilst there remained such a branch as Kettering which had not yet had a Conference. He was sure the Kettering members would do the best they could for the delegates attending the Conference.

A DELEGATE pointed out that they had had no invitation to visit Kettering on the occasion of the next Conference.

Mr. FREAK said there was no rule to the effect that they should go only when invited.

Mr. ADAMS seconded Kettering. He felt convinced that, although Kettering had not sent delegates to that Conference, as they should have done, yet they would be glad to receive the delegates on the next occasion of their meeting. (A voice : "They have insulted the Conference.")

Mr. BARNES (Kettering No. 2) was much obliged to Mr. Freak for the way in which he had pressed the claims of Kettering. He said when the matter came before their branch meeting it was felt that, although they would much like the Conference to meet at Kettering on the next occasion, the action taken by the No. 1 branch simply disposed of any chance of success they might have. They had had no communication with the No. 1 branch on the subject, but he would promise the delegates that their members would do all they possibly could for their (the delegates) comfort. Their branch did not agree with the position which had been taken up by the No. 1 branch—(hear, hear)—and he could tell them that had the question come before the members of the No. 1 branch a week before the Conference they would have completely reversed their decision. From conversations he had had with many of their members the position they took up did not reflect the feelings of the majority of their members themselves. He hoped they would deal with this question, not as a matter of sentiment, but from a business point of view. Their members would have very great pleasure in receiving the next Conference at Kettering, and he hoped they would agree to meet there on the next occasion.

Mr. LEEDHAM asked if they had had any communication from the Kettering No. 1 branch with regard to holding the next Conference at Kettering?

THE PRESIDENT : Mr. Barnes has stated no.

Mr. RICHARDS said it appeared they did not want the Conference at Kettering.

Mr. CORT said this being the first time they had had an invitation from a No. 2 branch he hoped the delegates would vote for Kettering.

In accordance with the rule on this subject the vote was taken by ballot, the tellers being appointed scrutineers.

THE PRESIDENT said he intended taking the vote on the exhaustive principle.

The result was as follows :—

Kettering	...	...	...	...	37	votes
Bristol	...	...	...	...	13	„
Leeds	...	...	...	...	6	„

The figures were received with applause.

The PRESIDENT said that as Kettering had a clear majority there was no necessity for it to go to the vote again.

The PRESIDENT then congratulated the Conference on having got through the whole of the agenda.

Votes of Thanks.

Mr. DOBBIN had very much pleasure in proposing a hearty vote of thanks to the Manchester branch for the manner they had entertained the delegates that week. He was sure they all heartily appreciated the efforts that had been made by their old friend Ward. They were very glad to have him amongst them. He was the oldest secretary in the Union, and he had much pleasure in proposing this vote of thanks to him and his colleague for the handsome manner in which they had been entertained that week.

Mr. ADAMS seconded. He hoped they would have the pleasure of seeing Mr. Ward present at the Kettering Conference in two years' time.

The vote of thanks was carried with enthusiasm.

Mr. WARD, on behalf of the Manchester branch, thanked them for the kindly manner in which they had accepted the vote of thanks. He could only say that if the delegates were satisfied that was all their members wished. He hoped they would long remember their visit to Manchester with feelings of the utmost pleasure. (Applause.)

Mr. WARD had much pleasure in proposing a vote of thanks to the Conference Secretary (Councillor H. H. Woolley) for the manner in which he had taken the business of the Conference during that week. With all due respect to previous Conference Secretaries, he thought the business had been done a little better than usual that week, and he had very much pleasure in moving that vote of thanks.

Mr. HAMMOND seconded. He knew the difficulties of the office, and Mr. Woolley had acquitted himself splendidly. The vote was carried with acclamation.

Mr. WOOLLEY thanked them for the kind manner they had accepted the vote of thanks. He could only say he was extremely sorry that there should have been any necessity for him to fill the position. He very much appreciated their kindness. (Applause.)

Mr. FREAK said the General Secretary had some big responsibilities, and he did his business in a highly creditable manner. He moved that the best thanks of the Conference be given to their General Secretary for his services during the week.

Mr. RICHARDS seconded. He was glad Mr. Freak had proposed that resolution. It had been his duty to be in opposition to Mr. Inskip on several occasions, but they were not men if they could not hold different opinions and yet be friends. Referring to the late illness of Mr. Inskip, he said it was a very funny time for them in Leicester. He trusted their secretary would long be spared to carry out his duties on behalf of their Union. (Applause.)

The vote was carried with acclamation.

Mr. INSKIP asked them to accept his thanks for their kind vote. Mr. Richards had referred to his (Mr. Inskip's) late illness. It was true that he had been on the verge of death, but the thing that affected him most was the spontaneous feeling of sympathy exhibited towards him by all shades of the members of their Union, and kindly references had been made in quarters where he little expected it. He again thanked them for their kindness. (Applause.)

Mr. POULTON then had great pleasure in moving a hearty vote of thanks to the President. He was sure they recognised it was a difficult position, but he had come through with credit to the Conference and to himself.

Mr. CORT seconded. The President had been thoroughly impartial during the week, and he trusted he would long be spared to continue his duties in their midst.

This vote was also carried with applause.

The PRESIDENT thanked them very much for the kindness they had shown him. He had endeavoured to be strictly impartial, and he thought that some delegates at times must have thought he was deliberately sitting on them, but that was not so. He had endeavoured to do his business in a fair manner. He also during his late illness was much cheered by the sympathy shown him by the members of the Union. He proposed a vote of thanks to the tellers for their services during the week, and also included the name of the doorkeeper.

The vote was carried, and Messrs. Adams, Duncan, and Mason suitably replied.

Mr. CORT moved a vote of thanks to the Union Executive for the services rendered by them during the last two years. He thought they should express their appreciation of the way they had conducted the business of the Union during that time.

Mr. SWEENEY seconded.

Mr. PAGE said it was impossible for him to vote for the resolution.

Mr. MORETON supported the vote of thanks.

The PRESIDENT said he could assure them that the Executive had been the greatest support possible to Mr. Inskip and himself in their business during the last two years.

The vote was carried with acclamation.

Mr. SMITH thanked the Conference on behalf of his colleagues. He thought it was the first vote of the kind that had been passed at a Conference. They had endeavoured always to honestly do their duty, and he was glad to know that they recognised that in so hearty a manner. He could only again thank them, and express their high appreciation of the kindness of the delegates in passing that vote of thanks.

The PRESIDENT proposed a vote of thanks to the Press, and this having being carried unanimously,

The Conference Secretary then read the minutes of that day's (Saturday) proceedings, which were unanimously endorsed, and the Conference of 1896 then came to an end.

ERRATA.

On page 20, for Mr. Votier's remarks, substitute the following :—

Mr. VOTIER thought the matter had resolved itself merely into a personal attack upon himself. He had been charged with not answering questions in reference to the Terms of Settlement or disputes of which he may have had knowledge. That he denied. When asked questions for the purpose of information and guidance, he had always done his best to answer those questions, but he felt that was not so, and he refused, as they had already had a meeting at the Shoreditch Town Hall for the purpose of hearing an explanation of the Terms of Settlement, at which the General Secretary, in conjunction with himself, attended, and there had been a meeting at the Charrington Hall, at which he (Mr. Votier) could not get a hearing, and he had attended other meetings for a like purpose.

NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

JUNE 30TH, 1896.

FELLOW MEMBERS,

The reports from the various centres are pretty unanimous in respect to the falling off of trade occasioned by the holidays, although we are pleased to say there has not been the usual crop of disputes following.

THE MANCHESTER CONFERENCE.

The most important matter to which we desire to draw your attention as having taken place during the past month is undoubtedly the proceedings of the Conference, which was held in the Co-operative Hall, Downing Street, Ardwick, Manchester, on May 22nd, 1896, and subsequent days.

We have made an extra effort, and are pleased to say that we shall be able to issue with this report shorthand notes of the business transacted at the said Conference, but we should like, through this medium, to express our views as to the ultimate good which may accrue to the Union as the result of the deliberations of the delegates assembled.

In the first place, it will be observed that the tendency of the amendments which came in was to

to the members, without any suggestion whatever from any branch, to increase the contributions to meet the increased liabilities incurred.

Sentiment, we regret to say, too largely prevails at these Conferences, and we cannot too strongly reiterate the fact that our Union is only a

and that the benefits already given far exceed the benefits given by any other Union paying similar contributions and registered under similar conditions to our own. Yet we find the tendency more marked Conference after Conference to increase the benefits in spite of the above fact. At this Conference take the case of to £5 as a maximum. We, equally with the delegates, recognise that when a man, by upholding the interests of the Union, is sacrificed, £1 but poorly compensates him for the sacrifice he has made; but you must not forget that it was never intended, when instituting the compensation benefit, to recuperate the man for all his loss, because we knew the contributions paid would not allow of it. But in this connection we strongly advise branches to be very careful in recognising claims for compensation, unless it is for absolute work done on behalf of the Union, and not for any extraneous matters other than that which is distinctly laid down in the compensation rule.

For illustration, just let us place our position carefully before you. If a man received £5 compensation—say in January—that would mean it would take him 600 weeks to repay that back alone, or, in other words, 11½ years all but a fortnight. It must be borne in mind that only 2d. per week out of the 6d. paid comes to the Council to provide that, yet during all those years he not only would be entitled to receive compensation again and again, but he would be all that while entitled to dispute pay, and £1 per year travelling assistance, to say nothing of sick pay.

Now, we would ask you, how is it possible that any commercial undertaking can prosper under such conditions? The money must be paid in before it can be paid out.

There is another matter in connection with this Conference which became more apparent than ever, and that is, under the new order of things, the great power branches have to accumulate large branch funds, or to give extraordinary benefits over and above those given by the bulk of the branches, and we are strongly of opinion that steps will have to be taken to make the benefits compulsorily alike in all branches of our Union.

At the rate we are progressing it seems impossible that there can be any possibility of collecting together anything like a substantial central fund, a consumation which, in the interests of both branches and the Union, should be brought about at the earliest possible date.

The reasons for this were fully brought out by the General Secretary at the Conference, and it would be well that each of you should carefully study his remarks, and be prepared at your branch meetings with to attain that end.

The business did not proceed so harmoniously as we would have liked, but at the conclusion of the Conference there seemed to be a far better feeling permeating the whole of the delegates, and if the Conference has done no more good than bringing the delegates together for mutual explanations, and enabling vent to be given to the differences of opinion as to the method of management, and a better understanding obtained, it will not have been held in vain.

The next question of importance to which we desire to call your attention, is undoubtedly the given by the Umpire to the application made by the Northampton Clickers and Pressmen for an advance of wages.

In the course of our experience we have had many decisions placed before us, some in our favour, and some against us, but never have we had one anything approaching the one to which we call your attention.

The Award reads as follows:—

In the matter of a reference to me as Umpire pursuant to the regulations of the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration for the Boot and Shoe Trade of Northampton (Clickers and Pressmen's Branch).

I, the undersigned, having taken upon me the burden of the said reference and umpirage, and taken into account the terms of the reference, and having considered the evidence brought before me and the statements made and the length of time that has elapsed since the questions were last determined and having fully considered all the conditions as regards the trade and otherwise existing at the two dates respectfully as required, do hereby adjudge and determine :

(1) Point 1. That no alteration be made in the minimum rate of wages to clickers of 26s. a week and to pressmen of 22s. a week, and that the former last award still remain operative in all respects so far as this is concerned.

(2) Point 2. The question of overtime having been satisfactorily arranged between the two arbitrators was withdrawn from my umpirage excepting as to the date before which neither masters nor men shall be competent to re-open such question.

(3) I hereby fix the date before which neither side shall be competent to re-open these two points as the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine.

(Signed)

EDWARD P. MONCKTON,

June 15th, 1896.

Umpire.

It will be remembered that for a long time past, even before the Terms of Settlement were arrived at, Northampton was moving for an increased wage for Clickers and Pressmen, and every advantage was taken by the employers, delay after delay occurring, until at last having no further loophole they were forced to submit the question to two referees and an umpire. In the case of overtime, which was also submitted, the two referees came to a decision, which to our mind practically makes the obtaining of time-and-a-quarter an impossibility, as in the event of an employer being somewhat pushed, he would simply work the four hours and content himself with the ordinary time.

With regard to the Minimum Wage to Clickers and Pressmen, it must not be lost sight of that the Clickers at present get 26/- per week, and they must be competent men; men, in fact who require as much or perhaps more skill to manipulate their portion of the work, than in any branch of the trade.

In the case of the Pressmen, their Minimum Wage is of 54 hours. Surely the case could not have been submitted and facts and figures brought out before the Umpire such as we append, for we cannot believe that a man occupying the responsible position this Umpire does, with the knowledge he has of the requirements of the working classes, could have given such a decision as that stated above. Let us just analyse it and see what it means.

A pressman has 22s. per week for 54 hours' work, but any time he may lose, either on his own account or through the employer, he sacrifices out of the 22s. Now then, supposing a pressman was to work full time for the 52 weeks, he would make 2,808 hours, and his wages for the 52 weeks would be £57 4s. But what are the actual facts? A pressman, who is no exception to the rule in the trade, is compelled to lose time from various causes. He must have at least three days holiday at Easter (and in calculating these figures let us here state we have taken the very lowest estimate, to be well within the mark), a week at Whitsuntide, a week at August Bank Holiday, and a week at Christmas, and eight weeks short time at least, say ten hours per week, making a total of 80 hours. Now if you will add these together you will see that the total number of hours he loses amount to 256, thus reducing the total number of hours he may remain at work to 2552.

Now let us see how it affects his wages: 22s. per week for 54 hours gives a fraction under 5d. per hour, and if you calculate the number of hours he can possibly work, at the fraction under 5d. per hour, you will find that the man can only earn during the year, under the most favourable circumstances, £51 19s. 8d., or less than for the 52 weeks.

This, it must be borne in mind, is not making any provision for lost time for sickness, breaking down of machinery, or high days and holidays which municipalities frequently have; but it does include these things: that a man must be steady, sober (he has little chance to be otherwise), and strictly honest, to be able to hold a seat of work at 22s. per week. Now as to his expenses—What do these mean? There is scarcely a house in Northampton fit for a respectable man, his wife and family to inhabit, but what would cost him 6s. per week rent. Then he has to pay 6d. per week to his trade, and another 6d. to provide for sickness and old age, and then what does it leave him?

LESS THAN THIRTEEN SHILLINGS PER WEEK

to feed, clothe and provide against sickness, for his wife and family, and this man is expected to turn out as a respectable citizen and by the decision of the arbitrator he is told that for the next three years at least he must be thankful for the position in life in which he (the Arbitrator) has placed him. He is to have no prospect of bettering his condition, but he must struggle on, and struggle ever, to maintain an existence, while the employers grow fat and build rich mansions from the proceeds of these men's labour.

Let it be distinctly understood that although the decision is such an amazing one, we feel bound to honour it, and do our best to see it maintained; but if this was to be a sample of the righteousness of arbitration, or those who administer it, then we frankly say it would shake the foundation of any body of men, not in the principle but in its application, and also make them sacrifice, as you did during the late lock-out, sooner than accept such ignominious conditions.

To our Northampton members we say, act loyally by the award, but in about twelve months' time ask the employers to re-consider it, if they will not then, give ample and early notice that at the expiration of the three years you will either through the medium of Arbitration or by physical force.

As we have stated above, the Conference reports are now being issued. Branches that require further supplies must send their orders in at once, otherwise they cannot be repeated, as the type will not remain set up for any length of time.

We have, from time to time, had occasion to refer to a dispute that occurred at between the employers and the clickers, as to the amount of work which should be done for the amount paid to the men. Negotiations had been going on for a length of time, until at last we were compelled to instruct the men to cease work both in London and at the branch firm at Ipswich.

This at once put the firm on its beam ends, and although as bitter as possible they eventually came to a settlement, but evidently not with the intention of working harmoniously with the Union, and no sooner have the men got settled down to work than other ruptures have taken place at Ipswich, they having discharged the secretary, whom they alleged was to blame for withdrawing the men. They have been humbugging the men about as much as possible, and are continually holding out threats as to what they intend doing. We have sent an investigator down to Ipswich, and we have also sent a communication to the head firm, to which we have got a very impertinent, as well as saucy, reply. If these tactics are continued we shall have no other alternative but to again withdraw the whole of the men at both places, and see whether it is not possible to teach this firm a lesson to abide by any arrangement that may be made in an honourable manner.

Since writing the above, the investigator has reported to us of having effected a very satisfactory settlement of the matter at issue, satisfactory alike to the firm and the men.

We are,

Yours most respectfully,

THE COUNCIL,

W. B. HORNIDGE, Gen. President.

W. H. LOWE, Treasurer.

FRANK SHEPPARD, Bristol.

WILLIAM VOTIER, London

ALEX SMITH, Arbroath.

ROBERT MOORE, Leicester.

DANIEL STANTON, Northampton.

WM. INSKIP, General Secretary.

Nominations for the various Union Officers are due to take place on the July Monthly Night. Nomination papers have already been issued to the branches, and must be returned duly completed, not later than July 15th, or the same cannot be recognised.

Branch Secretaries will please note that the month ending July 6th is a Five Weeks' Month, and the returns must be made out, and cash sent in accordingly.

BRANCH TRADE REPORTS.

BRISTOL. —We regret to report a continued depression in our trade, and in some cases the earnings of the workers is worse than any previous experience, in fact, such should be under the heading of "unemployed" as the most appropriate term. Conditions such as these naturally tend to impede any desired progress, and forbearance with some who are willing to pay when they have the means, is a natural expectation which it is our duty to concede. Disputes of late have not been very numerous, but nevertheless, a few grievances has elicited and obtained official investigation, and it is a glaring fact that these grievances have taken place where a weakened unity amongst the men has existed, and consequently the opportunity for organising became a necessity, and the result of additional membership was most favourable. At our monthly meeting on Wednesday last, our Delegates presented their reports re the Manchester Conference, and it is a pleasure to record the very appreciative manner in which such report was given and accepted, and it evidently pointed to the desire of advancing and improving the positions of the workers where necessity demands, and such a desire warrants the encouragement of those who have been members (and received Union benefits) to again show their desire for unity with that which has previously protected their interests, and is none the less willing to repeat that desire, if the counter part of the programme is fulfilled by those which occasion has here prompted us to refer to.

BRISTOL No. 2. —With our returns this month we have still to report a slackness in trade, several firms running short time, but with the advent of the autumn samples, we are looking forward to a better state of things than exist at present, and thereby compensate some of our members who have lost so much time. The report of the work done at the Conference has not yet been given by our delegates, unavoidably we must postpone giving their opinion on same until next returns.

BARNSELEY. —We are again compelled to write in the same old strain that we have got used to, short time and very little to do in the restricted hours that we have to work, but we keep hoping for a change, but the change for better is a long time in reaching us here. The tale we are told is that they can buy them cheaper than they can manufacture them. If places like Kingswood and Bristol could obtain a better statement of wages, we should most likely have a chance of competing with them, but we do not expect that we shall have much improvement until the latter part of August. It appears from reports from other sources that other places are in the same predicament as ourselves. We hope that some good has been done at the late Conference in respect to the settlement of the various petty disputes that keep cropping up at various places, especially where it seems to be an annual occurrence as soon as trade as fallen off a bit. We think such places should be severely dealt with, as a detriment against others following there example.

COLCHESTER. —We are pleased to say that trade is improving here, and we think the men are coming to their senses, as we are about to make a few members, which we shall be glad to report next month.

GLASGOW No. 2. —Trade here is dull at present, so I would not advise men to visit us unless it is to spend some of their hard earned money. We were sorry to hear of our General Secretary's illness, but it is to be hoped that he has got round all right, and is none the worse for the meeting at Manchester. We hope the other members who attended can say the same for themselves. Great praise is due to Mr. William Ward, his officials, and members for the kind treatment they gave to the delegates on their visit to the Cottonpolis. At our monthly general, the delegate who had attended for this branch gave his report of the Conference, which was adopted. We might here state that Mr. William L. Dickson gave the report of the Ways and Means Committee, of which he is Treasurer, and showed his balance sheet to stand thus—from football matches, gathering at work gates, concerts, and grants from No. 1 and 2 branches, income, £203 13s. 9d., and the total expenditure to be £202 8s. 3d.; leaving a balance in hand of £1 5s. 6d. He explained to the members that the Committee had spared no pains to grapple with necessitous cases that came to their notice. During the late lock-out at Shieldhall, Mr. Green vouchsafed for the accuracy of the balance sheet and of Mr. Dickson's statement, which was approved of by the members, who accorded him a vote of confidence and thanks.

HECKMONDWIKE.—In submitting our report for this month we are glad to state that trade shows an improvement here. The Co-operative Works start full time this week after twelve weeks' short time.

HINCKLEY.—We are sorry to state trade is not so good as we are accustomed to at this season of the year. We also regret to state that a number of our members are without employment, these being chiefly Finishers.

IPSWICH.—In sending our report this month we are sorry to state that trade has not improved as we should like to see it at this time of the year. During the month we had instructions to withdraw the men from the firm of Greenwood's, through the dispute with the Clickers at London, but we are glad that a settlement has been arrived at. We may state that all our members acted loyal to the call.

KETTERING No. 2.—In reporting this month we are very sorry to state that trade here is in a worse condition than it has been for some years past at this season. Many of the firms are working short time. Most of the factories closed for the week at Whitsuntide. The decision of the Conference to hold their next sitting here has given general satisfaction to our members.

KILMARNOCK.—We have to report a slight change for the better this month in our export branch. The factory recently closed is about to be opened by the local Co-operative Society. We wish them every success, and believe this step on their part will be beneficial, not only to our members, but to the co-operative movement in this district.

LEEDS.—In submitting our report this month we regret that there is practically no signs at present of an improvement of trade here. The past six months has been the worst ever experienced in this district for many years, but we hope a change for the better will speedily take place. We agree with the decision of our Conference in granting £100 to the Trade Congress Parliamentary Committee in watching, and defending, the just interests of the workers, believing that it is time that the law bearing on picketting was made more clear, and more just to the workers than what has been the case in the Law Courts by recent decisions. J. W. Lee has been elected Branch Delegate to the forthcoming Trade Union Conference to be held in Edinburgh. We have granted £5 to the Builders' Labourers of this city, and hope that their dispute may speedily be settled satisfactory to the members.

LEEDS No. 2.—Trade here is quiet, as it is between the seasons, we hope soon to see an improvement. Our members are fairly employed at present. We are very glad to see the decision of Sir Courtney Boyle in reference to non-unionists receiving the minimum, it being in our favour. We hope it will have the effect of inducing non-unionists to join us at once, for their own benefit.

LONDON METRO.—We are pleased to say that work has somewhat revived, although it is far from good. Machinery is being introduced with very little friction, the wages paid being generally from 35s. to £2 2s. per week. The Board of Arbitration here is reduced to a mere farce, no one seemingly in earnest. We held a meeting on Thursday, the 21st inst., to reconsider our position in this matter. The following is a brief résumé of the work done on the Board:—

Committee of Enquiry, Monday, May 4th, 1896. Present (employers), Messrs. Barnes and Weber; workmen, Messrs. Freak and H. Brown. Questions: (1)

Coloured calf Oxford shoe, offered in E, claimed in C, referred back to be properly marked. (2) Lasting common uppers, classed in H, providing it does not result in a reduction of wages. (3) Question of black waist, on John Branch, deferred for evidence of whether it has been paid before or not. (4) A letter was read from Mr. Inskip to Mr. Craig, upon a report made by Mr. Votier to the Council re black waist, glaze sheep, and coloured hide work on Messrs. B. E. Lee and Sons. Mr. Barnes stated that this was a personal matter between Mr. Inskip and Mr. Craig, and not a matter for the Committee of Enquiry, who moved the following resolution: "In view of the fact that the larger question affecting the first and second class employers is now before the Board, the matter stand adjourned, it being the rule that questions before the Committee of Enquiry must be approved unanimously." This matter was so adjourned.

Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, Sixth Meeting, Basma House, London Wall Avenue, Monday, May 18th, 1896, at 6 p.m. Present (employers), Messrs. Kaufman and H. Gorbald, Mr. Barnes arriving half an hour late. An apology was read from Mr. T. Clark. Present (workmen), Messrs. Solomon, Lambson, H. Brown, G. Brown, A. Adams, G. Abbott, and C. Freak. After waiting some time to secure a quorum on the employers' side, the meeting had to break up, although we had the following agenda, some portion of which have been of very long standing. Minutes of previous meeting. Minutes of Committee of Enquiry. Permits—the following to be in attendance: Messrs. W. Dobbs and C. Miller. Adjourned consideration of revised rules drafted by the Joint Committee under the Board of Trade Terms of Settlement, and submitted to this Board for adoption, with or without amendment in matters of detail. The following were proposed as amendments, received by the secretary from Mr. H. Brown: "Rule 3, paragraph 2, to delete on line 4, "of all classes of workpeople represented thereon," and insert "upon all shops below the first and second class statement shops." Rule 4, to delete on lines 4 and 5, "In all cases where an employer and his workpeople are represented by the Board," and insert "upon all shops other than first and second class statement shops, and that no employer paying to those statements, and no workman working to those statements, shall be eligible to sit upon this Board." Adjourned matters arising out of the minutes of the Committee of Enquiry: (1) Classification of seamless block shop. Report letter sent to Mr. J. Furse. (2) As to the deduction for heeling girl's work on Messrs. H. and G. Barnes' shop. Awaiting the decision of Arbitrators on Mr. J. Furse's question. (3) Classification of box calf; referred to Arbitrators awaiting appointment of same. (4) Question affecting Mr. H. Gorbald and others. Awaiting adoption of revised rules. (5) Report that the Arbitrator's decision for heeling girl's work on Mr. J. Furse's shop not yet received. Sir Philip Manfield had intimated that he would give it his attention on his return to business, he having gone out of town for the benefit of his health. (6) Classification of glaze sheep Oxford shoe, with patent vamp; awaiting appointment of Arbitrators. Report letter sent to Mr. A. Levay, and his reply thereon. New matters arising out of the minutes of the Committee of Enquiry. Query. Extras on black waist work on second class statement firms. Classification of glaze sheep shoe. Classification of glove hide shoe. The following are shops who are giving work out of doors, and therefore violating the rules of the Board, and making it impossible for our members to work thereon:—Franklin's, White Lion Street; Salomon and Co.'s, Pentonville Road; Weber's, Middlesex Street; Franklin's, Commercial Road; Barnett's, Commercial Street; P. Why's, Bethnal Green Road; Greenwood's, Well Street, Hackney; Pash's, Kingsland Road; Martyn's, Lea Bridge Road; Woolf's, North Street, Hackney; Draper's, Globe Road, Old Ford; Gould's, Warner Place, Hackney Road; J. J. Prince's, Old Ford Road; Aaron's, Well Street, Hackney; Cohen's, New Road, Whitechapel.

LONDON EAST.—Mr. L. Rosenberg, who acted as Shop President at Goodman's for four years, and who did his duty towards the Union, was discharged by the firm, who objected to employ him any longer. We tried to reinstate him, but it was of no avail. Therefore the Committee decided that he should be compensated with £1. Mr. J. Gilmore was offered by Mr. Goodman to close channels for 3d. per dozen (piecework), for which Mr. Goodman deducted 6d. The Committee decided that the shopmate should not do them for 3d. In consequence of that Mr. Goodman discharged him, and he was compensated with 10s. We hope that the Council will endorse the action of the Committee in both cases.

NORWICH No. 2.—Trade here at present is very quiet, several of our members being out of employment. We think the manufacturers generally, to their credit, are trying all they can to maintain their staff as far as possible, no doubt hoping that in the near future trade may revive. We hope that members will endeavour to keep down their arrears, though we know that in consequence of it being a general thing now to close for three or four days, and in some cases a week at every holiday, it is a very difficult matter. We have had one or two disputes lately by employers giving their work-people notice at an illegal hour. A resolution has been passed by our branch (the same to be submitted to the Arbitration Board) "That all notices to cease employment should be given on the Saturday by the employer and the employee." Our branch meetings being so badly attended, the Committee are arranging for a series of papers to be read by members. The first, on "Land Nationalisation," should have been read at our last monthly meeting by Mr. W. Clarke. The attendance being so poor and a lot of other business to get through, it was decided to adjourn the reading of the paper till our next meeting.

NORTHAMPTON.—Trade is somewhat quiet here at present, and we would advise that if possible Northampton be given a fairly wide berth. Machinery continues to be laid down with its accompaniment of less hands being employed, and if the workers are wise they will close up their ranks, and go in, not only for an eight hour day but if necessary a six hour day, and that with no reduction of wages. If the figures of two manufacturing concerns which have recently been converted into companies, be at all reliable, there is ample margin to pay whatever difference, if any, that the shortening of the hours of labour would mean. There is also the question of co-operation (which so far as this town is concerned has not been seriously taken up by the workers), which has in it the entire re-modelling of our industries, but this will only be done when the workers arise to the fact that in their own ranks, if trusted, they have sufficient brain power to carry these ideas to success. This of course pre-supposes trust in one another, and until this is done no very great headway or rapid progress will be made.

WORCESTER.—In sending our report this month we are pleased to state that most of our members are fairly well employed, but we would warn our members on the road that there is very little chance of their getting on here at present. We are pleased to tell you that we have held our mass meeting that we spoke of in our last report, and it was in every sense of the word a success, but there was much disappointment at the absence, through illness, of our General Secretary (Mr. Inskip), who had promised to speak. We are pleased to say that we found a good substitute in our General President (Mr. Hornidge), and we all thank him for the able manner in which he brought his words to bear on the points which affected our branch, and the men we want to get at, and we hope at some future time Mr. Hornidge will pay us another visit. We all hope that Mr. Inskip is much better, and will soon be strong and well again, and be able to oblige us next time.

NEWS FROM THE CAPE.

The following Letters have been received during the Month :—

PORT ELIZABETH, SOUTH AFRICA,

25TH MAY, 1896.

WM. INSKIP, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,

I am directed by a meeting of the Shoe Operatives of Port Elizabeth, South Africa, to address you on the matter of the supply of labour from the old country to this new land, and being myself only a recent arrival from England I am in a position to place facts before you, which we trust you will make an effort to place before every Laster, Finisher, Clicker, or Operator that comes within the reach of your trade circular. The fact is, this country is being boomed up in the shoe centres at home, in order to induce steady young men to come over here. Then on arrival here, where we have only three firms who are associated, a workman must either take work at rates as low as any English statement, or else try to travel 500 miles to find the next manufacturer, where, on arrival, he finds the premises, from pressman down to errand boy, are filled by all coloured labour, who are working for a few shillings per week. The English operative has no alternative, he must go in to work or starve. The cost of board and lodging, the lowest possible obtainable for a single factory operative, is 22s. 6d. per week, where, in almost every case, three men occupy single beds in same room.

I send you by same post, under separate cover, four clippings having reference to above matters, two are from local papers, and two (the most important) are from the Boot and Shoe Trades' Journal. The letter marked (1) being the greatest injustice and exaggeration ever placed before the trade. The result of this letter at home is already apparent, judging by the number of new arrivals at the factory during the past few weeks, a few particulars of which I will give you later on.

You will note the letter, from Bagnall, Gibaud and Co., states they have engaged 10 new men, some from England, others from Australia. I, myself, know all of them personally, and know their circumstances. They are all sadly disappointed. The Englishmen say they were very much better off at home, and the Australians came over here with the gold fever, expecting to get into a good thing, but had to turn as a last resource to "lasting," wherein they are positively 50 per cent. worse off than in Australia. At the present time there is 90 per cent. of the white operatives here who would gladly get away to England or Australia if it were only possible to raise the passage money, but the masters here know that the men are at their mercy. A new arrival is penniless, and cannot turn to any other line of business. In fact, from my own personal knowledge, some of the operatives here are about as hard up as it is possible to be, and, for myself, I should certainly get away if I could only raise the fare. At the meeting referred to, it was considered whether the National Union could assist us to get out of this miserable hole, but it was concluded that the Union had enough to do to look after its members in England. An important letter, written by the manager of this factory, appeared in a Stafford paper some time in March or April. I should like you to see it, the beautiful picture it paints of what a lovely country this is, etc., all with the object of inducing your steady smart young men to come, and get trapped in this hole. In order that you may get at the bottom of the little game, I might mention that Thomas Bagnall, the partner, was, for some years, packer, buyer, or some such for "Lilley and Skinner." John Bagnall, the young (would-be) manager? hails from Stafford, where, I understand, he was at one time in a partnership, but left rather hurriedly. He is the genius who is pulling the wires to induce your men to come here, so that he may make the business pay. This firm has four loafers of partners, and sleeping partners, who do the gentleman, and cut a dash on the result of "sweated" black and white labour, and in order to make things pay they must crush the worker. The lasters here are making men's "Veltscheon" (a low leg tan Blucher), with six-eighth heels, rivetted at 6s. 6d. per dozen, and the tickets generally run $\frac{6}{1} \frac{7}{1} \frac{8}{2} \frac{9}{2} \frac{10}{3} \frac{11}{2}$. Also a black satin high leg Blucher or Derby at 8s. per dozen. The orders are given out in very small quantities, and the lasters lose a lot of time waiting about for work, the black team always getting the preference. This firm have a room where are employed about 30 Kaffirs, and Hottentot boys are taught lasting and rivetting under a Mr. Jones, three years out from Kingswood (Witchell's or Pratt's, I think), and this is the greatest curse we have to contend with, the employers being quite independent of the English laster. If we refuse a line of work it is sent into the sweating room, where all the large orders go, while we may whistle for work. As an illustration of this firm's extreme generosity, I may mention a Mr. Pugh was induced from Stafford (Bostock's), where he had been lasting women's work. On arrival here he took lodgings at 27s. 6d. per week, brought his kit in, and made a start on men's fairstitch and sewdowns, and on Saturday the firm offered him 30s. per week. This he refused, and he went on piece-work, and since then has been kept on the worst paid. Another laster (Bishop) from Kendall, after corresponding with the firm, was induced to come out, and on arrival, after proving himself an expert laster on men's work, offered him 40s. per week, to do a task and teach two boys. I could go on and quote a dozen of such illustrations of how we fare out here. Every Saturday there are two or three English hands vainly disputing with the manager about the pay and the misrepresentations sent home to induce them out.

You will note in letter (clipping No. 1) they state the need of men on "heeling" machine. This is most absurd, the machine in question is, and has been for years, worked by a Kaffir (black as the Ace of Spades), who gets 18s. weekly, and lives on cracked corn, lives in a mud hut, and sleep on the ground.

If there are any of your skilled operatives who would like to try such a diet, and such wages, by all means let them come, and after having paid £15 or £16 steamer fare, and on arrival run the risk of "fever," etc., which carries off quite a host of new arrivals, they will be quite convinced that the statement I here make is substantially correct.

The shoe trade here is positively the worst paid in the whole colony. The men (99 per cent.) are competent, steady, and reliable. The work is hard and heavy, stuff fits badly, lasts and stands are old and worn, benches shakey, rooms badly lighted and poorly ventilated, whilst the smells arising from the Tannery and Boiling-down Works attached is enough to breed a fever. A big crowd of lasters and finishers are being drawn from Kingswood, and you know the class of men they are, yet they curse the day they ever sailed for this country. I stand alongside of one, who came from Pratt's, Kingswood, and he says he was much better off at home.

When I first arrived in the colony I tried every shoe shop in Cape Town, both manufacturing bespoke and retail, and although I had a fair education, first-class references, 30 years of age, and a member of the Masonic Order, could not get a show anywhere. I walked the soles off my boots trying for a job, and, finally, had to take the boat for this place, 500 miles north, where I am anchored till I can get away. This firm are in the habit of getting men over on a three years' agreement at 40s. weekly, and only last week a clicker and a pressman arrived from Rushden, and signed for three years at 40s. We start work here at 6 a.m., and work till 6 p.m. We have two hours out for breakfast, one for dinner, and work till 11 a.m. on Saturday, making 56 hours per week. In the summer it registers 110 in the shade.

Our masters are now seeking to make us buy our own grin'lery, but how they will succeed will all depend on the increasing number of arrivals from Kingswood and Bristol. We trust you will make it a point to publish full particulars at Leeds, Stafford, Bristol, and Kingswood especially, in order to prevent your people increasing their miseries by coming here. We see the Boot and Shoe Trades' Journal here, but none of your circulars. Kindly post us your Report when convenient; also give us your advise re lasters going from here to America. Trusting you will attend to our case,—Yours respectfully,

A. G. F. FRAZER,

PORT ELIZABETH, SOUTH AFRICA,

1ST JUNE, 1896.

WM. INSKIP, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,

As promised, in my letter a week ago, I herewith enclose a copy of a letter sent home to try and induce your men to come out to this country. This "letter" is a mixture of truth and fiction, and was penned solely with the object of getting so much labour here that we would be crushed to the level of the black labour. I enclose a true copy of the best statement in South Africa, and would thank you to have same published throughout your branches, more particularly at Stafford, Kingswood, Bristol, and Leeds. Kindly ask your secretary at Kingswood to spare no effort to warn the shopmates at Kingswood of what awaits them here. Only yesterday I was speaking to a shopmate from Kingswood, who says that one half of Kingswood are mad to come out here, it is only the fare or passage money that prevents them. I can assure you that any rivetters or finishers arriving here will either have to work for food, or else wait for a shopmate to die before they can get into a place, at a decent wage, sufficient to keep them out of debt. I regret to say we are earning very small wages. Last week, nine lasters' (the best in the factory) earnings were from 21s. to 37s., and most of those were married men. Also, last week, a finisher (a decent steady young man) landed here, and has tried every place in vain for a job, and he has to pay 22s. 6d. weekly for board, etc. Trusting you will try and prevent men being deceived any further, and thanking you in anticipation, I am yours faithfully,

A. G. F. FRAZER.

A STAFFORDSHIRE SHOE MANUFACTURER IN SOUTH AFRICA.

We have received a letter from Mr. John Bagnall (formerly manager at Stone for Messrs. Pocock Bros., Boot and Shoe Manufacturers), parts of which will be interesting to some of our readers. Mr. Bagnall went out to Cape Colony a short time ago, and he gives a very encouraging account of the present position and future prospects of the country. He has made his home at Port Elizabeth, which has a European population of 20,000. and is in every respect an up to date town. He writes:—The boot and shoe trade in the colony promises to be one of its greatest successes. There are several factories, both in Cape Town and here. There is also one at Craddocks Town, and one or more at King Williams Town, and small men are opening at several intervening places. At our place—Bagnall and Gibaud—we take the hide from the butcher, and both tan it for sole and dress it for uppers as required. With this part of the business I have nothing to do, but when the leather is ready for manufacturing purposes I take it in hand, and have plenty of scope for the varied experience gained at home. We employ both English and native labour, and really we find some of the natives to be very apt at their work. To see our boy's lasting room is a sight. There we have boys of every shade, from the lighter-coloured Hottentot to the darker Zulu, and they get through a lot of work. A Hottentot works the heeling machine, and coloured boys work the edge setting and polishing machines. They all speak the English language tolerably well, and I believe this goes a long way to bring them under better influences. Our present output is about 1,200 pairs per week, and business is so good that, could we raise it to 1,500, it would be as much as we could do to keep pace with the orders; in fact, could we raise it to 2,000 pairs, we could find a ready sale for the goods. There is a splendid opening here for young men of ability and thrifty habits. We paid four lasters last week £11 15s. between them, and £2 10s. is a medium week's work. Good men can easily earn £3 10s., and we should be glad to get hold of some who can do it. Both rivetters and finishers are in demand here, and would be readily engaged at good wages. I may say though that rents are very high, and some of the necessities of life are dear, owing to the duty they have to pay, clothing is but little in excess of what we pay at home, except some few articles. Taking it altogether, I by no means regret the change, and have no desire to live in England again, though, of course, I hope to pay it a visit. South Africa is, undoubtedly, the coming colony, owing to its wealth of minerals, its large tracts of country suitable for agricultural pursuits, its extensive coal and iron beds, and its cattle and ostrich breeding. These things all help to make South Africa one of the finest countries in the world."

PORT ELIZABETH, SOUTH AFRICA,

8TH JUNE, 1896.

WM. INSKIP, Esq.

DEAR SIR,

In addition to matters referred to in my previous letters, I would direct your attention to a paragraph in "Occasional Notes," in the Boot and Shoe Trades' Journal, of May 16th, wherein the Editor substantiates the reports I have sent you; but they not being in full possession of the true facts as to the rotten sale of our trade out here, I thought it might be well, as they have spoken out so plainly, to furnish them with some of the facts we have sent you, in order that the matter may be put before all sections of the trade in its true light. We, therefore, trust that you will use your influence with the Journal to set matters right at home, and you may rely upon us doing our part to give only the truth re trade here. I might mention that Bagnall, Gibaud, and Co. are now having made by English lasters a black split kip Blucher heeled, machine sewn or rivetted, at 6½d. per pair, and given out in small quantities, with plenty of waiting for work. A laster from Stafford landed here this week, but so far the firm have not been able to put him on, and he is out of employment. I understand there are several more English shopmates now on the way out for here, and "God help them," unless they have money by them.

A. C. F. FRAZER.

P.S.—The Journal, of May 16th, gives this firm rather an awkward rebuff.

We have acceded to the request of the writer of the above letters by publishing the same in this Report. We, however, wish it to be understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the contents of the same, although we believe them to be practically correct.

We have no knowledge of the writer, or any of those he mentions. Neither do we know whether he belonged to the Union whilst in England, as he does not say which branch he was in, and whether he left by clearance or what.

We would also point out to the members of the Union the several large orders contained in the letters, for which we do not hold ourselves responsible; neither shall we, in future, undertake to publish any further correspondence.

THE COUNCIL.

NEWS FROM AMERICA.

54, FORD STREET, BROCKTON, MASS.,

THURSDAY, JUNE 18, 1896.

WM. INSKIP, Esq.

DEAR SIR,

I was glad to see by the Leicester papers that you had recovered from your late illness, and was pleased to read in the Brockton Times your message to the Shoe Workers of America, which arrived to-day. I am sorry to say we are far behind in America to what you are in Trade Unionism, nearly all the branches of the shoe trade having a separate Union of their own, and not 50 per cent. of the workers in them. One great trouble to the workers, which causes a lot of ill-feeling between one another, and that is the different Nationalities working together, and the majority of them cannot speak English. If you try to organise them they will say, in broken English, "You want my job," and that is all you can get out of them. I am sure most of the English people read with interest your resolution that was passed at the Trades' Congress, and was sorry to read of the Leicester Trades' Council not accepting it, for, like myself, they all agree it was a very good one, and one that is wanted badly. My brother wishes to be remembered to you, though, no doubt, you have forgotten him by this, for it is eight years since he represented the Elastic Web Weavers on the Leicester Trades' Council. His name is William S. Bamford, ex-President of the Amalgamated Web Weavers of America, and a member of the Common Council of Brockton. Hoping this will find you in good health, I remain, yours truly,

JAMES BAMFORD.

P.S.—I might say I came here with a clearance card, but I had to be made like a new member, therefore I hope they will exchange cards for the benefit of others. If ever I am able to give you my services in regards to prices I shall only be too glad.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Every precaution is taken by us to ensure accuracy in these Reports, our correspondents being men on whom we can rely; should, however, any errors creep into them, upon the same being pointed out to us, we shall be most happy to give the same prominence to the correction as to the original matter. As these Reports are exclusively for the use of Members, the information contained therein must not be divulged.

NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

JULY 28TH, 1896.

FELLOW MEMBERS,

STAGNATION IN THE STATE OF TRADE.

We have many times had occasion to refer to the fluctuations in our trade, but never were they so marked, so apparent, or so universal as they have been since last we addressed you—the slight briskness shown prior to the holidays having given way to what we may fairly term a collapse in trade. From every important centre, without exception, the reports are that trade is absolutely at a standstill. The causes of this have been so many times referred to in these reports that we do not propose to enlarge upon them on this occasion. Suffice it for us to point to the effect it used to have upon our trade, and the effect it has at the present time.

It was a well-known axiom that if trade was bad, disputes were rife, and we have known as many as 24 centres being actively engaged in opposing either reductions of wages or conditions which were not compatible with the interests of the members concerned.

NOW MARK THE CONTRAST.

Never in the whole previous history of the Union have we been so free from disputes, which involve financial assistance, as we have been during the past month or six weeks, and whilst, as we state above, we do not propose to enter into the causes of the bad state of trade, yet we may be well pardoned if we here express our firm conviction that the reason for the quietness which exists at the present time is in consequence of the Terms of Settlement, and the various agreements entered into between the Union and the Employers, and the fact that both sides are now recognising the spirit as well as the letter of the said Terms, and are more strictly concerned in carrying them out. This, at all events, after the turmoil and misunderstanding that have so frequently arisen since the time the agreement was entered into, and we sincerely hope to all concerned.

Amongst the few disputes that have been dealt with, we may mention a section of the Bristol branch. In this case the employer had five boys to three men in the clicking department, and when asked to bring himself into line with Lord James's award, he refused to do so. Consequently, the men were withdrawn to enforce it. Whilst the men were out, it transpired that the lasters were paying 7d. per week for shop rent, and we instructed Mr. Sheppard, who investigated the matter, not to come to a settlement with the firm until this was abolished. After the men had been out for a few days the firm consented to only employ one boy to three men in each department, and altogether abolish the question of shop rent. Thus there is a substantial gain to the men in the clicking department, as well as 7d. per week being saved to the lasters.

The next dispute to which we wish to refer is where they employ some twelve men. This firm has caused us a lot of annoyance and trouble during the last few months, but at last we are able to fathom what it is they desire, as they have expressly asked for either the Northampton, Glasgow, or Arbroath statement, which do not in any sense apply to the class of work made by this firm. Consequently, we refused to give the necessary permission to adopt one of these statements, and the men were told to pack up their kits, which, upon our instructions, they did. Some correspondence has since taken place with the firm, and we do not anticipate that this dispute will be of long duration.

Another firm who have given us an immense amount of trouble is for repeatedly disputes as to classification crop up, and when the local officials are unable to settle the same, they ask for an investigator.

Whilst in this connection, we might point out that the London Executives have been in the habit of asking for an investigator immediately upon the local officials being unable to come to an understanding.

This is not the course adopted by the other centres affected by the Federation, where the local officials at once take the dispute either to the Committee of Enquiry or the Board of Arbitration for the purpose of getting a decision.

In the case of Knowle's, however, although it is a Federated firm, the London Committee refuses to submit the dispute in question to the Board, as they claim that, it being a second-class shop, they are not bound by the decision of the Board. But we emphatically state that they, and we also, are bound to submit all questions in dispute to arbitration in all centres connected with the Federation, and if the London branch persists in this course of action, then they are repudiating the engagements entered into by the Union on their behalf, as well as on behalf of the members in other centres. And as this would clearly be a violation of the said engagements entered into, we should have no other course open to us but to repudiate their action, and leave on them the responsibility of any action that might accrue. We trust, however, that wiser councils will prevail, and as the investigator states it as his opinion that the men have the legal side of the question, then we fail to see why they should have any hesitation in submitting it either to the Board or the Umpire, as the case may be. In the meantime, we understand, the matter remains in abeyance.

In accordance with the promise made to the delegates at the Manchester Conference, the General Secretary brought the question of the deductions for grindery, rent of room and steam power, before the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Congress, and asked for assistance with the view of having incorporated in the Truck Act of the Government, which has been amended in Committee, and which will be found on pp. 15-16 of this report, provision against any stoppage whatever, we claiming—and rightly we think—that we should be paid for our labour, and having been paid for that, we should have no deductions made from our wages.

We are pleased to state that the Parliamentary Committee, after hearing the explanation of the General Secretary, offered to render any and every assistance in their power with a view to getting the Government, if possible, to make such provision. Mr. Woods, the Secretary of the Parliamentary Committee, and Mr. Inskip, our Secretary, were deputed to make the necessary arrangements with the Home Secretary for a deputation from the various branches of our Union to wait upon him and urge the reasons for the said provision. The members of the Parliamentary Committee kindly agreed that those of their number who were in London at the time the deputation was held, should accompany it, and give the weight of the committee to the deputation in question. Some correspondence in reference to the matter, which has passed between the Home Secretary and the General Secretary, will be found on pp. 17-18, and as the General Secretary was too unwell to attend at the Home Office, the President (Mr. W. B. Hornidge) kindly consented to see Mr. Longley, secretary to Sir Matthew White Ridley, with the view of making an arrangement for the deputation. No further progress has, however, been made, but at the time of writing there seems every reason to hope that, ere these lines appear in print, the Truck Bill will have passed through the House of Commons.

We are not in the habit of taking notice of rumours that from time to time are circulated to our disadvantage, but we feel we must make an exception in the case of the rumour that has gained wide-spread currency throughout the country, to the effect that the employers are intending to take advantage of our financial position, by locking out with a view to reducing wages.

An interview has taken place between the President of the Employers' Federation and the President of the Union, and Mr. Lennard has authorised Mr. Hornidge to publicly state that there is no intention on the part of the Employers' Federation either to close down the factories, or to attempt a reduction of wages. On the contrary, he (Mr. Lennard) assured Mr. Hornidge—and this is borne out by our own experience—that the employers are making every effort to divide the work so that the men may share and share alike, and not discharge them in the wholesale manner as formerly, in consequence of the wretched state of trade. We trust this disclaimer will be sufficient to give this unfounded rumour its quietus.

As mentioned in our previous Report, we forwarded a copy of the June Report to E. P. Monckton, Esq., M.P., House of Commons, London, and we have received the following reply:—

HOUSE OF COMMONS,

July 23rd, 1896.

DEAR SIR,

I presume I have to thank your courtesy for sending me copy of Boot and Shoe Operatives' Monthly Report, June, 1896, containing comments on my award. We are all entitled to our opinions honestly formed, and as General Secretary of the men's Union, I am glad to express to you the ability, energy, and great courtesy with which Mr. Hornsey presented his case; and though in this instance, under all the circumstances, I have decided against him for a time on one of the two points originally submitted to me, I trust there may ever remain between us feelings of mutual respect, trust, and good-will. I can certainly answer for myself.—I am, yours truly,

EDWARD P. MONCKTON.

W. Inskip, Esq., J.P.,

General Secretary National Union Boot and Shoe Operatives.

THE NOMINATIONS

for the various offices connected with the Union will be found on pp. 19-26.

It is highly important that every effort should be made by the branch officials to get large meetings on the occasion of the voting for these offices (although we are well aware it is an awkward time to get large meetings just now), so that the true voice of the members may be ascertained in relation to those who have to fill these important positions during the next two years.

Whilst speaking of the nominations, we would remind branches that the resolution, passed at the Manchester conference, giving to each district two representatives to the Trades Congress, in addition to the General President and the General Secretary, does not come into force until September, and therefore does not apply to the Congress to be held at Edinburgh in September of this year, so that branches who have been in the habit of sending delegates may do so on the occasion of the next Congress, and those branches who feel they would like to send delegates, but have not hitherto done so, may do so.

The voting for the two Union representatives will be taken on exactly the same lines as in previous years.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

In accordance with our usual custom, we submit herewith a synopsis of the financial business of the Union during the past half-year, with the view of making the finances more "understandable." There are no items of special importance to draw attention to. At the same time it would be well to mark the progress of the Union, and the effect the new order of things is having upon it, and the probable further effects which may follow.

TRADE DEPARTMENT.

The balance in hand of the Trade Department, at the end of last half-year was £11,368 13s. 2d.

The income of this department has amounted, during the half-year, to £6,912 5s. 8d., as against £9,861 18s. 8d. received last half-year, a decrease of £2,949 13s. 0d., which is accounted for by there being no levies in this half-year.

The total expenditure for Trade purposes has been £4,654 15s. 10d., as against £1,843 10s. 10d. spent last half-year, an increase of £2,811 5s. 0d., which is caused through the Glasgow strike.

The total funds in hand of the Trade Department, on December 31st, 1895, was £11,368 13s. 2d.; on June 30th, 1896, it amounts to £13,626 3s. 0d., or an increase of £2,257 9s. 10d.

The details of the expenditure, under the different headings, are as follows:—

Cost of Investigating has been £75 13s. 1d., against £53 0s. 0d. last half year, an increase of £22 13s. 1d.

Compensation claims paid has amounted to £236 10s. 6d., as against £168 10s. 0d., an increase during the half year of £68 0s. 6d.

The amount credited to Dispute and Arbitration amounts to £3,195 13s. 10d., as against £896 15s. 2d. disbursed last half year, an increase of £2,298 18s. 8d., accounted for the Glasgow strike.

The cost of the Conferences amount to £274 13s. 10d., as against £5 15s. 1d. last half year, an increase of £268 18s. 9d., which is accounted for by the Manchester Conference.

For assisting Members on Travel, £209 8s. 1d. has been paid, as against £141 7s. 0d. last half-year, an increase of £68 1s. 1d.

Three-fourths Share of Organising comes to £38 15s. 9d.

Seven-eighths Share of Printing amounts to £269 1s. 5d.

Legal expenses total £18 8s. 6d.

Grants amount to £10.

Management Expenses, which includes Council Meetings, Salaries, Carriage of Parcels, Office Repairs, Cleaning Offices, Rent of Office, Auditing, etc., amounts to £299 11s. 6d., as against £290 11s. 2d., the cost last half year, an increase of £9 0s. 4d.

SICK AND FUNERAL DEPARTMENT.

The balance in hand last half-year amounted to £9083 17s. 9d.

The Income during the past half-year has been £6584 6s. 2d., against £6969 8s. 6d. received last half-year, a decrease of £385 2s. 4d.

The Expenditure for Sick Purposes has been £5944 13s. 4d., whereas £5424 6s. 8d. was spent last half-year, an increase of £520 6s. 8d.

Funeral Claims amount to £539 15s. 0d., compared with £395 10s. 0d. of last half-year, an increase of £144 5s. 0d.

One-eight Share of Printing charged to this account is £38 8s. 9d.

One-fourth share of organising charged to this account amounts to £12 18s. 6d.

Management expenses for this account come to £121 19s. 11d., as compared with £116 16s. 7d., the amount disbursed last half year, an increase of £5 3s. 4d.

The total cost of managing the Union amounts to £421 11s. 5d., as against £407 7s. 9d., last half year, an increase of £14 3s. 8d.

BRANCH REPORTS.

BRISTOL No. 2.—In sending this month we regret to state that trade is not improved yet, nearly all firms working short hours. The report of the work done at the Conference having been submitted to our members at a Branch Meeting, an expression of approval was unanimously given at the result. We would also wish to report of two meetings of the Arbitration Board being held after having such a long holiday.

BARNESLEY.—We are pleased to say that there is a slight improvement in trade here, but we are not yet working full time, but we hope by the next return is sent in that we shall have full employment. We were pleased to see that the Conference ended in a satisfactory manner, although we think there was too much personal feeling brought in it. We are pleased that the branch fund loan account was settled for the time, for we happen to be in the position of owing to the Council, although we feel it very hard that we should be put down as owing a lot when we could have cleared ourselves out of the money that we sent up. And then there is £9 10s. od. that we have been charged as levies, when at the same time the members of this branch were not earning 10s. per week, and did not average that for about four months, so they really could not afford to pay their contributions regularly, much more pay levies. But we think that, as we paid a deal more from the branch, and knowing the state of trade at the time, we should have been let off the last levies, simply because we could not pay them, and this branch would have looked better in the balance sheet.

BELFAST.—We have to report this month that trade is getting a little dull, owing to the approaching holidays, as is always the case here. We thank the Council for endorsing the £2 compensation to J. Hanlon for the loss of his work, as none of the employers would give him work, although some of them wanted men. We would advise the members to look to their arrears, as the majority of them are very near the scratch mark. We would advise the members not to call on the Secretary during working hours, as the employers here do not care for men coming now and again calling on the Secretary, and taking him from his work. Members on travel can see him in the morning from 7 to 8 a.m., 1 to 2 p.m., and any hour after 7 p.m.

BRAMLEY.—Trade here has improved a little. Mr. Hornidge has been here a few days, and succeeded in fixing up the machinery of Arbitration, thus putting us in a better position to take a step forward. Our thanks are certainly due to the Council for sending him, as the result seems to have given general satisfaction. The following is a copy of the agreement arrived at:—"Firstly, there is no desire on either side to claim advances, or reduce wages; secondly, it is desirable to equalise the prices already paid in Bramley; thirdly, that a committee of inquiry be formed, consisting of two employers, two employers' representatives, and four workmen—with the Leeds Arbitration Board for reference—to deal with any questions in dispute that may arise; one Bramley workman to be added to the Board in the event of two Bramley employers being elected; two workmen to sit when any dispute from Bramley is before the Board." With respect to grindery, the employers have expressed their willingness to continue finding it. Great credit is due to Mr. Hornidge, our general president, for the manner in which he has conducted us through. We have granted £1 0s. od. to the bricklayers' labourers who are on strike at Leeds, and collected £1 10s. od.

CHESTERFIELD.—In addressing you this month we are sorry to say trade with us is very bad, our members say that they cannot remember anything like it before. We are working on an average thirty hours a week. The consequence of it is the majority of our members are getting towards the limit with their arrears. Up to the present we have none over the mark, but if it continues to be short time much longer I am afraid we shall have some stepping on the wrong side. Our usual busy time commences in August, but there are rumours about that the miners will come out in that month. If they do we do not know how we shall go on, as we know from past experience what it means to us if they do decide to come out. In 1893, if we remember right, our average earnings were from 10s. to 15s. per week during their seventeen weeks' strike. But still we gave our mites to the fund for their relief; not what we should liked to have given, but what we could afford. If they do come out again, we, the members of this branch, hope it will be more beneficial to them than the last one was. We have attempted organisation, but we are sorry to say it is a failure at present, as bad trade is against us, but we shall try again if trade does improve, as we think if we keep going and persuade these men to join and have something to fall back upon when they are out of work, instead of having to depend on fellow-shopmates, our labour will not have been in vain. Until then, and then only, can we put in the statement which the Council granted us two years ago. We strongly advise members in search of work to give Chesterfield as wide a berth as they possibly can at present.

DUNDEE.—According to statistics trade in general is good, and the country prosperous; but we regret to be under the necessity of reporting that never was trade at this season of the year so wretchedly bad as at present with us. There is a considerable number of our members who are working four days, and a number five days per week. Bad as that is, there is a number of our members who would be glad of that, in consequence of having received the intimation that their employer had graciously conceded to them the privilege of a month's holiday. There is no doubt that that concession would be very acceptable if it were possible for boot operatives to live on sunshine and air; but being unable to do so the conditions of these men are better imagined than described. Time was when we could rely upon a fair amount of labour in the summer season, but even in that we are doomed to disappointment. "Man wants but little here below, nor wants that little long." Evidently the little he wants he will want, unless he bestir himself to think, then resolve, that conditions such as these must exist no longer.

DUBLIN.—Messrs. Smally (Winstanley's), now that trade is bad, with their usual consideration, attempt to bring the men in their employ to their way of thinking with regard to the prices paid by them for their work. They state that they are paying too much wages. Now, there is nothing very remarkable in that. Employers in the shoe trade in general say the same, but Messrs. Smally have in a very decided manner shown their determination to pay less than other people. Willing to sacrifice something to begin with, they believe that ultimately they will succeed in accomplishing their purpose. They have sent away to England (what part we are at present ignorant of) 500 pairs of boot tops to be bottomed—Mr. Smally announced this to the men personally. Chief amongst this lot is the 72 boot, material, native calf or very fine kip. This boot is paid for in the 2nd item on our Statement; he, Mr. Smally, wants it made in the 3rd item; also a cycle shoe. Now if any of our members come across any of this work, we need hardly say that we will feel gratified if they will let the branch secretary know, who, we feel certain, will let us know where it is being made.

DAVENTRY.—We have nothing particular to report; but the trade is in a shocking bad state.

DESBOROUGH.—In sending our returns this month we have to report that trade is very bad with us, indeed it is the worst time we have experienced for some years. We don't expect there will be much change for the better till after Bank Holiday, when we hope for an improvement. We are sorry to have to keep scratching a few of our members each month, but it is no good keeping them on the books any longer, as they are members in name only. Members are reminded that their arrears must not exceed 6s. or they will be scratched at once.

GLASGOW.—We regret having to state that trade is not so good here as we would like it to be, and owing to this being the holiday season in Scotland it will be fully two months before we can expect any change for the better; we therefore advise members who are travelling in search of work to give Glasgow a wide berth in the meantime.

HECKMONDWIKE.—Trade is on the improve, but still bad for finishers.

HIGHAM AND RUSHDEN.—In sending our returns for this month we have to report trade bad, for never have we known such a state of general depression in our district at this season of the year. Many firms are still working short time, and week after week other employers are compelled to adopt the same system; better that this should be done than by keeping on full time and discharging part of the men, for by all appearances there is very little chance of the men getting another job for some considerable time; and when the breadwinner is unemployed it is not he alone who suffers, but his wife and children, whereas by adopting the short time system in times of depression every man shares alike, and with some prospect of keeping his home together and the wolf from the door until good trade returns, which we trust is not far distant. Our trade is undoubtedly passing through a great crisis; but it is the machinery question, and the strained relations with foreign countries, that is greatly responsible for the change, and it remains to a considerable extent with the workers to find a remedy, and to look to its application for improving the general condition of the country.

HINCKLEY.—We regret to report trade with us worse than ever we have known it in this district, a large quantity of our members only working four hours per day, which added to those out of work would make quite half the members of this branch with little or nothing to do. As usual in these times disputes have been frequent; but we are pleased to say we have been successful in getting them settled locally. We hope our general secretary is better, and able to get about again by this.

IPSWICH.—In sending our report this month we are sorry to state trade is very bad with us; and we are sorry that we have had a dispute on Brittin and Banester's shop over a double toe cap, the men claiming on it. At first they were refused, and after the men losing a lot of time they agreed to pay it. We hope things will go on more smoothly than they have in the passed.

KILMARNOCK.—There is little change to report this month in the state of trade. Our members are fairly employed. Negotiations are going on with the manager of the Co-operative Shoe Factory here; and we may say we are confident there will be no trouble in securing very fair conditions for those employed by them. We trust those members of the branch who are in arrears with their contributions will make an effort to clear away the same, and bring themselves more into harmony with the rules, or they will have to pay the penalty.

LONDON METRO.—Never in the history of London was the trade so bad winter or summer, but we expect to have plenty of work in future, as men who have been in the habit of earning at piecework when fully employed £2 and over per week are taking 30s. to work in connection with machinery. This ought to splendidly facilitate the introduction of machinery. Some of the manufacturers think the machinery will save them 25 per cent. cost, and the men taking 25 per cent. reduction in wages ought to make them go along beautifully. The work of the Board is very unsatisfactory indeed, as the following will show:—

Committee of Enquiry, Monday, June 29th, 1896, at 6 p.m. Present (employers), Messrs. I. Weber and G. Barnes; workmen, Messrs. H. Brown and C. Freak. Questions considered: (1) Dispute on Mr. F. W. Farr's shop. A letter was read from Mr. Craig to Mr. Freak and his reply thereto. Mr. Farr, representing the firm, and Mr. Poyton, representing the finishers, were then called in and the question discussed on its merits. Mr. Farr stated that his machine finishing room did not pay, and so he determined to put the men on piecework, but they refused and went out on strike. Mr. Poyton stated that they were not told that there was to be a change on the shop until 6.20 on Tuesday last (23rd), and the new system was to come into force on the following morning. Mr. Farr admitted that he had put out a bill for "lads for ploughing out, also for taking off after machine." He also admitted that his work cost about 3s. per dozen finishing now; and, likewise, that he had offered a piecework statement which would have been a direct reduction to the men. He was ultimately instructed to pay his old prices, and the men were to resume work to-morrow morning (June 30th). (2) Lady's brown calf Oxford shoe, offered in E, claimed in C, was referred back to be marked. (3) Lady's mock kid one bar shoe, galloon bound, offered in H, claimed in F, was referred back. (4) Lady's kip lavant lace bal boot, offered in F, claimed in E, was referred to full Board. (5) Lady's glove hide lace Oxford shoe, offered in F, claimed in E was referred to full Board. (6) Lady's quarter over turned in two bar shoe, offered in E, claimed in D, referred to full Board. (7) Lady's Oxford Shoe, coloured hide or belly, from Welbank and Matthews; must be made up before it can be classed.

Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, Sixth Meeting, Basma House, London, Wall Avenue, Wednesday, July 8th, 1896. Present (employers), Messrs. T. Lilley, T. Clark, and Colwell; workmen, A. Lambson, C. Solomon, A. Adams, G. Brown, H. Brown, and C. Freak. Apologies for non-attendance were read from Messrs. Kaufman and Gorbald. Minutes of previous meeting read. Minutes of Committee Enquiry read. The questions on the agenda could not be proceeded with as there was no quorum of manufacturers present. Mr. Freak, on behalf of the workmen's side of the Board, called attention to the waste of time and money in calling meetings when on so many occasions there had not been a quorum of manufacturers. Mr. Lilley, the chairman, promised to try and remedy this in future. It was agreed the meeting stand adjourned until the 22nd of July.

To Messrs. William Hickson and George Thorn, Arbitrators to the London Boot and Shoe Trade.

GENTLEMEN,

The question of a deduction for heeling girls' work by machinery having been referred to me as Umpire, in consequence of your not being able to come to a decision, has had my most careful attention.

On the one part the employers contend that the clause on the Second-class Statement, "Deduction for work heeled by machinery," applies equally to girls' as to womens', and they claim they are entitled to a deduction of one-third, as shown on that Statement.

The workmen, on the other part, say when that statement was compiled it was not intended to apply to that kind of work, as it was not then heeled by machinery, and they say the deduction should be respectively one shilling per dozen for sizes 11 to 1, and ninepence per dozen for sizes 7 to 10.

I am, however, of opinion the clause is prospective, and definitely sets forth the general principle in "work heeled by machinery"; and in the absence of any declaration that the clause applies only to womens', I am bound to come to the conclusion it applies equally to girls' and womens'; and I adjudge and award accordingly.

I have to express my regret that in consequence of my illness this decision has been so long delayed.

I am, Gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,

(Signed) PHILIP MANFIELD.

30th June, 1896.

NOTE.—I hope I may be permitted to add that I should have been glad to have accepted the workmen's view of the case, for I feel the deduction on girls' work is a very large one, and I would suggest to the employers the desirability of some re-arrangement of the scale for heeling girls' work by machinery.

(Signed) PHILIP MANFIELD.

LEICESTER.—Our report this month is of the most gloomy kind, we can confidently say that trade has never, at this time of the year, been worse. Hundreds of our members are scarcely making half-time, and we paid last Saturday, July 11th, the contributions of 173 members who are absolutely out of employment. The number of out-of-works is increasing week by week, and the prospects for the immediate future is not very bright. It is hardly necessary under these circumstances to advise members in search of work to avoid Leicester at present. A scheme for the building of a Trades' Hall, Club and Institute, for the use of the trade unionists of the town, at a cost of about £7000, has been initiated by the Trades Council, and our branch has just decided to invest a sum of £1000 in it. It is proposed to build offices for the various unions, and a large hall to seat 1000 persons, in addition to a club and a Lecture Hall. A central site has been offered to the Council, and there is every prospect of the venture being successful. We are going to make an appeal to the trade unionists to take up shares, as well as making investments from their union funds, and we believe with a revival of trade that this appeal would be responded to.

LEICESTER No. 2.—Trade is very bad, in fact it seems worse than Jubilee year, and in our opinion, proves the necessity of a further restriction of those entering the trade, and would advise members that it is no use looking here for work. The question of a minimum wage for clickers and pressmen in the Hinckley Branch and Earl Shilton District was brought before the Umpire, Mr. B. Dickinson, of Leeds, on the 14th ult. We claim 28s. for clickers and 25s. for pressmen. The employers offered 24s. for clickers and 21s. for pressmen. He has promised to give his decision in a few days, and we hope it will be the means of establishing more uniformity of wages in that district. The General President introduced the case for our side, and a good discussion followed.

LEEDS.—In submitting our report this month we are pleased to announce that at last there is a slight improvement in trade here, yet, at the same time, trade is very far from being brisk. We have granted a second donation of £5 to the Bricklayers and Labourers of this city in response to their appeal, and we trust that the dispute may be speedily settled satisfactory to both parties. We are pleased to say that through the efforts of our General President, Mr. W. B. Hornidge, there is every prospect of the dispute pending at Bramley been amicably arranged. We are also thankful that Mr. Hornidge was allowed the privilege of visiting several factories here where the lasting machines are in operation. He also attended a meeting of the Branch Executive, when several questions were put to him and satisfactorily answered. Hoping that our General Secretary and General President may both enjoy better health in the future than what has been their lot of late, and thus be enabled to make our Union stronger both numerically and financially.

LEEDS, No. 2.—In our report this month we have still to say that trade here is quiet, though our members, with the exception of about two, are working although some are on short time. We do not expect trade to be good till August is over. Will you please draw the attention of secretaries and members to the error printed in last monthly report, by some mistake, S. Mason, registered No. 28309, is announced as having received his full amount of travelling relief for 1896. We have his book here which shows he has received only 12/6 up to the present.

NORTHAMPTON.—Trade is very quiet indeed here at present; large numbers of men being on short time; and the outlook is far from being a bright one from the workmen's point of view. The Trades Council have approached the Manufacturers' Association, asking such association to receive a deputation of workmen, such deputation being appointed for the purpose of asking the manufacturers to adopt, if at all possible, the system of putting their employes upon short time in the slack seasons, rather than dismissing a number and keeping the remainder on full time. At the time of writing such meeting had not taken place; but it is hoped that when such meeting does take place good will accrue from the same. We would again impress upon the workers the necessity of a strong organisation under the present system of government to keep up the present wages and conditions. From information which from time to time comes to our knowledge the state of those who think they can best do without such an organisation proves conclusively that wages and conditions gradually get worse, as within the past few weeks we have certain knowledge that men's strong work are being finished at a very low figure in the country, and this will continue until the workers are sufficiently wide awake to stand shoulder to shoulder. Again, it cannot too often be impressed upon us the urgent necessity of using our political power in such a manner that our interests are forwarded and not retarded. The question of machinery is also getting a serious one for workmen, and it is very certain that unless a united effort is made to shorten the hours of labour, and so make employment for some at least unemployed, that the lives of very large numbers of workers will be one continual round of want and suffering. We are pleased to say that Mr. S. Adams, the branch president, has been made chairman of the Arbitration Board for the town.

NORTHAMPTON No. 2.—In sending our report for this month we wish to thank the Council for the able manner they dealt with the “startling and amazing decision” given by Mr. Monckton, the umpire, as to an advance of wages for the clickers and pressmen of Northampton. But at the same time we feel bound to take exception to one paragraph wherein it states, “That the case could not have been submitted and facts and figures brought out before the Umpire such as we append.” We can assure the Council that we had and produced far worse cases than the example quoted in the June Report, and as far as the pressmen are concerned, besides their loss of time, we also produced evidence as to their liability to accidents, which was obtained from a source the truth and accuracy of which there can be no doubt. We should prefer that the Council member for this district or the General President should call at our office and see for themselves the facts and figures that were produced, and very ably too, we feel assured, by our Referee, Mr. Thomas Hornsey, who, at our last monthly meeting, received an unanimous and hearty vote of thanks for services rendered. Another matter we should like to call members’ attention to is, that a workman in a local factory recently took the liberty of standing still with his arm resting on his bench for the short space of two minutes, when a snap-shop with a photographic apparatus was taken of him as he stood. Ultimately he was discharged, and, on asking the reason, he was shown his photo in the position as described above. Whatever are we coming to? is the cry. Well they may.

NORWICH.—We have to report that a dispute occurred on the firm of Edwards and Sons. The secretary being appealed to as to his opinion respecting a goat top, glove hide gollosh, with toecap and leather lining, gave it as his opinion that according to our classification it should be rated as 3rd, and quoted a case in which a similar boot had been submitted by another employer and passed by the Board in that rate. The men then adopted the usual course of calling the employers’ attention to the matter; and ultimately the secretary was called in, when he pointed out to the employer that he took his stand upon a boot of a similar kind being passed by the Arbitration Board as 3rd. The employer then referred to the fact that two or three weeks before the sample boot was made as 4th, without any protest from the men, and claimed that as the sample had been made as 4th he had a right to have the orders made at the same rate. The secretary then called the employers’ attention to the rules of the Board, which give both the employer and workmen power at any time they might find out they were making work in the wrong rate to have the matter referred to the Board for their decision. However, the employer refused to have the matter referred to the Board, contending that he had not been treated fairly, and should have nothing more to do with it. The men, on the other hand, declined to make this line of work unless they were paid as 3rd, or taken before the Board. The employer thereupon ordered all the men to finish up work in hand and leave his premises at once. Thus a lock-out occurred over a matter that in all probability would have been settled by the Board in a very few minutes. We are pleased, however, to say that after the men had been out eleven days the matter was settled quite satisfactory to the men, they having returned to work. We are of opinion that the slackness of trade is at the bottom of the whole matter.

NORWICH No. 2.—Trade here in the machine-sewn and rivetting department is in a very bad state, several of our members having nothing to do, and others making half and three-quarter time. A dispute has occurred, and is still pending, at Edwards and Sons over a boot that the men claim as 3rd, which Messrs. Edwards wants doing as 4th. Mr. Edwards treated the men in a very arbitrary way, refusing to listen in a reasonable manner to their grievance, which came as a surprise, as he has had the character for fairness, but, we suppose, it is the outcome of the severe and keen competition that manufacturers, as well as the workmen, have to face that tend to sour and crab, and almost to obliterate the better side of human nature. We are sorry to say the dispute has affected only four of our members—viz., two full and two half being entitled to benefit. This is one of the shops we tried hard to organise, but the men seemed as indifferent and satisfied as if they had a snug job for life without anything to think about. But we find the dispute had not been in existence a very few hours before they came clamouring round the officials for information, etc. ; and now, men who are trade unionists and have protected themselves feel compelled to go round, box in hand, soliciting help for those who might, and ought, to have been in the Union as well as themselves. Our General President, Mr. Hornidge, being in Norwich over a dispute at Sexton and Sons', a joint meeting of the Nos. 1 and 2 Branches was held on Wednesday evening, July 1st. The large room at the "Pigeon" was fairly full, though our members were conspicuous by their absence. Mr. Hornidge, in a very lucid manner, gave a resume of the position of the Union up to date, afterwards dealing with the clickers and rough stuff cutters' position, and the dispute at Sexton and Sons.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—Now that our midsummer holidays are over, a slight improvement in trade is discernable. We have nothing of any importance to report, but would again like to draw the attention of our members to the necessity of their attendance at our monthly meetings with a little more regularity than is shown at present. At our last monthly meeting, out of a total membership of 200 only 16 could find their way to the club-house.

STAFFORD.—We are sorry to report that trade is in a very depressed condition here ; all our firms are on short time, and we would advise members in search of employment to give Stafford a wide berth for the present. We are also sorry that a large number of our employers have taken advantage of the depression in trade to discharge or suspend a quantity of their hands, in spite of a request from the general body of workpeople that what little work there may be should be shared among all. We sincerely hope that this will be a lesson to those of our members who have been practically tumbling over each other to obtain opportunities to work overtime. We wish to extend to the clickers and pressmen of Northampton our very sincere sympathy in the calamity—for we can call it by no other name—that has befallen them. We refer to the unparalleled award that has been recently given by Mr. E. P. Monckton, which decides that the minimum wage for a competent clicker shall be 26s., and the wage of a pressman shall be 22s., and that the questions must not be re-opened for three years. The great fault of the award is the omission by the Umpire of a clause which would have pointed out to the workman how it was possible to live decently on such gigantic wages. We give the gentleman credit for acting conscientiously in the matter, yet surely, he cannot have obtained much experience of the wants and requirements of a working man's home, or he would never have given an award which contained such meagre wages, coupled with such drastic conditions.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE QUESTION

In the High Court of Justice,

Queen's Bench Division.

ROYAL COURTS OF JUSTICE,

8th June, 1896.

BEFORE THE LORD CHIEF JUSTICE OF ENGLAND AND

A SPECIAL JURY.

ALLEN v BAILEY.

This action arose out of a lock-out in the Glass trade, the plaintiff William Arthur Allen, a glass beveller, living at Bethnal Green, suing William Oliver Bailey and John Bailey, glass merchants of Islington, to recover damages for alleged false imprisonment. The defendants denied the alleged false imprisonment, and pleaded a justification. Mr. Murphy, Q.C., and Mr. Morten were counsel for the plaintiff, and Mr. Candy, Q.C., and Mr. Henry C. A. Bingley, for the defendants. It appeared that last October the defendants had a dispute with their workmen, and there was a lock-out by the defendants of their employees. The plaintiff was a member of the National Plate Glass Bevelers' Union, and the alleged false imprisonment took place under the following circumstances:—After a time Messrs. Bailey attempted to get their work done elsewhere, and bicycles were used in the interests of the Union to follow the cabs from the defendants' works to places where the work was carried. The plaintiff was one of the men employed to do this, and on October 11th, he followed on a bicycle some persons employed by the defendants. In consequence, a summons was taken out by the Bailey's against him for having persistently followed their employees. When this summons was pending, on the afternoon of October 22nd, the plaintiff followed a cab in which Messrs. Bailey and one of their clerks were riding, and when the cab got to Old Jewry, one of the defendants stopped the cab, called a policeman, and gave the plaintiff into custody. Upon the arrival of the party at the police station the inspector on duty, on hearing what had occurred, refused to take the charge. On October 24th, the summons taken out against the plaintiff was heard at the Clerkenwell police court, by Mr. Bros., the metropolitan police magistrate and dismissed. While the plaintiff's case was proceeding, at the suggestion of the learned judge, a settlement was arrived at, and it was agreed that the plaintiff was entitled to a verdict, the amount of damages being left to his lordship.

JUDGMENT.

THE LORD CHIEF JUSTICE : I have no difficulty at all in saying what ought to be done. I do not think it is a case in which any damages of any importance ought to be given. I think the justice of the case will be met by saying the plaintiff ought to have a verdict for £5, with costs, taxed in the ordinary way ; but I will take the opportunity of saying that I hope it will not be understood by anybody from the course this case has taken that the men are in case either of a lock-out or of a strike, entitled to do anything which is in any degree inviolation of the Act of Parliament. They are entitled under that Act undoubtedly in these unhappy disputes between employers on the one hand and employees on the other—they are undoubtedly entitled under the Act of Parliament to obtain information, and have the right to follow with such means as are necessary to obtain information as to what is going on even if it relates to the employment of other classes of men, and they are perfectly entitled when a dispute of this kind arises to endeavour by the use of moral influence, by appeals to their interests as fellow workmen, to induce other persons not to take the place of the men that are out on strike or are locked out. They would not be entitled to induce the men who entered into contracts of labour to break those contracts. They would not be entitled to use any threats. They would not be entitled persistently to follow with a view of inducing any employer or employee to abstain from doing any act which he has a right to do, or to do any act which he has a right to refuse to do. I wish to make that very plain. These are known things, and they are only inoffensive so long as they keep within the strict letter of the law.

MR. MURPHY : Your Lordship will give us the necessary certificate.

THE LORD CHIEF JUSTICE : Yes, I give the necessary certificate for costs.

A BILL

(AS AMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE ON TRADE)

TO

AMEND THE TRUCK ACTS.

BE IT ENACTED by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :

- 1.—(1.) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workmen, for or in respect of any fine, unless—
 - (a) the contract is embodied in a printed notice affixed at the pit head or at the entrance of a factory or workshop, and in such parts of a mine, factory, or workshop as one of Her Majesty's Inspectors of Mines or Factories may direct or approve, and constantly kept so affixed in such a position that it can be easily read by the persons employed in the mine, factory or workshop ; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman ; and
 - (b) the contract specifies the acts or omissions in respect of which the fine may be imposed, and the amount of the fine or the particulars from which that amount may be ascertained ; and
 - (c) the fine imposed under the contract is in respect of some act or omission which causes or is likely to cause damage or loss to the employer, or interruption or hindrance to his business ; and
 - (d) the amount of the fine is fair and reasonable having regard to all the circumstances of the case.
- (2) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment, unless—
 - (a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid ; and
 - (b) particulars in writing showing the acts or omissions in respect of which the fine is imposed and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.
- (3.) This section shall apply to the case of a shop assistant in like manner as it applies to the case of a workman.
- 2.—(1) An employer shall not make any contract with any workmen for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for or in respect of bad or negligent work or injury to the materials or other property of the employer, unless—
 - (a) the contract is embodied in a printed notice affixed at the pit head or at the entrance of a factory, or workshop, and in such a position that it can be easily read by the persons employed in the mine, factory, or workshop ; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman ; and
 - (b) the deduction or payment to be made under the contract does not exceed the actual or estimated damage or loss occasioned to the employer by the act or omission of the workman, or of some person over whom he has control, or for whom he has by the contract agreed to be responsible ; and
 - (c) the amount of the deduction or payment is fair and reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.
- (2) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless—
 - (a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid ; and
 - (b) particulars in writing showing the acts or omissions in respect of which the deduction or payment is made and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

3.—(1) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for, or in respect of, the use or supply of materials, tools or machines, standing room, light, heat, or any other thing to be done or provided by the employer in relation to the work or labour of the workman unless—

- (a) the contract is embodied in a printed notice affixed at the pit head or at the entrance of a factory or workshop, and in such parts of a mine, factory, or workshop, as one of Her Majesty's Inspectors of Mines or Factories may direct or approve, and constantly kept so affixed in such a position that it can be easily read by the persons employed in the mine, factory, or workshop; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman; and
 - (b) the sum to be paid or deducted under the contract in respect of materials, tools, or machines, standing room, light, heat, or any other thing, does not exceed, in the case of materials or tools supplied to the workman, the actual or estimated cost thereof to the employer, or in the case of the use of machinery, light, heat, or any other thing, in this section mentioned a fair and reasonable rent or allowance, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.
- (2) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless—
- (a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, and in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid; and
 - (b) particulars in writing showing the things in respect of which the deduction or payment is made and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

4. If any employer enters into any contract contrary to this Act, or makes any deduction or receives any payment contrary to this Act, he shall be guilty of an offence against the Truck Act, 1831, and shall be liable to the penalties imposed by section nine of that Act as if the offence were an offence in that section mentioned.

5. Any workman or shop assistant may recover any sum deducted by or paid to his employer contrary to this Act, provided that an action for recovery be raised within three months from the date of the deduction or payment sought to be recovered, and that where he has consented to or acquiesced in any such deduction or payment, he shall only recover the excess which has been deducted or paid over the amount, if any, which the Court may find to have been fair and reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

6.—(1) Every person who has made any contract purporting or intending to operate as a contract under this Act, shall, on demand in writing by one of Her Majesty's inspectors of factories or of mines, produce the contract or a true copy thereof at any convenient time and place to be named by the inspector, and the inspector shall be at liberty to take a copy of the same or of any part thereof, and any workman or shop assistant who is party to any such contract shall be entitled on request to obtain from his employer free of charge a copy of the contract or of the document in which it is embodied.

(2) If any person fails to comply with this section he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding forty shillings.

7. A contract entered into in any part of the United Kingdom under the provisions of this Act shall not be liable to stamp duty.

8. Nothing in this Act shall make lawful any contract or payment which is illegal under the Truck Acts, 1831 and 1887, or under the Hosiery Manufacture (Wages) Act, 1874, or affect the provisions of the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, or any amending Act, with respect to persons employed in mines and paid according to weight.

9. This Act shall come into operation on the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven.

10. This Act may be cited as the Truck Act, 1896; and the Truck Acts, 1831 and 1887, and this Act shall be construed together as one Act and may be cited collectively as the Truck Acts, 1831 to 1896.

THE TRUCK BILL.

Correspondence with the Home Office.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

JUNE 9TH, 1896,

DEAR SIR MATTHEW,

Mr. W. B. Hornidge, the President of the above Union, who was at Whitehall yesterday, in lieu of myself, who am confined to my room through an attack of pleurisy, informs me that Mr. Longley, your esteemed Secretary, whom he saw, seems to be of opinion that it is desirable that I should put into writing the objects upon which we desire that a deputation formed of the above trade, should wait upon you in reference to the Truck Act.

In the first place I have to point out that we are a Registered Society, numbering 45,000 members, and amongst our objects are the two following:—

“The establishment, where practicable, of healthy and proper workshops: the employer to find Room, Grindery, Fixtures, Fire, and Light free of charge.”

“The establishment of a uniform rate of wages for the same class of work throughout the Union.”

It is with the view to carry out these objects that we desire the Truck Act so amended.

No trade has suffered more than ours through stoppages and deductions from wages actually earned, if I except the frame rent and charges made in the Hosiery Trade, and I understand that you propose to exempt these by leaving the words as they are.

Now with respect to the Bill itself, Clause 3, Section A, reads as follows:—

“Unless the contract is embodied in a printed notice, affixed at the Pit Head, or at the entrance of a Factory or Workshop, and in such parts of a Mine, Factory, or Workshop, as one of Her Majesty's Inspectors of Mines or Factories may direct or approve, and constantly kept so affixed in such a position that it can be easily read by the persons employed in the Mine, Factory, or Workshop, or the contract is in writing signed by the workman.”

You will notice that this leaves us where we are. It means that all an employer has to do is to fix a notice stating that the workpeople have to buy their grindery and materials from the employer. Also, that women have still to pay for machine rent and steam power to work the employer's own machine, in the employer's own factory or workshop.

This abominable system was only introduced by unscrupulous employers at the time the workpeople were unable to defend themselves.

At a Conference of the above Trade, held during Whit-week, in Manchester, the opinion of the Delegates was that every effort should be made to induce the Home Secretary, when recasting his Bill, to make provision to exempt the Boot and Shoe Trade. The Bill would not need redrafting for this purpose, but only require adding after Clause 3, Section A.: “Except in the case of the Boot and Shoe Trade.”

I laid full particulars of our case before the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades' Union Congress, for which I have been for many years Treasurer, and they decided that every effort should be made to arrange an interview with yourself and a deputation of our trade, and it was also decided that the members of the Committee, who were in London at the time of the Deputation, should also be present to assist that Deputation.

In conclusion, I have nothing more to state; but I trust if you are unable to see a Deputation you will consider the above suggestions when recasting the Bill, as it vitally affects some thousands of workers outside our Union, in addition to the members of the Union.

Permit me, dear Sir Matthew, to thank you and your Secretary (Mr. Longley) for your courtesy, and allow me to subscribe myself,

Yours most respectfully,

WILLIAM INSKIP, General Secretary.

The Right Hon. Sir Matthew White Ridley, M.P., Secretary of State for the Home Department, London.

WHITEHALL, JUNE 12TH, 1896.

SIR,

I am directed by the Secretary of State to say that he has given his careful consideration to the representations in regard to the Truck Bill put forward in your letter of the 9th inst., but that he thinks that the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives, on whose behalf you write, have misunderstood the effect of the Bill. It does not indeed compel the owner to supply materials free of charge, but where any charge for materials is made it requires :—

1. That the rates of the charges shall be stated in a printed notice, or in a written and signed contract.
2. That the charge shall not exceed the cost of the materials to the employers, and
3. That written particulars shall be given of every charge made.

These are very important limitations on the existing right of the employer to make any charge he thinks fit, and it is hoped that they will effectively prevent all arbitrary and excessive charges.

If the words "except the Boot and Shoe Trade" were inserted in Clause 3, as suggested by you, the workmen in that trade would be excluded from this protection, and matters would remain as at present, that is, the employers would be able to make any charge that they might think fit.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

HENRY CUNYINGHAM.

The General Secretary to the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives. 17, Silver Street, Leicester.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

JUNE 13TH, 1896.

DEAR SIR,

Your courteous letter of June 12th duly to hand this day, and please accept my thanks for the same.

Let me assure Sir Matthew White Ridley and yourself that the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives do not, by any means, misunderstand the effect of the Bill in regards to the Boot Trade.

We fully recognise that it will stop employers reaping any benefit out of the materials sold to the workpeople, but it does not stop employers forcing their workpeople to buy the materials from the employers, instead of being allowed to buy them from where they like.

Suppose a boot takes 40 different portions of materials to manipulate it, the employer would find 39 portions, What we ask is, that he shall find the 40th as well.

Besides this, and you make no reference to it, we referred to the position of the women. Say a machine costs five or six pounds at the start, the employer makes the women pay machine rent for the employer's machines, and we have known cases where machines have been doubly paid for by this means, yet the women have no claim on the machine, and now the employers are requiring them to pay for steam and gas power to drive the machines, and that is the reason we asked that these charges shall be abolished.

I wish it to be distinctly understood by Sir Matthew and yourself that we do not desire to be exempt from the Bill. What we ask is, that a clause shall be inserted which will stop the employers from putting these taxes on his workpeople.

These taxes were only put on at the time the workpeople were not organised, and when the trade was bad, the workers being powerless to stop the same.

If Sir Matthew had granted us an interview we should have been able to fully explain these and other matters relating to the Bill to him.

The members of the Union, on all sides, are asking that something shall be done in the matter, and at our Conference, held in Manchester during Whitsun-tide, the opinion of the Delegates was that every effort should be made to do something in this direction, and that an interview, if possible, with the Home Secretary should take place, to see if he would support the workers in their claims.

I have been laid up for over a week, but I hope in a short time to be able to resume my duties.

Thanking Sir Matthew, and yourself, for your kindness in this matter,

I remain, yours respectfully,

WILLIAM INSKIP, General Secretary.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

To the Executive Council, Branch Officers, and Members.

FELLOW-MEMBERS,

Having concluded our Audit of the Accounts of the Union, from January 1st till June 30th, 1896, we desire to call the attention of members to the following important items :—

The income for the Trade Department during the above period has been £6212 5s. 8d.; the expenditure has been £4654 15s. 10d., thus showing a gain of £2257 9s. 10d.

We are not able report so favourably in connection with the Sick Account, for, while the income amounts to £6584 6s. 2d., the expenditure has been £6657 15s. 6d., which shows a loss of £73 9s. 4d.

The total income of both Trade and Sick, including balance in hand last half-year, is £33949 2s. 9d. and the total expenditure has been £11312 11s. 4d., leaving a total balance in the hands of Council of £22636 11s. 5d.

A pleasant duty in this Report is to testify to the able and efficient manner the financial business of the Union is conducted. The way in which the books, &c. are kept reflects the highest credit on all concerned in their manipulation.

Signed,

ALF. HAMMOND, Stafford

JNO. BRAILSFORD, Nottingham

The Trades Union Congress Parliamentary Committee.

IMPORTANT CASES UNDER THE

"CONSPIRACY AND PROTECTION OF PROPERTY ACT," 1875.

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF TRADE SOCIETIES.

GENTLEMEN,

Referring to the circular dated April 14th last re the above, I have now to inform you that a very large number of the Trades have replied to the questions set out in such circular, and nearly the whole of the replies received are in favour of proceedings being taken to the House of Lords appealing against the decision already given in the Lower Courts. It has now been decided to proceed with one of the cases, and the appeal will have to be entered at an early date. I would therefore ask those Trades who have not replied to do so at once, and those who have promised help to send the amount on to me, when I will see that it is forwarded to the proper quarter. Your Committee consider these cases are of very great importance to all Trade Unionists, and seeing the cost of appealing to the House of Lords will be very considerable, it is hoped that all Trades will pay their quota towards such costs. The Parliamentary Committee at their last meeting decided that although they could not accept any financial responsibility, yet they would do their very best to collect all monies possible from the Trades for the purpose of the Appeal being at once proceeded with.

Hoping the Trades will respond liberally and quickly,

On behalf of the Parliamentary Committee,

I am, yours faithfully,

S. WOODS, Secretary.

IMPORTANT.--It is respectfully and urgently desired by the Parliamentary Committee that the Names and Addresses of the General Secretaries of all Trade Societies, whether connected with the Trades' Union Congress or not, should be sent to the Secretary of the Parliamentary Committee as early as possible, so that a complete List of those Officials may be tabulated in order that the Secretary may communicate with them on all important matters.

CORRESPONDENCE.

PORT ELIZABETH, SOUTH AFRICA,

JULY 6th, 1896.

WM. INSKIP, Esq.

DEAR SIR,

In connection with trade matters of which I have previously written you, I am requested to advise you of further reductions at Bagnall, Gibaud & Co.'s here. Several married (family) men have been notified of reductions from 60s. to 50s., and they must "eat the leek." We understand further instalments of men are now on the water from England at 42s. And per S.S. "Norman," due in England about 30th July, T. P. Bagshaw, one of the partners, will arrive to engage a full compliment of ("master's") men for here to further force the earnings down. Most of the men who are here under agreement at reduced wages were engaged through their agents, Clarke and Cresswell, 2, Gresham Buildings, Guildhall, London, E.C. The address of Bagshaw, when in England, is Rye Bank House, Wheelton, Chorley, Lancashire. The firm have just taken stock, balanced, and avowed their intention of making sweeping reductions throughout the staff. This we will resist firmly, if your people can prevent the flow of lasters, &c. coming along. There are some lively times in store with this firm. Typhoid fever has laid hold of some of the new arrivals; only yesterday, one finisher and stitching machine operator, were sent to the hospital. The place here is in a most insanitary condition. W.C.'s are filthy and the firm, in addition to tanning and leaving all fleshings lying about, conduct extensive boiling down operations within 50 yards of the lasters and operators, where quantities of cowheels in a very advanced state of decomposition are boiled, and the stench arising from the above is abominable, and all the smokers are compelled to smoke all day long to kill the odour. There is no Sanitary Inspection here, and quite a number of our English hands have been dangerously ill, owing no doubt to this disgusting nuisance. Some days the smell is enough to raise the roof when the tanks are emptied. The place is only fit for "niggers," and I assure you the shop-mates at home can form no idea of the amount of discomfort to be endured here, and the risk of contracting serious illness or death. Since writing you last we have carefully gone into the matter of wages here, and cost of living at home, and we have decided that as 30s. per week is a standard wage for a men's operator or laster in England, so 70s. (£3 10s.) is a fair and equitable living wage for the same hand in any part of Cape Colony, or South Africa, in fact at 30s. at home your men have more comforts. Therefore anyone coming here engaged for less than £3 10s. per week is counted a 'black-leg.' We trust you will help us to fight this out, and so maintain a living wage for those who have the misfortune to be fixed up in this place.—Yours faithfully,

A. G. F. FRASER.

Kindly advise Kingswood, Leeds. and Stafford particularly.—A.G.F.F.

Action Against Trade Union Officials.

THE PICKETING QUESTION.

The following is an extract from the "London Daily Chronicle," Thursday, July 30th, 1896:—

In the Queen's Bench Division, on Monday, Mr. Justice Grantham, and a special jury, were engaged in hearing an action brought by Mr. Geo. Wernam, pianoforte manufacturer, carrying on business at 65, Harmood Street, Kentish Town, and Mr. George Augustus Lester, his foreman, against Mr. Lewis Stone, Secretary of the Pianoforte, Harmonium, and American Organ Makers' Society; Mr. John Herbert, Chairman of the Society; Mr. Harry Gale, Mr. Albert A. Purcell, Secretary of the Amalgamated Society of French Polishers; Mr. George Miles, a Branch Secretary of the same Society, and Mr. Frederick Willis, Secretary of the Furnishing Trades' Association, to recover damages, plaintiffs alleging that defendants had unlawfully and maliciously interfered with them in their business, with intent to injure them. Plaintiff Wernam further said that defendants had conspired together to induce persons to break contracts which they had entered into with him; and both plaintiffs asked for an injunction restraining the defendants from continuing to interfere with them in their business.

Mr. Carson, Q.C., and Mr. Stevens, appeared for the plaintiffs; while Mr. W. M. Thompson and Mr. E. Grimwood Meares represented the defendants.

Mr. CARSON, in opening the case for the plaintiff, said Mr. Wernam had for many years carried on the business of a pianoforte manufacturer at Kentish Town, and Mr. G. Lester was foreman in his employ. In July of last year Mr. Wernam promoted a polisher named Chick to be foreman, but he did not turn out a success, and Mr. Wernam dismissed him on Sept. 8. When Chick left he induced two other polishers, Lenny and Bell, to go with him. Mr. Wernam appointed his co-plaintiff as foreman. In consequence of the dismissal of Chick Mr. Wernam's premises were subjected to the usual "picketing" and his workmen had to put up with a good deal of annoyance. A workman named Jones was in the employ of Mr. Wernam, and on Sept. 11, he received a letter from the defendant, Mr. Stone, secretary to the Pianoforte, Harmonium and American Organ Society, directing him to finish up his work and come out on full strike pay. That was an illegal attempt on the part of the union to induce Jones to break his contract with Mr. Wernam. Jones refused to come out on strike, and tendered his resignation as a member of the society. On Sept. 20, Mr. Vesty, a pianoforte key manufacturer, who had contracts to the amount of £60 with Mr. Wernam, was waited upon by certain of the defendants, who induced him to break his contracts with Mr. Wernam, and deposited with him £5 to indemnify him against loss. On October 5 the defendant Mr. Stone wrote to Mr. Wernam as follows: "I am instructed by the Board of Management to inform you that all our members in your employment will come out on strike unless you can come to a settlement with the Polishers' Society, discharge W. E. Jones, and abolish all contracts now existing in your factory." Mr. Wernam offered to make concessions, and in the result Mr. Wernam agreed to take back into his employ his late foreman Chick and the two workmen—Lenny and Bell—who went away with him. Chick, however, did not come back, but Lenny and Bell did, and they at once commenced to make themselves obnoxious. Mr. Wernam was compelled to dismiss these men, and in consequence of this he was again subjected to "picketing," which had continued practically down to the present time. By the action of the defendants Mr. Wernam's business had been seriously injured, and his loss up to the present time had amounted to about £400. He (the learned counsel) submitted that the action of the defendants was illegal, and that they were liable for the loss which Mr. Wernam had sustained.

The plaintiffs were called, and bore out the statement of counsel.

After further evidence the case was adjourned.

On Tuesday the hearing of the action was resumed, when the evidence for the plaintiff was concluded.

Mr. THOMPSON, in opening the case for the defendants, submitted that his clients had done nothing to render themselves liable to damages. The fact that the plaintiffs had received damages in consequence of a strike did not entitle them to recover damages. They must prove that the defendants had acted maliciously with intent to injure them, and that they had failed to do.

After evidence in support of the defendants' case had been given, the case was again adjourned.

Mr. JUSTICE GRANTHAM, in summing up, said this was an important case, because it raised a question as to the powers and liabilities of trade unions. The learned counsel for the defendants said that the action was an attack on trade unions. It was nothing of the kind, and it was not right to suggest that a verdict for the plaintiffs would be a verdict against the principle of trade unions. The 7th section of the Act of 1875 provided that any person who, with a view to compel another person to abstain from doing or to do any act which such other person had a legal right to abstain from doing or to do, watched or beset the house or place where such other person resided, worked, or carried on his business, or happened to be, was guilty of an offence. That was a clear definition of illegal picketing. There was, however, a proviso, which was inserted at the request of the workmen, to the effect that attending at or near the house or place where a person resided, worked, or happened to be, or the approach to the house or place, in order merely to obtain or communicate information, should not be deemed to be a watching or besetting within the meaning of the section. Therefore the acts of the defendants were illegal unless they could convince them that in doing what they did they merely desired to obtain or communicate information. The evidence showed that they did more than they were entitled to do under the section. One of their instructions to the pickets was to endeavour to persuade workmen not to seek work at Mr. Wernam's factory, and that was the very thing which the statute made illegal. The plaintiffs said the defendants had acted maliciously, and that therefore they were liable to pay damages in a civil action. The defendants, on the other hand, denied that they acted maliciously. For the guidance of the jury on this question he would cite the language of the Master of the Rolls, who in a case in the Court of Appeal said, "If the persuasion be used for the indirect purpose of injuring the plaintiff or of benefitting the defendant at the expense of the plaintiff, it is a malicious act, which is in law and in fact a wrongful act, and therefore actionable." The defendants were as respectable a set of men as could be found engaged in the trade, and it appeared to him that when men joined trade unions, believing union was strength, they obtained the strength of brute beasts, which apparently took away their reasoning power.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiffs, and awarded Mr. Wernam £300 and Mr. Lester £20 damages.

Mr. JUSTICE GRANTHAM entered judgment accordingly, with costs, and granted the injunction prayed for.

Stay of execution was granted on terms.

Telegraphic Address—

“ INSKIP, LEICESTER.”

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Every precaution is taken by us to ensure accuracy in these Reports, our correspondents being men on whom we can rely ; should, however, any errors creep into them, upon the same being pointed out to us, we shall be most happy to give the same prominence to the correction as to the original matter. As these Reports are exclusively for the use of Members, the information contained therein must not be divulged.

NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

AUGUST 25TH, 1896.

FELLOW MEMBERS,

We regret to say that the state of trade still continues to be in a very depressed state throughout the United Kingdom, there not being a “solitary branch” which is able to report trade as being good during the past month, and from all the sources available to us for obtaining information, this state of things is likely to continue during the remainder of the year.

The favourable report we were able to present last month as to the paucity of disputes still continues, there being but few disputes reported during the month, and these by no means of a serious character, they being the excessive number of boys sought to be introduced on the machines, but we have instructed the branches to strictly adhere to until the term for which the award was given expires, which is the early part of September this year.

We have already sent to the different centres a circular to be submitted to the employers as represented on the various Board of Arbitration in accordance with paragraph 6, of Lord James' Award of August 22nd, 1892, as follows :—

NATIONAL UNION OF BOOT AND SHOE OPERATIVES.

The.....Branch.

To the Manufacturers represented on the.....Board of Arbitration.

CENTLEMEN,

As the time for the award of Lord James on the boy labour question expires on September 1st of this year, we beg to give you the necessary notice of our intention to ask for an alteration in the terms of that award, which reads one boy shall be employed to every three men.

We desire that that should read one boy to every five men, and we respectfully request that this should appear on the agenda paper to be discussed and dealt with at the next meeting of the Board of Arbitration, which we, the undersigned, request shall be held not later than August 14th, 1896.

We wish also to respectfully request that the question of time-and-a-quarter for overtime to day-workers, and 25 per cent. for piece-workers, should also be put on the agenda paper, to be discussed and dealt with at the next meeting of the Board, to be held not later than August 14th.

Also the question of a minimum wage for all operatives connected with the Boot and Shoe Trade.

Further, that the Board should consider, and, if possible, devise a minimum wage for those between the ages of 18 and 20 years.

Your kind attention to these matters will oblige,

Yours respectfully,

.....

On behalf of the Branch.

WILLIAM INSKIP, GENERAL SECRETARY,

W. B. HORNIDGE, GENERAL PRESIDENT,

On behalf of the Union.

This circular asks for a reconsideration of the boy labour, and proposes one boy to five men. The necessity for this ought to be apparent to all, as it is quite clear that unless there is a further reduction in the number of boys employed the men will be unable to get a living, and would be unable to maintain their wives and support their families during these periods of slackness, which, year by year, appear to be coming more acute, and which makes us appear to be following fast in the footsteps of the American shoemakers, where shoe factories are closed for three months at a time.

THE RESULT OF THE VOTING

for Union offices will be found on pp. 12-15.

The meagre numbers will be the first thing noticed, when it is considered that the highest vote recorded for any Union officer has been 1,966, and this out of 41,000 financial members who are entitled to record their votes.

We are aware that the vote takes place at a most awkward time—the August Bank Holiday—and we must make an effort to change the date, either to a month earlier or a month later in future. But even this will not suffice if you will persist in displaying such an apathetic feeling on so important a matter as the election of men in whose hands the welfare of the Union—aye, even the trade—is deposited. This makes it all the more necessary that you should attend your meetings and record your votes.

There is one other matter we feel constrained to speak upon, and that with no uncertain sound, we mean in which a many of the votes have been taken. Rule 5 has been made as clear as possible, that the vote must be taken by ballot, the vote has not been taken by ballot, and we have had to disqualify them. In one branch, only one man turned up at the meeting, and that was the secretary, and yet we had 112 votes recorded from those, the explanation being to the effect that men would not turn up at the meetings, but that they were quite agreeable to endorse what the branch executive did. It will be easily seen that if this system was to prevail it would be open to corruption, and the Union would cease to be the democratic Union we have always claimed for it in its system of voting.

In several instances

has been demanded, and we have made the necessary arrangements for the vote to be taken on the September Monthly Night, and we particularly request that every effort should be made by the branch officers in the district affected to use their utmost endeavour so that there may be a large augmentation in the number of votes recorded.

In the case of the Parliamentary Agent, Mr. Stanton, of Northampton, has received the highest number of votes, but, in accordance with rule, Mr. Votier has claimed a second vote by reason of Mr. Stanton not having a clear majority. This also applies in the case of Mr. Sheppard, Bristol and Kingswood district; Mr. Moore, Leicester and district; Mr. Votier, London district; Mr. Smith, No. 1 district. Branches comprised therein (all of whom will receive a voting paper and instructions) must take the vote on the September Monthly Night, and send them in to the General Secretary not later than September 15th, or the same will be disqualified.

INTERNATIONAL SOCIALIST WORKERS AND TRADE UNION CONGRESS.

In accordance with the previous decision it was decided that two representatives should attend the Congress on behalf of the Union, Messrs. Hornidge and Freak being elected. Mr. Freak however, declined to attend, and Mr. Votier being the next highest on the list, was duly appointed.

As anticipated, the Congress was of very little practical use, no regard whatever being taken to law and order, rules of debate or what not, the result being a fiasco ending in a farce, and very nearly a tragedy.

A report of the resolutions carried and the business done, will be duly laid before you by Messrs. Hornidge and Votier in our next monthly report.

NOTICE TO BRANCH SECRETARIES.

The General Secretary having been elected to represent the Union at the forthcoming Trades Union Congress, all correspondence relating to the business of the Union should be addressed to

WM. INSKIP,
Music Hall,
54, George Street, Edinburgh.

From September 1st to September 12th, inclusive.

Branch Secretaries are requested to send in their orders for the Congress Reports at once, so that we shall know how many will be required.

We are,

Yours most respectfully,

THE COUNCIL,

W. B. HORNIDGE, Gen. President.

W. H. LOWE, Treasurer.

FRANK SHEPPARD, Bristol.

BRANCH REPORTS.

BRISTOL.—We should heartily appreciate the opportunity to report trade as improving, but such is not yet our lot, and the possibility of our faint hopes being realised is very remote. This distressing position again adds to our refractory list, but a goodly number have promised to again rejoin as trade improves. We have been granted a further sum of £5 for organising purposes, and our thanks are here extended the Council for the assistance rendered, and with its expenditure we hope favourable results will accrue. Our half-yearly was read at last branch meeting, and the improved financial position of the Union was a feature for congratulation. We also note with pleasure the important items of information it conveys to us as members, and we particularly note the proffered evidence re the Leicester manufacturers in their efforts to divide the work (limited as it may be) amongst their workpeople, and this in preference to discharging a large number as formerly. We are sorry to report that such a spirit does not exhibit itself in this district, and it is strongly in evidence by the large number who are to be seen parading our streets out of employment, and at the time of writing this we are made acquainted of the discharge of about twelve piece-work finishers from one of our largest firms, as the result of dual circumstances, viz., the operation of finishing machinery and depression in trade. As the "Trade Journal" generally indulges in quoting from our reports, it is possible that the action of Leicester manufacturers may be so conveyed that their fellow manufacturers in other centres might encourage similar treatment to those in their employ. A resolution of our branch has favoured the Council being asked to issue (in pamphlet form) our financial position, together with some statements of facts as existing, and the need for further unity, and such to be supplied to branches for organising purposes.

BRISTOL No. 2.—We wish to report this month of a slight change in the tone of trade, and for the better, and we trust it will continue. Several firms have commenced working full time, and in two instances a few hours over. We have duly received and forwarded to the proper quarter the proposed alteration in the terms of the award as it affects the employment of boys in the trade, and also the question of payment for overtime, and one more, which is not least, a minimum for all operatives engaged in the trade. We earnestly hope that the employers will consider these questions in a "live and let live" spirit; on the one hand trying to keep up the dignity of the trade, and let it not be an industry for the manufacturer of rubbish, but of good and substantial articles that will demand the appreciation of the public, and give it an air of respectability, and, on the other hand, try to give the workpeople the wherewithal to be able to provide good and comfortable clothing, so that they will be able to fulfil that which is required of them in their daily toil.

BELFAST.—In sending our report this month we are sorry to state that there is very little improvement in trade here as it is the change of season goods—light goods to heavy. We have got longer holidays this season than we generally have, owing to the bad state of trade. We would like to advise all finishers to give our section in Londonderry a very wide berth at the present time, as finishing machines have been put down. These, as the saying goes, are in full swing, and some of our members had to leave and go elsewhere. It is a long way from there to Belfast which is the only chance of getting work; and, mind you, the Irish miles are very long. We would like to call attention of the members to a system in one of our local firms. They have a system of giving commission to benchmen working on the team system at the machine—the light tacker. They get 6d. per doz. for any work over twelve dozen. The operator also gets commission over a certain quantity. The same practice is carried on as regards the strong laster. The commission some of them received—and I am sorry to state they took it—was from sixpence to fifteenpence for the extra work done. We had these men in attendance at the general meeting, and I hope they will take the advice they then got, and not sacrifice trade union principles for a few paltry coppers. If we find any man taking one shilling of commission, as it is termed, we will try and make him pay ten for it. The same firm got the men to last work by hand at the team system. This they should have known was wrong, as they were lasting them “wholesale.” This we have put a stop to, we hope, and have got the promise of the men to act on the advice they got from the committee, and to last no more work, either odd pairs or dozens. We are very glad to state that we have organised Beverland’s shop, and all the men there have promised to join. The hours of call on Secretary are 7 to 8 a.m., 1 to 2 p.m., and any hour after 7 p.m.

BARNSELEY.—We are sorry to say that the slight improvement which was shown last month has not been maintained, short work and short time being still the order of things. We have hopes that after our usual feast holidays are over that we shall have a better state of things to chronicle. It is of no use strangers coming here for work, for we don’t have above two months full work in the year now at our firm, and the other part of the year is a miserable state of existence.

BRAMLEY.—Trade here is fairly good, but still finishers press for employment without success. The first meeting of our local arbitration board, or committee of inquiry, takes place on the 14th of August, 1896. The business is to equalise the prices. There will be no difficulty in accomplishing this, when once we are agreed upon the prices already paid.

CORK.—Trade is fair with us at present, but in Waterford there is a tendency to dispense with manual labour as much as possible, and substitute machinery of every description—a pegging machine being the latest arrival. They say they are reluctantly compelled to adopt this course in order to successfully compete with English manufacturers, whom they allege are afforded many privileges, and also possess numerous advantages over themselves. We candidly admit the force and truth of this assertion, as the greater portion of the boots imported into this country are “wholesaled” at such scandalous prices that are not only injurious to Irish manufacturers, but are also detrimental to the interest of all respectable English manufacturers as well, and we sincerely hope that our executive will make a special effort to bring the wages of those badly-paying districts up to the average trade union rates, and until this is affected we will always be confronted with this grievance which our employers unjustly imagine is condoned by our Union. We take this opportunity of returning our sincere thanks to the undermentioned branches who have generously contributed to our charitable appeal on behalf of a destitute number who have since passed away, and it was our intention to comment very strongly on the manner in which it was supported by those whom we justly considered were under obligations to us. Still, we now refrain from so doing, but the sad reflections on their extreme ungratefulness will long linger in our memory:—Waterford, 11s. 3d.; Chesterfield, 10s. 2d.; Maybole, 10s.; Worcester, 9s.; London Metro. No. 2, 6s.; Glasgow No. 2, 5s.; Leicester No. 2, 5s.; Bristol No. 2, 5s.; Leeds No. 2, 5s.; Bramley, 5s.; Mansfield, 3s.

COLCHESTER.—In sending our report this month we are sorry to say trade here is almost at a standstill, one of the largest firms only working three days a week, so we should advise all members to give Colchester a wide berth.

CHESTERFIELD.—In sending our returns for the month we are pleased to say trade is improving with us. We have started to work full time again, and we hope to continue to do so for at least six months. Our members say in regard to the photographic business at Northampton that the man that took the photograph ought to be presented either with a special medal, or the song called “Up came Johnny with his Camera,” for his mean, dirty action. Our sympathy is extended for the unfortunate man, and if he does not get started again in Northampton we, the members of this branch, are willing to help if a subscription list is opened out for him. We were pleased to know our General President and Secretary were returned to office without opposition, and hope they will have better health than they have had in the past. Now we have started to work better we hope our members will bring their arrears down, and not get on the limit mark again for some time. We hope to have a still better report to record next time we write.

DERBY.—Trade in Derby remains very slack indeed, the shops only working about half time, and in most cases a few hours per week. There has been a considerable falling off in our trade, but other trades seem fairly well employed. All we have to do is to wait for a better state of things, but “while the grass is growing the horse is starving.”

EDINBURGH.—In submitting our report for the month we are pleased to say trade with us is very fair, all the shops being in full swing. Although we give the foregoing report, we should advise men to be cautious in coming here, as there are only the four shops in the town, and it is only occasionally that there is work to be had, even when busy. We are also pleased to say we have got the dispute at Allan’s settled, and that satisfactorily. This shop has been a great source of annoyance and expense, the latter dispute being re classification, the point at issue being a gent’s special thirds crup, with specified leathers in leg and quarter. On another leather having been introduced, the men challenged it, and were told to “pack their kit,” as they had no intention of arguing with us or our classification. The Council having supported us, we were out nearly a month when Mr. Allan told us he had found out it was no use him trying to fight the Union. He must admit he was beaten. Surely this should prove to us, and especially those outside the pale of the Union, the great benefit of being thoroughly united, as by this means will we only be able to retain that little which we now possess. The Trades Congress is to be held here next month, and we trust that the result of their deliberations may be abundantly fruitful, and that they may be the means of stirring up that enthusiasm which is most needful among us, and which is unfortunately only too conspicuous by its absence.

GLASGOW No. 2.—Regarding trade we must report it far from good, one of the large shops working short time. We had Mr. Alec. Smith, Council delegate, at our meeting on Thursday evening, 6th inst., and for a time was pretty lively, Mr. Smith being heckled at some length. However, he cleared himself and Council. Not bad the result, being a vote of thanks to him for his information.

HECKMONDWIKE.—In sending our returns this month we are glad to report trade still on the improve, but still bad for finishers, who are working from nine till six, all other departments being on full time. The trade seems over-run with finishers, for it is not just here merely. It is bad for them, but it seems to be the same all over the country.

HINCKLEY.—We have received our award for the minimum wage for clickers and pressmen, which is as follows:—Clickers, 26s.; pressmen, 23s. per week of 54 hours. The award to come into force on October 5th, 1896.

IPSWICH.—In sending our report this month we are sorry to state that trade is very bad with us, and we hope all in search of work will give this town a wide berth.

KILMARNOCK.—We have to report little change in the state of trade here since last month, but we are glad to say that we have got the Shieldhall statement for our local co-operative shoe factory here; also a minimum wage 28s. for cutters, pressmen, and fitters.

KENDAL.—In submitting our report we have to state that trade is very good with us, which is a matter for congratulation in view of the fact that trade is so very indifferent in other places. This last month has been a very important one for us, as in the first place we have had the honour of a visit from our General President, Mr. W. B. Hornidge, who came to investigate into the grievances of our clickers. Acting upon his advice, a deputation was appointed, who waited upon our employers, and very forcibly pointed out to them how low their wages were compared with other centres. After the lapse of three weeks we got the employers' decision, and we are pleased to state that we have succeeded in obtaining a substantial advance, as follows:—Three men, formerly receiving 30s. per week, to have 32s.; two receiving 28s., to have 30s.; 13 receiving 26s., to have 28s.; five to have an increase of 1s., making them 26s.; and one 24s. We hope, in the course of time, to get the lowest of these up to the others, so that we shall then have a minimum of 28s. Another very important matter is with regard to the apprentices, and our employers decided that all now serving till 21 years of age to have 18s. in last year, instead of 11s. as before, and any apprentice taken on after this date to become journeymen at 20 years of age, which we consider very satisfactory. We take this opportunity of thanking the Council for sending our General President, who has been the means of settling these matters sooner than the most sanguine of us expected.

LEEDS No. 1.—In submitting our returns this month we believe there is a slight improvement in trade, yet, at the same time, trade is not as brisk as we should like to see it. We are pleased to report that the circular emanating from the Council—on the question of overtime, and extra pay for overtime, also one boy to five men, in the place of one boy to three men; and further to devise a minimum wage for those workers between the ages of 18 and 20 years—has already been placed in the hands of the secretary of the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration for this district. We trust that the question of overtime may speedily be settled satisfactorily, as it is not so much a question of extra remuneration that we ask, but that overtime will be prohibited, as complaints are many of workers who have been compelled at times to work overtime and have to wait in the day-time either for bottom stuff or uppers, and in several cases less wages have been paid at the week-end.

LONDON METRO.—Brief resumé of the work of the Arbitration Board. Present: (employers) Messrs. Lilley, Gorbod, Colwell, T. Clark, G. Barnes, I. Weber, (workmen) Messrs. C. Solomon, Lambson, G. Brown, Adams, H. Brown, C. Freak; by courtesy, Mr. Clark, of Messrs. Clark and Sabey, was likewise present. A letter was read stating that Mr. W. Chapman had been elected to represent the City body in place of Mr. Adams. Minutes read and confirmed. Minutes of Committee of Enquiry read and confirmed. Letter was read from Messrs. Franklin and Son which practically admitted they were having their work done outdoors, when it was resolved that the protection of the Board be withdrawn. Mr. C. Solomon complained that it had taken the Board three months to inquire into this matter, and he thought it unfair that a shop be allowed so long to get accommodators before it is blocked by the Board. Secretary reported the decision of Mr. Manfield re the deduction for heeling girls work on Mr. J. Fursee shop, stating the second-class statement should read prospective, and that girls be deducted one-third of the ground work the same as women's, the men having always protested that it was not intended to apply to girls' work. Mr. Freak pointed out the fact that the employer had never contended for the method; all that he had asked for was that one shilling per dozen upon all classes and all sizes of girls' work should be the deduction when lasted without heels, the men's side contending that it should read one shilling per dozen off for 11's to 1's, and ninepence per dozen 7's to 10's, and that he thought that the Umpire had gone outside of the commitment and therefore that his decision was bad, and he desired his protest be registered against the decision, which was agreed to.

Questions arising out of Committee of Enquiry: (1) Ladies' brown calf Oxford shoe, referred back to be properly marked as a fair sample; (2) Ladies' mock kid, one bar, shoe, referred back to be marked as a fair sample; (3) Ladies' galloon bound shoe, referred back to be marked as a fair sample; (4) Ladies' glove hide shoe, referred back to the Committee of Enquiry; (5) Ladies' glace Persian, referred back to the Committee of Enquiry; (6) Glace Persian women's Oxford shoe, referred back to be finished and marked. Letters were then read from Mr. Scheopf and Mr. Freak, and replies thereto from Mr. Craig, dealing with the question of men working hand in hand on that shop, one man alone being responsible for the work and the other paid by him. Mr. Freak stated that the men's opinion was that this would lead to the sweating system again. Some discussion took place pro. and con., when decision was postponed for further enquiries to be made.

The Chairman (Mr. Lilley) then read the new rules of the Board, as drafted by the Manufacturers' Executive, in conjunction with the Executive of the National Union. He ruled that the proposed amendments by Mr. H. Brown were not amendments as to matters of detail but of principle, and therefore were out of order. Mr. Freak stated that as London had no voice in the compilation to attempt to amend them would be to formally recognise them. That they would not do; although they are aware that they have to bow to them and do the best they can under the circumstances. The Chairman and the Vice-Chairman then formally tendered their resignations to the Board; and it was resolved that the Board stand adjourned until Wednesday, September 9th, when first business will be to elect a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, and Committee of Enquiry; it being understood that the present Committee of Enquiry officiate in the meantime.

Committee of Enquiry, Basma House, London Wall Avenue, July 27, 1896. Present (employer) G. Baines, (workmen) H. Brown and C. Freak; M. Craig (secretary). Questions discussed were as follows: (1) A tanned calf shoe from H. Furse which had been offered in E, and claimed in C, and had been referred back for proper marking, taken to the Board and referred back again to the Committee of Enquiry, many months being delayed, was again referred to the Board. (2) A Glace Persian Oxford shoe, quarter over patent vamp and cap, from Smith and Davidge, offered in F, claimed in E. This was sent up to the Board by the Committee of Enquiry on March 16th last, and referred by them to the arbitrators and has not yet been dealt with, Mr. Craig holding out no hope when the arbitrators will deal with this question. (3) A common Galloon bound mock-kid House Shoe, one bar, was classed in H for Josiah Green. (4) A Glove Hide Shoe, offered in F, claimed in E, from Messrs. Quelch, of Croydon, was referred to the full Board. (5) A Glace Persian, quarter over shoe, was classed in E for Messrs. Quelch. (6) Levant Kip Bal., classed in E for Messrs. Quelch. (7) Question then arose as to men working hand in hand on Mr. Scheopf's, was referred to the full Board.

LIVERPOOL.—In sending our report this month we have to state that trade is very quiet here at present. There has been a dispute at two of the shops that belong to the Amalgamated Boot and Shoe Makers. Some of our members have been working at these shops, and one of them has been a member of our Union 17 years, viz., C. Johnson (38,374), the others are members that we got during our organisation. Mr. McCrea, their general secretary, was down from London, so we had to withdraw our men. One shop was settled, but the other is still on dispute. Johnson resumed work on condition not to do any of the work in dispute, consequently he refused when called upon to do the work. He did not get the sack, but was kept "hanging-on," and so he had to leave. There is one man obliging him—Frank Jones—and the shop is Williams, Jun., Richmond Street. He is not a member of our Union, but he is a member of their's.

NOTTINGHAM.—Trade here has not been anything like busy all the season, although Smith's firms started working $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours' overtime per day. A meeting was held, and our members passed a resolution that they would not work beyond their usual time, when the firm, being informed of that decision, at once decided to advertise for men, and it has been the means of bringing many shopmates into the town, and when they got here there was no work for them, Messrs. Smith only being able to start a few of them, and that to the detriment of the men already employed. We hope that our members will be very careful in future, and not be led here by advertisements for shoe workers, when perhaps the firm hardly requires a couple of men. Our branch has also decided to ask the Council to put the new rule relating to time-and-a-quarter for overtime into force here on the first Monday in September. This could be done by giving proper notice, as our employers do not belong to the Federation, so it does not need arbitration, and this would immediately stop overtime either this year or any other. Our meeting has granted £1 in aid of the builders' labourers now on strike at Leeds.

NORTHAMPTON.—Trade, both in the ladies and men's departments, from the workmen's point of view, is in a very bad state indeed, there being hundreds upon hundreds on short time, and at present it seems likely to continue. These ever recurring—and quickly recurring—periods of short time should show to the workers the need of a strong and united body amongst themselves so as to be able to bring about a state of society when this want and suffering, which is so largely becoming the workers' portion, shall be done away with. That it can be done away with there is no manner of doubt, but it will not be done until the workers themselves are sufficiently wide-awake as to make their power and influence felt. It is of no use whatever lamenting the state of affairs unless we make the attempt ourselves to alter it. The time has long gone by when mere grumbling would be considered sufficient, it is action that is required; action guided by reason and common-sense. Surely it should make us do something when we see the rapid way in which money is being made, and yet our lives as workers are continually being haunted by the dread of being short, or out of work, which means want or the workhouse. It is sincerely to be hoped that this state of things will not be tolerated any longer, but that the power we possess will be so used as to bring about a radical change for the better.

NORWICH.—Trade still remains very slack, except in the sewround work, which is fairly good. Petty disputes are very numerous, and cause a deal of unpleasantness. We have nothing of importance to report beyond the extreme depression in the machine sewn trade.

STAFFORD.—Trade with us is very slack, indeed, and it is many years since we experienced such a depression as the present. Up to the time of dispatching this report, some of our firms have not started again since the holidays. During the past six weeks we have had members through here who say that they have received their full amount of travelling assistance. Whether their statement be true or not cannot be discovered, because they have nothing to show to that effect until the following Monthly Report. This has caused a doubt to exist as to their bonâ fides, and has militated against the sympathy that is usually extended to a member on travel. We think that when a member has drawn all the travelling relief he is entitled to for the existing year, his book could be made up and signed by the branch secretary, and given to him. Failing this, although it is the policy we have always pursued, a note under the branch stamp, and duly authenticated by the local officials, would perhaps serve the same purpose. Either of the above systems would be of service to the member, save much correspondence, and obviate imposition.

WORCESTER.—In sending our report this month we are sorry to say that trade is in about the worst state that the oldest member in our branch can remember. Some of our members have been obliged to run behind with their contributions through no fault of their own; but we hope that trade will soon revive, and then we know they will clear off their debts, as they would pay if they could. We would warn our travelling members to give Worcester a wide berth for the present, as there is no possible chance of getting on, as many of our members are walking about. We hope that our General Secretary is quite recovered from his late indisposition.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Every precaution is taken by us to ensure accuracy in these Reports, our correspondents being men on whom we can rely ; should, however, any errors creep into them, upon the same being pointed out to us, we shall be most happy to give the same prominence to the correction as to the original matter. As these Reports are exclusively for the use of Members, the information contained therein must not be divulged.

NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

SEPTEMBER 30TH, 1896.

FELLOW MEMBERS,

The results of

for Union Officers, claimed by those who were respectively entitled to the same, shows a marked contrast to the origin vote ; and, we think, is a truer reflex of the opinions of the members throughout the Union, as will be seen by a contrast of the following figures :

VOTES RECORDED.

			August	September	Increase
For Parliamentary Agent	...	...	2617	4172	1555
For Council Member, No. 1 District	...	...	975	1824	849

Although we are pleased to see that greater interest was evinced, yet, if you compare the figures above with the actual voting strength of the members of the Union, it will be seen that it still falls short of anything like a proportionate vote having been recorded ; and we again urge, both in Union and Local matters, that you will take a deeper interest in the business done, and not leave to a few the entire management either of your Local or your Union business, as it is well-known that apathy is one of the greatest curses with which all Unions have to contend bringing, as it does in its train, neglect of all principles, statements, conditions of labour, etc., and we trust to see a marked increase in the number who record their votes in any subsequent election that may take place. The details of the voting will be found on pp. 18-19.

The state of trade during the past month has

but not to a degree at all satisfactory, but as we have been passing through a wet and heavy period, it may not yet be too late for a little extra winter trade.

Disputes have been few during the past month, and this has enabled us to turn our attention to matters outstanding between the Federation and the Union, and we have received the following reply in answer to the notice given in by us to the various Boards of Arbitration, and which appeared in our last Address :

The Federated Associations of Boot and Shoe Manufacturers of Great Britain.

LEICESTER ASSOCIATION.

To the Workmen's Representatives on the Leicester Board of Arbitration.

On behalf of the Manufacturers represented on the above Board, I hereby give you notice that upon the expiration of the award of Lord James in reference to Boy Labour, on the 1st September next, it is their intention, in pursuance of Clause 6, to ask the Board to consider the award.

And I also give you notice that in respect of the employment of Boys, it is the intention of the Manufacturers to claim as follows :

1. That there should be no restriction in the number of boys employed in their respective Factories and Workshops, or in the several departments thereof.
2. In the alternative, if it should be considered desirable to restrict the number of boys so employed, that such restriction should not exceed one boy to every two men as applying to their Factories and Workshops generally ; and one boy to one man as applying to those Factories and Workshops (or a separate department thereof) in which Nursery or other low priced goods are manufactured.

And I further give you notice that in respect of your claim for a Minimum Wage to be sanctioned for all operatives, and a Minimum Wage fixed for those between 18 and 20, it is the intention of the Manufacturers to claim as follows :

That all Minimum Wages at present in force in the district within the jurisdiction of this Board should absolutely cease and determine so soon as the award or awards fixing the same shall have expired.

W. H. CHAMBERLIN,

Secretary to the Leicester Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association.

27th August, 1896.

Up to the present, although the matters have been before most of the Local Boards, yet no common understanding has been arrived at ; and we have suggested, with a view to uniformity, that the questions in dispute should be relegated by all the Boards to the Executive of the Employers' Federation and the Executive of the Union, as by that means one reference on disputed points would suffice for the whole.

At Leicester a difference has arisen as to the framing of the new rules, and the same has been in abeyance since last February ; but at a meeting of the Board, held on the 15th September, at which the General President and the General Secretary were present, it was decided to refer the disputed point, which involves the using of the words "Leicester and district," to Lord James for adjudication, and he has consented to meet Messrs. Lennard and Inskip about the 16th October, when the matter is to be argued, and there is no doubt that whatever his decision in this matter, it will affect all other centres in an equal degree.

Perhaps it would be advisable, that we should here explain that our object in inserting the words "and district" in the rules, is to prevent an unscrupulous employer, who may go to the Board and get a decision given against him, just crossing the border or city line and having his work made with impunity, and thus defeat the objects of the Board, and placing the men in a most invidious position.

Whilst in this connection, we are pleased to note that in several instances the local boards have not been idle, but have zealously pressed forward a number of reforms in the interests of their members, the most notable being that in the case of the

which has been brought about by the efforts of the workmen's representatives on the Board of Arbitration. For the guidance of members we have decided to publish the statement in this report, so that each may have a copy for reference in case of dispute. We notice that on the new statement, on the ladies' side, there are 15 more extras added than what appeared on the old statement; and on the men's side, there are no less than 35 extras added; besides which there are several definitions, which help to make it not only more plain, but also to improve the condition of the workmen. From advices received from Northampton, the vexed question as to Calf Patent has been settled, as also has the question of Youth's Sizes 5's, which now admits of the advance. Thus you will see that to make at least 50 additions to a statement shows that it is possible, if the local officers work with anything like energy and determination, to obtain through the local boards substantial additions, and prove the benefit which may be derived from arbitration.

Not having received an official report of the decision of Mr. Brow. Dickinson, the Umpire for we were unable to publish the same in the last report, but being now in possession of it, we here publish a copy of the same:

- 1.—That the Minimum Wages for competent Clickers. be 26s. a week of 54 hours.
- 2.—That the Minimum Wages for competent Pressmen be 23s. per week of 54 hours.
- 3.—That the foregoing awards take effect on and after Monday, the 5th of October, 1896.

Yours sincerely,

BROW. DICKINSON.

It will be observed that we asked him to create a minimum wage for Clickers and Pressmen. The Employers offered 24/- in the case of Clickers, and 21/- for Pressmen; and, on the other hand, our side demanded similar wages to those paid in Leicester. The award, whilst not entirely giving us what we required, at least makes a most substantial improvement upon the average wages received by those working at our trade in this particular district, and the decision on the whole has given general satisfaction.

We have to report a dispute on involving some 15 men, who were offered 3d. per dozen reduction on lawn tennis work, and upon them refusing to accept the same (which they were perfectly justified in doing, especially when we consider the low rates already paid) they were all discharged. We immediately took the matter in hand, and put pickets on the shop. This prompt action on our part had the desired effect, and within a few days the thing was at an end, and the men went on with their work as usual.

On pp 6-8 will be found a report of the delegates who attended the

on behalf of the Union, and on pp 9-11 will also be found the report of the delegates who attended the

held at Edinburgh, on behalf of the Union, other than those branches who were directly represented by their own representatives, who no doubt will report to their local centres in due course. Whilst in this connection one of the most pleasing features was the fact that this Trades Union Congress was a model of its kind, and reminded those who attended it of many of the previous Congresses, where business anxiety and a natural desire was shown to give practical effect to the resolutions from the various trades which embodied their particular grievances ; and we trust that the Parliamentary Committee will be encouraged by the success attending the Congress, to use every effort to give due effect to the resolutions passed. It will be noticed that our General Secretary has again, for the eleventh time, been elected on that Committee, and for the ninth time the treasurer thereof.

We are expecting the reports of the above Congress in a few days, and we are very anxious that they shall be well circulated and read, and we have made arrangements—although the cost will be considerable, apart from the charge—to supply branches with them at the price of 1d. each, the loss to fall on the central fund ; but we feel it will be money well expended if you (the members) will purchase them at 1d. each and read the contents. Branch secretaries are requested to send in their orders for the reports at once.

We have again to draw the attention of secretaries of branches to the alteration of made at Edinburgh.

THE TRAVELLING LAW

We had hoped to have so simplified it in the manner we then suggested, that we should have had no possible cause of complaint, as to our minds it is now so simple that it can only be a wilful perverseness that the rule can be violated. Therefore, we repeat what it is that is expected from secretaries respecting the travelling relief.

When a member presents his book, it is the duty of the secretary to count the money he has received from Jan. 1st to Dec. 31st in the particular year when the book is presented. If he finds that the member has received £1, or nearly £1, since the 1st of January, in the latter case he makes it up to £1, and writes across the book, from the left hand to the right, "This member has received the full travelling relief for 189—." He then retains the man's book, and in the event of the man leaving the town, and he should make application for his book through the secretary of the branch in which he resides, the book must be forwarded to the secretary of that branch. Secretaries must not forget that there is a column printed in the return sheets in which they must report that these men have received their full travelling relief, and they must not forget before issuing a book to a doubtful member to look at the page printed in the report, to see whether that man has had a travelling book before, so that he could thus check any misappropriation.

We trust these instructions may be ample for all purposes ; otherwise, the General Secretary has received instructions that in all cases where secretaries pay men other than in strict accordance with rule, to strike off the amount and charge it to the branch secretary. There is one other matter we are bound to mention in the interests of these secretaries who do honestly carry out the rules, and that is, that it is the duty of all secretaries to stop the contributions immediately upon them becoming due, and not posting the man on to another secretary, who has unfortunately to charge a man double, or even more, which means putting a hardship upon the man, and often abuse upon the secretary.

We have decided to institute a thorough system of organisation, particulars of which will appear in due course, any officer or member having a practical suggestion to make, the same will receive due consideration if sent to the Secretary, without delay.

We remain,

Yours respectfully,

THE COUNCIL,

W. B. HORNIDGE, Gen. President.

W. H. LOWE, Treasurer.

REPORT OF THE DELEGATES

TO THE

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS.

FELLOW WORKERS,

As promised last month, we now present to you our report on the above Congress. As was to be expected from such a gathering, representing nearly, if not all, shades of thought in the Labour World, matters did not run very smoothly for the first few days. Certainly things were at one time strained, and to our mind it is easy to see how it occurred. In the first place, the assembly was styled, "International Socialist Workers' and Trade Union Congress," and the bother that ensued, after the examination of credentials, arose from the fact that present in the hall were delegates that represented Anarchist groups, or societies that do not—or rather we were told that they do not—believe in Parliamentary action, and consequently, in accordance with the constitution of the Congress they were asked to retire. Then the bother arose that has been so much advertised in the Press. It must be borne in mind that some of our foreign friends have their own methods of doing business and do not understand ours. Again it must be remembered, the difference in language—French, German (high and low), Spanish, Italian, as well as English—all tended to confuse the matter; and some few friends of the delegates who were asked to leave, being in the gallery of the hall, added to the confusion by shouting, and it took some time to still the uproar, which was not done until the proprietor intimated that he would cancel the agreement if such scenes continued. At length the Chairman, Mr. Cowey adjourned the meeting until the following morning. At the Tuesday's meeting, of which Herr Singer, of the German Parliament, was Chairman, simply formal business was done, and again the following day, such as the ratification of credentials, which in the case of three members of the French Parliament, again caused a stir. Virtually, the first three days of the week were wasted through want of proper organising. The very constitution of the Congress precluded Anarchists sitting, and as soon as they were known to be present, their retirement should have been insisted on as a matter of fact. The credentials, and the system of representation should be a matter for the Organising Committee to determine. A case in point: Two delegates were present from Berkshire representing a society of four persons; but in fairness it must be stated that one only was allowed to sit. On Thursday, after some little time being wasted, we got to business.

The Agrarian Commission gave in their report, which follows, with the report of the minority, after discussion, and some attempts to add amendments, the report was adopted:

AGRARIAN COMMISSIONS REPORT.

Agrarian Agenda.

The evils which capitalistic exploitation, including landlordism, produces alike for the cultivator of the soil as for the whole of society at an ever increasing rate, can be definitely abolished only in a society in which land, like the other means of production, has become socialised, i.e., common property, which society, in its corporate capacity, causes to be cultivated in the common interest and on the most scientific methods.

The conditions of land tenure and the division of classes among the agricultural population in different countries are, however, too various for it to be possible to formulate a programme which shall be binding for the labour parties of all countries as regards the means for attaining this end or the particular classes to be won over.

It is none the less the first duty of the Labour Parties throughout the world, in so far as the agrarian question is concerned, to organise the agricultural proletariat in its class struggle against its exploiters.

According to these principles the Congress leaves it to every nation to formulate, for the attaining of this end, the ways and means most suitable to the situation of their country.

The Congress declares if desirable that, in every country where there are statistical committees appointed by the labour parties, they shall combine and centralise their results by communicating among themselves their statistical abstracts, &c.

Minority Report.

The representatives of the British Section upon the Agrarian Commission herewith submit to the Congress their Minority Report.

They are practically in agreement with the resolution presented in the Commission's Report with the exception of the last paragraph. They desire, however, to call attention to the fact that other resolutions proposed by them were rejected by the Commission.

The following are the rejected resolutions :—

(a) That, in addition to the direct exploitation of the agricultural workers by landlord and capitalist, these workers are in some countries obstructed, in the distribution of their surplus produce to their fellow-citizens, by the capitalist ownership of the railways and other means of transport, and also of markets, and that these hindrances to effective use of the land can be removed only by socialisation of the above means of transport and exchange.

(b) That, whereas in many countries the development of the capitalistic system has resulted in a considerable displacement of agricultural labour, this Congress is of opinion that the time has arrived when such labour should be scientifically organised upon the land by such public authorities as are best fitted for the undertaking.

This was rejected, but it was decided to hand it over to the Industrial Commission for their consideration, who replied as follows :—

“The Economic and Industrial Commission is of opinion that the resolution submitted for their consideration by the Agrarian Commission cannot be considered by them, the said resolution belonging essentially to the domain of the Agrarian Commission.

(Signed) HENRY POLAK.”

The chairman of the Industrial Commission has, however, since intimated that the rejected resolution will receive their attention.

(c) That this Committee requests the Educational Commission to include in their recommendation to Congress a resolution calling upon the Educational Department of various countries—

1. To arrange for elementary knowledge of agriculture being taught in all public schools.
2. To co-operate with other State Departments, municipalities, etc., in establishing an efficient system of Technical Education in Agriculture.

The foregoing resolutions were rejected on the grounds of their being outside the scope of the Commission's enquiry, or as being unsuited to the needs of several countries represented. With regard to the first ground of objection, we are of opinion that the Commission ought properly to have considered every important phase of the question before them. As to the second, while admitting the existence of, and allowing for, the difference in the nature of the agrarian question in various countries, we desire to express our dissatisfaction with the very pronounced disinclination of the foreign representatives to discuss anything outside the matters contained in the main resolution.

Finally, for the benefit of future Congresses, we respectfully suggest that independent and official interpreters should be attached to each Commission.

We are, Yours respectfully,

THOS. M. WATT.

W. G. PEARSON.

Members will see from the above what a vast field has to be covered, and until the peoples of the world have something like a common language, it will be impossible for them to so understand each other, and the difficulties surrounding the Land Question in the different countries in which they reside.

Mr. Lansbury presented the Report of the Commission on Political Action, which virtually meant the establishment of a Labour Party, pure and simple, outside either of the great parties of the State. That gave rise to a somewhat warm discussion—of the French delegates there being two sections, one in favour of Political Action, and the other against. In the British section, some in favour of Independent Action, and others against. (Personally, I voted in favour of the amendment to strike out “independent of and apart from all bourgeois political parties,” as I feel that the workers, if only properly organised, have power in their hands now to compel definite action for their amelioration from those they place in power, and as the effective establishment of such a party will take more than one lifetime.—W.B.H.)

The Economic and Industrial Reports were most elaborate, and mainly devoted to pressing the value of Trades Unionism, as a protective measure, and as an educational means for the levelling up to higher thoughts and aspirations the workers of the world.

The Report of the Commission on Education and Physical Development brought an amendment to one of the resolutions to the effect that all scholars should be maintained at the public expense, which was carried; but we think will not, nor cannot be, put into practical effect until the workers themselves wake up to a knowledge of their own power. Other business, such as the General Strike, was also considered, and a Committee agreed upon to endeavour to properly organise the next International, although we are both of opinion that it is necessary for the representative workers of the world to occasionally meet to discuss those questions that effect Labour all over the globe. We are of opinion that such assemblies will have to be better arranged than the last one was, to benefit those who sent delegates, as looking at the meeting from a Trades Union standpoint, it was, to say the least, disappointing. Hoping that the next, when held, will be more successful than the last.

We remain,

Yours fraternally,

(Signed)

W. B. HORNIDGE.

WILLIAM VOTIER.

REPORT of the UNION REPRESENTATIVES

ATTENDING THE

TRADES UNION CONGRESS,

HELD IN THE

MUSIC HALL, EDINBURGH, SEPT. 7th, 1896, and subsequent days.

FELLOW MEMBERS,

In presenting to you a brief resumé of the business done at the late Trade Union Congress, at which we attended—thanks to the confidence you reposed in us by electing us as your representatives—we desire to state that it is not our intention to go fully into the details of the business transacted, but only to refer to the more salient features governing the same, as a full report of the proceedings will be found in the official report, arrangements for which, as will be seen by the Council's address, they have made for the purpose of supplying the branches throughout the Union.

As was to be expected, all eyes were turned upon this Congress, as it was felt that on its success or otherwise really depended, not only the trades union movement, but also the existence of the Congress itself. As a consequence, repeated references were made to the late International Congress, and the manner in which the delegates were elected, their bonâ fides, and the manner of conducting their business. Now that this Congress is over, we can, with pride and pleasure, say that comparison in this instance would be odious, inasmuch as although it has at least been the lot of one of us to have attended the Congresses from the one last held at Edinburgh, 17 years ago, neither of us have ever attended a Congress where the business has been conducted with such decorum, earnestness, and good taste, as the one held this year at Edinburgh. From first to last there seemed to be an evident feeling permeating the delegates that we, as trade unionists, must assert ourselves and prove to the world that the scenes which took place in London, were not at our instigation, and for which we were by no means responsible.

Another thing, for the first time in our experience, the business was got through both with energy and despatch, and at its close, instead of, as in former years, a whole batch of resolutions being relegated to the Parliamentary Committee, the Congress itself was able to vote upon all questions submitted.

Turning now to the business proper, the first thing to engage our attention was the Parliamentary Committee's program, and the first item on the same was the general eight hours' working day. An effort was made to make it "Eight hours, or 48 per week," but this we strenuously opposed, as it would practically be a dead letter in our trade, from the many experiences we have had where men may walk about the first three days in the week and then be compelled to work day and night for the purpose of getting in their 48 hours, or getting sufficient to maintain their existence. The general eight hours per day was eventually carried by substantial majorities.

With regard to the Employers' Liability, this has not in the past so much affected our trade as it has others, but since the introduction of machinery such as the chopping and jumping machines, the responsibility of employers for the maiming of our members has become a more serious matter, and consequently required attention at our hands and we heartily supported the Parliamentary Committee in their action. Then with regard to the secretary's salary, we supported the increase, as we feel it necessary that there should now be a central office, at all times open for the trades to appeal to, not only for advice, but also for immediate and practical assistance, the value to the trades oftentimes being the promptness with which the advice or assistance can be rendered.

Then with respect to the Law of Conspiracy, it is well known to you that this is a subject which one of us (Mr. Inskip) has made a special study of for many years past, but this year, in consequence of the recent decisions given by the judges, in the three cases which have been referred to, made it all the more imperative that the Congress should, with no uncertain sound, state plainly what it was that is desired. This was effectively done by Mr. Inskip, with the result that the Congress, with perfect unanimity, instructed the Parliamentary Committee to vigorously deal with this question during the ensuing session of Parliament, and it is to be hoped that the appeal which is now being presented to the House of Lords may clearly place our position as trade unionists, especially as responsible officials, before the world, so that we may know what action to take for the purpose of safe-guarding the interests of the official as well as the members.

The question of the Poor Law Amendment, Factory Legislation, Payment of Members, a closer union between Co-operators and Trade Unionists, all met with our cordial approval, as did the Truck Acts Amendment Bill, Contracts and Fair Wages, Taxation of Ground Values, etc.

There were but one or two matters on which we were unable to agree, but upon all practical questions likely to affect us, within our life-time, we were agreed upon and voted together accordingly.

In this connection we may state that the following is a list of the delegates who were present representing our trade: Messrs. Hornidge and Inskip (the Union), Messrs. Cort and Woolley (Leicester), Mr. Lee (Leeds), Mr. Lowe (Leicester No. 2), Mr. Mason (Norwich), Mr. Milne (Arbroath), and Mr. Ward (Manchester); and those branches who sent direct representatives, had voting power strictly in accordance with the number of members they represented; but in future, in view of the rule passed at Manchester, the system must undergo a complete change, and the voting power be equalised in accordance with the said rule.

From the report it will be observed that two representatives from America again attended the Congress, as did also one from Germany for the first time. All of them received a most hearty and cordial welcome, and the speeches made by them showed both care, thought, and intelligence, and are well worthy of perusal. They will be found in the Trades Congress Report shortly to be issued.

With respect to the American delegation it was decided that we should also return the compliment, by sending two representatives. Hitherto the Parliamentary Committee have had the appointment, but, upon a vote being taken, it was decided that the Congress should select its representatives, and from the many aspirants for the honor, Mr. Inskip ran third. All of the delegates connected with our trade, as well as Messrs. McCrea and Chapman, supported his nomination; but Mr. Mallinson, who represents solely and wholly a local Cordwainers' Society, numbering some 450 members, was elected, we presume by the fact that he happened to be Chairman of the Congress.

We are also pleased to report that we have again a representative, for the eleventh time in succession on the Parliamentary Committee, and that our Union has again been honoured, by the General Secretary being selected for the ninth time in succession as Treasurer to that Committee.

We cannot close without observing that the general feeling amongst the delegates attending the Congress showed a marked and most satisfactory improvement upon former years, and leads us even to believe that the time is not so far distant when the trades may become still more closely federated in a common bond whose object shall be the Brotherhood of Man.

We are,

Yours most respectfully,

W. B. HORNIDGE, General President.

W. INSKIP, General Secretary.

BRANCH REPORTS.

ABERDEEN.—Trade has slightly improved, but still very quiet. We have been almost free from the usual crop of petty, irritating disputes, which are generally so abundant during dull periods. We are inclined to believe that this is one of the good results of the method of settling disputes by arbitration.

BARNSELEY.—We are pleased to say that trade is again looking better, but we don't seem to have as much to do this year, at this period, as we have had formerly ; but now there is a change we shall try to get some of the old members back again, for we have had a very long, hard time of it to make ends meet, and some of our oldest members have had to be added to the scratch list, but we hope that we have reached the end of our slack time, as it has been this year.

BELFAST.—In sending our report this month, we are pleased to say that trade is good here, and all our men are fully employed. We hope it may long continue so. Now, that trade is good we would like the men to reduce their book debts, as this is the time to do so when trade is better. We had a dispute in Birney's shop over the boy question, and we tried locally to settle it before sending for an investigator. We had our General President, Mr. Hornidge, with us here, and he settled the dispute to the satisfaction of the men. We had him also at our general monthly meeting, and he gave us good, sound advice as to how we should act in the future when they are trying to introduce more boy labour than Lord James's award allows, and it is to be hoped the men will act on the advice they then got, as the men in many cases are to blame, for they do not stand firm enough together. He, Mr. Hornidge, also told the men how they should act when lasting machines break down and operator being out on sick, as we needed a little enlightenment on the subject, and it is to be hoped the men will mind what they were told and stick to it. When this shop is squared up, we hope and trust the men will do their best to keep it so.

BRAMLEY.—The state of trade here is not satisfactory to all engaged in it. This is supposed to be the busiest part of the year, and when we consider the long period of short time, their dissatisfaction is not to be wondered at. The first meeting of our subsidiary board of arbitration was held on the 14th of August, when Mr. A. Young, manager of the firm of J. Halliday, was elected chairman. This meeting was of brief duration, as it was moved, and unanimously agreed to, that the employers write, or cause to be written out, a list of their respective prices. Once we are agreed upon the prices, the equalising of the prices in accordance with the agreement should be a simple matter. It is then hoped that we shall have a statement of wages mutually agreed upon, and the prices of the work booked out.

CORK.—In submitting our report this month we are pleased to report trade as very fair, and a possibility of its continuance for some time yet. We are also progressing in our endeavours to further organise this extensive district, and it is with extreme pleasure that we report this month further increase in our membership, and we have now firmly secured the employees of the principal factory in Killarney, viz., C. Magher and Sons, and there is now a good prospect of that town being thoroughly organised in the near future. The mentioning of this fact gives us an opportunity of contradicting a very erroneous and mischievous rumour, which unfortunately got circulated amongst our fellow members in Halifax to the effect that an old member of that branch—named Thomas Child—who is at present a member of our branch, was working against the interest of our Union in Killarney. We unhesitatingly give this calumnious rumour our unqualified contradiction, and further state that it is true that through the instrumentality of this man, whom we believe to be a genuine trade unionist, that our successes in Killarney are mostly attributable ; and we sincerely trust that this report will remove any false impression amongst his old comrades in Halifax.

CHESTERFIELD.—In sending our returns this month we are able to say trade with us is fair ; our members are fully employed. At the firm of Dronfield and Co., we have had a slight dispute—a boy's 2 to 5 boot being the cause—but after the president, together with the secretary, had had an interview with the manager, he gave way to the men's demand. Other managers might take Mr. Baggaley's example, as we think it would be to their advantage, as all disputes could be dealt with without strife on either side with a little foresight. But, then, all our fellow workmen have not a manager like we have at Dronfield and Co.'s, for a fairer, straightforward man never set foot into a shop than him. Any little dispute in regard to new kinds of work can always be peacefully settled with him. We should like the Council to grant us a little for organising purposes, at the firm of Harrison and Sons. Out of a possible of upwards of 50 hands, we can only claim 11 members, and we think with a little time and trouble we could get at least as many more to join. Our funds of the branch are not large, or else we should not require to ask for outside help. We hope the Council will see their way clear to grant us a little, then no doubt we shall be able to make Chesterfield as strong a branch as any in proportion to its size affiliated with the Union.

DESBOROUGH.—In addressing you this month we are pleased to be able to state that there has been an improvement in the state of trade, and most of our members are now fully employed. We regret to say that one of our oldest members has died during the last month, but as he owed more than the regulation 4s., we could not grant either sick or funeral pay. We hope other members who are in arrears will take warning and get financial as soon as possible. We have one case for compensation, £1 to A. Davenport, lately working at Nichols, Evans, and Clow's, which we hope the Council will endorse.

EDINBURGH.—In submitting our report for the month we must say trade still remains fairly good here, and we trust it may continue so till the end of the year. We have had a new departure here by way of the slipper makers enrolling themselves with us. We have joined 15 of them this week, and we believe with a little organising there is as many more to follow. We trust it may be the means of not only bettering the condition of the branch financially and numerically, but will, we trust, tend to better the condition of the slipper makers generally. At least we shall give them every encouragement, as we believe the step they have taken is one in the right direction. Congress being in Edinburgh this week, we had the honour of being addressed by some of the delegates. The General President (W. B. Hornidge), W. H. Lowe (Union Treasurer), R. Cort, and H. H. Woolley (Leicester). We had an altogether interesting and lively evening, at the close of which a vote of thanks was passed with acclamation for the able and intelligent addresses delivered.

GLASGOW No. 2.—Regarding trade in our division there is no improvement for the better, but although such is the case, this branch intends holding their fourth annual festival on Friday evening, 6th November, in the National Halls, Southside. Mr. A. Johnston, head manager of boot and shoe department Co-operative Store, Shieldhall, has kindly consented to preside on this occasion, when we hope his remarks will tend to the joining of those outside our Union, more especially the female portion. The committee on this occasion have secured the best of talent for the concert part, so that members of No. 1, 2, 3, desiring to be present, should secure their tickets as early as possible from Mr. Andrew Martin, 23, Langlands Road, Govan, the secretary, who will gladly give all information in connection with this, the only festive gathering which the Union operatives hold in Glasgow.

HECKMONDWIKE.—We are pleased to report trade in our place to be greatly improved since our last report, and we sincerely hope it may continue, as the finishers have had an exceedingly long stretch of short time ; but at present they have started full, an event which was gladly welcomed by all.

HIGHAM AND RUSHDEN.—In submitting our returns this week we have to report a slight improvement in the state of trade ; but even now it is far from being good. Some firms seem to have a steady trade, and working full time, whilst others are badly off and are working short time, and we hope that these may soon be fortunate enough in securing good orders, and be able to again put their workpeople on full time. We also desire to state that our arbitration board have met to consider the claims made by us, and the counter-claims made by the Manufacturers' Federation respecting the expiration of Lord James's Award (boy labour question, minimum wage, &c.), but it soon became evident that these were matters which we, as a Board, were unable to agree upon. A discussion took place as to where these questions would have to be referred. Our side moved a resolution that they be referred to the Executive of the Workmen's Union, but the manufacturers contended that according to the Revised Rules these were questions that would have to be dealt with by the local arbitrators. It was, however, ultimately decided to adjourn the meeting, with a view of obtaining the necessary information as to the mode of procedure.

KILMARNOCK.—We have to report trade as fair in our home section, and ask you to register Shieldhall statement as paid by our local Co-operative Society, which they have duly signed. We are sorry to say our sick list is a long one just now, but trust the suffering members may soon be restored to good health, and ask those not in benefit to endeavour to clear off their arrears.

LEICESTER No. 1.—We are sorry to have to report that trade is still very bad with us, and we are unable to say that there is any immediate prospect of a change for the better. We have still a number of members out of work, and it would be as well if men in search of employment would avoid Leicester at present. At our last monthly meeting exception was taken to that paragraph in the Council's address referring to the International Congress, which says: "As anticipated, the Congress was of very little practical use, no regard whatever being taken to law and order, rules of debate, or what not," the result being a fiasco, ending in a farce, and very nearly a tragedy," and a motion to delete this portion was moved and seconded. After some discussion, it was decided to postpone the adoption of the address until the report of the Union delegates to the Congress was published.

LEEDS No. 2.—In submitting our returns this month we are pleased to report that trade here is now fairly brisk, and we would urge upon those members who are in arrears with their contributions to make an effort to reduce the same, and thus be enabled in slackness to allow their contributions to run a little in arrears, but not beyond the 4s., and yet be in benefit with the Union. We have received the following circular re counter proposals from the Leeds Employers' Association:—

The Federated Associations of Boot and Shoe Manufacturers of Great Britain.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT BOOT AND SHOE MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION LIMITED.

To the Workmen's Representatives on the Leeds Board of Arbitration.

On behalf of the Manufacturers represented on the above Board, I hereby give you notice that upon the expiration of the Award of Lord James in reference to Boy Labour, on the 1st September next, it is their intention in pursuance of Clause 6, to ask the Board to reconsider the Award.

And I also give you notice that in respect of the employment of Boys, it is the intention of the Manufacturers to claim as follows:—

1. That there shall be no restriction in the number of Boys employed in their respective Factories and Workshops, or in the several departments thereof.

And I further give you notice that in respect of your claim for a Minimum Wage to be sanctioned for all operatives, and a Minimum Wage fixed for those between 18 and 20, it is the intention of the Manufacturers to claim as follows:—

That all Minimum Wages at present in force in the District within the jurisdiction of this Board should absolutely cease and determine.

GEO. FILLINGHAM,

Secretary to the Leeds & District Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association Limited.

August 29th, 1896,

LEEDS No. 2.—Trade here is rather better than last month. There seems to be a demand for riveters, but we should not advise clickers or pressmen to come here. At our last monthly meeting the minimum wage, boy labour, and overtime questions were discussed; the counter proposals of the employers were also before the meeting, but no resolutions were moved, pending the next Board meeting.

LONDON METRO.—Trade is no better; our only satisfaction is that it is all over alike. Our Branch of the Union has had a shaking, as it seems all branches have. The members once again have had an opportunity of deciding who shall administer the law for the next two years. Let us hope they will not break them; and where a deviation is necessary the men to have a voice in the matter. The disappointed ones seem very busy in disseminating the doctrine of secession. We have no intention of seceding from the Union. The London branch has worked too hard for that, and only claim to have a voice in making the rules, altering the rules, interpreting the rules, and spending the money we helped to accumulate. By order of committee, we have, in circular form, printed the terms of settlement and the new rules compiled in connection therewith. A mass meeting of both unions is to be called so as to harmonise and work in unity with a view of getting the best possible out of the new system under which we have to work. We hope the disappointed ones will cease to preach that we mean secession and disunity, which is absolutely untrue. There are now two unions recognised, that is one too many. The two General Secretaries are invited to our mass meeting, and let us hope that this may lead up to the amalgamation of both Unions, so that one shall not be played against the other, and give the appearance that officers of branches are seeking their own interests, instead of the united whole. Our Board has not done much since last we wrote, but we ask the Council, for the information of our members, to publish the following:—

Committee of Inquiry (13th Meeting), Basma House, London Wall Avenue, August 17th, 1896. Present: Employers, T. Clark, J. Weber; workmen, H. Brown, C. Freak. Questions decided: 1. Levant leg, satin hide, vamp and cap, offered in F, claimed in E, classed in E. 2. Levant leg, hide whole golosh and cap, offered in F, claimed in E, classed in E, for Messrs. Saxby, Panthin, & Co.

MAYBOLE AND AYR.—In submitting our report for this month, we are glad to state that trade has improved considerably here this last month, all the firms being fully employed. Also glad to chronicle the fact that Messrs. Lees and Co., have been again successful in booking a large Government order, so that altogether we have every prospect of our members being fairly well employed up till the New Year. This is indeed welcome here, as the depression which we have just passed through had every appearance of becoming permanent. At our last monthly meeting it was decided to take advantage of this revival, the result being the formation of an Organising Committee, and as there are a large number still outside the Union, we trust their efforts will be crowned with success.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—We have the pleasure this month to report a decided improvement in the state of trade, our members being all well employed. At our last committee meeting the question of a minimum wage for clickers and pressmen was fully discussed, and a special meeting called, when it was decided to ask the Council's support to fix the wages at 30s. for clickers and 28s. pressmen. Our branch officials have taken a feeling of the employers, and Messrs. Dinons and Pearson's are the only firms with any serious objections, although better able to pay it than the lesser shops, such as Gregory's, Rose's, or Henderson's.

NORTHAMPTON.—Trade has to a slight extent improved, but there are still large numbers of men with very little work to do, and unfortunately appearances seem to point to the fact that for some time to come full employment will not be found for all those in the shoe trade. This is a serious state of things, and should show to the workers that unless they are prepared to seriously consider the matter and take the subject in hand in a business like manner, this state of things is likely to become chronic. It is useless to blame the Union for this, as the Union only derives its power from those who comprise its members, therefore, it is to be hoped that the members will awake to the fact that upon them as individuals rests the success or otherwise of any efforts that may be made. The question of shortening the hours of labour is one of the items that should be at once attended to. Upon this matter, it should, from the workman's point of view, not deter him, whatever may be said by outsiders, from going in for shorter hours, as shorter hours do not mean less wages, but in the long run better wages; but this will only come when the workmen act together in unity. Several cases have come to our notice lately of men who have left the Union doing work under statement prices. These persons, apparently, prefer to do work at less than the proper price rather than pay sixpence per week, although at the same time they are losing by their actions some three or four shillings per week. These things will continue until some of our members who work with these persons, make it pretty uncomfortable for them, to do which there are many ways open, as they are, by their actions, making it all the harder to keep that which we have obtained; it therefore is the duty of those who believe in Trade Unionism to show up these individuals in their true light, and what an hindrance they are to the cause of progress.

NOTTINGHAM.—In addressing you this month we are sorry to state that trade is fearfully bad with us just now, our members on the average are not making half time. Still, our employers keep putting down modern machinery, Messrs. Parker and Booth having just put down heeling and paring machines, so when these get into working order our members may expect even less work than before, which will mean in some cases scarcely none at all, and yet next spring we may be asked to work overtime. The Council's decision postponing our application for time-and-a-quarter for overtime, until it has been passed by the Boards of Arbitration, and adopted generally by the Employers' Federation, has caused great dissatisfaction amongst our members. We should have thought that if the Council had put it into force in many of the non-federated districts, it would have been a great argument to place before the referees to induce them to grant it in federated centres. Fellow members, only fancy that good old Notts. (a branch that has kept their statement up as well as any other branch in the Union, and a branch that has always been in the vanguard of progress when trade union principles have to be held up) being told to wait till almost every other branch has got an extra for overtime, and then we can have it also. Oh, marvellous! Many of our members refused their ballot papers for the election of Parliamentary Agent, hence the reason for small voting.

NORWICH.—During the month we have had a fair crop of disputes, some of which we have been able to settle at the Arbitration Board, in fact, at the last meeting almost all questions were decided in favour of the workmen. From the firm of Hale Bros., no less than six samples were submitted, the whole of which were decided in favour of the workmen. We had also three from Edwards and Holmes, two of which were decided to be a rate higher than the firm had been paying for them. We had also a kid boot from Howlett and White's, the Board deciding that if they wanted to make it in 4's they must reduce the quality of the upper. Messrs. Hatblack raised the question of the extra for fairstitched work. They contended that the extra on the statement was for a boot stitched from joint to joint, and as they only wanted fairstitched foreparts, they could have them made by paying about half the extra. The Board decided that the item re-fairstitched on our statement, meant stitched foreparts, and the full extra should be paid, namely, 1/6 per dozen. We are, however, sorry to hear that this firm still decline to pay as per decision of the Board, but they tell the workmen that they shall not fight the question, but if they like to accept their offer of a smaller extra they will manufacture this work, if not, they shall not make them, and therefore the men can walk about idle. We have had disputes with two or three small firms, who wanted to have work done at less than statement prices, or put someone on day work contrary to rule. The most noteworthy occurred at Segger's, Clegate Street. Because the men disputed some work, they said they intended in future to get men and boys on day work, but after the men had been out a few days the matter was satisfactorily settled. It is noteworthy, that one man, who was very loud-mouthed in the meetings, was tempted to accept a job on day work while his shopmates were walking the streets, but he had not been in many hours when the dispute was settled, and this honourable gentlemen had to leave his new situation. In black-legging his shopmates we hope this will teach him a lesson.

NORWICH No. 2.—Trade with us is rather slack in the machine-sewn and rivetted department, and fairly good in the sewn shoe. Several of our members have had to lose as many as three days a week. One of the firms down here, viz., Sexton and Sons' Limited, started a system of premium in their clicking department: that is they selected six men and started them on stock-cutting, agreeing to pay them a standing wage of 26s. per week for a stated quantity, and for all they did over to receive so much per dozen. It was discussed at the branch meeting, with the result that a shop meeting was held with about 40 present. A resolution was unanimously carried (the members interested voting) that the system was opposed to the best interests of both rough stuff cutters and clickers. Our president, secretary, and Mr. J. Muir waited on the foreman of the clickers when we stated our objections, maintaining that if they wanted to start piecework it must be done in the proper form, he promising to lay our objections before the firm. A few day's later these men were called before the principals, with the result that all of them expressed their intention to give up working under the system. Since then four of them have received an advance to 30s. and two to 28s. per week. It is stated that an understanding has been come to between the manufacturers so that in future men leaving one firm for another will have to go in for the same wages. It behoves workers to sink all differences and combine so that they will be better able to have a say as to what remuneration for work done they should get; also apprentices just coming out of their time are being actually threatened of being prevented getting a job in the city. I should think that is almost an infringement of the conspiracy laws.

STONE.—In submitting returns this month we have to report trade as slack, a number of the firms being on short time, but trust it will not continue for very long. We also have to report that we had a very successful meeting on the occasion of Mr. Hornidge, General President of the Union, paying a visit to Stone, on August 17th, when he delivered a very interesting address, Mr. Albert Smith, president of our branch, occupying the chair. The object of the meeting was to induce some of the men of Stone, who are not members of our Union, to become members, and also to enlighten them as to the benefits derived from indoor working.

WORCESTER.—In sending our report this month we have nothing of importance to report, only that trade keeps very bad indeed. Our much respected late secretary (Mr. James Taylor) has taken a situation outside our trade, but still remains a member of our sick department. We wish him every success in his new undertaking.

DANGEROUS WORK.

REPRINTED FROM THE Midland Free Press.

A couple of cases at the Leicester County Court, on Monday, illustrated the dangers to which the worst-paid of shoe operative are subjected. Claims for injury to the hands were made by youths engaged cutting the leather parts for boots by machinery. In one case the claim was not sustained; in the other damages were awarded. The decisions rested upon evidence as to whether or not there had been contributory negligence by the operators. I am afraid there was much said which hardly came up to the standard of "Gospel truth," but that is by the way. It is not worth commenting upon, being so common in the law courts. Everything is justifiable to win a case—so the litigants think. However, what I wish to draw attention to is not so much the possibility of fencing off machinery in the pressman's department of a shoe factory in any way that would give protection to the workman, as the danger involved in the occupation, and the reward given for facing it. I don't know how the knife of a guillotine, for instance, could be fenced off, if it has to be used at all. But the fact remains that besides the labour, physical and mental, given by the pressman for very small wages, he must also "make weight" with bits of finger and thumb, which are cut off at the same time as the leather. These pieces of flesh and bone are, of course, of no use to the employer, and he does not desire that they should be mixed up with his heel-pieces; but they are a kind of oblation to appease and in return for the work it is called upon to do in the cause of cheapness. Well might the cases on Monday be described by Counsel as of "importance to shoe manufacturers generally," and it could have been added with truth that they were of some concern to the operatives too. If such accidents were the exception, they would only affect the individual firms. But I made inquiry, prompted by knowledge I already possessed, and secured proof that they were not an exception. I went to the fountain head, got permission to examine the Union sick club books. Here it was plainly shown that nearly two-thirds of all the pressmen claiming sick-pay do so for injuries sustained while at work. One man, whom I have conversed with, was a great sufferer. He had had pieces taken off the fingers of both hands, and, after recovery, his wages were reduced because he was not so dexterous, and turned less work out than before, owing to the crippling of his fingers by the same firm's machine. Eventually, a thumb and forefinger were taken off together, and this involved the loss of part of his hand also. Then he had to give up his trade altogether. There was no compensation for him, but his fellow-workmen started a collection, and "set him up" as a hawker. It must not be supposed that all employers treat their unfortunate employees so badly. Some of them, in case of similar accidents, find the victims other employment at the same wages.

OTHER CASES.

Running my eye down the list, here was one who had the first joint of a thumb taken off by the press knife; another accident to the thumb; the next a joint off first finger; the fourth lost a little finger; one man had three fingers snipped off; and five others the first joint of a thumb each. To quote further would be monotonous; the same story recurs again and again: a piece off the finger here, a piece off the thumb there, with sometime a very much more calamitous experience, like the one first mentioned. The loss of employment is usually from two to eight weeks. One firm helped their man a bit. He was off two months, and was given 10s., or 1s. 3d. a week. Most manufacturers give nothing at all, although they re-engage the victim on recovery. The most liberal allowance I saw recorded was 10s. weekly for an illness of eleven weeks. With such a dangerous occupation, it is imperative that every workman should join the sick club, but should not the contributions to secure benefits, at least, be paid by the employer as a fair addition to the cost of production where the machine plays such havoc with flesh and blood? And let it be remembered, also, that even if an employer keeps the crippled workman engaged at undiminished wages, he has still lost his fingers, and with them the pleasure which a full dexterity alone can give in work, besides a lessened usefulness in all the necessary manual manipulations outside the factory. You would think that the wages for this combination of work and would not only be ample for present-day necessities, but also for the day of sickness and incapacity, as well as compensatory for the physical suffering so often endured. Let us see what the shoe pressman gets. There is a striking illustration from the neighbouring town of Northampton. An arbitrator has recently given his award that the clickers' minimum wages must stand at 26s. weekly, for 54 hours, and the pressmen's at 22s. ! As we all know, to the great majority of workers, the fixed minimum becomes the maximum, so that comment may be fairly made upon this basis. Twenty-two shillings a week—if fully employed for 54 hours. All lost time must be deducted. The workman is compelled to lose time from various causes. The Union officials set it out as follows:—Three days' holiday at Easter, a week each time at Whitsuntide, August Bank Holiday, and Christmas, and eight weeks' short time of say ten hours per week. That last computation is very much below the mark, because a considerable number are out of work altogether for two to three months each year between the seasons. Still, a reasonable average is struck, which cannot be gainsaid, and this makes a loss of 256 hours. At a fraction under 5d. per hour deduction the wages are thus brought down absolutely to less than £1 per week, when the pressman is fully employed in the common acceptation of the term. This does not make provision for lost time through sickness, breaking down of machinery, and special holidays. Now as to

LAYING OUT THE WAGES.

In Northampton, as at Leicester, a cottage in a desirable neighbourhood, where a man, wife, and three or four children can live with decency, cannot be obtained for less than 6s. a week. The only persons who describe a worse house as "good enough" are those who live in villas and mansions with gardens round them. This is a curious fact. Well, 6s. goes for rent 52 times a year, 6d. a week must go to the trade union to enable the workman to retain by force the already inadequate wage, 6d. must go to make provision for sickness and old age benefits. Now what is left? Just 13s. a week for a man working on imaginary "full time," to feed, clothe, and provide against sickness for the wife and family, take a delight in his life of toil, and comport himself always as becomes a respectable citizen. In this statement there is not one word of exaggeration. I might have painted the story very much redder, but the sober, grey truth in such a case should be powerful enough to enter men's understanding, and get down to that conscience which loves to hide itself in mysterious and remote places. Those in the Leicester shoe trade have improved upon this miserable wage, to which Northampton pressmen have been condemned for another three years. Here they get two or three shillings a week higher reward for their labour. But the facts as to liability to crippling are culled from Leicester's experience, the deductions from the aggregate earnings apply here exactly as at the neighbouring town, and the best average that we can show only proves that the shoe pressman's flesh and blood are very cheap.

Dated 1st Sept., 1896.—Cancelling the Statement Dated January, 1890.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Every precaution is taken by us to ensure accuracy in these Reports, our correspondents being men on whom we can rely ; should, however, any errors creep into them, upon the same being pointed out to us, we shall be most happy to give the same prominence to the correction as to the original matter. As these Reports are exclusively for the use of Members, the information contained therein must not be divulged.

NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

OCTOBER 26TH, 1896,

FELLOW MEMBERS,

The business transactions of the Union during the past month have been fraught with several very important issues, likely to have bearing upon the future of the trade and also of the Union.

The first thing which we desire to bring to your notice in this address, is the dissatisfaction which for a long time has existed between a number of the members in London and the Executive, on the question of arbitration, and we feel it is now due to you that we should clearly state the issue.

For some time past there have been three statements in existence in London, which are known as first, second, and third class or minimum statements. Those working for the first and second class shops have, undoubtedly, by reason of their ability, been able to command a very high wage, but with the introduction of machinery, added to the keen competition existing on all hands, the number of men employed on the first and second class shops have decreased, and they have not been subject to the rules of the Board, although the firms have belonged to the Federation now for some time past, and it is this class of workmen, numbering in all some 300, who have repeatedly made it most awkward for us to carry out our engagements with the Employers' Federation, and meetings have taken place with the view to induce the bulk of the London members not to submit to arbitration, and thus break the engagements entered into, and which no doubt would effect the guarantee fund of £1000, deposited by us in the hands of Lord James and Sir Courtenay Boyle, and also affect our position with the Federation to such an extent that we might have a repetition at no distant date of the late lock-out, and, as you must be aware, we are in a very different position financially to what we were on that occasion, and we therefore ask our London members to rally and support us on November 4th, when a ballot is taken, ostensibly, for or against arbitration, but in reality it means for or against because we have neither the power nor the desire to break the engagements solemnly entered into, and ratified at the Manchester Conference.

SECEDING FROM THE UNION,

We have no need to urge the point much further, but it is nevertheless a fact that in almost every dispute we enter into in London the employer succeeds in beating us, and it is a well-known fact that there are more shops on block in London than in all the other towns throughout the Union. Besides, we would further point out, especially to those of our older members who have been paying to the Union many years, and whose time of life makes it probable they will require the Union's benefits at no distant date, that they should not lightly sacrifice their position, because it must be patent to all that the employers in London would do their best, even though the men secede from us, to compel them to accept arbitration in trade disputes.

We have one further observation to make, and that is, whether the result of the ballot shows against arbitration or not, we shall still keep on our offices in London, and any branch, or members of a branch, can pay to us in exactly the same manner as they do now, and will receive their benefits. We trust, therefore, the good sense of the men will prevail, for in all big disputes it has to come to arbitration at the finish.

There was a meeting held at the Shoreditch Town Hall on Oct. 6th, in reference to this question, at which the services of the General Secretary were requested, and we have thought it of sufficient importance to have practically a verbatim report of the meeting, which will be found on pp. 12-17, and we ask our London members especially, to carefully read the speeches for and against, before deciding against arbitration.

Already the spirit of distrust has been evinced in the case of Hartley and Barnes. The men who, in accordance with previous practice, made certain work which they contended were in a superior class, under protest (with the understanding that wages would be rectified when the decision of the Committee of Enquiry or Board had been given) were told by the local officers not to do the work, and they (the local officers) for a time refused to act as a committee of inquiry. Thus there were no means of settling the dispute, and the men were naturally out. As this was likely to bring us into conflict with the Federation, the President of the Union was entrusted with the case, and after a deal of negotiation, he succeeded, in conjunction with the representative of the Cordwainers' Union, in inducing the officers to form themselves into a provisional committee of inquiry, and Board, pending the decision of the ballot, to deal with all questions, both in abeyance, and which might crop up between now and November 4th.

For some time past there has been a deadlock on the Leicester Board of Arbitration, brought about by a difference of opinion as to what title the Board should take, whether it should follow the title which heads the statement of wages, and which is in five instances referred to in the Terms of Settlement, and twice in the revised rules, which would mean "Leicester and District," or whether it should simply read "The Leicester Board of Arbitration," thus confining the area over which the Board would have jurisdiction to the town of Leicester. The real reason we had in requiring it to be "Leicester and District," was the fact that in a number of instances we could name, an employer at Leicester, under the jurisdiction of the Board, has gone to the Board with uppers for adjudication, and has had a verdict given against him, but no sooner has that particular quantity of work been made, than they have sent the bulk of it into the country districts, thus evading paying the proper wage, and robbing the workmen in the town of that quantity of work, which otherwise they would have had. Consequently it places the operatives at a double disadvantage.

For a long time the employers held out, refusing not only to submit the matter to an umpire, but refusing even to discuss it. Hence the Board remained in abeyance for a long time, but eventually a meeting was brought about, and it was decided to submit to Lord James the question for his decision, which we here append:—

In the matter of the rules affecting boards of arbitration and conciliation for the boot and shoe trade.

Mr. Lennard and Mr. Inskip, representing the employers and operatives respectively, attended before me on October 16, 1896, and asked my decision upon certain matters affecting the form of the revised rules for boards of arbitration and conciliation for the boot and shoe trade.

First, in respect of the rules for the Leicester Board, I was asked by Mr. Lennard and Mr. Inskip to determine the form of Rule 1. I determine that it shall be as follows: "The Board shall be named the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration for Leicester."

Secondly, Mr. Lennard applied to me to amend the draft rules submitted to me by striking out sub-section B of Rule 14. I determine that the sub-section shall remain part of the rule.

Thirdly, Mr. Inskip applied to me to insert the following rule in the draft rules:—"That any decision given by the (Leicester) Board shall be binding on each and every employer connected with the federation and the workmen's union, always providing that such decision shall only apply to an area or district which is not covered by any other local Board connected with the federation and union." I determine that, having regard to Resolution 5, Sub-section A, of the terms of settlement of April 19, 1895, "No Board shall claim jurisdiction over the conditions and terms of employment of workpeople outside its districts, provided that no actual work shall be sent out of a district which has been the subject of an award in the district." I have no power to admit such rule.

In determining, as above, upon questions Nos. 1 and 3, I am controlled by my want of legal power to make decisions of one district Board apply to manufacturers or operatives carrying on the trade in another district. If I were to do so I should in effect be altering the Terms of Settlement of April, 1896. The evils alleged by Mr. Inskip, and which he desired to remedy, must be dealt with when a case arises under Resolution 5, Sub-section A, of the Terms of Settlement (above-quoted). A due construction will then have to be placed upon the proviso, "that no actual work shall be sent out of a district which has been the subject of an award."

From the same it will be observed that we have failed to obtain the words "Leicester and District," his strong point being that it would be unfair to the employers in the country districts unless they had a representative on the Leicester Board, and if we could show that such a representative was on the Board, he would then give it us. If not we should be bound to confine it to Leicester only.

It will also be observed that he distinctly lays it down that when we get such a concrete case as that named above, he will do his best to define that portion of the Terms of Settlement, which we pressed strongly at the time—viz., that no actual work shall go out of such a district which has been subject to an award in the district. On the whole this brings us nearer, and we hope, within measurable distance, of being able to protect your interests at the Board against such unscrupulous employers who would adopt such tactics with a view to evading the decision of the Board.

We are sending the Annual Registry Sheets with the parcel this month, and Secretaries would do well to prepare their books in time, so that they may be in a position to enter up the names of all the Financial members in their branch on December 1st. All secretaries must see that their sheets are sent in on that date, otherwise it will be impossible to get the Registry out in time to be in the hands of the Secretaries for making out their January returns. We ask, as a special favour, strict attention to this advice, as it will greatly facilitate the business involved in getting out the mass of names and numbers now used in the compilation of the Annual Registry. Secretaries requiring any additional registry sheets should apply to the General Secretary at once, when they will be supplied without delay.

We have had several instances come under our notice of men over 40 who have carelessly, or in some cases of necessity, become scratched, and they then want to rejoin or pay up, but want to enjoy the full benefits of the Union. A number of these cases have been very hard indeed, but we have to point out to secretaries that we have no alternative, neither have they, to enter any man over 40, or to allow them to pay up and become entitled to full benefits, as Rule 36 is so explicit on the matter, and we trust that men will hesitate prior to allowing themselves to become refractory.

On page 6 will be found a circular from the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress, in which two resolutions will also be found, and upon the same you will be asked to vote on the December Monthly Night. The circular explains itself, but the voting must be by ballot, and the ordinary voting papers will be sent in due course, but we would suggest the following as a copy of the ballot paper which branches should get printed :—

Are you in favour of an International Trades Union Congress being held

THE TRADES UNION CONGRESS PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

PROPOSED INTERNATIONAL TRADES UNION CONGRESS (1898).

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF TRADE SOCIETIES.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

The Parliamentary Committee, at their meeting held on the 14th October, 1896, had under consideration, while discussing the resolutions passed at the Edinburgh Congress, the question of holding an International Congress in 1898. You will remember that the Standing Orders Committee at the last Congress made a recommendation, which was approved of unanimously, to the following effect :—"That the Parliamentary Committee were to ascertain during the next twelve months if the Trade Unions of the United Kingdom were in favour of holding an International Congress in the year 1898, their decision to be made known to the next Congress."

The Parliamentary Committee desire to point out that a very important resolution was carried at the Congress in Edinburgh on this subject, which reads as follows, viz :—

"That all future International Congresses be constituted by representatives from bona fide Labour Organisations, and the delegation be determined on the lines of the British Trades Union Congress."

The Committee, with a view of carrying out this recommendation, desire to ask you—(1st) Is your trade in favour of an International Trades Union Congress being held in the year 1898? (2nd) If so, will your trade be prepared to send Delegates to the Congress?

Your early reply to these questions will be esteemed a favour.

DEPUTATION TO CABINET MINISTERS.

According to a long-standing precedent, the Parliamentary Committee, at their meeting on the 14th instant, instructed me to arrange for the usual deputation to certain Cabinet Ministers, in order that such deputation might lay before them a number of important resolutions passed at the Edinburgh Congress, and suggested that, if possible, it should be arranged for about the middle of November this year, and it was agreed that I should notify this fact at once to the Trade Unions, so that they might get their delegates appointed. This is in order that none of the Unions may suffer any inconvenience through not having sufficient time to appoint their delegates. The Committee desire to state that immediately the details as to date, time, and place are fixed, such information will at once be sent on to you. It would be a great convenience to the Parliamentary Committee if you will as early as possible intimate to me whether your Trade will be represented on such deputation, also the name of your delegate or delegates, and the number of members represented. You will doubtless be aware that the arrangements for these deputations generally have to be made on very short notice, and I shall therefore be much obliged if you will send on the desired information at your earliest convenience.

CONGRESS REPORTS.

The Parliamentary Committee, at their sitting on the 15th instant, had under serious consideration the question of the cost and price of Congress Reports, and, after long discussion, they decided to increase the price for this year's Report to 15s. per hundred. They desire to point out that for the last three or four years the average loss on these Reports has been about £80 per annum, and last year it was considerably over £100. They also wish to state that the Reports for the last two or three years have been nearly twice as large as previously, and contains, in addition to the proceedings of Congress, much valuable information which ought to be in the possession of all Trade Unionists in the country. The Committee think that the cost of these Reports should as nearly as possible be covered by the price charged, and they feel sure that the Trades composing the Congress will gladly support their action in the endeavour to make the Congress Report a paying concern. I may further say that the Committee feel very strong as to the action of some of the Trade Unions in purchasing such a few copies of the Report when it is printed, and they would respectfully urge all Trades to take as many copies as they can this year, in order to disseminate as far as possible among their members the information which the Report contains.

PICKETING APPEAL.

I am desired to bring before the Trades composing the Congress the question of the pending Picketing Appeal, in which no less than three important Trades are seriously affected. In the appeal is involved very serious points of law to all Trade Unionists. I may say in answer to the first appeal that was sent out for funds a good number of the Trades willingly contributed. A list of such contributions will appear in the Congress Report. There are a number of Trades who have not yet contributed, others, again, promised to pay their proportionate share, and some others promised to pay certain sums, which they have not yet sent. I am asked to again bring this matter before the attention of every trade who has not yet contributed, and those who have made promises, if they will kindly send on their money at once, as the case is likely to come on very shortly. This is a very important matter, and one that touches the interests of the Trade Union movement very keenly, and it is expected that every one will help, and as far as possible without delay.

Yours obediently,

On behalf of the Parliamentary Committee,

S. WOODS, Secretary.

BRANCH REPORTS.

BRISTOL.—We have not yet the opportunity of reporting trade as generally improved, although there are some firms where an improvement has necessitated full time being worked, especially where day-work predominates, and irrespective of the fluctuations to which our trade has, and will be, subjected. An improvement on the present state of things would be gladly welcomed by all parties concerned. Winter has already indicated its near approach, and our experience has often told us what this means, especially when its results are coupled with a trade depression, and our extreme regret is that scarcely any opportunity has allowed for the desired preparations against that which we allude to. Depression also tends to irritate and creates contentious matter as between employer and employed, and it is no easy matter at times for the latter being enabled to hold their own, and such a position should be a strong argument in favour of closer unity amongst us as workers. Depression is also responsible for a large portion of the sickness which befalls us, and we desire members being in compliance, and enable such benefits being paid to claimants who will more heartily appreciate the existing of that to which their membership is attached. The decision of the last Conference has, in their usual line of business with other branches, been submitted to the Arbitration Board, as have also the counter proposals of the Federation, and their reference to a higher tribunal has been decided upon. Our General President has been amongst us with the desire of helping to organise, and we trust it will be a preliminary to the thorough system of organisation which the Council has decided upon, and we unhesitatingly venture the opinion that where the General Secretary's help can be extended in such a mission united opportunity should be the primary efforts, and would be adhesive to the motto, "All for each, and each for all."

BIRMINGHAM.—The month of September commenced with disputes on all hands, both from federated and non-federated shops. The notice of the revision of our statement as now fallen through, owing to a defect in the notice given. The Federated employers ask for a Leeds nail and Northampton light, to which our men have refused both. It is our intention to publish a list of a few members in our branch who have received their strike pay during the lock-out, and in some instances compensation, but who refuse to keep themselves financial. Falling into arrears seems to be their idea of getting away from paying the just demands of our Union by being scratched. They join again, and so evade several months of the year. We shall ask these members to pay double contributions weekly, and firmly do we intend to stand for our just demands. Our statement even now costs, by continual disputes, a great amount of our funds, and as these men, of very little honour, receive weekly what our members are paying for, we intend next month to publish their names. The sickness in our branch, which has been very heavy, has, we are pleased to say, been reduced from ten members to three.

BARNESLEY.—We have nothing encouraging to report this month. Trade here is nothing near so good as it has been formerly at this time of the year, we having no push on at all only about regular work, and not near so many hands as formerly. Through the long period of slack time, members here cannot pay their contributions, and when there is a bit more work they have got so far in arrears that they make no effort to clear themselves, hence we are forced to put them in the scratched list, much against our wish; but we think there would be some good done if we could have a good organisation meeting, with the General Secretary or the General President down. As it is mooted that such work is to be undertaken, we will wait until that time.

BELFAST.—In sending our report this month we are glad to state that trade is very good, and hope that it may long continue so. We are also glad to state that we are very free from disputes, as is always the case when trade is good.

BRAMLEY.—Trade here is brisk just now, and some of our members would do well to reduce their arrears, as the rules relating to benefits are strictly carried out, as not a few of our members know by experience. During September there has been one meeting of our sub-Board of Arbitration; business: our Statement. In equalising the prices, such figures as 8s. 1½d., 11s. 1½., and so on cropped up. With a view to obviate this difficulty several suggestions have been offered by both sides, but nothing of a definite nature arrived at. If the Employers' Federation really desire arbitration they will not hesitate to re-establish the National conference (call it by what name they like) for the settlement of certain principles which should govern the whole trade. As an organising scheme, we would suggest that the address printed in our rule books, along with the benefits given by our Union, be printed and sent out to all the branches.

CORK.—In submitting our report this month, we are pleased to state that trade remains very fair with us in Cork, also in Waterford and Killarney, the latter place we referred to in our last month's Report as being partially organised. We are now in a position to report that our secretary has visited that town with the most gratifying results, the place being now perfectly organised, the employees of Mr. Hillard's factory joining and paying their entrance fees, not only willingly, but with enthusiasm, and the conclusions which we formed of their vast experience and intelligence convinces us in the belief that neither of us will have any cause to regret our actions on that memorable occasion, and these few words of well merited praise is mentioned as a fitting introduction to them into our Union. We also mentioned in a previous Report, Waterford, as a place very much affected through the introduction of machinery, a pegging machine having then arrived. After it was put up the mechanic totally failed to work it, then the foreman tried all his endeavours, with no better result, and after destroying an immense quantity of work he also relinquished the undertaking. Then a skilled operator was brought from Maybole, and he too was foiled by this unworkable machine, he having to return to Glasgow without reward, the employers even refusing to give him any wages for the time he worked, for which we are very sorry, he being a member of our Union. This machine is also to be returned from whence it came, and may all our troubles accompany it on its exit.

COLCHESTER.—In addressing you this month we are pleased to state that trade has brightened a little, and the branch, as small as it is, try their best to enrol members, which we hope some day to do, but it will take time. We hope the Council will reconsider their decision as to breaking us up, and making it a section to any other branch, after being the foremost branch in England. We can boast of getting first the indoor work, abolition of gas, employers finding grindery and workshops free, and a minimum wage for all workers at 27s. per week. This we got without a fight at any time, and we can honestly say that we reduced the boy labour in every shop in the town but one—that was Kavanagh's—to one boy in three. We think that if the Council consider that this has been done we still stand some chance of making some progress some other time, which we hope to do, and when it is ripe enough we will soon begin to move and be as prosperous as in the past. If we break up what will the employers think? They will look upon us as cowards, and boast that they have broke us up. We pity those, if they have to stop in the town, who have taken a prominent part. It is the wish of our members to stand as a small root, never to say die, with our £13 odd worth of funds, as it will be a nice little start when it begins to bloom.

CHESTERFIELD.—Trade with us still continues to be good, all our members being fully employed. Now is the time when we hope our members will make an effort to get their arrears wiped off, as at present they seem a little backward in doing so. We know this, and so do the members of this branch, that if they do not get them down now we are working full time, they cannot when the slack time comes on. At our monthly meeting it was decided to go in for the 54 hours per week movement, instead of 55½ as is now worked, and we hope the Council will support us to obtain the same. Other towns only work 54 hours, and we think it nothing but right that we, the members of the Chesterfield branch, should do likewise. We take this, as our first opportunity, to thank the Council for the organising grant of £2, which they granted us for the above purpose; also of their offer to send the President (Mr. Hornidge) to assist us when required. Our organising committee have got to work, and of the result of their labours we must wait until the next Monthly Report comes out. No doubt some may think we shall have too many strings to our bow, but we should like this to be an understood thing that if we do not go in for these things now we shall have to wait at least twelve months before we could do anything in these matters again, as our busy time does not last all the year round.

EDINBURGH.—In sending our report we are pleased to state trade still continues good, and we beg to take this opportunity of reminding those members whose book debts are beyond the limit, to bring themselves into compliance at once, as by doing so they will not only be conferring a favour on themselves, but the branch as well. We all know that a clear card, like a good name, is certainly something worth having.

GLASGOW.—Trade here, so far as strong work is concerned, is very fair in the meantime, there being a demand for lasters on this class; but we regret to say that the finishers on some of the shops are not getting full employment, and we hope this will be an instruction to finishers to keep away from here. At our last meeting of the Arbitration Board we gave notice of our intention to ask that the minimum wage for clickers, lasters, and finishers be raised to 30s. a week, and for pressmen 28s. a week, a special meeting to be convened at an early date to discuss the same. We wish to call the attention of members to the reprehensible conduct of two men, named G. Hardie and J. White, who are going about the country accusing one of our members, named A. French, of accommodating at Redruth. Our officials communicated with the branch officials of Plymouth, asking for information anent the above, and they received a letter from Mr. J. Coite, secretary, entirely exonerating Mr. A. French of the charge made against him.

HECKMONDWIKE.—In forwarding our report this month we are pleased to state trade to be very good at present, and part of the men at the Co-operative Works are working overtime, and are likely to do so for some time to come; but we hope this kind of thing will be remedied as soon as the new shop is completed, so as to regulate trade and working hours more evenly.

KETTERING No. 2.—In addressing you this month we regret to state there is a general falling off of trade, the outlook being none to promising for the winter. On Saturday, October 3rd, we held our annual tea and soiree at the Co-operative Hall, when upwards of 80 sat down to tea, the evening being spent in dancing, interspersed with songs by local talent.

KILMARNOCK.—In submitting our report we are glad to state that employment in our home section has considerably improved, one factory working overtime. We are also glad to say the Co-operative Works is progressing, a great number of our members finding work there. Our Executive trust those members who are benefitted by the improvement will endeavour to clear off their debts while the sun is shining on them, as judging from past experience it may be of short duration.

KINGSWOOD.—In sending our report this month we are glad to be able to state that trade is in a fairly good condition, most of the workers being fully employed. At the same time it is with regret that we have been compelled to put such a large number in the scratched list. We have formed a strong organising committee, who have been doing some good work in waiting on shops, and also in conducting a house-to-house canvass, and are also holding meetings in the different districts. The result, so far, has been very satisfactory, several new members having joined, and a good number of those who are in the scratched list have promised either to rejoin or get re-instated, so that during the next few days we anticipate adding a large number to our ranks. We earnestly appeal to every member to lend a helping hand in this work. Appended is a list of the sums granted in response to our appeals:—

LEICESTER.—There is very little, if any, improvement in the state of trade to report this month. In spite of bad trade, however, we have comparatively few disputes, those that are reported being of an ordinary character, which do not involve any question of principle. We are waiting with interest to hear the result of the appeal of Lord James in reference to the scope of the Arbitration Boards rules, about which there is a difference of opinion between us and the employers. The question of their application is an important one for us, as it affects our county sections very materially. At our last meeting a motion (which stood over from the previous meeting) to delete that paragraph in the August Report condemnatory of the International Congress, was carried unanimously, the members being of opinion that it was impossible to reconcile the report of Messrs. Hornidge and Votier as delegates to the Congress, with the opinion they expressed as members of the Council. The Council's address was therefore accepted, minus the clause spoken of. We are making a further effort to organise the county, and commenced with a successful meeting at Blaby, which was addressed by our General Secretary. In this place, and other villages in the vicinity, a good deal of our trade is carried on, we believe the result of the meeting will be a large accession to our membership.

LEEDS.—In submitting our returns this month we are pleased to report that work in the rivitting departments is fairly busy. During the month we have been compelled to ask for the Council's sanction to enforce Union rate of wages on several Jewish employers. We are pleased to report that our application was granted, and in a week's time we were successful in causing two of these employers to concede to our demands. We should esteem it a favour if the Council would make us a grant so that we may be enabled to try and strengthen our organisation by holding shop's meetings, seeing that there is plenty of scope for improvement in organising amongst the Jewish workmen.

LEEDS No. 2.—We are pleased to state that trade here is brisk, and our members are fully employed. Various shops have been organised, but there are a number of men who have not joined as yet. We should like some of the Executive to come here and hold a large meeting at once, as we think it would do a lot of good, and rouse both the members and non-members up, for it is urgently required. We are constantly receiving complaints of men not receiving the minimum.

LONDON EAST.—In addressing you this month we are sorry to state that trade is still bad. Seeing that the London City branch is no more in existence, we ask the Council to make us a grant to organise the men in the East End of London, which is very necessary.

NORTHAMPTON.—Trade is still in a very unsatisfactory state from the workers point of view, and, unfortunately, appearances seem to point to the fact that this slow state of trade will continue for some time yet. Large numbers of men are on short time, and have been for a considerable period of time. The putting down of machinery still continues, and it is a most important point for the workman to remember that until he brings his mind to bear upon these matters, and act in a rational manner, this unfortunate state of things is likely to continue. The Trade Council have arranged for four lectures to be given in the Trade Hall, upon matters which vitally affects the workers position in life. The first lecture was held on October 12, the subject being "Factory Legislation." Sir Philip Manfield, J.P., occupied the chair, and Miss Enid Stacy, B.A., was the lecturer. There was a very good attendance, and it is hoped that increased interest will be taken in those subjects, which are so important for us as workers to know. We are having shop's meetings of every shop in the town, and, so far, such meetings have been very successful, so much so that from 40 to 50 are joining every week, and we would impress upon the members the imperative necessity that exists for each one to do his level best to so use his influence that every person working at the trade shall ere long be members of the Union also.

NORTHAMPTON No. 2.—We are sorry to have to report that trade is still bad with us, and we cannot see any immediate prospect of a change for the better, having still a number of members out of work. We are also sorry to say that matters in connection with our Arbitration Board do not run so smoothly as we should desire, the manufacturers taking exception to the Council's comments upon Mr. Monckton's award, which appeared in the June Report, and refuses to go on with the business of the Board proper until they have communicated with Mr. Lennard as to their position, as they state "Such language was likely to cut at the root of the principles of Arbitration, for which the Board was established." The workmen's side contended that the Board had no jurisdiction to discuss a private communication that was issued for the use of the members of the Union only, and decided to take no further discussion on the question beyond reading a letter from Mr. Monckton received by our General Secretary, which appeared in the July Report, thinking that would be a sufficient answer to their exception, and now we are at a deadlock again waiting for Mr. Lennard's reply, and they call this Arbitration. N.B.—Since writing the above we have received the following:—

GOODYEAR CHAMBERS,

MR. FRANK SMITH.

NORTHAMPTON, OCT. 12TH, 1896.

DEAR SIR,—As there is no reply from Leicester, which we presume arises from Mr. Inskip's absence from home, and pressure of other matters, I am desired to state the Manufacturers consider it necessary to adjourn the meeting arranged for to-morrow night for a few days. As soon as we hear satisfactorily I will arrange another date with you.

Yours truly,

G. F. LEA, Secretary.

We, ourselves, have received communications from Mr. Inskip, dated October 8th, so it is evident that Mr. Lennard could have seen him if so inclined, instead of treating us in this fashion.

STAFFORD.—In sending our returns we are still unable to report any solid improvement in the state of trade. Some of our firms are a little busier than they were, but the trade in general is in a very depressed condition, and there is every indication of this state of things continuing for some time to come. We believe (although we have received no official notification of the fact) that some of our employers have joined the Employers' Federation. We are glad of that, and are anxiously awaiting the time when we shall be called upon to assist in forming a Board, which we hope will be the means of avoiding the irritating petty disputes that are constantly occurring.

NATIONAL UNION OF Boot and Shoe Operatives.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF A

Mass Meeting of the London Operatives.

A MASS meeting of the whole of the London branches was held on Tuesday, October 6th, at the Shoreditch Town Hall. There was a fair attendance, and Mr. W. Thomas was elected chairman. Supporting him upon the platform were Messrs. W. Inskip, J.P. (General Secretary of the Union), C. Freak, L.C.C. (President of the London Metropolitan branch), T. O'Grady (Secretary of the London Metropolitan branch), G. E. Green (Secretary London Metropolitan No. 2. branch), C. Solomon (Secretary London East branch), W. Chapman, Lawrence, and Mulligan, (representing the Amalgamated Union), and Messrs. Austin, Standeven, and Bray.

The CHAIRMAN explained why the meeting had been called. In consequence of machinery being introduced in first and second class houses in London, the "knifing" question cropped up at the same time, and the Joint Committees of the London branches felt that they should call upon the shops affected to appoint delegates for the purpose of drawing up some scale of wages. They had five or six meetings, with the result that a question was asked whether if the code of wages drawn up did not please the employers it would have to be sent to the Board of Arbitration for their consideration and adjudication. This brought about an important question. The majority of the men in the first and second class shops thought they were exempt from the operations of the Arbitration Board. Hence it had been decided to call that meeting together to consider the matter. He had no agenda placed in his hands. It was entirely an open and independent meeting, and he would do his utmost to conduct the business in a satisfactory manner.

Mr. FREAK moved that no speaker be allowed more than ten minutes, and that the mover of a resolution should have five minutes right to reply. The reason he did so was because they did not want anyone to occupy the platform for a long period. Ten minutes was enough for everyone.

The CHAIRMAN pointed out that they had their General Secretary present, and he knew he was expressing their thoughts when he said they were expecting an explanation from him, and he would suggest that the General Secretary be exempt from the resolution.

The resolution was carried upon the understanding that the General Secretary should be exempt.

Mr. FREAK said the Joint Committee had thought it best that the vote should be taken by ballot, and he was instructed on their behalf to move that if a vote as to arbitration or no arbitration be taken, that the vote of all our branches in London be taken by ballot, and that the whole votes be counted and aggregated together, so that one branch should not be set against another in favour of arbitration or otherwise. By that means they would certainly get a better consensus of opinion than by show of hands. He held that they should give everyone the same facilities upon such a question as this, as they would in Parliamentary or other matters.

Mr. WALTERS seconded.

Mr. NEGUS asked whether, if the resolution was carried, the members of the Amalgamated Society would vote, and their votes counted along with those of the National Union.

Mr. FREAK answered that a vote of their members would be taken in the same manner as the National Union's.

Another question was whether, if a vote was taken, the result, either yes or no, would be binding.

The CHAIRMAN said it was impossible for him to answer the question, but if there was anyone on the platform capable of answering it he should be glad to hear it answered.

Mr. FREAK said the minority have a right to submit to the majority. Personally, he was strongly in favor of arbitration, but as a branch official he was with the men of London, and if they should decide against arbitration he should feel it his duty to carry it out on their behalf.

Mr. WELLS understood that that meeting had been called to consider the question as a whole—Arbitration or no arbitration?

The CHAIRMAN said when the Joint Committee decided to call that meeting it was never decided that they should finish the question by a show of hands or whether they should vote by ballot. It was for them to decide as to whether they should take it by show of hands or by ballot.

Mr. FREAK further explained that they had delegate meetings of representatives from first and second class shops, and it was never recognised that one class of men working on one class of work should dictate to the whole of the men of London. These men made the best work and had the best statement, and there were others who did not do that class of work, but they paid their 6d. per week, and had equally as much right to be considered as those who worked upon the first or second class shops. (Applause.)

Mr. DUNN rose to a point of order. There were other shops beside the 1st and 2nd class shops represented at the delegate meeting.

Mr. FREAK said there were a few shops other than the 1st and 2nd class represented, viz., the intermediate shops; but no shops only those working above the third class were invited to those meetings. There were a great number of shops which had never been consulted upon the question, and hence the decision to call a mass meeting of the whole of the men of London for that purpose.

Mr. VOTIER rose to ask a question, but considerable interruption here took place, in the course of which a member complained that Mr. Votier had called him "a dog." Continuing, Mr. Votier said he felt that the position was of a somewhat serious character. If the vote was taken by ballot, would every branch be held responsible for the result of that vote? Probably in South London, and it might be in the No. 2 branch, there would be a majority in favour of arbitration, but the London Metro. Branch would probably swamp them. In that case, would those branches who had a majority in favour of arbitration still remain members of the Union?

The CHAIRMAN said that Mr. Votier had only just come off the Council, and he should know far better than he (the Chairman) what weight it would have with the Council (applause).

A MEMBER asked whether Mr. Votier would tell them whether he was now in favour of arbitration or not (laughter)?

The CHAIRMAN said he would not answer that question, nor would he allow anyone else to answer it.

A Question was asked whether, in the event of the vote going against arbitration, the Council would use the prerogative given them by Rule 15, which reads—"It shall be the duty of each branch to assist the Council in forming Boards of Arbitration and Conciliation"—and refuse their support?

The CHAIRMAN said Mr. Inskip would answer that question when he addressed the meeting.

Mr. PAGE asked a question of Mr. Inskip in reference to the Terms of Settlement. On the last occasion when Mr. Inskip was present he told them the question of reductions would not be submitted in either London or Leicester, but in other places they would. Does he still hold that opinion?

Mr. INSKIP said he was not there to be heckled by questions. He was there as a matter of courtesy by invitation of the members. When it suited his purpose to address the meeting, he had no objection to answering any question that might be put.

Mr. PAGE would impress upon Mr. Inskip the necessity of attempting to prove that statement by the Terms of Settlement. What portion of those Terms allowed London and Leicester different terms to other centres?

Cries to "Answer at once" were met by

The CHAIRMAN, who said Mr. Inskip was not there simply to be dictated to, or to answer questions until it pleased himself. In the ordinary course of business, whenever a mass meeting took place, they sent to the Council informing them of the fact. The Joint Committee sent down to Mr. Inskip inviting him to attend that meeting.

A proposition that the vote be now taken was not accepted by the Chairman.

Mr. NEGUS could not see the use of taking the vote by ballot; they had voted upon the same question before, and had been told they had got to have arbitration. If they voted by ballot, and decided against arbitration, they would be told that they had got to accept it, although they had voted against it. He thought they had gone to expense sufficient with the Union money. If they vote by ballot, it would be another expense, and then be told you have got to have it or leave. They should take the vote that night, and if he was in the minority, he was content to abide by the majority.

Mr. MENOTE thought that meeting was called to submit the question for or against. It was said they had got to take their statement to a Board which knew nothing about it. It was said that in Leicester and London there should be no reductions. They were sure to get reductions if they went to that Board. The question he wished to ask was—Were the 1st and 2nd class shops to have these new revised rules or not?

Mr. BRAY supported the resolution. It was passed by the Joint Committee. They sent their local committee to the Joint Committee and they knew the feelings of their members, and voted accordingly; therefore it would be wise to adopt the committees' suggestion. No one had yet said one word in reference to what had been going through London for the last month, and that was the serious part of the question. (Hear, hear). They were desirous that nothing should be done in a hurried manner, and they must not hide the fact that they were in a very serious position, and Mr. Inskip must tell them plainly, and not in any way mislead them, as to the consequences of voting either one way or the other. He hoped they would allow the whole of the men of London to vote, so that it might be said the whole of the men of London decided to secede or not, and not that one branch led into it. It would be better in the interests of all that they should pass the resolution.

Mr. DUNN opposed the resolution. He wanted Mr. Inskip to understand the position. They had a meeting representing 20 odd 1st and 2nd class shops, and they unanimously voted dead against arbitration, and they asked that that meeting should be convened as to whether they would have arbitration for the 1st and 2nd class shops, as they had had it too long, and they thought that meeting was to settle it, and now they had got to wait until a ballot was taken. There was only one thing. They had either got to accept arbitration or secede from the Union. (applause). He had too long suffered under arbitration. They had sent representatives down to Leicester and other places, but the decision arrived at did not represent the men of London. They were the opinions of the members in some of the provincial towns. The men of London did not want arbitration, and although they had paid to the sick fund all these years, he thought they were prepared to forego all that rather than submit to arbitration. (Applause).

Mr. MASON asked if they decided to reject arbitration, and as a consequence they seceded from the Union, would they have to get that endorsed by the country?

The CHAIRMAN said he took it that they were acting purely and simply independent of any other branch in the Union. (Hear, hear). The vote of the country had been taken sufficient times before, and on this occasion would not again be taken.

Mr. O'GRADY said they had got representatives of the Amalgamated Society present, and they now wanted to know their position. Was it possible for them to go against arbitration, and in the event of a majority of the workers who are of the London Metro. and other branches of the National Union determining to secede, would the Amalgamated fight with them as against arbitration, or would they simply fall into line with the bigger body. He was under the impression that the General Secretary on the last occasion did state that the 1st and 2nd class statement shops should be protected. (Applause). He wanted the General Secretary to repeat that statement and give the same answer, and he believed that he (Mr. Inskip) could give it. They wanted the assurance that there should be no reductions upon that statement. The position they had landed themselves in was brought about by allowing men to sit upon the Board who had told them they did not believe in it, and it was not to be supposed that under such circumstances they would use it to the utmost advantage. It was a disgrace alike to the men who believed in arbitration and those who were opposed to it. Bad as the Board might be—and they knew it was bad—it was brought about by the men who had the carrying out of the principle in hand. It was his honest conviction that they could only take that vote by ballot, and that clear explanation should be given both as regards the new and the old unions. There was great responsibility if the men decided to secede, but he was prepared to fall into line if the vote went against the Union. They could only get a full vote of the whole of London by ballot.

Mr. ENDEAN said, in the event of this question going to appeal, he would like to suggest that he (Mr. O'Grady) and his committee dealt with it, and not leave it to the fraudulent Council. (Laughter).

The CHAIRMAN thought that remark was not intended.

Mr. ENDEAN: It was intended.

The CHAIRMAN: I am very sorry. I must ask you to withdraw that.

Mr. ENDEAN withdrew as the Chairman insisted.

Mr. FREAK said the only legitimate way of taking the vote was to carry out the decision of the committee that they take the vote by ballot of the whole of the London branches, and that the votes be aggregated together. If they read carefully the Terms of Settlement they would find that if they accepted arbitration, they were just exactly in the same position as every other branch throughout the United Kingdom. They had had so many rumours, and so many people expressing an opinion, that it was very necessary that an absolute common understanding takes place. He said had arbitration, and he regretted that their own branch did not elect their delegates because he thought they would have done some useful work. He looked upon arbitration as a much better method than strikes. Strikes would not be necessary if men were honest one towards another. The employers tried to encourage such crisis, but when they had to have a strike it should be looked upon as a solemn engagement, and no stone left unturned to prevent it. They had never given arbitration a proper chance, because they sent men there who admitted they had no faith in the system. The statement for the 1st class shops was brought about by a combination of men and masters, which in his opinion was arbitration.

The resolution that the vote be taken by ballot was carried by a large majority.

Mr. INSKIP, who was received with applause, commenced by saying it was very rare in his experience that he had to ask an indulgence, but most of them knew that within that year he had passed through a very serious illness, and he promised his medical adviser that he would not speak in public for 12 months, as he was told that to do so might bring on a recurrence of the illness that had accrued in their service, and what he asked now was that they would not interrupt him; that they should hear what he had to say, and help him to do his duty to them and to those he represented, then he would promise to be honest to them as he had always been. (Hisses). He had never shirked his duty from the moment he took office 20 years ago. (A Voice: Give us the 2s.) He would make the necessary allowances for those who, after his appeal to them on the matter of health, so far forgot themselves as not to be gentlemen. (Applause). With their assistance he accepted an invitation from their Joint Committee to attend that meeting, and he regretted that Mr. McCrear (General Secretary of the Amalgamated Union) was not present. He would have liked him to have stood there and be as outspoken as he (Mr. Inskip) was bound to be that night. He did not want to mislead them, he did not want them to be led away by "clap-trap." He wanted them to look to their own interests, and he appealed to them not to interrupt if he did—as he should do—speak plain truths, although they might be unpalatable. Surely it was not the first time they or he had heard unpalatable truths. He well remembered the struggle in 1879 and 1880, when he was the responsible official to the Union for the 1st and 2nd class statement, and it learnt him such a lesson that he had never forgotten. He found men then who were prepared to sacrifice everything—"Keep to the point"—for their principle and their statement, and there were men amongst them who taught him what trade unionism was, and he was proud to be associated with such men, but events rapidly followed each other, and he asked them to try and follow him from that time. He was one of them, and he had never yet shirked an invitation when it had been, as that night, that he had to occupy an invidious position, and he asked them to kindly assist him, and hear what he had to say. Arbitration ! it meant arbitration versus strikes. He would ask them from that time—and he had old friends, but very young friends at that time—what had they gained by strikes? From the experience he had gained from that time in Arbitration v. Strikes—he was going to be frank with them—he would tell them what they had done by strikes in London especially. In isolated cases he admitted they had succeeded, but take the questions generally, and what had they done by strikes? In nearly every instance they had ignominiously failed. (Interruption.) But with Arbitration they had succeeded repeatedly in obtaining cases for the men, and whilst in this connection he was thoroughly in accord with Mr. O'Grady and Mr. Freak. Arbitration, as in existence in other centres, had never been properly worked in London, because they had sent men to represent them on the Arbitration Board who had been opposed to arbitration. How then could it be possible to expect that they should do their duty, and do their best to get the most out of arbitration. Leaving their own trade for a moment, he would ask them to remember the great Coal Strike. (Interruption, and cries of "Keep to your own trade.") They would have quite enough of their own trade before he had done. It was a question with them of arbitration or no arbitration, and when they took the vote by ballot they had to decide one of two things. These workmen, after a 19 weeks' strike, with all the funds at their disposal, had to come to arbitration, and after their own strike they had to come to arbitration. (Interruption.) He said there, and he defied contradiction, that they themselves were compelled to negotiate, which meant arbitration—(hear, hear)—in the interests of the members.

Considerable interruption here took place, during which the Chairman and Mr. Freak appealed to the meeting to give the General Secretary a fair chance.

Mr. INSKIP added that he was there upon their invitation to address the meeting, but if they did not want him there and could not swallow unpalatable truths, why did they send for him to be there? He had no desire to come. Continuing the subject before the meeting, he said, coming back to their own trade, take Northampton, which had been a big eyecore to London, and the principle cause was because a firm removed to Northampton, and men who advised them not to accept the reduced prices, were compensated for the loss of their seat of work, and the first thing they did was to go down to Northampton and accepted the very seats of work which they advised the London men not to accept. (Hear, hear, quite true.)

Further interruption here took place, during which Mr. Abbott said the General Secretary was referring to him.

The CHAIRMAN stated that what the General Secretary had said was quite true, but it did not apply to Mr. Abbott.

Mr. INSKIP again appealed to the meeting, saying these continual interruptions would serve no good purpose. He did not say it applied to Mr. Abbott. He said it applied to men who had advised the members not to take these seats of work, but had gone straight-away themselves and accepted them, leaving the men of London to starve. That was what he stated, and that was what he meant. (Applause.)

They had never been satisfied with the Terms of Settlement. He told them once that he was not satisfied with them himself, but he did say that they were the best interpreted by them (the Council) that they could possibly obtain under the circumstances. They had now some data to work upon. The employers interpreted one way, and he was sorry to say too many of their members accepted the employers' interpretation instead of the Council's. They had on those Terms of Settlement been to Sir Courtenay Boyle on seven different questions of interpretation, and in every instance Sir Courtenay Boyle's decision had been in favour of the workman's representatives' interpretation of the Terms of Settlement. Therefore, he thought they ought to give some credit at least to those who, anxious as they were, occupied the position, and were responsible to you for those Terms of Settlement. With regard to the new rules, he made the following statement publicly. Those rules were drafted in accordance with the Terms of Settlement with a view to uniformity of conditions wherever the Federation and the Union held sway, but it did not follow, and it did not follow that day, that those rules were to be accepted in their entirety. The local condition, such for instance as their local conditions in reference to the 1st and 2nd class shops, were to be considered, and they had a perfect right to go to the Board and demand that their local conditions should be upheld. In accordance with the ruling of the Terms of Settlement they had a right to go there and make provision to meet exigent circumstances, and let him say there that it was a necessary and most potent question that was put. He said emphatically, that when they met the employers before Sir Courtenay Boyle in April, 1895, the question was put by him, what was their position, are we to discuss or make provision for a reduction of wages? The answer came, no, and on the other hand, the question was put by Mr. Ward, nor are we to consider an advance of wages, and we said no. Those were the answers to the two questions. Mr. Votier knows, he was present. That was the answer to that question as to reductions not applying to London, and he was bound to give Mr. Votier credit that he did stand up for the existing statement in London as also did others, and he fought strenuously that all existing agreements should be considered as binding and not be altered, and Rule 9 reads "That if any provision of this agreement or of any award, agreement or decision be broken by any manufacturer or body of workmen, belonging to the Federation or the National Union, and the Federation or the National Union fail within ten days either to induce such members to comply with the agreement, decision, or award, or to expel them from their organisation, the Federation or the National Union shall be deemed to have broken the agreement, award, or decision." That was a full answer to Mr. Page's question, and let him tell Mr. Page that the words he quoted were not uttered by him (the speaker). What he said and what he insisted upon, was that they had no right to discuss a reduction of wages, and as for London and Leicester being exempt, there were other places besides London and Leicester whose interests had a right to be considered equally with those branches.

Mr. PAGE, interrupting: You told us a lie. I beg to state he misrepresents what he said.

Mr. INSKIP, continuing, said Mr. Page should know better than himself. There never was a question of exempting any particular branch. Why should London be exempt. He was there to tell them the truth. Take London, it was not so mixing a matter. If they passed a resolution by ballot that they would not accept arbitration, then—he now spoke to the members of the National Union—they could no longer be members of the National Union. (Applause. "We'll have another one.") They had entered into engagements with the Employers' Federation, they were not financially in a position to break those engagements—(interruption)—and he was only voicing their Council when he said, nor did they wish to break those engagements; but when members belong their Union, the rules provided that they must abide by those rules. His friend quoted the rule correctly when he told them it was part of their duty to do their best to settle their disputes by arbitration—"No"—and what was more, and he thought he had a right to say this, not in any sense of boasting, when he had stood upon their platforms they had twitted him openly and said they dare not fight, but when the employers issued their seven commandments, which included that they should employ whom they liked, that there should be no interference with the output, and that they should pay what wages they liked ("They do that"), the Council showed them that they were prepared to fight, and did fight until they had expended their £60,000, and the greatest trouble they had was from the men of London themselves, when they (the Council) wanted to continue the fight. (Interruption.) He wanted to ask them what they had to gain by refusing arbitration? (Cries of "What do we get by it?" "We shall lose nothing," &c.) If they did they would bring upon themselves what he stated. ("We shall," and "We can do without you.") It was not a question of individuals; it was a question of principle, and the principle would last longer than his friend or himself either.

Disorder here took place for several minutes, the speaker being unable to obtain a hearing.

The CHAIRMAN: Are you prepared to listen to Mr. Inskip or not? (Cries of "No.") Then I will put it to the vote as to whether Mr. Inskip shall continue or not.—The vote was nearly unanimous in favour of Mr. Inskip proceeding. The Chairman appealed to the meeting to give order and let Mr. Inskip finish.

Mr. INSKIP, continuing, repeated the question—What had the members of the National Union to gain by leaving the Union, and leaving arbitration. He had gone carefully through the statistics for the last four years. (Further interruption was here created, during which Mr. Inskip met one member, who had been particularly obstructive, with a challenge that if he wanted the platform let him come and take possession; if not, then let him (the speaker) proceed.)—He had gone carefully through the statistics for the last four years for the whole of London—he was now speaking to the members of the National Union, and he desired that to be clearly understood—and he found in balancing the income and expenditure, apart from any management expenses whatever, apart from the cost of working the Union, that during that period London had received £2,451 3s. od. more than what they had paid in to the Union. ("Oh!") Their Union was only a commercial transaction, and the money had to be paid in before it could be paid out, and he asked them to well weigh those figures and consider that with arbitration they had received that amount more than they had paid in. What, then, would they do without arbitration? If they had to fight where was the money to come from? These were questions which they ought to consider after their own experience, because they did not want, he did not want, and those responsible at his back did not want, that they should be led astray and find themselves in a fool's paradise, and that they should be left without work after a bitter struggle, and have to do the same as others had done—follow the work. He should very much prefer it to remain in London at a better average wage than would be given if they had to follow it. He closed his remarks by urging upon them to think well what they were doing, and if they decided to leave the Union, or rather those who decided to leave, could do so (interruption), but those who wished to remain with the Union would do so, and they (the Council) would be prepared, even though there were only half-a-dozen, to protect their interests, and they would still have their offices in London as they had them then, and those who were inclined to secession, for that was what was meant (hear, hear), he would ask them whether they were carrying out the principle of federation? Personally, there should be no two unions represented upon that platform: there should be but one Union if he could rule, and all those who voted for the federation of trades, how could they reconcile the desire to split up their own organisation? He hoped they would close up their ranks and not dis-unite, but if they did there was every reason to believe that when they had had a bitter struggle they would be glad again to re-unite, but he hoped that would not be in his day.

Mr. FREAK asked the question whether the £2,541 3s., which they had received above the income in four years was exclusive of the Lock-out pay.

Mr. INSKIP was rather surprised at Mr. Freak asking that question (Oh, oh). Did they receive it? (No). They (the Council) paid it.

Mr. FREAK said he was desirous of standing by the General Secretary and the Union, but when a man got up and said after that long Lock-out that they had had £2,541 more than they paid in, he did not doubt it. £60,000 went somewhere, and somebody had some of that. (Applause).

Questions were then invited, and the following were asked—

“Do all previous decisions have to be abided by?”

Mr. INSKIP thought he stated as clear as possible that all agreements entered into were binding.

“Is it not a fact that the four years prior to accepting arbitration we paid more into the Union than we received out?”

Mr. INSKIP was at a loss to know which four years were meant. He remembered in '97 and '80, call it what they would, it was arbitration, and to ask him whether for the four years prior to that they paid in more than they received out was one which he would give up.

“Whether they were going to adhere to the first and second class shops under the old conditions?”

Mr. INSKIP thought he had been sufficiently clear upon that point to the effect that they had entered into agreements with the Employers' Federation that arbitration should prevail in all centres affected by the Federation and the Union, and that agreement the Union were going to maintain.

“Where did Mr. Inskip get his information from that London was more dissatisfied than other branches?”

Answer: “From Mother Hart or the man in the street.” (Laughter and applause.)

Mr. PAGE asked Mr. Inskip to enumerate some of the advantages they had received under arbitration.

Mr. INSKIP said that he should give a numerical answer to Mr. Page's pointed question was not to be supposed, but he would mention the Indoor Workshops and Minimum Wage. (Interruption). Those at least were some of the things they had gained, but if the men themselves had not loyally abided by them it was not the fault of those who obtained them.

Mr. CHAPMAN (Amalgamated Union) said their members had not occupied much of the time of the meeting, and he hoped they would give him the opportunity of saying a few words.

Mr. FREAK moved a vote of thanks to the chairman, but

Mr. CHAPMAN, continuing, said gentlemen on the platform wanted to know what their (the Amalgamated Union's) position was. Well then, let him tell Mr. O'Grady the same as he (the speaker) told him at the joint committee meeting when he asked the same question, that if they, the men of London who belonged to the National Union said that they would not have arbitration, he felt certain that those he had the honor of representing would be with them heart and soul. Why did they accept arbitration? Because they could not help themselves. (True.) Their rules stated that every facility should be given for arbitration, but what brought arbitration into the East End of London? He thought they would admit that the National Union, through their Council, had somewhat to do with the men receiving arbitration into the East End of London. (Hear, hear.) They had to accept what the members of the National Union determined, and they were prepared, at the present moment, to go hand in hand with them for arbitration. Their Council had accepted arbitration because they had no alternative, but their Council had not accepted the last Terms of Settlement passed in April, 1895. They were only a handful of people compared with the National Union, who were able to swamp them altogether. Let them not think for a moment that he was speaking against arbitration. He thought arbitration, properly conducted, was the best thing they could have; but the employers were not honest in their arbitration. He had been to the Board, especially in the last few months, when there has only been one or two employers present, scarcely sufficient to carry on the business, and if it was continued they would have to withdraw from the Board, and conduct their business on different lines. He would advise them, by all possible means, to stick to their Union, and he trusted, in concluding, that they would do their utmost to hold to the valuable statements of London.

Mr. BROWN moved a vote of thanks to the Chairman, and in doing so stated that he did not think any complaint could be made against the anti-arbitrators who had sat upon the Board. They had been sent their by the members and conscientiously did their duty to those members, if any complaint was to be made he contended that Mr. Freak should have made it through the medium of the branch report in the monthly report issued by the Union. Mr. Inskip asked what had they to lose by arbitration, they had nothing to gain, but they had everything it was possible to lose. Mr. Inskip had stated that the men were prepared to sacrifice everything for their statement when it was first formed, and he thought they would find that the men of the present day were prepared to sacrifice equally as much as they were at that time. It was unfair and unjust to lay the blame on the shoulders of the anti-arbitrationists who sat upon the Board.

Mr. PAGE seconded the vote of thanks, and endorsed what Mr. Brown had said in reference to the anti-arbitrationists sitting upon the Board being blamed for the present state of things. Mr. Freak had been prominent upon the Board for a number of years—what had he been doing? What had been done by arbitration? Take the minimum wage. What was the decision?—that there shall be no minimum wage. They did not want arbitration.

The vote of thanks to the Chairman was carried, and the meeting terminated.

"We can toil for a purpose and cling unto life,
 Thro' its storm and its turmoil, temptations and strife,
 While the purpose is high and the motive is pure,
 Few indeed are the trials we cannot endure.
 But go put your curb on another's free will Keep us back from our aim, yoke our souls in your mill,
 Make our poverty something too bitter to bear
 Ye will see then how much a high purpose will dare.
 We can sleep upon straw on the cold garret floor,
 We can toil on the crusts Dives cast from the door,
 We can shiver half clad by the unlighted hearth,
 Tho' we quail at the sound of the Northern winds mirth.

We can bear it and smile if the heart food is there
 To urge on the free spirit to do and to dare;
 Aye! can laugh at privation, and hunger, and cold,
 And through scorn, though in rags, be strong-hearted and bold,
 For we know that the wealth of Peru cannot buy
 Our ambitious proud hope, or a home in the sky;
 And each slight that we feel, and each sneer that we meet
 Adds fresh fire to our hearts, and gives wings to our feet;
 Every force that opposed, when o'ercome makes us strong.
 Gives us courage to battle with famine and wrong;
 But dare bar up the path to our purpose, and see
 If the poor in their might are not stronger than ye!"

NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

NOVEMBER 25TH, 1896

FELLOW MEMBERS,

We are pleased to state that there is nothing startling to report, either in the state of trade or the number of disputes that have occurred during the past month, though true it is that disputes have occurred

AT LEEDS AND OTHER PLACES.

At Leeds, several employers have been putting some men on day-work and some on piece-work, by hand, in the same department, and when the branch appealed to us as to what course of action they were to take in the matter, they were advised by us to see the employers, and request them to change the system, and either to employ the men all on day-work or all on piece-work, failing settlement, they were then to bring the matter before the Board.

The latter steps were taken, and the chairman gave in his decision that such was allowable by the Terms of Settlement. On an appeal to the President of the Federation (Mr. Ald. Lennard) he, after consulting his Executive, decided that that was their interpretation of resolutions 1 and 5 of the Terms of Settlement. A long and friendly interview took place between Mr. Ald. Lennard and the General Secretary, and after matters had been discussed pro. and con., and neither side offering to give way, it was decided to appeal to Sir Courtenay Boyle for his decision thereon, the contention of the employers being that he expressly stated when appealed to that the paragraph prohibiting the double system, applied only to machinery ; but it was pointed out on our part that he was never asked to deal with the hand question, but simply the question of machinery, and he did not decide on anything else, and the employers claim the right to adopt it in every other department than that one ; his decision, of course, remains to be seen. In the meantime, Mr. Lennard kindly promised to write to Leeds, and ask them to revert back to the system we have always insisted upon when the matter has been brought under our notice, until such time Sir Courtenay Boyle's decision is made known.

Another matter that came from Leeds was the question of Boy Labour—some employers having two departments or two rooms—one room with no boys, and the other with too many boys, and they claim the right to count boys in both rooms' and put them all in one room.

We took exception to this, as we did not think it equitable, nor ever intended when the boy labour restriction came into operation, and whilst giving the Chairman of the Leeds Board every credit for impartiality, we cannot help but think he would be well advised if he would endeavour to persuade those who adopt this, to work on similar lines to those in operation on his own firm.

BELFAST

once more reports a dispute on at George's, and the frequent recurrence of disputes in Belfast makes the liabilities of the Union very heavy, and whilst we are willing to give every assistance to them, we are sorry we should have to be at the expense of sending the President over there again, seeing that he was there such a short time ago. We advised them to make every effort locally to settle the dispute which they appear now to have done, but without success, and, as intimated above, the matter has been placed in the hands of the President to deal with immediately.

NORWICH

have reported, from time to time, a dispute at Howling Bros., which necessitated the withdrawal of the men, and they having now been out some weeks, and there still being no settlement, it has been thought advisable, from information we have to hand, to make an effort to bring the matter to a close, which has been done by placing the matter in the hands of Mr. Hornidge.

In accordance with the resolutions passed at the Annual Trades Congress a deputation was arranged by the Parliamentary Committee to wait upon the President of the Board of Trade, the Home Secretary, and such other ministers as were in town, whose department were affected by the resolutions printed.

As was anticipated by the Committee, very little progress was made, and a feeling was expressed by some that, with such little results accruing from the deputation, the expense of calling delegates up might have been avoided, and the matter left in the hands of the Parliamentary Committee ; but those who expressed that view seemed to lose sight of the fact that it gives the members a personal idea of what they have to expect from the present Government, and ought to make the workers urge their rights, and act more united in the various centres, at election times, and get a Government in which will be more in consonance with the desires of the Trades' Union Congress. Besides this, it has an undoubted effect upon ministers when there is a large deputation to what it does if there be only a small one present.

The matter, however, is not done with yet, for at a subsequent meeting of the Parliamentary Committee it was decided to take the matter still further, and ask not only labour members of the House to assist them by resolutions, but also to ask others whom we know are in sympathy with the object of the Trades' Congress, to use all the forms of the House, and when we have induced them to adopt these tactics, to so trouble the Government, that they will probably be glad before their time is expired, to put something on the Statute Book which we can look to with pride and satisfaction.

Messrs. Hornidge (President) and Green (London) represented the Union. Messrs. Sweeney and Wescoe were present on behalf of the Leeds Branch, Mr. Ward on behalf of the Manchester Branch and the General Secretary acted in his capacity as a member of the Parliamentary Committee.

At the request of the Manchester Branch the General Secretary visited there and Waterfoot, a rising place some 22 miles outside of Manchester, for the purpose of organising. At Waterfoot they have a local union, with some 300 lasters—they only admitting lasters—but altogether there are from 1000 to 1500 operatives working at the trade, and we felt an effort should be made to try and induce them to join our Union. The result gives us every satisfaction, and we have no doubt that ere long we shall have a most prosperous branch in Waterfoot, they having already over £200 in the local funds. We also believe Manchester will benefit considerably by the meeting, as they have already enroled a large number of new members.

At the request of the Southampton Trades Council, Mr. W. B. Hornidge went down there, and after a number of interviews and meetings with the men, they agreed to join the Union, so a Branch has been formed, and books etc., have been sent to them.

We have not lost sight of the necessity of pushing forward our organisation, and in a week's time we have a large organising meeting in Leeds, and as soon as the new year is in we would advise branches to go forward with the organisation of their districts, and if any assistance is required from the Council, it will, where practicable be given.

We beg again to urge upon those branch secretaries whose branches appear early in the alphabet—such as Aberdeen, Arbroath, Bristol, etc.—the necessity of sending their registry sheets in by the 1st December, and so enable us to make an effort to get it out without any inconvenience to the branches, the printers, or ourselves. Attention to this will be esteemed a special favour.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Branch Secretaries are particularly requested to send their returns and cash in not later than the 10th December, as Christmas falling on the 25th necessitates the report being published a day or two prior to that date, so that they may be of some service to the branches prior to Christmas.

Secretaries will also please note that their returns for December must be made out for five weeks. This has caused some discussion, as it makes five 5-week months in the year instead of four; but you may rest assured that this is in consequence of leap year, and will bring itself right in the ordinary course, as has been the case previously.

We remain,

Yours respectfully,

THE COUNCIL,

W. B. HORNIDGE, Gen. President.

FRANK SHEPPARD, Bristol.

ALEX SMITH, Arbroath.

DANIEL STANTON, Northampton.

W. H. LOWE, Treasurer.

GEO. E. GREEN, London

ROBERT MOORE, Leicester.

WM. INSKIP, General Secretary.

BRANCH REPORTS.

BRISTOL No. 2.—With our returns this month, in stating the condition of trade, we think that “moderate” would be a correct expression, at the same time a few firms are busy. In a general way trade is better for the time of year than has been known for the past few years. In reference to disputes recently we have had but few, one case that we have had under consideration being enough, for a more glaring case of the infringement of the award in reference to the employment of boys could not possibly be known. If such a case as this was general no adult rough stuff cutter would be required. The Arbitration Board has the case before them, the employer being a member of the Federation. We trust that the Board will see that the award is carried out in its entirety.

BARNESLEY.—We are pleased to state that here and at Sheffield trade is very good, and hope that it will continue to keep so. We are very much obliged to the Council for promising to send the General President here for the purpose of organising those working at the shoe trade, who are not at present in the Union. We shall invite everyone to attend, and hope that it will be the means of a good many joining us, and becoming respected members of their trade. We are sorry to state that very little interest has been taken in the work of the Union by many who have to work at their trade for their living and that of their families, they being at the mercy or dictation of their employers at every step, and they would have nothing to stand back upon ; but we hope that, after the meeting, this will be altered.

BELFAST.—In addressing you this month we are pleased to state that trade is very fair for lasters on strong work, but not so for finishers, as they are not working full time, and would advise finishers looking for employment to keep away from here at the present time. We thank the Council for endorsing the claim of £1 compensation in the case of D. Hutchinson, who was dismissed for not accepting a set-pay job under the minimum wage. We have also organised the Lisburn section of our Branch once more, and hope that the men will see their way to remain members of the Union, and not pay in for a few weeks and then drop off. They now know the wants of Trade Unionism amongst them, when men are taking set-pay jobs at machines as low as 1.4s. If they had been in the trade their condition, no doubt, would have been much better. We have a dispute in one of our foremost firms over the introduction of a new class of goods, known here as the “Jumbo” boot. It is a kip Derby, with a row of fitters round forepart, filled a clump set inside of the fitters, the clumps sleeked, and three rows of sparables up the centre, diamonded with brass in shank and clump ; heel, one row of fitter round, also a fitter set in and felled. The price this firm offers is 1s. 2½d. per pair, which the men refuse to accept. Some of our members have already been dismissed because they would not make them at the price. We would advise members to keep away during the present time.

BRAMLEY.—Trade here is good. We held an organising meeting on the 9th of November, with what result remains to be seen. A discussion took place at our monthly meeting with regard to a permanent organiser, to be paid by the Union, each one favouring the idea. Our last arbitration meeting was held on October 7, with similar result to the one held on September 25.

CORK.—Trade is very fair in this district at present, and we hope it will continue so until Christmas. In our last report we mentioned that the pegging machine in Waterford was to be returned ; it has been, and we are informed that it has been put up in a factory at Bristol, but if it works on the same principle at Bristol as in Waterford our members need not fear the result. Dwyers and Co., of Cork, got a similar machine a few weeks since from this company, and the principle they work it on is most amusing. The boot is first screwed by the Standard Screw Machine, and then it is pegged by this. Very profitable work when they calculate the screwing of a dozen of boots costs 2s., and we suppose the pegging of them by this machine costs 2s. more, they can get them pegged by hand for 3s. per dozen, saving 1s. by using hand labour. Surely this is not progress. In Killarney, Mr. C. Magher is not taking very kindly to our Union, for when he became aware that his men had joined us he got outrageous at what he termed their odious presumption in claiming the right to have a voice in arranging the prices for their work. So he began by dismissing the shop's president, whom he charged with the unpardonable crime of inducing his men to become members of an English Trades Union, whom he alleged were well paid by English manufacturers to crush out every Irish industry. He went futher, and threatened every man in his employment with instant dismissal if they did not give up the Union, but he reckoned without his host, for he had us to contend with, and to his great surprise he was told by every man that they intended to stick to the Union at any sacrifice, as they considered it their only safeguard against such men as him, and as a protest against his unwarrantable conduct to those who had left his employment, and are now working in Cork. Seeing their determination he reconsidered his position, and then freely consented to acknowledge our Union, and further, promised us not to carry his opposition further. We take this opportunity of returning our sincere thanks to those brave men for the manly way they stood together on this very trying occasion, and we compensated Tom Child, the shop's president, for the loss of his work, by granting him £1, which we trust the Council will justify our action by confirming the grant.

COLCHESTER.—In sending our report this month we are sorry to state there is a change in the district owing to the coming slack season. Several of our members think of moving to other branches, We have been in correspondence with several branches, and we find in one instance that no less than nine members of our branch have been tried for accommodating, and we don't forget to make it known amongst the men who are likely to move from this town. We hope all shopmates throughout the country will keep their eyes open to any one that comes from Colchester, and give a description to the secretary, and he will furnish them with full particulars, as we know we have some in our midst who are prepared to do any dirty action in other towns to overthrow our Union. We ask the shopmates in Norwich, Ipswich, Croydon, and London to keep their eyes upon these, and hope they will bring them to justice for the grievance they had done to other fellow-workers, who are fighting for their daily bread for their wives and children, and through such men as these they have been forced to leave the town and tramp the country. This is the only way to cause such men that will do such mean actions to come to their shopmates and say I will pay my fine, and am willing to become a member amongst you if you will have me.

CHESTERFIELD.—In submitting to you our report we are still able to state that trade continues to be good. We are also able to state we have every man (engaged in the boot industry at Chesterfield) in our Union. At home our Organising Committee met with every success, and we then turned our labours to the adjacent villages, but without any success. Our firm opinion is that they will never join to show how they appreciate Trade Unionism at Eyam, and our delegate asked one of the natives if he was getting 22s. per week what would he do if the master offered to give him 21s? His reply was I should take it, and another of the shining lights of the same place seen one of our balance-sheets, and wanted to know how it was for one man to get 30s. for a quarter's work, and another man only 3s. 3d. The 30s. is the secretary's salary, and the other a commission to one of the shop presidents. In fact, the delegates state they have never seen a more ignorant lot of men in their travels, and went on to say they would not go again if given £1 each to go with. The same remarks apply to Stoney Middleton. The day we had decided to go, having previously posted the village calling a meeting, when, on the arrival of our delegates, only five men could be found in the village, the others had either gone to bed to be out of the road, or gone elsewhere. We got two to join here. We went the following week, with the same result. Our annual takes place on December 5th, when we shall have the General President with us.

DERBY.—We are sorry to have to bear testimony to a continued slackness of trade, the men only working a few hours per week. This kind of affairs has been going on for some time, and there does not seem any signs of improvement at present. We have had one or two disputes of a small nature, but they have been settled to the interests of the men.

EDINBURGH.—Trade still continues good, and has every prospect of remaining so up to the New Year. We would again urge every member to take advantage of the good trade by clearing off their arrears, and thereby be prepared in the event of a slackness taking place. Our sick list has been, unfortunately, very heavy this two months past, but all are, fortunately, in a fair way towards recovery. Owing to a change in the secretaryship, members on travel will please note that relief will be paid at Boye's factory, Gorgie, during the following hours only, viz., 8 to 9 a.m. and 1 to 2 p.m.; also at the Secretary's address from 6.30 p.m. to 10 p.m.

GLASGOW No. 2.—In addressing you we are pleased to state that trade is somewhat improving, more especially at the Co-operative Stores, Shieldhall, the Traders' Association, no doubt, being the cause. As announced in a previous report this branch held their Fourth Annual Festival on Friday evening, November 5th (Guy Fawke's day). Mr. Albert Johnson, head manager at the Co-operative Stores boot and shoe department, being in the chair, gave a short and telling speech in favour of co-operation and trade unionism. He was supported on the platform by Messrs. T. Green, S. Gallary, Meikleham, and Alexander, manufacturers; on the workers side were Mr. W. H. Lowe, Union Treasurer and secretary of Leicester No. 2, Messrs. James Mayhole and J. Burden, Glasgow No. 1. Mr. Lowe, in his remarks, touched upon the females of the boot and shoe department, especially the fitters and machinists, being the weak spot, and the most likely place where the employer would take advantage, and urged upon them strongly to become members of our Union. The concert being of a considerable length was got through most admirably, the usual dance following. During Mr. Lowe's stay in the City he interviewed several employers anent to the minimum wage question for clickers and pressmen employed in the City factories, which has not been obtained yet, but has been paid at Shieldhall since April last.

HECKMONDWIKE.—There has been a slight change during the past month as regards the finishers, who have again had to go on short time from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and we should like all those on travel to give this place a wide berth for the present. As to benchmen there seems to be no lack of work, as they are still running overtime, and are likely to be for some time to come.

HIGHAM AND RUSHDEN.—In sending our returns we are glad to state a slight improvement of trade on a few firms, but several others are not making much more than half time. We have had several disputes requiring our attention during the month, and these have chiefly been caused through employers attempting to evade the statement, and employing an excessive number of boys; but we are pleased to state that in all cases an amicable settlement has been made, and we also wish to remark that if the workers desire to maintain their position, and the advantages that have been gained for them, they must be more united, and stand shoulder to shoulder as men. We ask our members to try and get their non-union shopmates to join in with us. If each member was to make another this would be the best system of organising, and the most effectual way of protecting their interests. It is quite time the workers of this district looked to their laurels, and strive for better wages and conditions, as the cost of living is on the up-grade, and they should therefore see that their wages do not revert to the down-grade. Let them consider what a state of things it would be without a trade organisation, and with the unscrupulous competition of to-day. We should soon see cheap labour introduced into every department of our trade. All confusion and disorder, and the conditions would be such that no employer could be honest to his workpeople, as only the most unscrupulous would obtain the orders, and with no material benefit to the employers, and a far worse state of things for the workers. Any right thinking man viewing trade unionism from this point alone must see the necessity of combination amongst working men, and it is our experience that where firms are well organised there the best conditions prevail.

HINCKLEY.—In submitting our report we are sorry to state that trade has not improved with us during the month, and this has caused so many of our members being out of employment, a number of others making but very short time, some not earning more than six or eight shillings a week for some considerable time. It is surprising how they exist, considering most of them have small families. We trust trade may so improve as to better their condition during the winter, but of this we have but little confidence. Disputes have been frequent, but most settled with little expense. Our sick list has also been heavy during the month.

IPSWICH.—In sending our report we are sorry to state that trade is very bad, but hope that all will try and keep themselves in benefit, so that if anything should happen they will be able to receive all their rights. We held our annual soiree on October 30, Councillor W. Grayston in the chair, and Mr. Lyons in the vice-chair, when over 100 sat down to a good spread provided by Host W. Price, in his good old style. Mr. W. Hornidge, our General President, attended from the Council, who gave a splendid address, and we hope it will take a good effect. We thank the Council for sending him.

KILMARNOCK.—Trade continues fair with us in our home department, our members being fully employed, but those on travel should bear in mind that there is little chance of a start for them. Our local Co-operative factory is progressing slowly, and we are proud to say every man is a member of our Union. We are also glad to say that our sick list is much lighter now, most of them having recovered and started to work, but we regret to have to chronicle the case of one our oldest and best member—Robert McMillan—who has been laid up for nearly four months, he having almost lost his sight. He has undergone an operation, but the result seems doubtful as to his complete recovery for a long time, if ever. We make special mention of this member as he was well known to many members of the Union throughout the country, and who will, I am sure, be sorry to hear of his serious state.

KENDAL.—We are again pleased to report that trade generally remains very good with us, a state of things we hope may continue. Members on travel will please note that henceforth no travelling assistance will be paid in Preston.

LEICESTER No. 2.—Trade is still very bad, although there are signs of a slight improvement where firms are on next year's goods. We are sorry to have to complain of continual trouble on some of the nursery firms, especially Neal and Wright's and J. W. Pendleton's, both firms endeavouring to carry on their businesses with boy and youth labour (not being satisfied with the extra allowance of boy labour awarded them, Neal and Wright's even exceeded that), which means that by working on those lines these youths soon become 20, and when they require the proper wage are discharged, and told to go to those employers who can better afford to pay them. This, we contend, is an evasion of the minimum wage awarded, and involves us in continual compensation and annoyance. There only seems one way to check this, viz., to press for the establishment of a minimum wage for those between 18 and 20, and dispense with the desire for this youthful labour and the big advances which occur at times. If these young persons would study their interests a little earlier than is usually the case they would endeavour to work for those firms who, having had the advantage of their youth, are willing to pay the recognised wage when they are entitled to it.

LEEDS.—In submitting our report we are pleased to state that trade is very busy, and that rivetters are not plentiful, as a number of the employers are advertising, with practically very little result; but we regret to say that so far as finishers are concerned there is little prospect of them obtaining work here. This we think is accounted for by the introduction of finishing machines. We regret the disastrous fire at Mr. Wright Sanderson's, of Armley, which will be the means of placing the employees to look for employment elsewhere, and we trust that all of them will be successful. We are pleased that the Council have granted £10 for organising purposes, and we shall endeavour to see that those who are not yet members of the Union shall have the opportunity of joining, believing that it will be to their interests to become members, and thus be enabled to receive Union benefits in the hour of need. We would urge upon all the Jewish workers to see that they obtain the Union rate of wages, and any workman being found returning part of his earnings back again to the employer in the future will have to appear before the Branch Committee, who will see that the rules of the Union are not to be tampered with, but strictly carried into effect.

LEEDS No. 2.—Trade here is good at present, all shops working full time. We are pleased to say that all members in our branch are in employment. The Leeds Industrial Co-operative Society have opened their new boot factory, which we hope will prove a success.

LONDON METRO.—Trade is about the same as last month. Our Board of Arbitration has re-commenced its sittings, and we hope will be successful in doing some good. The following is a brief account of what has been done:—

Fourteenth Meeting of the Committee of Enquiry, November 2nd, 1896. Present, on behalf of workmen, Messrs. Freak and Chapman. Mr. G. Barnes alone represented the employers, and there was no apology for the absence of his colleague, but one has since been received. The following questions were dealt with:—1. Sample of box calf shoe submitted from Messrs. Hartley and Barnes. Men claim C price, employer offering $\frac{1}{2}$ d. over D price. Mr. Barnes said he thought E price was enough. This elicited a smart retort from Mr. Chapman. Mr. Freak asked that it be sent to the full Board. Mr. Barnes replied that nothing could be done with the question of box calf until we receive the decision of the Arbitrators in respect to the question of box calf on 1st and 2nd class statement houses. 2. A sample shoe, with corrugated buttons, was submitted from Messrs. B. E. Lee and Son, for Board to fix extra. The claim of the men was read, which is as follows:—"That when the ribs have a space between, or a continuation on joint only, $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per rib be paid. When the waist is a continuation of ribs 10d. per pair be paid; when the forepart is a continuation of ribs 1s. 2d. per pair be paid; when a continuation of ribs all through, from heel to toe, 2s. per pair be paid." This question was referred to full Board. 3. Woman's levant, turned in quarter over shoe, from Mr. Austin's to be classed. Mr. Barnes proposed that they be paid in D if morocco. Mr. Freak claimed B. This was referred to the full Board. 4. Question of cased heel, patent Oxford shoe. Referred to full Board. Mr. Freak suggested that the trade press reporters be requested to attend the next full Board. It was resolved that the Board be called for Monday next, 9th inst.

Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, Seventh Meeting, November 9, 1826. Present, on behalf of employers, Messrs. Lilley, Gorbald, Kaufman, Barnes, and Clark. Present, on behalf of workmen, Messrs. Freak, Solomon, O'Grady, Tappin, Standeven, Chapman, and Lewis. Apology for non-attendance was read from Mr. J. Weber. It was moved by Messrs. Freak and Barnes, and carried, that Mr. Lilley be chairman; by Messrs. Lilley and Chapman, that Mr. Freak be vice-chairman. It was moved by Messrs. Freak and O'Grady that the representatives of the two 'Trades' Journal be invited to attend, and report the proceedings of the Board, urging that every advantage was to be gained by making the proceedings public. This being put to the vote the whole of the employers voted against it and the whole of the workmen for it. This question will be raised by the workmen's side again. Minutes of the previous meeting were read. Minutes of the Committee of Enquiry were also read. The following are the new Committee of Enquiry :—Employers: G. Barnes and T. Clark; workmen: C. Freak and W. Chapman. G. Sampson was granted a permit to work at home. On the question of appointing Arbitrators, it was distinctly agreed that it must be a London workman and a London manufacturer. Mr. G. Thorn was re-elected as representing the workmen. The following question of classification were then dealt with:—1. Brown calf, raw vamp, run and turned quarter, Oxford shoe, with toe cap. Offered in E, claimed in C, classed in D, for Mr. H. Fursse. 2. A glove hide Oxford shoe offered in F, claimed in E, from Messrs. Quelch and Son, was referred to the Arbitrators. 3. American cloth patent vamp shoe. Letter from employer, Mr. Unger, was read, explaining dispute. Referred back. 4. Woman's calf one bar cycling shoe, from Messrs. B. E. Lee and Son. Letter from Mr. Freak read. Referred back. 5. Woman's levant quarter over shoe, from Mr. Austin's. Claimed at 7½d. lasting, and 8d. finishing. Classed in D. 6. Woman's box calf shoe from Messrs. Hartley and Barnes. Offered in D, claimed in C. Referred to Arbitrators for adjudication. In the meantime the temporary wage to be between D and C. Meeting adjourned until Monday next, 16th inst., at 3 o'clock.

Board of Arbitration and Conciliation, Eighth Meeting, November 16, 1896, at 3 p.m. Present: Employers, Messrs. Lilley, Gorbald, Kaufman, and Clark; workmen, Messrs. Freak, Solomon, O'Grady, Tappin, and Chapman. Letter of apology for non-attendance from Mr. Barnes. Minutes of previous meeting read. The adjourned question of Mr. Freak's proposition that the Press be admitted was again discussed, and postponed. It was resolved that Messrs. Franklin and Sons, of White Lion Street, Spitalfields, be blocked, they not complying with the rules of the Board of Arbitration. A letter was read from Mr. Freak, asking the Board to fix the price for knifing by machinery on second class shops. This was referred to the Committee of Enquiry.

Committee of Enquiry, 15th Meeting, November 16, 1896, at 6 p.m. Present: Employers, Messrs. Barnes and Clark; workmen, Messrs. Freak and Chapman. Dispute on Messrs. B. E. Lee and Sons, over ribbed sole cycling shoe. Will pay 6d. per pair for eight ribs. Men want 8d. Postponed on the suggestion of Mr. G. Barnes. Question of cased heel on Mr. A. Unger's, 55, Well Street. Finishers want 4d. as per statement. Employer does not want to pay anything. Postponed on the suggestion of Mr. G. Barnes. Question of knifing by machinery on second class shops, the men contending that 3d. in the 1s., as on common houses, was too much to be deducted. Postponed on the suggestion of Mr. G. Barnes. Mr. G. Barnes suggested that we postpone the fixing of the next Board meeting until after another meeting of the Committee of Enquiry. It was agreed the next Committee of Enquiry shall meet again on Tuesday, 24th inst., at 7 p.m.

LONDON EAST.—We are sorry to say that trade has not improved. We also thank the Council for granting us £3 for organisation, which we hope will be laid out to the best advantage.

MANCHESTER.—We are sorry to state that trade here is only very moderate at present, but hope it will soon improve. We have had another little dispute here, at Mr. Frankenburg's, but we managed to come to terms after the men had ceased work for two days. Our efforts of organizing have been fairly successful, having joined upwards of sixty members during the last few weeks. We hope that those outside the Union will feel it their duty to at once join, and thus place themselves in a position to help their fellow-workmen, not only to retain the prices already got, but by so doing, we hope before another year rolls round to be able to get an advance on some of the classes of work which is acknowledged throughout the country as badly paid for here. We would urge upon our members, who are in arrears, to reduce their book debts as soon as possible, and thus prepare themselves against any encroachments which usually take place at the end of the year by some of the unprincipled employers. We held a Mass Meeting of our trade here on Wednesday, November 11th, for organising purposes, and it was very fairly attended. Councillor R. W. Walters (President Manchester Trades Council) occupied the chair, and the meeting was addressed by Mr. Frenchman (Jewish Tailors), and Mr. Shartez (Jewish Cabinet Makers Society), also by Mr. W. Inskip (General Secretary), and Mr. James Sweeney (Branch President, Leeds). On the following evening, Thursday, November 12th, we held a Mass Meeting at Waterfoot, Rossendale Valley. A large audience was present. The chair was occupied by Mr. Farron (Weavers' Association, Rossendale). Mr. Jordan, secretary of the local branch, moved the resolution "That the Boot, Shoe and Slipper Operatives are of opinion, that the time has arrived when the whole of the Operatives, both male and female, engaged in the above trade in the Rossendale Valley, should become organised, and we pledge ourselves to do our utmost to induce our fellow-workers to join a trade organisation." Mr. Sweeney, of Leeds, seconded the resolution in a most able speech. Mr. Inskip, who was most heartily received, traced the history of the National Union in a most masterly manner, which drew forth loud applause. On being put, the Chairman declared the resolution carried unanimously. Mr. Ward moved a vote of thanks to the speakers and chairman, which was heartily carried.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—During the past month trade in this branch has been particularly brisk, especially on the firm of L. and C. W. Dixon and Co., where every bench is occupied, and overtime is being worked, and from appearances such will be the case to the end of the year at least. Owing to the number of tickets not yet to hand for the benefit of Mr. John Welch, we have reluctantly been compelled to postpone the draw from November 12th to November 19th, when it will most certainly take place. The winning numbers will, therefore, not appear in this report, but will be announced in the report for November. In the meantime, Branch Secretaries will be notified as soon as possible after the draw.

NORWICH.—We have to report a dispute on the firm of Howling Bros., which arose in consequence of the firm putting a man on day-work, to whom the work that was disputed by the piece-workers was given, with the result that whenever any of the piece-workers got out work that they claimed, it was not booked out at the proper rate, and asking to have it put right, they were told that they could fetch the work back, as they, the Firm, had men who would do it; the result being that our men had to stand idle day after day, while the work was being heaped upon the day-workers. When the men complained, they were told they could all go, as the Firm did not care a d— either for them or the Union. This being reported to the Secretary, he sent them a note, in which he pointed out that the course the Firm had taken was quite contrary to the rules of our Union, and also a distinct violation of the agreement entered into between the Manufacturers' Association and the workmen's representatives; and sent them a copy of the resolution passed in 1893, in which it was distinctly laid down that in all cases where the statement provided a price for the work, statement wages were to be paid, thus prohibiting this way of avoiding payment to the statement. However, the Firm took no notice of this, except to try and make the workmen's position more unbearable. Consequently, the Secretary waited upon the Firm, but found it impossible to come to any reasonable settlement, the employers claiming that as they did not belong to the Employers' Association, they were not bound by any resolution or agreement they might enter into, and they should do as they liked. Upon this being reported to the Council, the Secretary was instructed to withdraw the men, which he did, and they are still out.

NORWICH No. 2.—Trade down here continues rather slow, several of our members are unfortunately walking about, and several others are only making four or five days a week, one firm working only half-time. As a set-off two or three are actually advertising for men, pity they did not send to me, I might have saved them that expense. A dispute is still unsettled at one firm, where three of our members are employed as Clickers. Mr. Mason having it in hand, I shall refrain at present from commenting on the attitude our members took up. During the last month we have endeavoured to do some organizing work. As we found the house to house visitation last year a failure, we resolved holding shop meetings, which have proved even a greater failure than the other. We then tried another plan, viz., the issuing of a circular, setting forth some of the benefits accruing from membership of the Union. An invitation was given with circular to attend a meeting of members and non-members, when we hoped to have been able to convince them of the duty they owed to themselves as well as their shopmates, demanded that they should join the Union at once. By not one of them attending I suppose they were afraid of being convinced against their will. As a final coup we purpose holding a smoker at an early date, when we hope to have the pleasure of seeing one of the Council members down, but more of that later on.

NORTHAMPTON.—Trade is if anything worse this month than it was a month ago, and to all appearances there is no immediate prospect of an improvement taking place. This of course means a large amount of suffering and privation to the working-classes, which is to be deplored. It is sincerely to be hoped that before very long the working classes will not only recognise, but so act and use their influence that a better state of things will be brought about. In this connection it is noteworthy, that although the workers are in a majority, and could if they so wished bring about a different state of society, that at the late Municipal election, although five workmen were run in different wards, not one was returned—thus making it appear that workmen are not desired by workers to represent them. Although it is undeniable that workers are required upon all governing bodies, and it is sincerely to be hoped that very quickly a way may be found to bring our forces into line, and give one another credit for trying to assist the cause of the workers, although we cannot all see eye to eye with one another so far as details are concerned. There is some amount of friction in connection with the Referees of the Arbitration Board, the manufacturers wanting to break away from what has been a custom here for some years, namely that a representative of the workmen should be present at the Referees meeting to lay the men's case before them. This has worked satisfactory to both sides up to now, and it is to be hoped that a satisfactory settlement may be found over the same.

WORCESTER.—In submitting our report this month we are sorry to say that the long stretch of slackness in our branch still continues, and from what we learn there are no prospects of any improvement this side of Christmas. We hope that we shall have a good spring trade, that will enable our members to pull themselves round, and pay off some of their long standing debts. I am sorry to be obliged to scratch some of our members, but we hope that when the work gets busy again they will rejoin our branch, and show that they are willing to pay when they are in the position to do so.

ORGANISING OF THE WATERFOOT SLIPPER MAKERS.

ROUSING SPEECHES BY TRADES UNIONISTS.

UNDER the auspices of the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives and the Rossendale Boot, Shoe and Slipper Union, a mass meeting was held on Thursday evening in the public hall connected with the Liberal Club, Waterfoot. Mr. J. Farron (Secretary of the Rossendale Weavers' Association) Presided, and was supported by Mr. William Inskip, J.P. General Secretary Leicester; Mr. J. Sweeney, President Leeds Branch; Mr. Wm. Ward, Secretary Manchester Branch; and several officials of the Rossendale Union. There was a large audience.

MR. FARRON said when asked to preside at that meeting he willingly consented, because he was in sympathy with the object in view, namely, trying to organise the boot, shoe, and slipper workers in this valley. If organised they stood a better chance of getting what they believed to be their rights. When they looked at the past and thought of what has been done by various organisations they must be persuaded that it was their duty to combine. They would have to do so if they meant to maintain their present rate of wages or have any chance of getting an increase. He did not know what their wages were at the present; they might be very good. If they were, his advice to them was to keep them good. (Hear, hear.) When single-handed the masters could play shuttle-cock with the best of them, but when combined they became very powerful. (Applause.)

MR. JORDAN moved "That this meeting of boot, shoe, and slipper operatives is of opinion that the time has arrived when the whole of the operatives—both male and female—engaged in the above trade in the Rossendale Valley should become organised—(Hear, hear.) and we pledge ourselves to do our utmost to induce our fellow-workers to join a trade organisation." (Applause.) He said there was a local union in the valley, which, since its formation, had done good work, not only for the men but also for the masters. (Hear, hear.) They had worked well together and had got a "statement," and it was his firm opinion that it was for the good of the trade generally that their union existed. He thought it was far better for all engaged in trade—whether workers or masters—to be connected with some Union. Their local Union took in one branch only, but there was a Union, which covered the whole of the Kingdom, which was ready to receive as members, anybody in the trade. It was in reference to that Union that the gentleman had come to speak to them that evening, and asked them to organise. If they did so it would be for the good of the trade generally, and would prevent one master underselling the other at the expense of his work-people. (Applause.)

MR. J. SWEENEY, of Leeds, seconded the resolution. He said the Waterfoot Branch only touched one section of the workers in the trade—the "lasters" or cobblers—but the Union with which he was connected took in all operations, males or females, connected with the boot, shoe, and slipper industry. It was sometimes alleged that trades unionists were cold and despotic, but if it had not been for trades unionism the lot of the worker would have been a thousand times worse than at the present time. (Applause.) He was surprised how so many fellow-workers could stand outside the pale of labour organisations; they were practically committing suicide as far as their position in life was concerned. (Hear, hear.) It was necessary to checkmate unscrupulous employers by sound, strong, and powerful trades unions. (Applause.) There were employers in the trade whom he had the utmost respect for, and whom he could put the greatest confidence in, who were trying to do that which was right and just from a commercial standpoint, but they were handicapped by the unscrupulous employers who would practically rob them of a fair and decent living. (Hear, hear, and applause.) He (Mr. Sweeney), deplored strikes, and as vice-president of one of the most important Boards in the Kingdom—the Leeds Arbitration Board—he could state that that Board had been the means of preventing scores of petty strikes and lock-outs. If the operatives at Waterfoot become members of the National Union a Board of Arbitration would be established at Waterfoot. (Applause.) Did they think by the isolated action of holding a local Union at Waterfoot they could checkmate next year—say either in January or February—any encroachment upon their wages? Some of them would not always stay at Waterfoot, they were young, and as years passed on they would have to travel, and if they went to a town and were not members of the Union they would be told to go about their business. He had great pleasure in seconding the resolution and looked forward with hope to seeing Waterfoot one more addition to the National Union. (Applause.)

MR. INSKIP, J. P., who was heartily received, traced the history of the National Union. He said he had worked at the bench as a "laster" or "rivetter for 23 years, and whilst doing so, after they had had a holiday a notice used to be fixed to the door to this effect that 3d. a dozen reduction would take place, and those who did not like it could fetch out their kit." This was what they called the Christmas box, and eventually they decided to unite. They took no one into their Union only rivetters at first. Only eight of them turned up and they cleared about as many shillings. They had a dispute on, too, about a reduction of wages; they won. This brought the Union into prominence, and members began to flock to them. They decided to take in the finishers, and for many years it was known as the Rivetters and Finishers' Union. They had not had a reduction in wages from that day to this. Why? Because they stood shoulder to shoulder and were powerful. They had many, many fights, various successes and non-successes; but steadily and surely they gained ground, and eventually the masters suggested arbitration, but not until they have seen the men were united. (Hear, hear.) Trades Unionism bound them together and made shop-mates feel that what effected one effected the other, and that they would sink or swim together. (Applause.) The National Union had spent over £120,000 to obtain "statements," and by doing so had saved their lot from being worse than that of the agricultural labourer. In four years alone the Union had expended for trade purposes £91,124 19s. 2d, and during the same period for sick and funeral allowances £7,494. In April, 1895, the employers tried to "bust up" the Union, and although they nearly exhausted the funds at that time they had in their possession on the last day in October £36,538 17s. What would be their position if the employers of Waterfoot were to lock them out? Their local funds would soon become exhausted, because there was on one to replenish the exchequer, but if they all belonged the National Union the withdrawal or lockout of all the men in Waterfoot could be met out of current income.

On being put the Chairman declared the resolution carried unanimously.

Mr. Ward moved a vote of thanks to the speakers, which was heartily carried.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Just as we are going to Press we are pleased to report that the dispute on George's, Belfast, has been settled by the employers having withdrawn the work in dispute, and reinstated the whole of the men. This we are also pleased to state has been brought about by a local effort, and this proves the justification of the position we took up in the address.

We have forwarded to the Branch Secretaries the voting papers, asking the opinion of the members as to the advisability of them supporting an International Congress, and if so, whether they would be prepared to send delegates if such a Congress was to be held. It would not necessarily follow that the Congress would be held next year, or even the following year, but the voting, as requested by the Parliamentary Committee of the 'Trades' Congress, must take place on the December meeting night, and the voting papers returned to the General Secretary not later than December 15th.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MEMBERS.

Every precaution is taken by us to ensure accuracy in these Reports, our correspondents being men on whom we can rely ; should, however, any errors creep into them, upon the same being pointed out to us, we shall be most happy to give the same prominence to the correction as to the original matter. NATIONAL UNION OF

Boot and Shoe Operatives.

MONTHLY REPORT.

17, SILVER STREET, LEICESTER,

DECEMBER 17TH, 1896

FELLOW MEMBERS,

If wretched weather, rain and mud should have any effect upon the state of our trade, then the experience we have had during the last month should be sufficient to place our trade in a flourishing condition ; but we regret to say that, although it must have a tendency to make people wear better “understandings,” yet the state of trade has been and in some of the centres, where they have opened bureaux, we have been able to gauge, to some extent, the number of men who are actually out of employment, as for instance at Leicester, already there are between 400 and 500 men connected with the Boot and Shoe Trade who have registered themselves for work, they being absolutely out of employment. It is true that there are a number of these who have been displaced by machinery, but when we look at this body of men we scarce find a man whose age exceeds fifty, the complaint against whom when being discharged has, in most instances, been “they are too old.” This question of age is a serious one indeed with us, for should a man lose a situation by any means, and he should have happened to have turned the age of forty, he finds it most difficult to obtain another situation. Surely then this should be an argument in favour of better wages, and better conditions whilst the men are in the hey-day of their manhood.

There was every prospect that we should have a decent trade for, at least, a month before Christmas, but then we have been subject to yet another

prices being artificially forced up, which, of course, deters manufacturers from making stock, as they otherwise would have been willing to do, because of the risk to which they are subject in case the leather again finds its proper level prior to them having disposed of the goods made during the slack season, but it is to be hoped that now we are in the last month of the year we may have reached the worst period of slackness, and that with the advent of the New Year a revival of trade will set in.

Disputes have not been numerous, although the month has not passed without events of importance having taken place, as the following will show :—

we had a dispute ; men being offered work at what was considered to be a direct reduction of wages, and after long negotiations we decided to withdraw the men, who, after being out a few days, again resumed work under their proper conditions, and those men who had refused the work at a reduction, were reinstated. Thus a satisfactory settlement was arrived at.

At Howling Bros., Norwich, we regret to say the dispute still continues. From the commencement of the dispute this firm have treated our representatives in the most discourteous manner possible. In fact, we question whether they would have meted out the same treatment to their dogs, if they have any. The men have been steady and determined, and have been very careful not to contravene the law in any way, and have carried out the instructions conveyed on the picket cards with commendable discretion, and we have decided to still further encourage them by supporting them for some time longer, but we have reason to believe the employers have as they have been before the Board of Arbitration seeking for a settlement, although they are not members of the Association, and had consequently no right to have appeared before the Board. They have also offered further terms by putting down a magnetic tacker as a "blind" for working the system of hand labour to the detriment of the piece-workers ; but we have decided against this palpable attempt to cajole us into a settlement, and at the time of going to press, the men are still out.

We have given the necessary notice at

to the employers to increase the minimum rate of wages for Clickers and Pressmen. They now seek to shelter themselves under the Leeds minimum, which we have advised our people to reject in toto.

We have also given notice to the

of our intention to put the City manufacturers upon a uniform basis with regard to the wages paid to Lasters, Operators on both lasting and finishing machinery, Clickers and Pressmen. They requested delay, and suggested the formation of a Board to discuss the matter. In the meantime, they had taken steps, and have since joined the Federation, but we have pointed out to the Federation the conditions are that no employers shall receive the benefits of the Federation when joining during a dispute. This, no doubt, will have the necessary weight, to the effect that the notices will hold good either by being sent to an Umpire, or we shall have to deal with them in the most effectual manner at our disposal.

THE PRESENTATION TO THE LATE PRESIDENT OF THE FEDERATION.

Our attention has been drawn by the representatives of various branches to a meeting of the Employers' Federation at Leicester, which was called for the purpose of presenting to the late President of the Federation, a service of silver, for the services rendered by him during the late Lock-out, or to speak more correctly, for his services since the formation of the Federation, and it is not against the presentation that our correspondents complain, but against some of the remarks made during the after-luncheon speeches. For ourselves we have no hesitation in saying that in our opinion, the recipient (Mr. J. G. Ward) was in every way worthy of the honour conferred upon him, for the time, energy, and ability he displayed from the time of his first taking office, and none can know better than we, the sacrifice of both business and personal considerations he made during that period.

We were struck with the marked moderation which prevailed at the meeting, and it cannot be wondered at that under such exceptional circumstances, those on the other side should feel a little jubilant, or at all events express themselves as a little jubilant over the result of the dispute, but here we are at one with our correspondents, when they express themselves to the effect that from the reading of the speeches, an outsider would naturally think the advantage was all on their side, and none on the side of the workmen.

Whilst not expecting them to make the most of our case, we, at all events, can be pardoned in stating that whilst the Terms of Settlement have done many of the things they state, yet the advantages accruing to us have never been more marked in the history of our Union than what they have been during the past twelve months; and here we would point out that it was not what we call the legitimate or fair-minded manufacturers with whom we had these repeated ruptures, but it was the unscrupulous employers, who had no regard either to the feelings, lives, or conditions of living of their workpeople, with whom we were in constant conflict—such for instance as in the case of the First and Second Class Employers in London, who, regardless alike of the Terms of Settlement, the statement of wages which has been in existence for many years, and the agreement they have entered into, gave that on and after the 14th December, just on the eve of Christmas, they had decided to pay to what recognised statement they liked in London, but under the Terms of Settlement, and they persist in it, they can no longer remain members of the Federation, and do that. This then is an advantage, and whilst it does not appear, yet almost daily we have had to appeal to the manufacturers to put the screw on these gentlemen, and it has been done through the medium of the Federation and the Terms of Settlement without the necessity of having to withdraw the men to enforce proper conditions.

Besides this, we would point out that we have undoubtedly gained in respect to the proper carrying out of the restriction on Boy Labour. The tendency to a uniform rate of wages has also taken an upward bound, and instead of the bitter feeling engendered by strikes, and by the use of insulting, coarse language to our representatives, we have succeeded in getting them recognised as men and representatives, and where they have been discourteously treated, upon appeal, pressure has been brought to bear upon these employers, and the humiliating position which they were continually being enforced into has been changed, and now your representatives are treated with more consideration than has ever fallen to our representatives since the formation of our Union. Nor do we despair but what the good offices of those employers who recognise the right of men to live, and to live somewhat respectably too, will have sufficient bearing upon another class of employers, a number of whose names we see conspicuous at the luncheon, so that by negotiations our men may, not by strike or lock-out, but by peaceful means increase the rate of wages now paid, and if we have gained nought but the prospect of that it will be something at all events in our favour, and we may add that by the abolition of these petty disputes involving constant drain upon the funds, we are enabled to extend the benefits somewhat in other directions to our members, and to give more real benefits for the amount of contributions paid in, than any other Union can boast throughout the United Kingdom, and remain solvent as we are to-day.

We have now to draw your attention to the action of the First and Second Class Employers in London, who, for some time past have been anxiously striving to obtain the minimum statement—not a revision of their own statement—for the class of goods they make ; this being a direct reduction of wages, and contrary to the assurance we received at the Board of Trade, not only from the employers representatives, but more particularly from the London representative (Mr. Lilley) that no reductions were sought. They chose to send the following notice to our London representatives, which reached them on the 8th December :—

LONDON, 5TH DECEMBER, 1896.

DEAR SIR,—

FIRST AND SECOND CLASS STATEMENTS OF WAGES.

At a meeting of the Manufacturers paying to the above Statement held here on the 3rd inst., the following resolutions were passed unanimously :—

- (1) "That having regard to the Board of Trade Terms of Settlement and to the Rules of the London Board of Conciliation and Arbitration as re-constituted thereunder, a notice be given to the Workmen's Union that on Monday, the 14th day of December next, all the First and Second Class Statement Manufacturers will claim to pay to any or all of the recognised statements of wages existing in London."
- (2) "That a copy of the foregoing resolution be sent by the Secretary to Mr. C. Freak, Mr. W. Chapman, and also to each of the First and Second Class Statement Manufacturers (Members of the Association), and that printed notices be prepared for the Manufactures to exhibit at their wickets."

In accordance with the second of above resolutions I am sending you a copy of the first herewith, and also to Mr. Chapman by same post.

Yours faithfully,

JOHN ARTHUR CRAIG, Secretary.

Mr. C. Freak, 33, Goldsmith Row, Hackney Road, N.E.

This was immediately sent on to us, and we replied as follows :—

LEICESTER, DECEMBER 12TH, 1896.

DEAR SIR,

Mr. Freak was kind enough to send me a letter, in which was enclosed a letter from you, embodying a resolution passed by the First and Second Class Employers, in which they state their intention of paying to any Statement they like on and after the 14th December.

I need scarcely say to you that I was surprised, nay, more, I should have taken it for a hoax had not your name been attached to it. Seeing, however, that it is, I must take it seriously.

In doing so, I must respectfully draw your attention to the fact that such a resolution is certainly illegal in accordance with the Terms of Settlement entered into between the Federation, the Board of Trade, and the above Union. At the Board of Trade, in the presence of Sir Courtenay Boyle, we were thoroughly assured that no reductions of wages were sought.

Besides this, I must draw your attention to the fact that, as there is a Board of Arbitration in existence in London, by the revised rules, provision is made that all questions affecting wages, hours of labour, etc., must be brought before the Board to be discussed, and failing settlement, the question to be relegated to an Umpire. It is not within the province of either party to say what shall, or what shall not, be done.

I therefore, on behalf of the Executive of the above Union, give you the necessary notice that should any work be offered at a reduction of wages, prior to the matter coming before the Board, we shall resist the same, and should any expense accrue, I take this opportunity of giving you the ten days' notice as required by the Terms of Settlement, with the view of claiming the expenses incurred.

I have to add, in conclusion, that I am amazed and disgusted at this action on the part of the manufacturers, seeing the difficulty we have had in inducing our London members to accept the principle of Arbitration, at such a preposterous and dictatorial resolution, which it is sought to be foisted upon the men on the eve of Christmas.

I have communicated with the President and Secretary of the Federation, and now beg to remain,

On behalf of the Executive,

Yours truly,

W. INSKIP.

J. A. Craig, Esq., London.

It now remains to be seen whether they will attempt to do this, or whether it is a game at "bluff." If so, after the strained relations which have existed between us and our London members on the question of Arbitration, it shows bad judgment, and we might almost add bad taste on their part by attempting it. Had they have adopted a wiser course, and have asked for a revision of their statement, with the necessary notice, before the Board, there may have been some justification for such action ; but there is nothing, in our opinion, which justifies the action they have taken, and upon them must rest the responsibility.

For result of voting for International Congress see p. 16.

As this will be the last occasion on which we shall have an opportunity of addressing you this year, we tender to you our hearty and sincere thanks for the support you have accorded us in the many trying situations in which we have found ourselves, and in wishing you

THE COMPLIMENTS OF THE SEASON

we would like to add that

If you would see how joy extends,
Count that your own that is your friends.

We remain,

Yours respectfully,

THE COUNCIL,

BRANCH REPORTS.

BRISTOL.—Being our final issue for this year it is one of regret, inasmuch as the approaching prospects are not as favourable as we anticipated. Trade has fallen off considerably, and in some cases it is almost a matter of “finished up” for this year with some of our men, and we too well know what that means, especially with the usual lengthy holiday that follows, and to such, the words “A Happy Christmas,” has no true meaning. We also regret to note the troubled state of the labour market, and it directs our serious attention to what the innumerable attempted infringements, and the sacrifice of principles and positions would amount to were it not for the various organisations claiming and asserting the right to voice the legitimate requirements of its members. In our own trade (locally speaking) we have had very little trouble of late, and that little has found a settlement through the Board, and by investigation. Rumours are afloat as to many anticipated changes for the New Year inasmuch as our assistance may be elicited on behalf of those who might be seriously affected, and as matters now stand we have only to await the nature of what “might be” before prescribing a remedy. We are moving in the direction of a Mutual Aid Society for members only, under the auspices of the Branch. In the early part of the New Year we are also about to arrange a concert on behalf of a fund for our unemployed members, and we are trusting to the support of those who would be able and willing to render it. We also trust an improvement in the health of our General Secretary. Our best wishes and compliments we give to each and every member, with the hope for a prosperous New Year.

BIRMINGHAM.—Our report for the month is distinguished for its being without disputes calling for mention, and the following report is principally directed to our district, because, we are sorry to state, we do not get the attendance at meetings we should wish, although our club house is one of the finest hotels of the town. Our general meeting compensated a member for the plucky stand he made at the wicket. This member was requested to work day and piece alternately on the “tacker,” and on his refusal to oblige the employer he was dismissed. Our secretary waited upon the employer, who is a member of the Federation, and acquainted him of the decision on the machine employment, whereby he could not alter the system at any time he pleased. However, in the end, to save further trouble, for the future he would work the factory by hand. This year has been most successful with us. At the commencement we had 56 men suspended; 38 left for country labour at Bromsgrove (this place should be blocked). It stands as a finger-post on the main road between Birmingham, Worcester, and Bristol—a post of shame, and a disgrace to the human individuals, men they call themselves! who are compelled to pride themselves on keeping their places by their animal strength in pace making, and who, a few years ago, sucked from our funds more than they paid in, and who are now sending their work of slavery into this town at a price made less by their selfish disregard of their used to be fellow workmen asking for a living wage. Those boys will soon take your places, and then you will get your deserts. With the organising grant, for which we thank the Council, we spent a little over £1 in the Netherton district. This steady growing place invited our Secretary and President over to a dinner on November 24, when 24 out of 31 members sat down to a good spread at the club house. The Secretary, in his address, spoke of the pride Birmingham held the men in, in helping to sustain the statement of the district, and the willingness of the members in paying their contributions, and dealing with the advantages the Union gave, spoke of the twelve months’ work being completed with success. The President (Mr. John Forknall) then addressed the meeting at considerable length, remarking on the quantity of clear cards he had gone through that night, and said the district was now large enough to govern itself, if it desired. (Cries of “No, no.”) It would always be a pleasure for him to assist them who tried to regain what they lost some years ago.

The meeting, after a vote of thanks for the addresses, ended in harmony. One thing, in closing the year, calls for comment. Since the fall of the late administration in 1895 parties have been formed, and scarcely any monthly meeting passed but what broke up in confusion, and language not of the best by the various parties uttered, has now, we are pleased to state, somewhat passed away. Some of the men of ability of that administration have been elected by large majorities, and it is to be hoped, for the sake of the town, that we should work together for the one aim, that which we pay 6d. for, to protect our daily bread. We wish all a Merry Christmas, and success to the Council and our Union.

BARNSELEY.—In sending our report for this month we have great pleasure in once more having some new entries to make, as a result of the organizing meeting that we held on December 7th, at which our General President took part in. Although all that were at the trade did not put in an appearance, we had a good array of those who were not in the Union, but after the excellent and spirited address of Mr. Hornidge, we had the pleasure of putting down some new names, some old members, and some who had never been on the books before, who we hope will in future make good members. A vote of thanks was given to our General President, and we are also deeply grateful to the Council for sending down such an excellent speaker, who, although it was his first visit to Barnsley, was highly pleased in the way he was received, and hopes to have the pleasure of another visit to one of the oldest branches in the Union. We hope that next year will be a more prosperous one both in the matter of more members and more work. We unite in wishing all a happy and prosperous New Year.

BELFAST.—In submitting our report to you this month we regret to state there is a general falling off in trade here. We would like to call the attention of the members to their book debts, as some of them are very near the scratch mark; they had ample opportunity when trade was good to reduce their debt, but they did not embrace it. We hope they will now try and reduce it. We are glad to state that the dispute in George's factory is settled, they having withdrawn the boot in dispute, but not till the men were withdrawn from the shop. The firm sent for the Secretary and made terms of agreement with him; they could have done this before the men were withdrawn, and saved the expense incurred on the Union and the Branch also. We have to sincerely thank the Council for their prompt action in the matter of George's shop. We think it is the ambition of employers here to not let us get a branch fund. No sooner are we getting into a good financial position than some dispute arises and takes up the funds. If the men would rally round the officers of the Branch and pay their contributions regularly, we, locally, would not be afraid of these petty disputes. This being our last report this year, we wish you all a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

BRAMLEY.—In sending our report this month we are forcibly reminded that time is on the wing. We accordingly send the customary season's greeting to the Council and all members of our Union, earnestly hoping that none will be without a good Christmas dinner. Trade here is slowing down perceptibly; some men are already working from nine to four. There has been no meeting of our Subsidiary Board of Arbitration during November. Our statement still exists in the abstract only, as there has been nothing definitely arrived at. Under the agreement existing between the federated employers of Bramley and our Council, Bramley is to have a representative on the Leeds Board of Conciliation. It is hoped that the parties responsible for this being carried out will please note. The officials of this branch would impress upon its members the imperative necessity of taking a greater interest in their organisation.

CORK.—Trade continues fair with us in Cork, and our advanced posts in Waterford and Killarney are doing as well in the battle of life as is compatible under existing circumstances. In giving a brief summary for the year now ending, we believe we have good reason for congratulation on the success that has attended our humble efforts in endeavouring to extend the beneficent work of our Union in this and the surrounding districts, and when we come to contrast our present condition with that of the corresponding period of last year, we find this very gratifying result—that our position is more than doubly increased, both numerically and financially, with a further advantage of having our fellow-workmen in Waterford and Killarney in a very advanced stage of organization, and in full possession of flourishing sections of our branch. This brief statement is suffice to explain how the spirit of combination is steadily advancing amongst our fellow-workers, and this we hold is purely essential for their future protection against the very rapid development of machinery, which is steadily undermining the unfortunate workman. We earnestly appeal to all our members to use their best endeavours to induce every person engaged at our trade to become members of our Union, as we are fully convinced that it is by this means alone that we may ever hope to gain what we may term our regeneration. We wish our executive and all members of our Union a very merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

COLCHESTER.—In reporting this month we must state things in this district are, at present, very quiet, owing to the coming Christmas holidays. In some cases the firms are going to close from Christmas Eve to the following Thursday week. We are pleased to see, by our November Report, that our Union is increasing in many parts of the country in membership, and hope in the coming New Year that we may double our numbers, and we hope our officials may have good health to carry out good organising meetings throughout the country in their turn. We wish, at the same time, our General Secretary, General President, and the rest of our Council a Happy Christmas and a more Prosperous New Year, and more organisation and less disputes in future.

CHESTERFIELD.—This, the last report for the year, gives us every reason to congratulate ourselves. Having thoroughly organised the town, we then thought we would do something for the day hands. When we first started the question of 54 hours we must confess we had grave doubts as to its being carried out. At our last monthly meeting a deputation was formed to carry out the above object. The deputation waited on the employers, and having stated what they had come about one employer asked for a few days to consider it over. At the expiration of three days we again waited upon him, when he told us he had decided to give it, as he found they worked 54 hours in other centres. We asked him when the men could start on it, and he replied at once. The other employer has given it, but not to commence until January 4th, 1897. It has given great satisfaction in our small branch, and there is no doubt, if fully gone into, could be carried out in other towns of the size of Chesterfield. Our annual supper took place on December 4th, when 22 sat down, not so many as we should liked to have seen. After refreshing the inner man there were 34 present, and the General President (Mr. Hornidge) gave us a detailed account of the work of the Union for the year, after that his health was drunk with musical honours, as was the other officials'. The branch secretary next read the income and expenditure for the year. Songs were given by Messrs. F. Willis, Newtod, Holmes, Claypole, and Rodgers. The meeting terminated about 11 o'clock with singing of Auld Lang Syne, and Mr. Hornidge proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman for the able way in which he conducted the meeting. We wish the Council and each member of our Union a Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year.

DUNDEE.—In sending our concluding report for the year, we regret being under the necessity of saying that a considerable number of finishers have been displaced in the largest firm here. The work previously performed by hand will in future be done by machinery. Add to this the laying down of a heeling and bottom levelling machines, with the magnanimous desire to be privileged to utilise boy labour wholly on these machines and a fair estimate will be had of our existing conditions. "In all times the lot of the dumb millions born to toil has been defaced by manifold suffering avoidable and unavoidable." We are realising to the full that text so aptly laid down by Carlyle. In conclusion, we would advise those only who have a creative faculty for displacing labour to venture near these confines of ours.

DESBOROUGH.—In addressing you this month, we have to state that trade with us is still rather slack, and we expect it will continue so until after Christmas. We have had two disputes during the last month, but both have been settled without much trouble, one firm giving the increase asked for, but the other would not, as they said they were stock, and declined to have them made up. We suppose they thought the men would be glad to get the work at any price. We wish all working at the trade at Desborough would see the necessity of joining the Union, so that we could enforce our Statement, and which, we believe, would put an end to a lot of these disputes. This being the last report of the year, we heartily wish all members a happy Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

EDINBURGH.—Trade is just beginning to get quiet with us here, but we think we shall manage over this year all right. Owing to the dispute at Allan's factory, one of our members got discharged through the work he was on being stopped, and at our general monthly meeting the members agreed that he should have £2 compensation, which we hope the Council will be pleased to endorse. In conclusion, we beg the liberty of wishing the General Council and all members of the Union, a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

GLASGOW.—In making our report for this month, we have to say that trade has fallen off considerably: a number of finishers have been discharged from the co-operative and other factories throughout the city, while at others short time has been resorted to. The question of what is to be done for our members, who from year to year are being displaced by machinery, is one that will require to be solved in the near future. It is true that the rules of our union do not make any provision for relieving the members who are so displaced, and we therefore think the present to be an opportune time to commend this to our members for solution, as it is simply appalling to think that a member after perhaps a twenty or thirty years' connection with our union is, like a sucked orange, thrown out on the road side to be kicked and buffeted about by any one who is so disposed. All the disputes that have occurred during the month, with one exception, have been amicably settled, the exception being the Co-operative Drapery and Furnishing Society. This is a new concern in boot manufacturing, and is altogether apart from the Co-operative factory at Shieldhall. The manager of the above applied to us for a statement, and we proposed that the statement which is being paid at Shieldhall, and which is also in operation at the Kilmarnock and Edinburgh Co-operative Factory, should be paid. To this the manager and his directors demur, so that in the meantime we have had to instruct our members not to accept work at the above factory until this point is settled, which we hope won't be long. We notice from the report of the annual meeting of the Employers' Federation that the Glasgow employers have been admitted members of that association. This step taken by the employers is no doubt with a view to defeat our demands for an increased minimum wage, but as this is at present in the hands of the Council we can with confidence leave it to their care. That all our members may have a merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year is the wish of the Glasgow Branch.

GLASGOW No. 2.—Trade in our line is fair at present. Of course it is owing to the coming holidays that dealers are putting in stock, but after the holidays no doubt a lull will take place. The members of this branch outside the co-operative store are very much perplexed at the conduct of the Council in the way they are being treated regarding their long promised support in asking for a minimum wage off the city employers, which was to have come off in the early spring of the present year 1896. But we are living in hope that the Council will grant us that permission for the beginning of 1897. We notice, by reports from London, the meetings of the Arbitration Board. Could not the other branches that are in connection with such Boards give reports similar? It would give the members some information, as there appears to be a difference of opinion regarding arbitration. In conclusion we wish all members in the union a merry Christmas.

GLASGOW No. 3.—In addressing you we are pleased to state that trade is fair with us at present, and we beg to take this opportunity to remind those members whose arrears are beyond the limit to bring themselves into compliance at once.

HALIFAX.—In sending this the last report for the year, we regret to state that trade is very bad, one of our best shops discharging their men wholesale. On this particular shop there seems to be something wrong, as we no sooner get a member to collect the contributions, than upon the slightest pretext, he is immediately discharged, the last victim being G. Fleetwood, who refused to make a man's boot (which it was to all intents and purposes) as a woman's, for women's price. The men ultimately got men's price for it, but the shop president (Fleetwood) was told to look after another situation. This makes the sixth shop president which has been discharged, and the men employed with him brought his case before the meeting, and spoke very strongly on the matter, and in the end a motion was unanimously carried that compensation to the extent of £1 be accorded him, which we hope the Council will endorse, as we, the officers of the branch, are firmly convinced that he is a victim to trade union principles. Wishing all members of our Union a jolly Christmas and a bright New Year, and a better state of things in their respective branches.

HIGHAM AND RUSHDEN.—In submitting our returns this month we have to report trade very dull, and with no prospect of a revival this side of Christmas. We regret to say that this continued period of depression in our trade is the longest we have known for many years, and which is really sufficient to make anyone but optimists begin to look upon it as a disease incurable, but as the old adage says "there is a silver lining in every cloud," we must hope and trust that the brighter side will soon make itself visible, for we feel sure that a change in the state of trade would be received by our members as the best form of greeting for a happy and prosperous New Year. We also wish to report that our members are forming a Trades' Club and Institute, and that the branch have loaned £50 to start with. This, we could ill afford at the present time, but we made the question as democratic as possible by allowing every member to vote by ballot for or against the loan being granted, so that those who abstained from voting have no cause of complaint now, the vote being carried by a large majority in favour of the grant being made, and if the Club proves as great a success as the promoters anticipate in the shape of an organizer, and also to be the means of educating the workers to the principles of Trade Unionism by arranging lectures on the labour questions of the day, then our money will be well invested. We feel confident that the Committee of Management will take every precaution to see that it is conducted properly, so as not to bring discredit on us as a branch, and we hope our members will take the matter up with enthusiasm, and make it a success. Wishing all officers and members the compliments of the season.

IPSWICH.—In addressing you we are sorry to state that trade still remains bad, and we all hope it will revive early in the New Year. We wish all members the Compliments of the Season.

KILMARNOCK.—In sending our final report for the year 1896, we have to state that trade has not been very flourishing, which means that our members have had to suffer many hardships. We sincerely hope the year that is about to dawn may have something better in store. The voting as to whether we are in favour of an International Trades' Union Congress, and as to sending delegates, carries with it much more interest to trades' unionism than many members seem to think, otherwise there might be a larger vote. The fact still remains that labour must be united the world over. It is, therefore, essential we should meet with the workers of other lands, and learn of each the true relations of the workers between capital and the markets of the world. It is a pity we had not an opportunity of discussing this important matter through our Monthly Reports. Still where there is life there is hope. We conclude by wishing all members of the Union a Merry Christmas and a glorious New Year of prosperity.

LEEDS.—In submitting our returns we are pleased to report that the operatives are fairly well employed. We have commenced organising, and on Monday, Dec. 14th, we shall have our General President and Union Treasurer here, and we trust that the speeches of Mr. Hornidge and Mr. Lowe will be the means of strengthening not only the No. 1, but that No. 2 will be considerably strengthened as well. This being our last report for the year 1896 we conclude by wishing all members and officials of our Union a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

LEEDS No. 2.—Trade here is very fair at present, a few shops showing a slight falling off in trade, which may be expected, being near Christmas, still we cannot complain of the majority of shops. By the time this appears in print we shall have had a meeting in this City for organising purposes, which we hope will be the means of inducing those who do not belong to our Union to join us at once, as we are sure this will be the means of strengthening our position and improving our wages.

LEICESTER No. 2.—Trade is still very unsettled. We may again hope for better times in the New Year. We know it is cold comfort, but it is a fact that a number of those connected with our trade have existed on hope for the past three or four years, thinking every year will be better than its predecessor. An Unemployed Committee have opened a permanent bureau here, but a number of employers don't seem to recognise its existence by applying to it for hands (if they require any), but rush into print to create an impression that there is a scarcity of labour. We hope they will apply to the bureau first, and encourage those who are trying to alleviate existing distress. As most of you are aware, there has been rejoicing among the employers, factors, and leather merchants about the peace which has been apparent since the dispute. It is admitted there has not been quite so many disputes, and would have been less, if the employers would not create them, and also carry out the engagements entered into. Another statement we rather take exception to, viz., that the then president advised that all workers should be reinstated as far as practicable. We regret that advice was not accepted by the management of the firm he is connected with. More vindictiveness was shown there than was experienced anywhere, especially in the clicking department, where men of over 20 years' service were refused a start, and no reason assigned for it whatever. One or two of the speakers held out hopes for the future of the trade; let us again hope it may be realised, and that the members may have a merry Christmas and a more prosperous New Year.

LONDON METRO.—In sending in our report this month, to speak of trade we can only say there is none, and in consequence the first and second class statement employers in London are explaining to us their opinion of the terms of settlement. A meeting was called by Mr. Craig, Secretary of the Manufacturers Association, at Basma House, London, Wall Avenue, on November 27th, 1896. Employers present were Messrs. Petch, Gorbald, and Lee. Workmen invited and present were Messrs. Chapman, O'Grady, and Freak. The manufacturers presented the workmen with a minute of a previous meeting of the employers and resolutions passed by them as follows:—1. "That this meeting of first and second-class manufacturers agree to press their claim to the right to work under any of the officially recognised London statements, according to the rules of the Terms of Settlement." 2. "That this meeting also expresses its intention not to ignore the statements now in use." In reply to which the workmen's representatives stated that to attempt to bring the first and second class statements down to the level of the third class statement would not be an advantage to either employers or workmen, but if the proposition was brought forward with a view of amalgamating the first, second, and intermediate statements; to establish three classes of glaze kid, one as per first class statement, one as per second class statement, and one below; to meet common glaze; to abolish the classification of fiddle waist; to allow a fiddle in any class providing the extra be paid, the anomaly being that first class statement shops can make fiddle in best only, second class statement houses in bests and seconds only, third class houses in what they like; likewise to fix a price for Glaze Persians, so that they could be made on those houses, &c., &c., then the men would no doubt be glad to meet the employers to compile such a statement. The employers promised to put the matter before their constituents, and let the workmen's representatives know their opinion thereon. The following is the communication received :—

5TH DECEMBER, 1896.

DEAR SIR,—FIRST AND SECOND CLASS STATEMENT OF WAGES.—At a meeting of the manufacturers paying to the above statements, held here on the 3rd inst., the following resolutions were passed unanimously :—(1.) “That having regard to the Board of Trade Terms of Settlement and to the rules of the London Board of Conciliation and Arbitration as re-constituted thereunder, a notice be given to the Workmen's Union that on Monday, the 14th of December next, all the first and second class statement manufacturers will claim to pay to any or all of the recognised statements of wages existing in London.” (2.) “That a copy of the foregoing resolution be sent by the Secretary to Mr. C. Freak, Mr. Chapman, and also to each of the first and second-class statement manufacturers (members of the Association), and that printed notices be prepared for the manufacturers to exhibit at their wickets.” In accordance with the second of above resolutions, I am sending you copy of the first herewith, and also to Mr. Chapman by same post.—Yours faithfully, (Signed) JOHN ARTHUR CRAIG, Secretary.

Committee of Enquiry, 16th Meeting, Basma House, London Wall Avenue, November 24th, 1896. Present, on behalf of employers, Messrs. T. Clarke and G. Barnes; on behalf of the workmen, Messrs. W. Chapman and C. Freak. Minutes were read and confirmed. Arising out of minutes, it was explained that Mr. Davidson, instead of answering the communication by letter re the deduction for knifing, sent his clerk round to see Mr. Craig to argue with him on the matter. It was resolved that he be again written, asking him to give the committee a reply by letter. Dispute in Messrs. B. E. Lee and Sons, corrugated bottom cycling shoe. Mr. Lee was first interviewed, who said he thought that 6d. per pair was quite enough, as the extra labour involved would not take more than a half hour. Workmen were then called from four different shops consecutively. Mr. Atkins, from Pikes, said the extra labour would take him $2\frac{1}{4}$ hours per pair; Mr. Woodhouse, from Baker's, said the extra labour would take him $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours per pair; Messrs. Hardy and Johnson, from Markies', said they had done none like these, their's being corrugated from heel to toe, for which they had received 2s. per pair extra. Mr. O'Farrell, from Lee's, was understood to say from the calculation of the time that each rib would take to do, that a pair of these would take him about an hour and twenty minutes. Mr. Freak contended there was a good case that the 8d. should be paid, seeing there were sixteen ribs in the two shoes. The shortest time the men admit they can be done is an hour and twenty minutes, longest time $2\frac{1}{4}$ hours. Mr. Barnes replied that he should want to consider the matter, and it was ultimately referred to the full Board. Dispute on Mr. Ungers, in respect to a covered wood heel sole brought up to bust, he claiming the finisher was not entitled to the 4d. on this head, as it was not an hydraulic heel. Mr. Chapman replied that all such heels were paid the cased heel extra in all shops that make them in London. Upon this there was a very long and animated discussion, and this on the suggestion of Mr. G. Barnes, was referred to the full Board; question in dispute in Messrs. Knowles and Sons, Dongola v. glace kid, Mr. Knowles saying it was Dongola and the men claiming as glace kid. Mr. Freak explained the matter here was not one of sample, as this was a second-class statement house, which was drawn up on well recognised lines. If the material in question is glace kid, then they must be best, with best extras. If the material was anything other than glace kid they must be paid for as seconds, with best extras. The skins were then handed round and examined, Mr. Barnes contending that they were Dongola, that they were dressed in America, but the reason they had dropped the name Dongola was because that leather had got into disrepute. However the committee could not agree, and this matter likewise was referred to the full Board. It was resolved that a full Board Meeting be convened for Monday evening next, November 30th, at five o'clock. The committee adjourned at 10.20 p.m.

Board of Arbitration and Conciliation, ninth meeting, December 3rd, 1896, at 5.30 p.m. Present, on behalf of the employers, Messrs. Lilley, Colwell, T. Clark, Gorbald, and Kaufman; for workmen, Messrs. Chapman, Langwith, Bray, Tappin, Standeven, Solomon, and O'Grady. Minutes of Committee of Inquiry were read, the following questions arising therefrom :—1. Rubbed sole cycling shoe in Messrs. B. E. Lee and Son's. After considerable discussion, Mr. O'Grady moved and Mr. Clark seconded, that $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per rib be paid on this particular class of work. This was carried. 2. Imitation Wertemburg in Mr. Unger's. It was agreed that the shoe in question, finished plain, carry 2d. extra, the shoe to be kept as a sample. 3. Question of chrome glaze on Messrs. Knowles and Son's, referred to next meeting of the Board. The Chairman reported that Messrs. Franklin, of White Lion Street, had been expelled from the Manufacturers' Association. It was agreed the next meeting of the Board be fixed by Committee of Enquiry.

LONDON SOUTH.—In addressing you this month, we are sorry to say that we never have had trade so bad as it is at the present time, especially at one of our largest firms in the district. This firm had the name of being one of the best in England, and now we think it is becoming one of the worst since the introduction of machinery, and also having a new manager to contend with. We hope to have better news to send in our next. In conclusion, we wish prosperity to our Union and all its members, also the Council, and we hope all will have a merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year. We are sorry to hear of the illness of Mr. Charles Freak, President of the Metropolitan Branch, and we sincerely wish him a speedy recovery to health.

LONDON EAST.—In sending in our returns for this month, we are sorry to state that trade is slack with us, and a great number of our members are walking about with scarcely anything to do. We sincerely trust that our trade will soon revive all through the country. We wish the General Secretary, the President, the Council, and all the members in our union, a very happy Christmas and a more prosperous New Year.

MANCHESTER.—In submitting our report we are sorry to state that trade is very bad, in fact it is many years since we had it so bad at this time of the year. Consequently, it is making it very bad to get in contributions, but we hope it will soon revive. We hope the Council and all the members of our Union may have a happy Christmas and a bright and prosperous New Year is our earnest wish.

MAYBOLE AND AYR.—In our closing report for the year we are pleased to chronicle trade still continuing good. We are glad to say the efforts put forth the last month by the Organising Committee has so far been very successful, a large number of refractory members being induced to return to the fold, also a fair addition of new members, and we trust the good work which has been set going will be continued. We therefore call upon all members to become organisers until our numbers are restored to something like their former state. We would take this opportunity to warn our members the necessity of keeping their arrears within bounds, as it has been the painful duty of officials (during last month or two) to refuse a few cases of sick benefit—who through carelessness had allowed their arrears to exceed the four shillings. We close this report with the usual compliments of the season to all the members of the Union.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—A decided falling off in trade can be safely reported this month, but taking all things into consideration there is not much to complain of, as we have experienced a much worse state of affairs previously at this time of year. Our sick expenditure has, unfortunately, been largely increased during the month, the beastly weather we have experienced lately, no doubt, having a great deal to do with it. The draw for the benefit of Mr. John Welch took place as announced in the last Month's Report, on November 19th, the winning numbers being (in rotation) 1042, 2340, 2369, 1577, 1571, 2857, 3361, and 527. The first prize went to Aberdeen; second to Leicester; third, seventh, and eighth to Newcastle; fourth and fifth to Dundee; sixth to Stafford. As this is our last report for 1896, we take the opportunity to wish all member the Compliments of the Season.

NORWICH.—The dispute reported in our last at Howling Brothers still continues, although we are led to believe they have had about enough of it, as they seem to be trying to find some way out of the difficulty without actually settling in the way the men and our Secretary desire. The Firm sent to our Secretary, who is conducting the dispute, and offered to settle the dispute by putting up a lasting machine and putting this objectionable person on it to work it in conjunction with other men, and that all the other men who were out on strike should return to work without prejudice, the Firm claiming that they had a right to day-work men in conjunction with machinery. This we did not deny, but claimed some voice in the conditions. Our Secretary would have settled with the Firm, but he found that the machine which they talked about was not in working order—in fact, not even put up; and so, after having an interview with the workmen, it was resolved that the Firm should either put this man on the same conditions as the other men or they would remain out until the machinery was ready to start. The Firm also promised to give their own men the first chance to go on this machine, but this, we understand, has been broken, actually before the men go in, as another man has been engaged; so this for a start, what may we expect in future? Mr. Hornidge was here a few days back, and called on the Firm twice, but could not arrive at a settlement.

NORTHAMPTON.—Trade is still, from the workman's point of view, bad, and it certainly will not, to all appearances, make any improvement for some weeks yet. The large bulk of the factories are running short time, and the outlook is far from promising. If any permanent improvement in the workers' condition is going to take place it is very certain that the workers themselves will have to take, not only a greater interest in those affairs which concern them, but also use their power in such a manner as to secure the maximum of benefit to the workers. The question of the shortening of the hours of labour, with no reduction of wages, is one of the matters to which attention should be directed, and a still further strengthening of the law, so far as boys and girls are concerned, in keeping them at school until a later age than at present such law allows them to leave. In connection with the latter, it is to be hoped that pressure will be brought to bear, and that in a strong manner by the workers upon the Parliamentary representatives, so that when the new Education Bill is brought before the House of Commons they will use their utmost endeavours to strengthen the age limit of the children's school life. One other matter to which we, as workers, can serve the cause of humanity, and at the same time help our trade, is by awakening the conscience of the public, especially at this time of the year, to the large numbers of unfortunate people and children who, in consequence of not having a sufficient income, cannot afford to be well shod. If we can so create an awakening upon this matter that all persons of the community shall be well shod, there will be but very little short time in the shoe trade, and such a thing as over-production will not be heard of.

NORTHAMPTON No. 2.—This, our last Report for the present year, is issued with feelings of regret. The long and continued stagnation of trade, together with its consequent privations as entailed upon the workers, leave our position far worse than we commenced it with the present year, but we are looking forward to a good year's trade next year, which according to report is to be exceptionally heavy, which we trust may be so. Although, as far as this Branch is concerned, we have not a large number absolutely out of work, it is the long depression and short time that our members have to put up with, makes it very hard for them. Through the action of our representatives on the Trades Council, a deputation waited upon the General Purposes Committee of the Town Council, with a view of advising the employers of the town to put their workpeople on short time, instead of discharging part and keeping the remainder on full time. The Committee gave in their Report at the Town Council's Meeting on Monday last, when it was agreed to. The Report is as follows:—

SHORT TIME AND SLACK WORK.

The Town Hall and General Purposes Committee, for the purpose of obtaining publicity, and with the hope that the attention of all employers of labour in the borough would be drawn to it, and receive their serious attention, placed on the agenda paper a letter from the Trades Council, asking the Committee to receive a deputation with a view to the Committee "urgently requesting the Town Council to advise employers in the town, when depression in trade arrives, to put their workpeople on short time instead of discharging part and putting the remainder on full time."—

Mr. Hannen wished, before proposing the report, to thank the gentlemen of the Council for the compliment they had paid him by electing him chairman of committee, but he took it as a greater compliment to the large body of electors in two-thirds of the borough who elected him and his colleague last November. ("Oh, oh.") With respect to the above clause, he said that there would be a large number of people out of work this winter in the staple trade of the town. The Council, of course, had no control over the shoe manufacturers of the borough: the Committee simply desired to call attention to the fact that it was thought desirable that if manufacturers could they should give some work to those who in other circumstances would be out of work. At Leicester the Town Council had ordered a circular to be issued by the Town Clerk suggesting that, as far as possible, manufacturers "should equally share the work among their various employees."—Mr. Phipps seconded, and the clause was agreed to.

We also conclude by wishing all the officers and members of our Union the Compliments of the Season.

STAFFORD.—Trade with us is very bad indeed, and there is every probability of a very long holiday at Christmas. The year closing has been a very poor one, and few in our trade will regret its disappearance. Some of our employers have joined the federation, but seem in no hurry to form a Board. Nevertheless they appear to be inflated with importance, and are acting in a very high-handed and do-as-I-like manner, which is causing much bitterness among their workpeople. Even this week, one of our female members, who has been doing the duties of shop president, has been discharged from one of these firms, for no other apparent reason than to strike terror into the other females on the firm, 25 of whom we are registering in this month's report. We ask them to still be loyal to the union, that has never been known to desert the worthy. They are making an application to the Council for some assistance to help them to get an advance of their miserably low wages, which we trust may be successful. We wish all in the union a merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year, and shall welcome the time when brighter circumstances will make this wish less a mockery and more a reality.

SOUTHAMPTON.—In sending you a report of our doings for the month, it is gratifying to state that we are getting a little more settled in regard to our working of the Branch. We have had several meetings, with a fair attendance, and hope we shall continue to go on successfully. Our trade is fairly busy, and their seems every prospect of it continuing so till Christmas. Hope to send you a better report next month.

WORCESTER.—In addressing you this month we are sorry to say that there are no signs of any improvement in the state of trade in our branch, if anything, it gets worse, and it is with the greatest effort that our members can pay their contributions, and there is not the slightest prospect of any improvement till next spring. There has been one or two calls on the branch officials with petty disputes, but we are pleased to say that they have been settled to the satisfaction of the men. This being the last time we shall have the pleasure of addressing you this year, we all join in wishing the Council and members throughout the Union the Compliments of the Season, hoping we shall have a prosperous New Year.

THE TRADES UNION CONGRESS PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

To the Officers and Members of Trade Societies.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

The Parliamentary Committee, at their meeting held on the 18th November, 1896, had under discussion a series of important questions affecting all Trade Unions in connection with the Congress, and they ultimately decided to embody the result of their discussion in a circular and send same at once to the Trades for their immediate and serious consideration :—

NOTICE OF MOTION.

Two members of the Committee, at their meeting held on the 14th October, 1896, gave notice of motions which they intended to move at their following meeting (which was held on the 18th inst.), having for their object a clearer definition of Standing Order No. 20, in reference to disputes. The following are the two Resolutions which were unanimously adopted after considerable discussion :—

TRADES UNIONISM AND CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES.

“ On a dispute arising between a Trade Union and a Co-operative Society, the Trade Union shall intimate the difference to the Secretary of the Parliamentary Committee, and on the Trade Union agreeing to pay the expenses that may be incurred by the Parliamentary Committee, if not otherwise met by the parties involved,

“ The matter be at once placed before the Joint Committee of the P.C. and Co-operative Board,

"Or be immediately referred to impartial referees mutually appointed by the parties to the dispute, whose decision in either case shall be final and binding,

"Any Co-operative Society delaying or refusing to have the difference arranged by either of these means be reported to the Trades Union Congress and Co-operative Congress, to be further dealt with."

Re TRADE DISPUTES.

"Before any Society can secure the assistance of the P.C. to settle a dispute with another Society, the Society who desires the assistance of the P.C. must have made a genuine attempt to settle the dispute with the Society with whom they have the grievance.

"If this attempt results in failure, and the aggrieved Society desires the assistance of the P.C., they must give the P.C. a deposit, and guarantee that all expenses will be paid.

"The Society making the application can have either three or five Members of the P.C. to form a Court of Reference. At the close of the investigation the Court shall decide which of the parties shall pay the costs, or whether the expenses shall be borne by both. If a settlement cannot be brought about, the Members of the P.C. forming the Court shall report the result of their labours to a full meeting of the P.C., who shall then see that the Standing Orders of Congress are carried out.

"But no Society shall have the right to bring a charge against another Society at any Annual Trade Congress unless the before-mentioned regulations have been complied with."

CONTRIBUTIONS TO SPECIAL APPEAL LAST YEAR.

The Parliamentary Committee at their meeting also had under serious consideration the financial position of the Congress. The Committee regret to find themselves in anything but a satisfactory condition. This arises from two causes. First—Through the special and altogether exceptional circumstances brought to bear upon their resources in carrying out certain resolutions of Congress entailing large expenditure of money; and secondly—On account of the very limited number of Trades who last year particularly responded to their "Special Appeal." They regret to find that, out of over one hundred and fifty Trades composing the Congress, there were only about twenty who sent any money at all in respect to the appeal, and they are of opinion that if the good work of the Congress is to continue all the Trades will have to pay more regard to appeals of this character, which are only sent out under circumstances of pressing necessity; and they have decided to publish in this circular the names of the Trades who contributed and the amounts, and at the same time to again respectfully appeal to the good sense and sympathy of all those Trades who up to now have paid no regard to the Special Appeal of last year.

CONGRESS REPORTS.

As intimated in the circular sent out on the 26th October, 1896, the Parliamentary Committee had under consideration again, at their last meeting, the question of the Congress Reports, and they decided to make a most respectful yet pressing request to all the Trades purchasing Reports this year to send their remittances for same as early as possible. They also regretted to find that some of the Trades who purchased Congress Trades' Reports last year have not yet paid for them, although in some cases they have been reminded about half a dozen times; and in common fairness to those Trades who discharged their pecuniary responsibilities in this respect with the utmost punctuality, and in carrying out the duty they owe to the Congress, the Committee have decided that this year they are determined to publish the names of those Trades who do not pay for their Reports before the financial statement is made to next Congress. At the same time they sincerely hope that the few Trades lagging behind in this particular matter will render it unnecessary for such steps to be taken.

On behalf of the Parliamentary Committee,

I am, yours obediently,

S. WOODS, Secretary.

REPORT.

FIRST DAY.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1896.

The delegates assembled at 12 noon, when Mr. COWEY, Chairman of the Parliamentary Committee, took the chair. He introduced the Lord Provost of Edinburgh, who was cordially received, and who gave a hearty welcome to the delegates. The Chairman thanked the Lord Provost, magistrates, and members of the Corporation for their attendance, and then proceeded to the ELECTION OF TELLERS.

The CHAIRMAN intimated that the next business was the appointment of six tellers. He proposed to take the nominations for these posts in the old way—that was to say, in the meeting publicly. The Standing Orders Committee and the auditors, however, would be elected differently. In the nomination of these officials he had seen at various Congresses what he considered unseemly disorder—men causing a disturbance to get first, and sometimes to get last. To obviate that, he would require the names to be sent up in writing to the chair. The names would then be placed in the hat, shaken up, and the first name drawn would be the first name voted upon by the Congress. In this way the humblest man would have an equal chance with the man of distinction. (Hear, hear.)

The open nominations for the tellers were then proceeded with, and gave rise to a little “breeze” between the Chairman and certain members in the west wing of the hall, who alleged that his voice did not reach them. The Chairman (whose voice, by the way, is rather stentorian) hinted that his voice might be heard easily enough if the delegates would cease talking to one another. The members in the section of the hall concerned indignantly repudiated the suggestion that they had been talking, and after some further conversation the incident passed off. The result of the voting for tellers was that the following six were elected out of eight nominees:—Mr. Hugh Boyle, miner, Newcastle-on-Tyne, 210 votes; Mr. J. Murray, miner, Barnsley, 164; Mr. W. Parnell, cabinetmaker, London, 102; Mr. J. E. Tattersall, powerloom overlooker, Manchester, 81; Mr. J. Templeton, Scottish Typographical Association, Glasgow, 45; and Mr. R. Fairbairn, Thames watermen, London, 35. Mr. G. Allcroft, Nottingham, obtained 64 votes, and was at first declared elected; but it appeared that he was not in the hall when the announcement was made, and he was passed over in favour of the next man, Mr. Fairbairn.

STANDING ORDERS COMMITTEE.

There were nineteen nominations for five places on the Standing Orders Committee. The result of the voting was as follows:—Mr. W. E. Harvey, Miners' Federation, Chesterfield, 208; Mr. John Wilson, M.P., Durham, 163; Mr. W. Mullin, textile workers, Manchester, 140; Mr. P. Curran, gasworkers, London, 120; and Mr. W. C. Steadman, barge-builders, London, 81.

AUDITORS.

For the office of auditors there were two vacancies, and twelve nominations were given in. The gentlemen selected were:—Councillor W. H. Wilkinson, Northern Counties Amalgamated Society of Weavers (155), and Mr. W. Parrott, Miners' Federation of Great Britain, Barnsley (108).

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT.

The CHAIRMAN afterwards called for nominations for the office of president of the Congress for the week. Only one nomination had been sent in, and it was in favour of his friend, Councillor Mallinson, secretary of the Edinburgh Trades Council. (Applause)

On the motion of Councillor B. TURNER (Batley), Councillor Mallinson was unanimously elected.

Councillor MALLINSON, rising amid loud applause, said he had to thank the delegates for the high compliment they had paid him in electing him as president. He suggested that someone should formally move the election of a vice-president. According to the standing orders, Mr. Cowey would hold that office. (Applause.)

It was formally moved and cordially agreed to, that Mr. Cowey should act as vice-president.

REPORT OF THE PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

The PRESIDENT said that the next business was the Parliamentary Committee's report. According to the standing orders that report must be read, and although he considered this a great waste of time the standing order must be obeyed, and the report must be read.

A DELEGATE asked if he could move the suspension of the standing order.

The CHAIRMAN replied that he could not receive such a motion, and that the report must be read.

There was a general exodus from the hall, which was stopped by the Chairman declaring that if it went on he would adjourn the reading of the report till the following day.

Mr. S. WOOLS, secretary, then read the report, which was as follows:—

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

The past year has almost been a barren period so far as progressive legislation is concerned in the direct interest of the workers. It has been usual when new Governments have come into power to expect, especially during the first year of such Government, measures of rather a startling character to be introduced in the interests of the working-class community; but, although the present Government have been in office for fifteen months, it would be difficult to point to any one really tangible and beneficial measure passed in the interests of labour, and while other measures of a retrograde and questionable character, such as the Education Bill and the Agricultural Rating Bill, have been fully occupying the time of Parliament, measures which were promised in such large profusion during the last Parliamentary Election by candidates seeking the suffrages of the electors—such as the Employers' Liability Bill, the shortening of the hours of labour, old-age pensions, measures to increase greater confidence among the commercial classes of the country with a view to bringing about a better state of trade, and also work for the unemployed—have been grossly neglected.

Perhaps it is a little early to prejudge the actions of the Government, but on the principle of the maxim that "ghosts throw their shadows before them," it is very questionable from indications that have been given in many quarters whether the working-class community need hold out any very high hopes of anything being done for them during the lifetime of the present Parliament.

Your Committee desire to point out how difficult it is to pass measures in which the trades of the country are so deeply interested, because as time advances private members find it more difficult year by year to get measures passed. This arises chiefly through the Governments of the day taking nearly the whole of the time of every Parliamentary Session.

Immediately after the last Congress your Committee set to work with great energy and care to take in hand the work handed over to them by the Congress at Cardiff. At their first meeting they went carefully through every resolution passed, those requiring to be put in the form of a Bill and those which had previously been drafted were at once dealt with and placed in the hands of some member of Parliament for introduction in the House of Commons at the earliest opportunity, and other questions of great importance affecting the workers which could not be very well put in the form of a Bill were relegated to what is commonly called the "omnibus" deputation, and brought before the ministers of the various governmental departments in the month of November, 1895.

IMPORTANT DEPUTATIONS TO CABINET MINISTERS.

On the occasion of this annual deputation a new departure was taken. Your Committee were, from past experience, convinced that to bring such a large array of questions before a number of Cabinet Ministers, representing various departments, was almost next to useless, a waste of time, and of scarcely any practical good. This year they made their arrangements with the respective ministers separately, at different places and on different dates.

The first deputation took place on the 13th November, when some 250 representatives of the various trades met Sir Matthew White Ridley, M.P. (Home Secretary), and others at the Foreign Office. They brought before his notice the following questions:—Employers' Liability Bill, Factory Legislation, Dangerous Trades, Workmen to be represented at Coroners' Inquests, Truck Act Amendment, Youths joining Trade Unions, Bakers and Unhealthy Trades' Schedule, Law of Conspiracy, Compulsory Weighing, Payment of County Councillors, Representation on Governing Bodies, Poor Law Amendment, and Postal Employés and Combination. Sir Matthew White Ridley, in his reply to the various questions, made the following statements, viz.: On the Employers' Liability Bill he said, "It is the intention of the present Government to try and deal with this question in the ensuing session of Parliament." On the doctrine of common employment, "All political parties, so far as I am aware, are agreed upon the abolition of the law embodying the doctrine of common employment." On the question of Mutual Insurance Societies, "We think they ought to be soundly founded wherever established, and have not only provided means of compensation, but have also encouraged a friendly feeling between workmen and employers." On a question being put by Mr. Pickard, M.P., as to the opinion of the Government in regard to the contracting-out clause, the Home Secretary replied, "The Government have no intention of forbidding contracting-out in the Employers' Liability Bill which they will introduce." On the question of Factory Legislation he said, "I am the first to admit the value of the work which Mr. Asquith, and the officials who aided him in my department, did in passing the late intricate and difficult Bill through Parliament, and I desire that there should be absolute continuity to carry out those provisions to the utmost, in order to benefit the working classes of this country. In regard to the particulars clause, one clause of the late Act enormously extended the operation of the particulars clause, because the number of factories to which it applies is very nearly doubled, and you must recollect that if an inspector now is able to satisfy the Secretary of State he has power to apply the particulars clause to non-textile factories, and I have every desire to carry out the intentions of the Act." With regard to the extension of the Act to docks he said, "We shall do our best to carry out the Act as it stands, and if it needs amelioration for the future it will be a matter for consideration."

Your Committee felt that the foregoing points were so very important that they should be introduced in this report in order to refresh your memories, but with the object of abbreviating this part of their report it is impossible to refer to all the various questions raised by the deputations; this is unnecessary, especially as the Committee have issued a verbatim report of the replies of the respective ministers on all the points raised, which has been sent out to all trades composing the Congress.

FAIR WAGES RESOLUTION (1891).

In the early part of March, 1896, our Secretary received a communication from Mr. Sydney Buxton, M.P., intimating that he had given notice of motion to introduce into the House of Commons the following important resolution, viz.:—"To call attention to the Fair Wages Resolution, and to move that a Select Committee be appointed to consider the question of the administration of the Fair Wages Resolution of February, 1891." This motion was down for Tuesday, the 24th March, and at the request of the representatives of some of the trades particularly interested in this question, our Secretary, fully knowing the views of the Parliamentary Committee on this subject, at once issued a pressing whip to every member of the House of Commons, asking him to be in his place and support Mr. Sydney Buxton. On the date mentioned, the motion was duly brought under discussion in the House of Commons, and the Government, in reply to Mr. Buxton's speech, promised to appoint a Select Committee as mentioned in the terms of the motion.

Of course it is well known that this Committee was appointed, and has commenced taking evidence from the various parties interested. At the instigation of members of the Committee, the Parliamentary Committee placed themselves in communication with several representatives of the trades concerned in order that they should give evidence on behalf of the workers as to the administration of the Fair Wages Resolution of 1891. In connection with this subject your Committee desire to point out that on Friday, the 26th of June, Captain Norton, M.P., proposed to reduce by £100 the vote on Army Estimates, Ordnance Factories (in respect to wages at Woolwich Arsenal), in which he proposed to secure a minimum wage for labourers of 24s. per week, the minimum at the present time being 17s 6d. Immediately this came to the knowledge of your Committee, our Secretary, on behalf of the Committee, issued a pressing whip to all the members of the House of Commons asking them to be in their places and give all support possible to Captain Norton in his laudable effort. This motion was adjourned until Friday, the 7th of August, when a fairly long debate took place on the subject, and assurances were given to Captain Norton by Mr. Balfour and Mr. Powell Williams that the fullest inquiry would be made into the subject, but they could give no definite promise, therefore Captain Norton pressed his motion to a division, when 57 members voted for his motion and 145 against it. Your Committee feel that this matter is so very important that they intend to print with the report of this Congress the division list for the information and guidance of the trades.

TRUCK BILL.

The "omnibus" deputation in November last brought before the Home Secretary the question of introducing into Parliament an amended Truck Bill. In April, this year, Sir Matthew White Ridley (Home Secretary) and Mr. Jesse Collings (Under Secretary) introduced a Bill in the House of Commons dealing with this subject. The Bill passed its second reading, and was sent to the Standing Committee on Trade. A report of the proceedings of the Committee, with the division lists, the original Bill, also the Bill as amended, and the present Act, will be published with the Annual Report of the Edinburgh Congress for the information of the trades. Your Committee regret to find that this Bill is not of a satisfactory character, inasmuch as it contains a contracting-out clause, and, in the opinion of some experienced trade-union leaders, gives great and dangerous scope for the creation of numerous fines and deductions. The unsatisfactory character of this Bill is shown by the fact that several resolutions protesting against it have been sent in by the trades to your Committee. The Bill now having passed all its stages, and become an Act of Parliament, the Parliamentary Committee desire to suggest a thorough examination of all its provisions and its special application to the respective trades, and afterwards any further amendment will be a question for future consideration.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY BILL.

Immediately after the deputation which waited upon the Home Secretary and other ministers, and rather lengthily referred to in the early part of this report, your Committee, feeling so dissatisfied with the answers given on behalf of the Government and the dilatoriness on their part in not introducing the measure as promised to the deputation, decided at once to re-introduce Mr. Asquith's Bill of last Parliament, in harmony with the instructions given at the Cardiff Congress. This important Bill was placed in the hands of Mr. John Burns, M.P., and others, and was introduced in the House of Commons in the early part of this year, and has been constantly kept on the orders of the day right up to the closing of the session, but as the whole of the private members' time has been taken up by the Government the Bill has had no chance of reaching the second reading. Before leaving this question your Committee desire to point out that prior to the Bill being introduced they ventured on your behalf to add to Mr. Asquith's Bill two additional clauses of the greatest value, viz.: (1) "That within ten days after the receipt of the plaintiff's particulars of demand the defendant shall deliver to the plaintiff or his solicitor, and to the court, particulars of his defence setting out in ordinary language the facts upon which he proposes to rely at the trial, and if he alleges that the accident was occasioned by or contributed to by the plaintiff's negligence, the particulars must disclose in what respect he alleges such negligence consisted." (2) "That the onus of proof in regard to all kinds of accidents shall fall upon the employers instead of the workman as at present."

SHIPPING FEDERATION BILL.

In the month of February, 1895, a very important private Bill was introduced into the House of Commons at the instigation of the Shipping Federation. In the opinion of your Committee and the labour leaders in connection with the shipping industry this Bill was fraught with great danger to the working-class community, and intended to strike a blow at the freedom of contract and the independence of workmen, and was derogatory to the cause of labour generally. Feeling the importance of this move on behalf of the capitalistic classes, your Committee lost no time in mustering all the opposition possible against the Bill. They at once issued a very important circular (on March 7th) to all the trade societies throughout the country, asking them to bring their influence to bear upon the Government and their local M.P.'s. It is gratifying to find that the action thus taken has resulted in much good, as nothing further has been heard of the "Shipping Federation Bill," and so far as we learn it has been dropped.

CONSPIRACY AND PROTECTION OF PROPERTY ACT (1875).

This Act of Parliament has always been a thorny question, of great uncertainty, and a great variety of interpretations have been placed upon it by the judges in our law courts. This year it has been brought into greater prominence than in any previous year since it became law. There have been several cases wherein the interests of certain industries have been vitally affected, namely, the London Compositors, the National Plate Glass Bevelers, and the Amalgamated Society of Fancy Leather Workers, where the methods of picketing during strikes and lockouts, which have been usually adopted without question for many years past, have been seriously checkmated and greatly hampered by the attacks made by the employers in those industries. Although your Committee, acting on the instructions of previous Congresses, have been trying for years to amend the law in the interests of the trade-union movement, they regret that up to the present time the law should still be in such an unsatisfactory condition; and they are of opinion, especially in the face of recent decisions and pending appeal cases wherein it is sought to get the highest legal opinion in the realm as to the judges' interpretation of the law, that this Congress and the trade-unionists of the country ought to lose no time and leave no stone unturned which will enable them to place the conspiracy laws of the country on a sounder and more satisfactory basis.

With a view of giving satisfaction to the trades who have contributed towards the appeal being made to the House of Lords, your Committee have decided to issue a detailed balance sheet with the Congress Report.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS.

The International Socialist Workers and Trades Union Congress was held in the Queen's Hall, Langham Place, London, from Monday, July 27th, to Saturday, August 1st, 1896. The arrangements were made by a joint committee, consisting of six members of the Parliamentary Committee and six members of the Zurich Committee, and the expenses, which were naturally great, having regard to the fact of its comprehensive and extensive character and the difficulties which were naturally inherent on account of the linguistic, racial, and other complications which do not arise in holding an ordinary Congress, were borne by the Parliamentary Committee and the Socialist bodies respectively. No doubt there are divers opinions as to whether this Congress was a success or a failure, and although there may be great doubts as to the utility of holding such Congresses, on the ground of the diversity of representation, conflict of policies, and the difficulties of language, yet your Committee feel that this is not the place to criticise, approve, or condemn, they having simply acted on the instructions given by previous Congresses, and carried out the mandates given unto them. It is only fair to point out, having regard to all that took place at the late Congress and the experiences of the past, whether it would be a wise and prudent policy for the Trades Union Congress in the future to identify itself with Congresses of this character.

TRADE-UNIONISM AND CO-OPERATION.

On Whit Monday, this year, the Co-operative Union Limited held their Annual Congress at Woolwich, and your Committee appointed Mr. J. H. Wilson, M.P., and Mr. E. Harford to represent the Trades Union Congress on that occasion, and the following is the report presented by the representatives:—

Report of Mr. J. Havelock Wilson, M.P., and Mr. Harford, attending the Cooperative Congress at Woolwich.

June 3rd, 1896.

"GENTLEMEN,—In accordance with your instructions, we attended the Co-operative Congress, held at Woolwich on May 25th, 26th, and 27th.

"We are pleased to inform you that we, as representing the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress, received a hearty welcome from the delegates present, and our references to the future of trade-unionism and co-operation were received with much applause. We were very much struck with the earnestness of the delegates present, and very pleased to say that the work done was most useful. In private conversation, we gathered from some of the prominent labour leaders present, that they heartily desire trade-unionism and co-operation to work hand in hand.—Yours faithfully,

"J. HAVELOCK WILSON.

"E. HARFORD."

In connection with the co-operative movement a very important case arose in the month of February, 1896, between the Directors of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society and the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives. After considerable correspondence which took place between your Committee and the Scottish co-operators, and several meetings held between the joint committees and the local operatives affected, the following agreement was come to which led to a satisfactory settlement of the dispute:—

Agreement.

March 31st, 1896.

With a view of settling the existing dispute between the Directors of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society and the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives, the following conditions of agreement have been entered into between Peter Glasse, Albert Johnson, John Adams, and John Arthur, representing the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, and John Burden, Alex. Smith, and William Inskip, representing the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives:—

1. In the event of any breakage occurring in the Piecework Lasters'

Department, the same not being the fault of the workman, and should the workman in such department be required to undo and re-make, he shall be paid double rates for same; but should the fault be the workman's, he shall receive no payment for re-making, but can have the option of purchasing the boots at wholesale price.

2. That in future the wages of the Clickers shall not be less than 30s. per week.

3. That the wages of Pressmen be not less than 28s. per week.

4. That the wages of Time Lasters be not less than 30s. per week.

5. That the wages of Time Finishers be not less than 30s. per week.

6. But in any of the above departments special cases will be considered, and a special permit by mutual agreement may be given to work for less than the above rates by the officials of the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives.

7. That the National Committee representing the Co-operative Union and the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress be thanked by both sides for their offer of services in the above disputes.

8. That in future should any dispute arise between the management and the workmen regarding breakages or any other matter, the same shall be submitted in the first instance by the workman to the management, and failing a settlement the dispute shall then be dealt with by the representatives of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society and the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives. No strike or lockout to take place pending such investigation.

AMERICAN DELEGATION.

Acting on the instructions given at the Cardiff Congress, the Parliamentary Committee at their meeting on the 8th October, 1895, appointed Mr. E. Cowey (chairman of the Parliamentary Committee) and Mr. James Mawdsley to represent the Trades Union Congress at the American Convention, which commenced its sittings on the 9th day of December, 1895, which was held at New York. The following is the report of the delegation:—

Report of Delegation to America.

"GENTLEMEN,

"Having been appointed by the Parliamentary Committee to attend the Fifteenth Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labour, held in New York, we herewith present a summarised report of our visit.

"The sittings commenced on Monday, December 9th, 1895, and were continued to the 17th inclusive. It was attended by 96 delegates, representing about half a million of workers. The organisation of the movement is somewhat different to our own, and requires a higher rate of subscription than that paid to our Trades Union Congress. We do not, however, feel called upon to make comparisons in detail, as the differing circumstances of each country must require varying treatment. In one direction we, however, think that British trade-unionists might consider whether they could not wisely follow our American brethren. This is in the devolution of resolutions to specially appointed committees. Were this only partially done it would leave the Congress itself time to discuss the more important questions which it might choose to retain in its own hands.

"The business which came before the Convention was pretty much on all fours with that which is dealt with at our own meetings. The system of representation and payment according to numbers is exactly on the same principle agreed upon by the Trades Union Congress held at Cardiff last year. As showing how this works, there were some delegates who had over seventy votes each as against one held by others, but it never seemed to be considered that there was any anomaly in this, and the proceedings were got through as smoothly as could be. In this connection we may pay a high tribute to the calmness and gentlemanly bearing which characterised the conduct of the delegates throughout. There was no approach to disorder at any time, and the chairman literally kept order with a toothpick. In a movement claiming to be the advance guard of reform, this exhibition of self-restraint and business capacity must of itself go far to bring success.

"Whilst in the States your representatives made every effort to make themselves acquainted with the various phases of the labour movement, and are pleased to be able to report that it appears to be increasingly recognised that trade-unionism, with its capacity for development in almost every direction, best meets the requirements of the workers.

"In addition to spending a considerable proportion of our spare time in visiting workshops and factories in New York, we made a brief tour of the mining and textile districts respectively, from which we gathered that in America as at home there is ample room for the workers to improve their position, and it is hoped that the friendly interchange of views and experiences between the workers of the two countries will help this forward.

"We cannot speak too highly of the manner in which we were received on all hands. Every attention was lavished on us, and nothing was left undone to make our visit both instructive and pleasant, for which we return our hearty thanks.—Yours faithfully,

"JAS. MAWDSLEY.

"E. COWEY."

EXCESSIVE HOURS WORKED BY BOYS ON THE THAMES AND OTHER RIVERS.

During the year your Committee have given a great amount of attention to this important question. Soon after the last Congress the Committee placed themselves in communication with several of the trade-union leaders interested, and after they had satisfied themselves as to the bonâ fides of the complaints and allegations made in respect to the scandalously long hours which are being worked by boys and mere youths, as indicated in a resolution passed at Cardiff Congress, they took the earliest opportunity of taking the most practical steps possible for remedying the evils complained of. In November, the deputation that waited upon Mr. Ritchie, M.P. (the President of the Board of Trade), brought this matter under his notice, and in reply he made the following statement: "If the allegations which have been made are founded on fact a remedy ought to be sought. I will make an inquiry into the matter, and if the statements are found to be true we will take measures to prevent what you complain of.' Your Secretary, on behalf of the Parliamentary Committee, at once supplied Mr. Ritchie with a large number of cases where these boys had worked as much as six days and six nights, seven days and five nights, and seven days and four nights in one week respectively. Mr. Ritchie, who had satisfied himself as to the truthfulness of these allegations, to his credit be it said, at once set machinery in motion to remedy these evils. He even went so far as to send out a special commissioner, along with certain labour leaders who were directly interested, who spent nights on the river making full inquiries, and it is expected that shortly Mr. Ritchie will issue a report giving definite instructions to prohibit these excessive hours of labour. Your Committee consider it to be a pressing duty to watch these proceedings with the closest interest, and hope that very soon the long hours thus worked will be entirely abolished.

MERCHANDISE MARKS BILL.

During the year the Parliamentary Committee have taken active steps in regard to this measure. First of all, they appealed to several members of the House of Commons, asking them to introduce the Bill which was drafted and agreed to some three years ago by your Committee, but finding considerable difficulty in getting anyone to take charge of this measure the Committee put themselves in communication with Colonel Sir Howard Vincent, M.P., and asked him if he would introduce it. In reply, he stated that he had already a Bill before the House of Commons dealing with this subject, and he suggested that as the two Bills were so near alike in substance the Parliamentary Committee might agree to give their support to him in his efforts to get his Bill through Parliament. It is unnecessary, however, to say that Colonel Sir Howard Vincent's Bill, like all other private members' Bills, was among the slaughtered innocents, on account of the Government taking up the whole of the time of Parliament.

AMENDMENT TO FACTORIES ACT.

At the Cardiff Congress a number of resolutions were passed suggesting alterations in the Factories Act. These resolutions have been carefully drafted by your Committee into a Bill, and placed in the hands of Mr. Dalziel, M.P., but, through the lack of Parliamentary time and opportunity, the Bill has not reached a second reading. Your Committee intend, at the beginning of the next session of Parliament, to see to its reintroduction, and, if possible, its passing into law.

GENERAL LEGISLATION.

During the year your Committee have drafted a Bill dealing with the question of Watermen's Certificates, and placed the same in the hands of Mr. M. Austin, M.P., and other members of Parliament. This Bill has been introduced, and awaits the second reading. Bills dealing with the important questions of the Taxation of Mining Royalties, Steam Engines (Persons in Charge), and the Seagoing Ships Carpenters' Certificate Bill have been placed in the hands of Mr. J. H. Wilson, M.P., but your Committee regret that he has been unable to introduce them through lack of time and opportunity. Mr. H. J. Reckitt, M.P. for the Brigg division of Lincolnshire, has kindly consented to take charge of a Bill which has been drawn up at the instigation of your Committee on the subject of Foreign Ships and Compensation, and he will introduce the same early next session. Your Committee also desire to point out that at the beginning of last session of Parliament the Miners' Eight Hours Bill was very unfortunate in the ballot, and although some twenty members balloted for the same, it got no chance of reaching a second reading.

CONCLUDING REMARKS.

In concluding their report your Committee desire to point out to the Congress a new departure which seems to have been taken by some of the Cabinet Ministers in the present Government. It has been usual in the past for ministers presiding over the various Government departments, when requested by the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress, to meet deputations to inquire into the complaints and grievances of Government employes, and while they are prepared to give the fullest credit to Sir Matthew White Ridley, M.P. (Home Secretary), Mr. Ritchie, M.P. (President of the Board of Trade), and one or two other ministers who have shown the utmost courtesy and given the fullest consideration to every application made to them, yet there are one or two ministers, namely, the Postmaster-General and the Secretary of State for War, who have not acted towards the trade-union movement with that consideration which all precedents would justify us in expecting from them. Early in the session the Parliamentary Committee were requested by the postal employés to use their influence to get a thorough inquiry into their grievances. They at once made a respectful application for an interview, but regret to say that the application was absolutely refused by the Postmaster-General; also on the 7th of May, 1896, Sir Charles Dilke, M.P., very kindly put the following question to the Minister for the War Department, viz.:—"To ask the Financial Secretary to the War Office whether the department received a letter in the early part of the present session from the Trades Union Congress Parliamentary Committee on behalf of the carpenters, masons, painters, &c., employed in the Government departments at Woolwich and other places, asking the Secretary of State for War if he would receive a deputation from those bodies, whether it had been usual for ministers to meet deputations of a similar character, and what were the grounds of refusal in this case, and whether the Secretary of State for War is willing to reconsider his decision in respect to the receiving of a deputation from the workmen in regard to the grievances of which they complain?"

The Under Secretary of State for War replied as follows:—"That he had received such an application in February last, but he declined to receive the deputation on the following grounds:—That it was open to the workmen of the War department to bring their grievances to the notice of the officers responsible for the control of the various establishments by the authorised and recognised methods, and that complaints brought forward in this manner would receive careful consideration, but he was not prepared to reconsider his decision."

This, in the opinion of your Committee, is a very unsatisfactory state of things, and more particularly so because the Minister for War and other ministers in the last Parliament always showed the utmost courtesy and willingness to receive deputations on behalf of the Government employés, to inquire into their legitimate and just grievances.

We may add that if the members of the trades would in their respective constituencies bring pressure to bear on the local M.P.'s to support our proposals it would materially assist the Committee in obtaining better legislative results in the future.

Before concluding their report the Committee desire to refer to the fact that Mr. George Shipton, of London, after long service spent in the cause of labour, has unfortunately decided to separate himself (that is so far as active service is concerned) from the labour movement. This is indicated by his resigning the position which he has so honourably filled as Secretary of the London Trades Council. We desire to recognise in our report the valuable services he has rendered in the past, and we sincerely wish him good health and every success in the future.

In submitting this report your Committee desire to point out to Congress that this has been a year of great activity. They have had to deal with a large number of pressing questions affecting the cause of labour. They have given every attention possible to the great trust you reposed in them at Cardiff last year, and they have much pleasure in submitting this record of their labours, and sincerely hope that the Congress will fully endorse the same.

We are, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Yours truly,

The PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

E. COWEY, Chairman.
D. HOLMES, Vice-Chairman.
W. INSKIP, Treasurer.
J. MAWDSLEY.
E. HARFORD.
A. WILKIE.
F. CHANDLER.
GEO. FERGUSON.
W. THORNE.
J. M. JACK.
J. H. WILSON.
J. HODGE.
S. WOODS, Secretary.

At the conclusion of the reading of the report by Mr. Woods (it being then about half-past two o'clock), the Congress adjourned, to meet again the following morning at half-past nine.

LUNCHEON AND SAIL ON THE FORTH.

The members of the Congress and their lady friends were subsequently entertained to luncheon in the Waterloo Hotel. Mr. William Laird (Glasgow), president of the National Union of Conservative Associations, occupied the chair, and among the company were:—Mr. John Wilson, M.P.; Mr. J. H. Wilson, M.P.; Mr. E. Cowey, Councillor Mallinson, Bailie Jack, Glasgow; Mr. J. Hodge, Mr. Holmes, Mr. S. Woods, Mr. Harford, Colonel Forbes Mackay, Mr. Wm. Whitelaw, Huntingtower; Mr. C. M. Johnston, Mr. John C. Guy, and Mr. P. W. Ballingall, secretary of the National Union of Conservative Associations. The company, which numbered 530, were rather late in arriving owing to the proceedings in the Music Hall being protracted by the reading of the Parliamentary Committee's report. The only toasts were "The Queen" and "The Trades Congress."

Mr. WILLIAM WHITELAW, ex-M.P. for Perth, in proposing "The Trades Congress," said that some people would perhaps think it extraordinary that the Trades Congress should be entertained by the president of the Conservative party in Scotland, but they were a trade society, a trade association, and not a political caucus. (Applause.) But however widely any of them might differ upon one question or another, they would all agree that they could receive nothing but good from being associated one with another at such a meeting as this, from which they would be able to see different questions from each other's point of view. He was sure that the Trades Congress could not have met in the capital of Scotland under better auspices than they had done this week, for it had met upon the very day upon which they had received from the newspapers the information, for which they were all, he was sure, grateful, that the threatened great strike in Glasgow had been averted. (Applause.) When a strike had been averted or had come to an end, it was never good policy to say the masters had won or that the men had won; but he thought they would allow him to claim that its end had been a triumph for trade-unionism. (Applause.)

Mr. Woods responded for the Trades Congress. Though they might differ on matters of political opinion in their own ranks, yet they could all agree on a social festive occasion like this to put their politics on one side. Though they had their own private political opinions, as a united number of trades they knew no politics at all, for what they came together to consider were questions affecting the great industries of the kingdom. (Applause.) He concluded by proposing "The Chairman."

Mr. LAIRD, in reply, said that although they were divided politically, he hoped the day was far distant when they would be so antagonistic that they could not meet at a social function of that description. He concluded by mentioning that Lord Hopetoun had written as follows:—"Pray consider Hopetoun House, grounds, and gardens entirely at your disposal for the proposed visit of the Trades Congress delegates," and he expressed regret that the arrangements of the Congress prevented them taking advantage of the invitation.

After luncheon the delegates, accompanied by their friends, to the number of about 600, on the invitation of Mr. Laird, were conveyed in two special trains to North Leith and enjoyed a sail on the Firth. The "Tantallon Castle," by which they were conveyed, passed along the south shore of the Firth, under the Forth Bridge, and round H.M.S. "Edinburgh" and "Caledonia," returning by way of the north shore and Inchkeith. The outing seemed to be thoroughly enjoyed by the guests, who, on their return, expressed their thanks to Mr. Laird for his kindness. Regret was expressed at their inability to take advantage of Lord Hopetoun's kind offer to visit the castle and grounds on account of the time being limited.

SECOND DAY.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1896.

The Congress re-assembled at 9-30, Councillor JOHN MALLINSON (president) in the chair.

After the minutes of the previous day's proceedings had been read and passed,

The SECRETARY (Mr. S. Woods) intimated that the American, German, and co-operative delegations would address the Congress that forenoon.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.

The PRESIDENT, who was received with loud applause, rose to deliver his opening address. He said—Ladies and gentlemen, it is my duty to again thank you for having elected me to the honourable position of president of this Congress, and to offer you, on behalf of the trades of the district, a hearty welcome to Edinburgh. Let us hope that your visit may lead to a quickening of spirit in the local unions, and may stimulate them to endeavour to take every advantage the revival of trade may afford them to improve the conditions of their employment. Let us also hope that your deliberations may lead to a lessening of the points of difference amongst the various sections of the Congress, and to a more general agreement as to the policy to be pursued on the more immediate questions affecting our movement. (Applause.) An eminent French statesman once remarked that no party ever became a power in the State till it had learned the lesson of sticking to that which divided it least. When there is so much on which we are all agreed it is a pity to waste energy on that which divides us. Let us unite to get what is practical and possible; when that is done there may be more unanimity as to what is to come next. (Hear, hear.) In the sixteen years that have passed since the Congress last met in Edinburgh important changes affecting labour have taken place. It is not only that the programme of the Congress of that date, as embodied in the resolutions passed by it, has been largely carried out. That is much, for it means to the worker that many disabilities have been removed. But beyond that, a gradual change has come over all classes of the community in regard to the way in which labour questions are viewed. There is a feeling that somehow things are wrong, and a widespread desire to do something towards putting them right. Our friends the Socialists have done much to cause this general awakening. They have roused the national conscience by painting in vivid colours the misery and degradation caused by the defects of our present commercial and industrial system. They have helped to spread amongst the workers a strong feeling of discontent with the arrangement that gives them the most of the labour and the least of the wealth; and to others at their expense the least of the labour and the most of the wealth. (Hear, hear.) To the literature that has sprung up on social and economic subjects they have largely contributed, and so effectively as to have drawn universal attention to the fact that however the present condition of things came about, and however much it may be an improvement on a former condition, yet it is still very far from satisfactory. They are, perhaps, doing more good than they know, and in a direction they give little heed to, by constantly preaching—as Mr. Herbert Spencer puts it—that there is something mean in being a useless consumer of things that others produce—in enjoying without working at the expense of those who work without enjoying. (Hear, hear.) In so far as their words have weight, they are helping to bring about a remedy by modifying the opinions held by the possessors of undue wealth, and thus paving the way for much-needed legislative action. To see that much has already been done in this direction, it is only necessary to think of the change that has passed over the opinions of the ruling classes since Kingsley wrote “Alton Locke.” We must ask them, however, to bear with those of us who, though feeling as keenly as they do that a remedy is needed, yet cannot see that the remedies they proposed are calculated to bring about the desired results, and who believe that the social millennium will come by degrees, and only in proportion as juster ideas and kindlier feelings pervade all classes. The millennium is still a long way off, however, and there is still fighting to be done. There is some difference of opinion, however, amongst us as to the best method of fighting. There are some who think trade-unionism has had its day, that, though it has done much for the worker, it can only effect little at a time, and that if its organisation and power could be utilised politically much greater progress would be made. Others prefer to keep to the old lines on which substantial progress has already been made. This difference of opinion would be of less consequence if it were not for the waste of energy caused by disputing as to which method is superior, and the danger of crippling our movement by the disputants playing at cross purposes. There need be no rivalry, there is room for both. By all means let us have a workers’ political party, only let it be kept outside trade-unionism. There is plenty of work for such a party, and though it could render valuable assistance to trade-unionism, it could not take the place of the latter. It could not unite the workers in the same way. The strength of trade-unionism hitherto has lain in the fact that it formed a common ground where workers of all shades of political opinion, of all creeds, and of both sexes could meet to take united action to improve their conditions of employment. It is only by maintaining this broad basis that it can form an effective weapon of offence and defence in the hands of the workers in their struggle to prevent capital appropriating all the value of labour beyond what is required to give the worker a bare subsistence. We believe that the fight of trade-unionism in the future will be for a living wage and to establish the claim that, as labour is the chief factor in production, the remuneration of labour should be the first charge on production. (Applause) This may be considered economic heresy, but it seems unfair that nothing too hard can be said of the miner who asks to have what will enable him to live decently, while there is no word of condemnation for the exacter of royalties, wayleaves, &c. While it is important that this line of defence against capital should remain unbroken, yet it could be strongly supported by political action. The first step towards the formation of a political labour party in Parliament is to secure the payment of members and of returning officers' expenses. As matters stand at present we cannot expect that working men will be returned to Parliament except in a few isolated cases; in the first place, the payment of the returning officers' expenses is in itself sufficient to deter many men from going forward; in the second place, British constituencies will not send men to Parliament unless they are sure that they have means to maintain themselves when they get there. Macaulay once said that it was impossible for a poor man in the House of Commons to be honest, and it was impossible that he could be thought so. The British public to day so far shares that opinion as to prevent the return of any great number of workers to Parliament. To attempt to do so at present amounts to little else than creating a diversion in favour of one or other of the political parties into which the employing classes are divided. As this is the political question on which the working classes are most united, we should concentrate our energies in trying to settle it at the next election by making it a test question, and agreeing to support the candidate, no matter to what party he belongs, who will pledge himself to support a measure to secure this end. (Applause.) The chief obstacle to labour being a power in Parliament would thus be in a fair way to be removed. The Parliamentary session which has just closed has not been distinguished for legislation in the interests of labour, and in what has been obtained the employer has been tenderly dealt with. The Amended Truck Act contains the inevitable loophole for the employer, inasmuch as it legalises "contracting out" on the part of the worker, which, in effect, means that the employer can compel him to "contract out" by making that a condition of employment. A Conciliation in Disputes Act has also been passed, but it is to be feared that it will be of little use in either preventing or settling disputes. The most that can be said for it is that it gives expression to a public sentiment against industrial war. It cannot be said that boards of conciliation and arbitration have fulfilled the expectations of those who first advocated them as a means of preventing disputes between employers and workmen. It is very seldom that conciliation boards agree, and when an arbitrator has to be called in he is almost certain, from the nature of the case, to be unconsciously biassed in favour of the employers. Of course, an arbitrator chosen from the working classes would be subject to the same kind of unconscious bias; but would the employers tolerate the suggestion of having such an arbitrator? It seems to me that if a committee composed of employers and representatives of the workmen cannot come to terms, there is no alternative but a struggle; and while admitting that hasty and ill-considered action on the part of the workers often precipitates a strike, still I believe that if there were a franker recognition by the employers of the workers' right of combination, and if they showed a greater disposition to receive and treat with the representatives of the men, there would be fewer strikes. Next session we are likely to have an Employers' Liability Bill introduced, and, while we may safely assume that in many respects it will be an improvement on the Act of 1880, yet, considering the present composition of the House of Commons, there is reason to fear that the contracting-out clause, introduced by the House of Lords into the Bill of the late Government, will be a prominent feature of the new Bill. The Parliamentary Committee has given prominence to this question on the agenda paper, and, if contracting-out is to be made illegal, some very decided action must be taken by the trades of the country when the Bill comes before Parliament. The main principle involved in the Bill is in danger of being lost sight of by getting mixed up with insurance and compensation. We must therefore make it clear that we do not ask this legislation solely with a view to securing compensation for injuries, but that we aim chiefly at making the employer liable for injuries caused by his not taking every possible precaution against accident. (Hear, hear.) In this we are not seeking any privilege for the worker, but rather the removal of a disability, so that, in relation to his employer, he may be placed on the same footing as the ordinary citizen. No objection can be taken to employers and workmen mutually agreeing to any fair scheme of insurance, but we cannot admit that, because of the existence of any such scheme, the worker should suffer any limitation of his legal rights. The necessity for shortening the working day to eight hours has been before the Congress in some form or other for the past twelve years, and though there have been differences of opinion as to the methods to be adopted for obtaining it, there has never been any question as to its being necessary in order to check the disorganisation caused by labour being displaced by the rapid extension and increasing productiveness of machinery. (Applause.) The workers have a right to expect that one of the advantages should be to give them more leisure to enjoy life. (Hear, hear.) While I believe that in many occupations shorter hours cannot be got except by legislation, I do not see why trade unions should wait for legislation. The miners are within measurable distance of getting their Bill, but there is no use disguising the fact that, considering the normal progress of our legislative machine, a general Bill is not conceivable within the next quarter of a century. Are the unionists who won the nine hours day twenty-five years ago—are they going to wait all that time for an eight hours day? If so they will be giving some justification to the taunt, on the one hand, that trade-unionism is a “played-out force;” and, on the other hand, that when they rely on the State to do things for them they lose confidence in their nerve and ability to do things for themselves. (Hear, hear.) In conclusion, let me say that the agenda paper that has been placed before you for discussion contains many resolutions of great importance, which, from their nature, are bound to cause much difference of opinion. But let us bear in mind that we are met for a common object, to endeavour to do what lies in our power to cure the many and great evils of our industrial system, to endeavour to render the phrase “the dignity of labour” the real expression of public opinion, and not the hollow mockery it is at present. While all are agreed as to what we want, we are not by any means agreed as to how we are to get it, but let us be charitable in our differences, let us give each other credit for honesty of purpose and for an earnest desire to do what in us lies to forward the cause of labour. Let us concentrate our efforts, and, in the words of George Eliot, resolve “not to waste energy, but to apply force where it will tell, to do small work close at hand, not waiting for speculative chances of heroism, but preparing for them.” Above all, let us try to realise our representative responsibility, and to remember that the real significance of our decisions lies in the extent to which they represent the great body of the working classes. (Loud applause.)

Mr. C. FENWICK, M.P., in moving a vote of thanks to Mr. Mallinson for his address, said it would be difficult, perhaps almost impossible, to find any person to occupy the position which the president of that Congress held whose views would be in perfect agreement with those held by all the delegates there assembled, and it would not be expected that he (Mr. Fenwick) necessarily endorsed every sentiment that was embodied in the very excellent speech to which they had just listened. But whether they endorsed his opinions or not, Councillor Mallinson had expressed those opinions in a lucid and straightforward manner, and had thereby commended himself to the goodwill and to the kindly affections of that Congress.

The motion was seconded, and the vote was very cordially passed.

PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The Congress then proceeded to discuss, seriatim, the clauses of the Parliamentary Committee's Report.

Mr. PARNELL (London) regretted that the Parliamentary Committee had taken no action to carry into effect the resolution passed at Glasgow and Norwich to secure an enactment making employers responsible for workmen's tools destroyed in factories by fire.

Mr. WOODS (secretary) replied that the committee had drawn up a Bill and put it in the hands of Mr. Dalziel, M.P., the second clause of which was to make employers liable to an amount not exceeding £10.

In reply to Mr. Gee (Huddersfield) and others, it was stated that a report would be issued regarding the cases taken on appeal to the House of Lords under the Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act. It was also stated that for the prosecution of the cases societies had subscribed between £ 00 and £300, further sums having been promised.

Regarding the references to the recent International Congress,

Mr. SMILLIE (Larkhall) asked what the Parliamentary Committee meant to point out in the last clause of their report. It seemed vague. The committee said they felt that this was not the place to criticise, approve, or condemn, and yet they almost went to the verge of condemning, although they had not really done so.

Mr. FENWICK, M.P., agreed with Mr. Smillie that the committee were apparently willing to wound, but afraid to strike. The clause was certainly vague in the extreme. The paragraph contained some very significant and suggestive words. It stated that no doubt there were diverse opinions as to whether the Congress was a success or a failure, and went on to point out that it might be desirable at some future period for the Congress to reconsider its position and relationship towards such international congresses. What the Congress were entitled to from the Parliamentary Committee was some more definite leading on this point, and he should like an expression of opinion as to what were the precise views of the Parliamentary Committee on this question. If it were the belief of the committee, as the paragraph seemed to indicate, that they should no longer hold such direct and close connection with such international congresses, why had they not had the courage by express resolution to propose such a course to the Congress?

Mr. B. PICKARD, M.P., expressed his satisfaction with the clause complained of, and in the course of criticism of the International Congress said he did not believe in gatherings where everyone came to talk and were never called upon to pay. (Laughter, and "hear, hear.") The committee had not merely dared to strike, but had struck, and they held out no hope of joining any future Congress composed as the last was of men unknown in this country, and perhaps not known in their own. They wanted men representing working men, who knew their constituents and were known by them. (Applause.)

Mr. INSKIP, replying to Messrs. Smillie and Fenwick, said that so far as the Parliamentary Committee were concerned, their labours ceased on Friday. The next International Congress will take place three years hence, and they all knew that in the labour movement there was rapidity of change, and it would have been unfair for the committee to bind their successors for three years as to what they should do at the next International Congress. (Applause.) In the next place, the committee itself was divided, but as they had to issue a collective report they had to consider the minority equally with the majority. His opinion was that the Congress was a farce. (Hear, hear.) It was a gross waste of money—(hear, hear)—and he could have forgiven that waste, but it brought discredit upon the movement with which he had been associated since he was a boy. He was strongly in favour of an International Congress, but it should have bona-fide representatives. They should not have mushroom men who only represented themselves. He would have an International Congress conducted on the lines of their own Congress; they should have real representatives, who should conduct themselves with some regard for law and order.

Mr. M'LEOD (London) said he understood the Parliamentary Committee had equal power with the Zurich Committee, and surely they could have laid down a basis of representation for the International Congress. The Congress might have been a failure from a trade union point of view, but if it were so, it was entirely due to the want of organisation on the part of each committee. (Applause.)

Mr. PARNELL (London) moved as an amendment that the following part of the report be deleted:—

It is only fair to point out, having regard to all that took place at the late Congress, and the experience of the past, whether it would be a wise and prudent policy for the Trades Union Congress in the future to identify itself with Congresses of this character.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Parnell said he attended the International Congress as representing his trade union, and he contended that it had done an amount of good which could not at present be estimated. It had brought the workers of various countries into touch with each other. The only objection they could have to it was the basis of representation, but for how many years was the Trades Union Congress bossed by men outside the labour movement and representing practically nobody? This International Congress was a new thing. Don't let them stifle it.

Mr. W. OWEN (Burslem) seconded. He objected to the paragraph in the report because of its doubtful and timid character. He did not think the British trade-unionist could ever be perfectly independent of international influence, and it would be better to endeavour to perfect the methods of their continental friends, rather than by isolation prevent that unity of international action which was necessary.

Mr. W. MOSSES (Manchester) said he did not doubt Mr. Parnell's word, but during the week he said he was representing his trade union Mr. Parnell was masquerading with an I.L.P. badge attached to his coat. (Laughter.) He contended that they should have nothing further to do with international congresses of a type which cast so much disgrace upon the labour movement of this country. His chief reason for objecting to associate with continental Socialists was that at the last International Congress every principle of democratic representation was violated.

Mr. J. HAVELOCK WILSON, M.P., said he did not think there were two opinions in that Congress as to the advisability of having international congresses, but where the trouble came in was not in having the International Congress, providing it was composed of trade-unionists, or purely a Socialists' Congress. The trouble at the recent Congress was in consequence of its being a mixed congress of trade-unionists and Socialists. No man could say that the recent International Congress was a success. What did it do? Did it put forward the labour movement one step? (A voice: "Yes.") Well, that was a matter of opinion. He believed the majority of workmen were of opinion that it did not lift up the labour movement at all, but rather gave their enemies an opportunity to say that they could not agree amongst themselves. (Hear, hear.) There was nothing strange about that. More people than workmen did not agree among themselves. He thought the paragraph framed by the committee a very mild one, calculated not to injure the international movement which they believed in, but to express their regret that mixed congresses of Socialists and trade-unionists on international lines could not possibly succeed.

Mr. R. FAIRBAIRN (London) said he thought the Parliamentary Committee had here had a fair opportunity to condemn international trades congresses, because the I.L.P. had been there for the purpose of scooping the pool, to the discredit of the trade-unionists.

Mr. W. THORNE (London) thought it not altogether fair that the Socialists should be blamed for the confusion that took place at the International Congress. (Hear, hear.) A considerable number of those who attended it obviously came with the object of trying to make the Congress a farce, and of trying to prevent the Congress coming to any understanding at all. He was referring to the Anarchists who attended as trade-unionists.

On a show of hands the amendment was rejected by 143 to 91 votes.

Mr. BEN TILLET (London) moved as an addition to the report the words—"That all future international congresses be constituted by representatives from bonâ-fide labour organisations, and the delegation be determined on the lines of the British Trades Union Congress." He said he wanted the Congress to take the common-sense course. The peculiar character of the constitution of such a Congress had been perfectly well known and understood, and whatever results, however displeasing to them, took place, those results were but natural because of defective organisation and incapacity on their part. They had neither given instructions to the Parliamentary Committee as to the representative basis, nor did they consider the constitution of the Congress. The logical outcome of such a bad form of delegation and representation was chaos. The recent Congress had shown them the defects of its constitution, and as they were anxious for international brotherhood, surely they did not want to cut off their nose to spite their face.

Mr. M'LEOD (London) seconded the amendment.

Mr. L. ELSTEIN (Leeds) also spoke.

Mr. JOHN WILSON (Borburn) held that for any man to say that they should not have another Congress unless certain ideas and modes of procedure were adopted was in his view asking an infant to co-operate upon the methods of a grown man. They could not have an International Congress on the lines proposed by Mr. Tillett for the next twenty years.

On a vote, Mr. Tillett's motion was adopted by 172 votes to 11 given against it.

THE CONGRESS REPORT.

Mr. D. C. CUMMINGS (Leeds) moved that the secretary, in preparing the report of the Congress, be instructed to rely solely upon the minutes taken, and not upon newspaper reports. Press reports were oft-times wrong.

Mr. Woods replied that the gentleman appointed by the Parliamentary Committee to prepare the report would in future have more assistance from the minutes than previously he had received.

CABINET MINISTERS AND TRADE DEPUTATIONS.

Mr. CHEESMAN (London) desired to submit a motion entering indignant protest against the refusal of the Postmaster-General and the Secretary for War to receive representations on the matter of workmen's grievances.

The CHAIRMAN, however, ruled that the motion could not be put without suspension of the standing orders.

On the motion of Mr. CATTO (Aberdeen), seconded by Mr. HILL (Bolton), the report of the Parliamentary Committee was thereafter approved.

EXPULSION OF A SCOTCH DELEGATE.

Mr. W. E. HARVEY presented a report by the Standing Orders Committee, stating that, after hearing the complaint from the Amalgamated Society of Tailors against the Scottish National Association of Tailors, they recommended the suspension of the delegate from the latter society from the Congress in consequence of his society having sent men to work in shops (in violation of Standing Order No. 21) from which the Amalgamated Society had brought their members out on strike; and they further recommended the Parliamentary Committee to inquire into the relations existing betwixt the two societies at the very earliest opportunity.

Mr. WOOLLEY (Leicester) moved that the report be adopted.

Mr. LEE (London) seconded.

Mr. HARVEY stated that the delegate had admitted to the committee that during the strike he had blacklegged, and they could not allow him to sit there. (Applause.) Further, he had deliberately taken black-legs to the shops.

Mr. THORNE asked whether the strike was one for higher wages or shorter hours, or of one union against another.

Mr. HARVEY said it was proved conclusively to the committee that while the employers would not accept the conditions of one society they gladly accepted those of another, and trade-unionists were blacklegged out of the position their society had taken up for their maintenance.

The motion was adopted unanimously, and Mr. M'Fadden (Glasgow), the delegate in question, was informed by the Chairman of his expulsion and asked to withdraw.

Mr. M'FADDEN asked for a brief hearing, remarking that even a culprit had leave to speak against sentence of death being passed upon him.

The CHAIRMAN said that as an act of courtesy they would give him a few minutes.

Mr. M'FADDEN said he accepted the decision of the Congress like a loyal subject, but at the same time he pointed out that his society was the only one whose conditions were accepted. The time log produced by the Scottish National Association was the one worked to by every worker in Scotland. He explained also that but for his society believing that the matter had come to an end before the Parliamentary Committee they would have sent delegates with him to defend their action. He had stated to the committee, however, that in the event of any employers wishing to conform to their rules they could not refuse them. They recognised no other society in Scotland.

The CHAIRMAN said Mr. McFadden was transgressing the rules of courtesy in attacking another society.

Mr. McFADDEN said it had been decided that the Scottish Association were not to adhere to their own rules. He must say they could not accept that verdict.

Mr. McFadden immediately afterwards left the hall.

UNION V. NON-UNION PRESS: EXCLUSION OF REPORTERS.

Mr. W. E. HARVEY presented a further report from the Standing Orders Committee to the effect that the secretary of the Scottish Typographical Association having drawn attention to the presence of several reporters representing non-union offices—(hear, hear)—the committee recommended the suspension of the standing orders to give the secretary an opportunity of bringing the matter forward for consideration by the Congress. (Applause).

The standing orders were unanimously suspended.

Mr. J. TEMPLETON (Glasgow) stated that there were several newspapers represented at the table that day who had no connection whatever with trade-unionism, and he submitted that, as they had done everything in their power to purge the Congress of unfair representation, they could not allow non-union newspapers to be represented. He moved—

That all the reporters present representing non-unionist papers be excluded from the Congress.

Mr. PICKARD, M.P., said the Congress ought to be put in possession of the names of the newspapers complained of.

Mr. TEMPLETON said he would name amongst others the Scotsman, the Edinburgh Evening News, the Despatch, and the Glasgow Evening News.

Mr. BOWERMAN (London) seconded. He had, he said, not the slightest pleasure in doing so; he did it with a certain amount of regret. From his experience of them, journalists were a susceptible folk, and he was sure the reporters present must feel they were occupying an anomalous position at that Congress. He hoped they would see there was nothing whatever personal to themselves in the action of the Congress, but that it was simply directed against a principle.

Mr. WOOLLEY: Will you give the same privileges to representatives of these offices as you have given to the delegate expelled?

The CHAIRMAN: No; they are not delegates. None but delegates can speak in this meeting.

Mr. WOOLLEY: Will you ask the representative of the Typographical Association to tell the delegates here what is the paper which, as strangers in this city, they ought to buy?

The CHAIRMAN: That is not before the house.

A DELEGATE said they had been informed of four non-union papers. Were there any more?

Mr. COWEY (energetically): We don't know. (Laughter.)

Mr. H. EMERY (Hanley) asked whether a resolution had not been passed previously that no representative of a paper should have credentials to sit at the table who was in a non-union office. How, then, did it happen that there were such representatives at the table?

The CHAIRMAN: There is nothing in the standing orders prohibiting anything.

Mr. EMERY: But there has been a resolution passed at a previous Congress.

The CHAIRMAN: The resolution of one Congress is sufficient for itself.

Mr. COWEY said there was a resolution passed at Norwich, and people were expelled. Since then no such instruction had been given to the Parliamentary Committee, and, as far as they knew, whether they were excluded or not, those papers got the same reports as papers that were represented. They should pass a resolution that they should not buy those papers, but they did buy them.

Mr. EMERY: Of course, we are in ignorance.

Mr. COWEY: Oh!

Mr. SMILLIE (Larkhall) said that as there was a difficulty in finding out who represented non-union papers, he would move that all papers be represented. He did not do so from any sympathy with non-union papers, but because he conceived it impossible to find out who were representatives of non-union papers and who were not. Supposing they expelled representatives of the non-union papers, they had still at their table representatives of the press associations who would supply those papers with reports. And had they any guarantee that members would not become blacklegs if they expelled all the gentlemen at the table?

Mr. CHARLTON (Durham) seconded the amendment on the ground that he and many others had already subscribed to a paper which was described as giving the best reports of the Congress, but which would be unrepresented should the motion be carried.

Mr. KNIGHT (London) protested against the insinuation which had been made at the Norwich Congress, that, if the press were excluded, members would become blackleg reporters.

Mr. FAIRBAIRN asked whether the Congress was not throwing itself open to prosecution on a charge of conspiracy and restraint of trade. (Laughter.)

Mr. J. ROBERTSON (Glasgow) expressed his astonishment that any member of the Congress should seek to defend the presence of non-union newspapers.

Mr. SMILLIE answered that he had never defended the non-union reporters.

Mr. ROBERTSON (proceeding) said that at Liverpool, Newcastle, Belfast, and every Congress they had sustained the principle that only unionist papers should be represented at their Congress, and if any mistake had been made the blame lay at the door of the Parliamentary Committee. This was the resolution passed at Belfast, and enforced at Norwich:—"That the Parliamentary Committee shall refuse to admit reporters representing non-union newspapers. The reporter's name, together with the name of the paper he represents, shall be handed in to the secretary of the Parliamentary Committee, who shall act under the guidance of the secretary of the printers' society in the town where the Congress is held." (Hear, hear.) Had that been done? Had the Parliamentary Committee applied to the secretary of the Edinburgh branch of the Typographical Association for the names of the union and non-union newspapers? If that had not been done, then the blame for the disagreeable position they took up lay with the Parliamentary Committee.

Mr. COWEY, in reply, said the committee had written to Edinburgh, and the reply was that there was not a trade union paper in Edinburgh. (Cries of "Shame" and some laughter.) The Belfast resolution was ancient history. The committee knew nothing but the standing orders past last year at Cardiff, and to these they had adhered.

Mr. TEMPLETON said he regretted to say it was the truth that there was no trade union paper in Edinburgh. He regarded it as a direct insult that, having the information, the committee should have thrust this duty upon the delegates. (Hear, hear.)

While the vote was being taken an individual rose in the gallery and began making a hasty exit from the hall, excitedly exclaiming, "You ought to be ashamed of yourselves—every one of you!"

The vote resulted in Mr. Templeton's motion being carried by 221 votes to 25 given for Mr. Smillie's amendment.

A DELEGATE asked if, as a result of the vote, the sale of these particular newspapers would be continued in the hall?

The CHAIRMAN replied that the vote only dealt with the continued presence of the reporters in the room.

Mr. FOX (Cardiff) asked what would be the position of the representatives of continental journals, as well as of the Press Association representatives. The latter, he said, supplied a report to newspapers, fair and unfair.

The CHAIRMAN said that matter should have been raised in the course of discussion.

The matter then ended, and the Congress, having been photographed in session, adjourned for luncheon.

EIGHT HOURS DAY.

On resuming after luncheon, Councillor W. THORNE (London) moved the following resolution:—

Seeing that the eight hours working day is one of the most important preliminary steps toward the ultimate emancipation of the working class, and will lessen the number of unemployed, improve the quality of work, and increase the health, strength, and intelligence of the workers, this Congress declares that the time has arrived when the hours of labour should be limited to eight per day in all trades and occupations in the United Kingdom, and that the Parliamentary Committee be instructed to draft a Bill on the lines of this resolution, with a view of getting it passed through Parliament and made a law of the country.

He urged the importance of this subject in view of the increased use of machinery and the consequent throwing out of employment of so many people. He said they were all agreed on the question of reducing the hours of labour, and he was of opinion that legislative machinery was the easiest and simplest method of attaining this. He therefore impressed the necessity of taking the right line of action when elections, both Parliamentary and municipal, came round.

Mr. BARNES (London) seconded.

Mr. R. FAIRBAIRN, on behalf of the watermen of the river Thames, moved the insertion of the qualifying words "or 48 per week." A suggestion was made that the amendment be accepted, and that an exemption therefrom be made in the case of miners, but it was agreed to proceed with the discussion.

Mr. JOHN WEIR (Dunfermline) said that what was wanted was an eight hours day pure and simple, and if the Thames watermen wanted an exception because their peculiar circumstances demanded it, it would be for them to apply to Parliament for an enactment that would embody the principles on which their work was conducted; but in his view the whole trades ought to recognise that an eight hours day—not twelve to-day and four to-morrow—ought to be the recognised principle of any Bill introduced into Parliament.

Mr. W. PARNELL (London) agreed that the time for making exemptions was when the Bill was in committee. His principal reason for opposing the introduction of a 48 hours week was that in many instances it would come to be a 48 hours day, or 48 hours straight on. It happened on the river Thames to-day. His own trade (cabinetmakers) demanded a legal eight hours day. If they got it by their trade organisation to-day, they would lose a large portion of it to-morrow, because their trade could be conducted in the homes of the workers, and it was on behalf of trades like his, that were not strongly organised, that they demanded this legal eight hours day.

The amendment was put to the meeting and defeated by 207 votes to 23. The resolution was then carried by 211 votes to 31.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY.

Mr. E. HARFORD (London) moved:—

That, in order to place the law relating to Employers' Liability on a more equitable basis and to make it more conducive to safety, this Congress calls upon the Government to so amend the existing Act that, amongst other things, the responsibility may rest upon the employer for the acts of his employes or of those of any sub-contractor, and that irrespective of the acquiescence in or knowledge of any defect or danger on the part of the person killed or injured; that its provisions may apply to the workers in all industries on land or sea, river and canal, in private, State, or municipal employment; and that contracting-out of the Act be made illegal; with other alterations, such as the extension of the period of notice, the removal of the maximum limit of compensation, and the simplification of legal procedure, including the presentation by the defendant of a statement of defence; any allegation of contributory negligence to be clearly set forth therein. The Parliamentary Committee to be instructed to endeavour to obtain the passing into law of a measure on these lines at the earliest possible moment, the need for such legislation being increasingly urgent.

He said that now was the time to speak out for the amendment of the present, he might say almost obsolete, Act. Speaking of the servants of the London and North-Western Railway Company, he held that if they were let alone to themselves, and no coercion or intimidation used towards them, they would be found not to wish any contracting-out of the Act of Parliament. There had been a gross imposition attempted to be made on the Legislature in both Houses of Parliament when it had been said by certain individuals that secret ballots taken of the men had shown that they were in favour of contracting-out of the Act. Then they had been told that the railway insurance funds provided against accidents of every description, and that out of ten only one practically would come within the provisions of such an Act of Parliament. His reply to that was, that if the Act of Parliament only covered one accident out of ten, let the men alone provide for the other nine, and he held that they were capable of doing it.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

THE SECRETARY'S SALARY.

Mr. J. HODGE (Manchester) moved the adoption of a recommendation by the Parliamentary Committee making an allowance of £100 for the employment of a permanent clerk to the secretary. The resolution was adopted by 234 votes to 19.

THE LAW OF CONSPIRACY.

Mr. W. INSKIP, J.P., moved:—

That this Congress instructs the Parliamentary Committee to take immediate steps to bring pressure to bear upon the Government to include in their programme for next session a Bill to amend the law relating to conspiracy and breaches of the peace.

He said the motion had arisen out of three cases, and the decisions of the judges in them affected leaders of trade-union societies. A new system had been adopted by the employers, who took out an interim injunction against the union leaders, not so much for what they had done with regard to the Act, but to close the men's mouths, and to make them as leaders of their various societies helpless. No attempt was made to bring on the cases so as to clear the defendants' characters. Now, if this went on, the result would be that in almost every large dispute in any industry the leaders of the men, who were looked up to for advice and assistance and example in these cases, would have their hands tied until the dispute was over, when the interim injunction could be withdrawn. They were not going to have this judge-made law forced upon them without a strong effort being made to oppose it. (Applause.)

Mr. J. PYE (London) said the employers did not take the union officials or the pickets to the police court. They went to the High Court, took out writs for damages, and pending the hearing of a writ, which sometimes meant twelve months, they went to a judge in Chambers and asked for an interim injunction pending a civil action. In every case the application of the employer had been granted. If picketing was done after an interim injunction was issued, it then became a criminal offence, and the effect of it was that the sting and power of trade-unionism were taken from them.

Mr. JOHN WILSON (Broxburn) said he regarded this as one of the most important resolutions on the agenda. Some of them had had to undergo the miseries of the prison in connection with picketing, and recent decisions had given a direct encouragement to all magistrates, policemen, and sheriffs throughout the country. In Scotland the magistrates were generally drawn from the employers' class, and they could not manage a strike without pickets. Their unions were useless if, during a strike, they were practically to be a few barking dogs without teeth. (Hear, hear.)

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

POOR-LAW AMENDMENT.

Mr. F. CHANDLER, J.P. (Manchester), moved the following resolution:—

That, in the opinion of this Congress, the present administration of the Poor-law is bad in principle and ineffective in its results, and therefore demand that such alterations be made which shall not involve recipients of relief in civil disabilities, and give adequate relief to aged and disabled workers, and provide, as far as possible, useful work, at a fair remuneration, for the unemployed during periods of exceptional distress; also secure to the children in charge of the guardians the same educational opportunities as children in Board schools, including a technical training, to equip them for going out into the world to take their places as useful citizens.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

FACTORY LEGISLATION.

Mr. J. MAWDSLEY, J.P. (Manchester), moved the following resolution:—

That this Congress considers that the Factory Act as passed should be further amended in the following direction:—(1) The inclusion of more trades under the head of "dangerous and unhealthy trades"; (2) the extension of the 38th clause (the giving of particulars of work) to all trades and occupations paid by piece; (3) the extension of its scope so as to make it include all vessels and craft in port, river, dock, or canal. The Congress also considers that the administration of the Act might be improved by the appointment of men as inspectors who have a practical knowledge of the work to be inspected.

Mr. B. TILLET (London) seconded, and the resolution was unanimously adopted.

The Congress adjourned at five o'clock.

THIRD DAY.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1896.

The Congress re-assembled at 9-30, Councillor JOHN MALLINSON (president) in the chair.

After the reading and adoption of the minutes,

Mr. TEMPLETON (Glasgow) asked if the resolution carried the previous day with reference to the exclusion of reporters had been given effect to.

The PRESIDENT said that, so far as it could be given effect to, it had been given effect to. He called the attention of the Congress to the fact that the resolution was an abstract resolution against the reporters of non-union papers, but as Chairman of the Congress he could not put an abstract resolution in force against any individual. If the Scottish Typographical Association desired that certain press representatives should be expelled from the Congress they would have to specify those representatives, and get the Congress to endorse that in a resolution. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. TEMPLETON said he had asked the secretary of the Parliamentary Committee for a list of all the papers represented. The resolution of the previous day was that all the reporters of non-union papers should be excluded, and he submitted that that applied now.

Mr. PETE CURRAN said Mr Templeton, the secretary of the Typographical Association, had been several times before the Standing Orders Committee, and at a meeting of the committee that morning they had decided that Mr. Woods, the secretary of the Parliamentary Committee, should hand to Mr. Templeton a list of the names of newspapers represented at the table, in order that he should pick out the papers he desired excluded. That could be done while business was proceeding.

The PRESIDENT repeated that under the resolution carried the previous day, no reporter could be expelled from the Congress, and if Congress wished to expel they would have to suspend the standing orders, specify the reporters, and get the Congress to adopt a resolution. It was the fault of those who framed that resolution that it could not be put into force.

Mr. ROBERTSON (Glasgow): I rise to say that the secretary of the Typographical Association on Tuesday named certain papers.

The PRESIDENT: Order, order. He could only put the resolutions of Congress in force; he could not put statements made by delegates in force. If the Typographical Association had been anxious to exclude certain reporters, instead of naming them in their speeches they would have to put them into their resolution. The question must close, and it could not come up again unless they had a suspension of standing orders.

In the meantime the non-union papers continued to be fully represented in the Congress.

The Congress resumed consideration of the Parliamentary Committee's programme.

PAYMENT OF MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT.

Mr. E. COWEY moved:—

That this Congress tenders its thanks to those members of Parliament who have supported the principle of paying M.P.'s for their services, and hereby instructs the Parliamentary Committee of the Congress to do their utmost to get the question again introduced into Parliament with a view to its being legalised, coupled with the payment of returning officers' charges from the local rates.

He said this seemed to be a standing resolution. Now, it was no use spending their time on resolutions and putting them on paper and sending them to the Parliamentary Committee unless they took some steps with their members at home, and tried to bring pressure to bear on them, because the Parliamentary Committee could only do work as they backed them up in the various constituencies. Many of the complaints that were registered by the Congress year after year were thus mere pious opinions. He was one of those who would rather do less, and do it efficiently.

Mr. MANN (Dundee) seconded. He said, as coming from a constituency in the extreme north, that it was not the outlying constituencies in Great Britain who had neglected impressing this matter upon their members of Parliament. It was for the delegates from districts where this matter had been neglected to instruct their members upon it.

CO-OPERATION AND TRADE-UNIONISM.

Mr. A. WILKIE (Newcastle-on-Tyne) moved:—

That this Congress is of opinion that trade-unionism and co-operation, both distributive and productive, have been of considerable value to the workers, and should receive their earnest and material support, and that where differences arise between trade-unionists and co-operators that the matter be immediately referred to the joint committee of trade-unionists and co-operators, or to impartial referees mutually agreed upon; and that this Congress emphatically condemns the systematic boycott of workmen who are co-operators which has recently been adopted by certain employers of labour in Edinburgh and Glasgow.

He said there were no two movements which had done more for the amelioration of labour than trade-unionism and co-operation. Trade unions had helped them to get better wages, and co-operation assisted them to dispose of their wages to the best advantage. There were 850 trade unions, embracing 1,300,000 members, with an accumulated capital of £2,000,000. No less than £5,000,000 had been divided amongst members of co-operative societies last year. If they would only sink their petty differences, and carry out the principle of co-operation, they could be employers of their own labour. In this way, on the one hand they could show that employers were not indispensable, and workers the difficulty of conducting commercial undertakings, and thus do benefit to both classes.

Mr. ROGERS (London), in supporting the resolution, asked the Congress to pass their strongest censure on the cowardly and paltry persecution of co-operators which disgraced a certain section of Scottish employers. In certain parts of Scotland, he said, the co-operative movement had grown naturally, because the Scotch workman had found in it a means of amelioration, and the employers of labour had fought it. He had no quarrel with an employer who fought fairly, but he had nothing but contempt for any employer of labour who used such tactics as had been used by Scotch employers against Scotch co-operators. If this persecution meant anything it meant this, that some employers of labour in Scotland claimed a right to decide not only what their workmen should do while in their employ, but what they should do when they were outside of it—where they should buy their tea and sugar and where they should have their clothes made. Now it was this undue influence that every trade-unionist who was worth his salt fought against to the death, and he asked them to help their Scotch fellow-workmen by censuring those employers who had used such tactics against their employes.

Mr. CARRO (Aberdeen) said there were good, indifferent, and bad employers in the co-operative movement. He could cite cases where the co-operative workshops were filled with non-union labour, and where the co-operative workshops were fighting continually against the hours fixed by the trade. In a large co-operative company in Aberdeen they had the workers starting before the regular time of their trade. The result was that they, as an organised branch of the Federal Union of Bakers, had a continual fight to maintain the general starting at five o'clock through the encroachments made by the co-operative company. It was to his mind quite clear that dividend hunting was killing the co-operative movement.

The resolution was adopted by a large majority.

MR. BROADHURST'S GOOD WISHES.

Mr. W. E. HARVEY read the following telegram:—"To the president of the Trades Union Congress. Although locked out for a year, still wish you every success.—BROADHURST." (Laughter and applause.)

A message of sympathy was also read from Signor Cornotti (London).

ANOTHER DELEGATE EXPELLED.

Mr. HARVEY, chairman of the Standing Orders Committee, stated that after a most exhaustive inquiry respecting the complaint from the Belfast Operative House and Ship Painters and Decorators' Society against the National Amalgamated Society of House and Ship Painters and Decorators, they recommended the expulsion of the delegate from the latter society for allowing their members to work in shops at which the Belfast society had struck work, and also for allowing their members to work for less wages than that agreed upon by the employers and operative associations of Belfast. He said the committee had proof, if it were needed, to justify their recommendation. The principle of trade-unionism had been undermined by the society, whose delegate they asked the Congress to expel.

Mr. HOLLINGS (Bradford) moved a motion of expulsion, which was formally seconded.

Mr. MOSSES moved that Mr. Sunley, the delegate in question, be given an opportunity of defending himself before the Congress proceeded to the drastic measure of expelling him.

The PRESIDENT said he could not allow the general question decided upon by the committee to be discussed. He could not accept the amendment.

Mr. MOSSES proposed to move that the matter be transferred for reconsideration to the Parliamentary Committee, but

The PRESIDENT declined to accept the amendment. The Congress was governed by the committee on all questions dealing with the standing orders, and the question was the acceptance or rejection of their recommendation.

The motion was put to the meeting and declared to be carried.

Mr. G. M. SUNLEY (Manchester) was permitted to make a statement, and some of his remarks evoked considerable sympathy, especially his avowal that the Belfast society demanded no less than £3 entry money from the members of his society.

After his speech several delegates attempted to address the chair, but the President peremptorily ruled out of order all discussion, and the sentence of expulsion was passed amid many cries of "Shame."

TRUCK ACT AMENDMENT.

Baillie JACK (Glasgow) moved :—

That, in the opinion of this Congress, the Truck Act Amendment Bill introduced by the late Home Secretary is non-effective as a protection to the workers against the deductions from wages, in so far as the signing of a contract may frequently be made the condition of the worker's obtaining employment. We therefore instruct the Parliamentary Committee to urge on the Government the need for introducing an amended measure on the lines indicated in resolutions passed at previous congresses, providing that no contracting-out on the part of the worker, by written agreement or otherwise, shall in any degree affect the illegality of such deductions as are in question from the wages; and should the Government refuse to introduce such a Bill, the Parliamentary Committee be further instructed to prepare a Bill and use every effort to secure its becoming law.

He said they all had naturally expected that the Bill introduced by the Home Secretary last session would not have contained the pernicious doctrine of contracting-out. The Parliamentary Committee of the Congress had done all it could to keep it out, and all that the resolution asked was that Congress should declare itself opposed to contracting-out. They were opposed especially to the detestable system of deductions upon the wages of girls and women workers, reductions of from eightpence to one shilling for light, machinery, and other things.

Mr. JOHNSTON (Sheffield) seconded.

Miss MILLER (Glasgow), in supporting the resolution, said the girls and women referred to were not allowed to become members of any trade union, consequently there was very little chance of getting at them.

Mr. D. HOLMES (Burnley) expressed his astonishment to hear the wailing on this subject by people who throughout the year would not lift a finger to help themselves.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

RECEPTION OF DELEGATES.

The Congress afterwards proceeded to hear foreign delegates introduced by Mr. E. Cowey and Mr. S. Woods.

Mr. J. W. SULLIVAN (New York), of the American Federation of Labour, spoke at some length on the success of the labour organisations in obtaining legislation for their benefit. In the work of obtaining legislation the labour organisations were practically united and were rarely in antagonism. Discussing the attitude of the Courts towards labour organisations, Mr. Sullivan said that in the United States there were many loopholes of escape from judge-made law. If his union were strong in votes and money, if he were released on bail, if his trial were postponed indefinitely, the disobedient agitator might rest happy. (Laughter and applause.)

Mr. ADOLPH STRASSER, ex-president of the cigar makers of America, also tendered the fraternal greetings of the American Federation, and informed the Congress that in spite of the obstacles surrounding them the trade unions of the States were increasing in numbers and growing in stability.

Herr A. von ELM (Hamburg), a member of the German Reichstag and a representative of the 200,000 trade-unionists in Germany, was cordially received. He stated that this was the first time a representative of German trade-unionism had attended the Congress of the unionists of Great Britain, and he had come to be taught, for there was no country in which the working men could not learn from them. There were but few unions in Germany organised on similar lines to those in Britain, but nearly all of them agreed that there should be no political or religious test in reference to membership. Some, however, excluded members of the Social Democratic party. Were the Socialists, he asked, opponents to trade unions? He was a Socialist—(applause)—a member of the German Parliament—and he held that he was as good a trade-union man as there was in the Congress. (Applause.) A man who called himself a Socialist and was opposed to trade unions did not understand the A B C of Socialism. (Applause.) Of the 260,000 organised working men in Germany the majority were Socialists. How foolish it was to exclude Socialists was proved by the fact that the Socialistic party at the last general election received over 1,500,000 votes. At least three-fourths of those voters were working men. This led to the conclusion that unions in Germany which excluded Socialists could never have the opportunity of bettering the condition of the working men. Referring to the relations between the Government and the unions, Herr von Elm said the want of uniformity in the law over the various States had proved a check to unionism. They could not in Germany meet in Congress as they did in Great Britain. If they did their unions would be declared to be political associations, and they would be dissolved in the principal States. This explained why unionists were not so strong in Germany as in other countries. There was no doubt that within a few years some of the legislative restrictions would be modified. German workers were not fantastical enthusiasts, and in the struggle for the future they did not neglect the present. The most important object for the workers in Germany at present was a uniform law guaranteeing the right of association. After obtaining this the organisation of the masses would receive a great increase. It had been reported to him that English capitalists always referred to German competition when they sought for points in order to resist demands upon them. Therefore the English trade-unionists had a great interest in assisting the German trade-unionists in their efforts. (Hear, hear.) He entertained the hope that the time should come when the trade unions would be powerful all over the world, that in spite of the differences of language they should arrive at a mutual understanding on all important matters.

The representatives of the Co-operative Union Limited (Messrs. James Deans, Kilmarnock, and Malcolm Neil, Kilbarchan) were then introduced.

Mr. DEANS said that co-operation and trade unions might be considered as twin movements. They were both the offspring, to a very large extent, of the suffering that prevailed among the industrial classes at the beginning of the present century, at a time when food was dear and human flesh and blood were cheap. Their objects were identical. They aimed at securing for the worker a larger and more equitable share in the rapidly increasing wealth of the country. They recognised that the concentration of the wealth of the nation in the hands of a few was a standing danger to the cause of the worker. They believed that it was better to raise 100 men one inch in the social status than to raise one man 100 inches. (Hear, hear.) Trade-unionism in time of trade prosperity, in increasing the spending power of the worker, did much to promote the progress of the commercial aspect of co-operation; and, on the other hand, in times of trade depression, or of struggle between capital and labour, the struggling worker found in the co-operative society a tower of strength. Co-operators, like trade-unionists, had done excellent work in organising the working classes; and who would dispute that it was the sound of the tramp of the organised masses that was accelerating the progress of political and social reform in these days. Mr. CATTO (Aberdeen) had mentioned one case against the co-operative employer, but he would state as against that the case of the Drapery and Furnishing Society, in Glasgow, which employed a large number of tailors, and which, when a woman was employed on any part of a garment that was usually done by a man, she received the same rate of remuneration as a man, and these rates were trade-union rates. (Applause.) With regard to the boycotting, while it was true that notices had been posted informing employés that they must sever their connection with co-operative societies or take a week's notice to leave the employment; while it was true that circulars and deputations had been sent to large employers of labour urging them to clear their factories of co-operators; and while it was true that men and women had been dismissed in the most summary manner because they had the courage to say they would not sever their connection with co-operation and take the consequences; while it was true that many acts of cruelty had been committed on workers in the country because of their loyalty to co-operation, he desired to say that, to the credit of the employers in the great industries of our country, every one of them had practically ignored this organised boycott, which had been entirely confined to manufacturers who received their trade from the private trader.

Mr. MALCOLM NEIL said it was a wonder to him how the working classes of this country had not all allied themselves with the various trade unions. He could not understand how men could take the advantage conferred upon them by the trade unions and yet remain outside the organisation. Neither could he see how it was possible for a good trade-unionist not to be a co-operator; and, on the other hand, he thought every good co-operator should be a good trade-unionist. (Applause.)

Mr. ROGERS (London) moved a vote of thanks to the American, German, and co-operative representatives for their addresses.

Mr. W. H. WILKINSON (Accrington) seconded.

Mr. J. CRONIN (Glasgow) asked the American delegates if the American Union was taking any steps to shorten the length of the working day on Saturday.

Mr. STRASSER said their hours of labour were from eight to twelve and one to five. On Saturdays their members quitted in some towns at one o'clock, in other towns at two o'clock, and in other places at three o'clock, thus making the hours worked 44, 45, and 46 per week.

The vote of thanks was very cordially given.

A DEPLETED MEETING.

Mr. E. COWEY called attention to Standing Order No. 23, under which he was held responsible for the meeting being kept. No one could leave the room without his consent, but here was the hall depleted, and by-and-by it would be deserted altogether. He did not want to enforce the rule, but he did hope members would give better attention to their duty. (Applause.)

A DELEGATE suggested that the remarks be repeated when the room was full.

GROUND VALUES.

Mr. FAIRBAIRN (London) moved:—

That it is of extreme importance to trade-unionists that all the land possible shall be brought under cultivation, and that we should have a more equitable basis of urban taxation. In order to obtain these objects, the taxation of land values and ground rents should be made a test question at the next general election.

Mr. BACON (Bolton) seconded.

Mr. DAVIS (Newport) asked the Congress not to pass the resolution. He thought that by the nationalisation of the land they would most directly obtain what they wanted.

Mr. JOHN ABBOTT (South Shields) supported, and the resolution was put and carried.

FAIR WAGES RESOLUTION (1891).

On resuming after lunch, Mr. J. H. WILSON, M.P., moved the following resolution:—

That this Congress condemns the Government for persistently refusing to carry out the fair wages resolution passed by the House of Commons, 13th February, 1891, and specially condemns them for retaining upon their list of contractors and extensively employing certain notorious blackleg firms whose true characters are perfectly well known, and that the Parliamentary Committee be instructed to take whatever steps they may deem necessary to have these firms struck off the list of Government contractors, or required to pay the trade-union rate of wages current in the London district.

He said they had complained for a long while of the conduct of the Government in this matter. He was very pleased, however, to know that they had consented to appoint, or had already appointed, a Committee to inquire into the working of the resolution of 1891, and he thought it was now the duty of the trade unions to see that their evidence was well got up and prepared, and submitted to the committee as early as possible. It would be a scandal to the trade unions, now that the Government had appointed a Committee to inquire into the matter, if they allowed the opportunity to pass without making the best use of that Committee in the way of putting before them their complaints as to the violation of the resolution of the House of Commons of 1891. In addition, they would have to take stronger steps to enforce that resolution, because at the present time there were a large number of men in Parliament who were largely interested in the firms that were contractors for Government work, and those men who were interested in those firms had considerable weight with the various Government Ministers in getting them to pooh-pooh the whole question whenever it was brought before their notice. He thought it would be a good thing if a small committee was appointed from that Congress to make all the necessary inquiries as to the connections of different members of Parliament with contracting firms. He knew as a matter of fact that a large number of members of Parliament were shareholders in the P. and O. Company, which was a shipping company doing a considerable amount of contract work for the Government, and he believed that he was correct in saying that Cabinet Ministers and ex-Cabinet Ministers were also financially interested in that same concern. Now, whenever they asked the P. and O. Company, or asked the Government to insist upon the P. and O. Company complying with the fair wages resolution, they always found some way of excusing themselves, on the plea first that it would not be right in the case of the Lascar seamen to exclude this coolie labour, as they were British subjects, and were therefore entitled to be employed as much as any Britisher living in the United Kingdom. He did not complain about coolies being employed, but he complained that those men were used for the purpose of sapping and undermining British labour. If the Government recognised them as British subjects they had a right to apply this fair wages resolution, and say that those men should not be refused the rate of wages payable at the place where the contract is entered into. The current rate of wages for that class of labour was £4 per month for a fireman and £3. 10s. for an able seaman. Now, the P. and O. Company paid some of their firemen 18s. to 20s. per month and some of their able seamen 16s. per month. They also compelled those poor unfortunate Lascars to live in 36 cubic feet of space, whereas the Merchant Shipping Act provided that each man should have 72 cubic feet. He had repeatedly brought this matter before the House of Commons, and the reply he had had was that the Indian Merchant Shipping Act provided that those men should only have 36 cubic feet, and as those Lascars were engaged in India the British Act did not apply to them. He would continue to put questions to Parliament on this subject until he had educated the people up to the fact that members of the Government and members of Parliament absolutely assisted the P. and O. Company to impose upon the poor unfortunate blacks whom they called British subjects or subjects of Her Majesty. There were other men who had contract work, and it was well known to the Government that they had persistently violated the resolution of the House of Commons. Where they wanted to put the pressure was upon their local members, and if the trade-unionists were in earnest in endeavouring to force this question they could put so much pressure on the local members of Parliament that the Government would be compelled, in spite of themselves, to comply with that resolution at a very early date. (Applause.)

Mr. SHAFTOE (Bradford) seconded the resolution.

Mr. P. WEIGHILL (London), in supporting it, said the Government of to-day, as well as the Liberal Government, had let their work, knowing full well that it was going to be sub-let to contractors who were not only going to sub-let it again, but were going to sub-let it a third time. He wanted to know whether they were going to sit down under this kind of thing.

An amendment was moved by Mr. TEMPLETON, seconded by Mr. GIBBS, to the effect that the word "London" on last line be deleted.

The amendment was accepted by Congress on a vote of 206 to 7.

The Congress next took up the resolutions sent in by trades.

THE NATIONALISATION OF LAND.

Mr. ROBERTSON (Glasgow) intimated that in order to facilitate the business of the Congress the representatives of the Scottish Typographical Association had agreed to withdraw the resolution sent in by that association on this subject in favour of the other, of which notice had been given.

Mr. J. SIDEBOTHAM (Ashton-under-Lyne) moved a resolution sent in by the General Union of Associations of Power-loom Overlookers, which was in the following terms:

That the resolution of Congress passed at a sitting held at Norwich, September 6th, 1894, on the motion of Mr. Kier Hardie, and which read thus: "That in the opinion of this Congress it is essential to the maintenance of British industries to nationalise the land and the whole of the means of production, distribution, and exchange, and that the Parliamentary Committee be instructed to promote and support legislation with the above object," be rescinded, and that the following resolution take its place:—"That, in the opinion of this Congress, it is essential to the maintenance of British industries to nationalise the land, mines, minerals, royalty rents, and railways, and municipalise all water, artificial light, and tramways undertakings within their several authorities, and that the Parliamentary Committee be instructed to promote and support legislation with the above object."

Trade unions all round, he said, were composed of men holding different opinions. The body which he represented was very diversified in opinion. Under these circumstances he thought it unwise on their part to bring this subject forward, because, after all, it was a contentious matter amongst working men. He thought at the time the resolution was passed that it was utopian, that it was so to-day, and that they could not do better than relegate this subject to the outside world.

The PRESIDENT said the first portion of the resolution was out of order. This Congress had nothing to do with a resolution passed at any previous Congress. (Applause.)

Mr. J. MILLS (Bury) asked if there was to be no opportunity given of rescinding a previous resolution.

The PRESIDENT said that if the second part of the resolution was passed, then it would take the place of the resolution passed at the previous Congress, but Congress could not take it upon itself to rescind the resolution of a previous Congress.

Mr. W. S. GREGSON (Blackburn) seconded.

Mr. MILLS (Bury) supported the resolution in the interest of trade-unionism in general and in the interests of the Socialists themselves. The latter would confer a blessing upon those whom they represented and the trade-unionist in particular, if they would modify their action somewhat. An extreme policy was one of the causes that estranged workers from the ranks of the trade unions. More united and modified action would gain many of these over. If they desired to change the whole of the conditions of this country at once they would be making a mistake. He hoped they would adhere to the trade-union policy.

Mr. P. CURRAN (London) said he was a very moderate man—(laughter)—so moderate that the resolution which had now appeared on the Congress minutes for the last four years was quite sufficient for him. (Hear, hear.) It was simply the expression of a principle, and the movers of the present resolution were doing more to confuse the trade-unionists than did the former resolution. Let them face the thing fairly and squarely. Personally he was a Socialist trade-unionist, and several of the resolutions passed that day contained the germs of the principles of Socialism. They wanted, as Socialists, to use their trade unions as far as they possibly could while competitive society remained, but they wanted to establish an ultimatum and to keep it in front of the minds of trade-unionists. The day was coming when in this country the man who was prepared to adopt the attitude of a fighting trade-unionist must necessarily adopt the collectivist principle. Under these circumstances it was no good trying to modify the expression of this principle in order to pander to some narrow-minded and prejudiced trade-unionist. Most of them were agreed in the broad expression of the collectivist principle, but they differed as to the method of realising that end. The resolution passed at Belfast, Norwich, and Cardiff was simply the expression of a principle, and made no reference as to method. There was one thing they Socialist trade-unionists were prepared to face. They did not believe it possible to harmonise relations between the capitalist and the labourer. (Loud applause.) The trade-unionist who believed he could get the employer and the workman to shake hands should be in a lunatic asylum and not in that Congress. (Laughter.) They believed, however, it was possible to harmonise capital and labour. They believed in collective ownership of the stored-up and circulating capital, because in private hands to-day it simply represented the unpaid labour of past generations. (Applause.) They were desirous of holding up this principle because they were convinced that competitive society was to-day gradually on the decline. It had reached the summit of its popularity to-day; it was going downwards, and it was the duty of the leading trade-unionists, old and new, to educate the rank and file on those economic questions. He perceived no improvement as being necessary upon the resolution previously passed.

Mr. LAMB (Newcastle) also opposed the motion, which he regarded as beating about the bush.

Mr. JOHN WILSON (Broxburn) said he was sure there was hardly a Socialist who, if he were asked whether he would have one part given to them now or would wait fifty or seventy years and then get both parts, would not say he would take all he could get now and would use that to get the remainder. (Hear, hear.) So far as he could see, that was what every trade-unionist had been doing for the last twenty years. As a practical trade-unionist, and, he trusted, a sincere Socialist, he must vote for the resolution.

Mr. CHARLES FENWICK, M.P., asserted that no speaker at this or at any previous Congress had ever ventured to enlighten them as to what they meant by the nationalisation of all the means of production and exchange. In his judgment they had not yet arrived at a conclusion in their own mind as to what they meant by the nationalisation of all the means of production and exchange. It was a big-sounding phrase, and no doubt many people supposed that if they could only invent a very high-sounding phrase they had in a way solved the social problem, and brought themselves within a measurable distance of the social millennium. The only difference between the resolution and that of Mr. Keir Hardie was that it proposed to nationalise every industry except the industry in which the people who brought it forward were directly and closely interested. Mines, railways, royalty rents, and minerals were all to be nationalised, but they were not to nationalise factories and workshops. (Laughter and applause.) These were distinctly left out in the cold. He should vote—and he hoped he should be able to claim Mr. Curran's support—against the resolution, as he should vote against any resolution for the nationalisation of the means of production and exchange until he had some clear and definite idea coming from the authors of such a proposal as to what they really meant by it, and whether they intended to accomplish their object by honest and straightforward means or otherwise. (Applause.) If they meant to honestly pay twenty shillings for a pound's worth of goods—(hear, hear)—then there could be no very serious opposition to such a proposal. But if they meant by a high-handed spoliation and confiscation to take from the people that which had been honestly earned and worked for by the people—(cries of "Never")—then the religious and moral sense of the people would rise in repudiation and condemnation of their tactics. (Applause.) Until they were honestly prepared, and not in empty-sounding phraseology, to bring forward some practical and tangible scheme upon which the honest intelligence of the humblest working man could be guided and directed, it was cowardly and mean in the extreme to attempt to take advantage of the toiling millions of this country by such tactics. Let them be told plainly and honestly what was meant by the nationalisation of the means of production and exchange; give them some tangible scheme, and they would go with them as far as it was possible for honest and moral-minded men to go. (Applause.)

Mr. HUGH BOYLE (Newcastle) discussed the conduct of some labour leaders, and questioned whether it had always been for the benefit of the workers. His belief was that if they went on as they were doing, in three or four years the Congress would pass a resolution handing over the whole of the trade unions to the custody of the State. (Laughter.)

Mr. J. MACPHERSON (London) having spoken,

The President called for the closure, which was carried, after a challenge and a count of cards, by 583,000 votes to 215,000.

Mr. CURRAN afterwards asked if, in the event of the resolution being defeated, the Norwich resolution still held good?

The President replied that each Congress legislated for the Parliamentary Committee that was to follow it, and for that alone.

The vote was taken by show of hands, when the motion was carried by 172 votes to 47.

LIMITATION OF SPEECHES.

The Standing Orders Committee in a report recommended that the time of speeches should be limited to 10 minutes instead of 15 for movers, and 5 minutes instead of 10 for after speakers, owing to there being yet 74 resolutions to consider besides amendments.

The suggestion was unanimously adopted.

EXPULSION OF REPORTERS.

Mr. W. E. HARVEY presented the following report from the Standing Orders Committee:—"The secretary of the Typographical Association having obtained a list of newspapers represented at this Congress, we find that there are four representing non-union offices: Edinburgh News, Glasgow News, Despatch, and Scotsman. We therefore ask the Congress to give effect to the resolution passed on Tuesday on this question by authorising the chairman to order them to leave the Congress."

Mr. W. M'INTYRE (Edinburgh): Why not the Glasgow Citizen?

Mr. HARVEY: All I have to say is that the secretary of the Typographical Association has provided us with a list. He says all the other offices are trade-union offices.

Mr. M'INTYRE: Doesn't he know the Glasgow Citizen is a "rat" shop?

Mr. TEMPLETON: The Glasgow Citizen has not a representative at the table.

Mr. KNIGHT (London): Before you ask the reporters to leave, will you permit me to say a word? ("No, no.")

The President: What are you going to speak about?

Mr. KNIGHT: You are asked by the Standing Orders Committee to request the reporters to leave this Congress. I want to take objection to that. I want to say that although I supported yesterday the Standing Orders Committee's recommendation and the Typographical Association's recommendation, it is not my intention to rob any man of a day's employment, and I should not ask the reporters to leave this Congress, but rather ask the delegates present to boycott the papers. I think that is what was intended.

Mr. SMILLIE (Larkhall) asked leave to call attention to a leader in that day's Scotsman.

The PRESIDENT: No.

Mr. THORNE moved the adoption of the committee's recommendation, and the motion found several seconders.

Mr. BOWERMAN suggested that consideration of the report should be delayed until the next morning.

The resolution having been put, and it having been declared that the "ayes" had it,

The PRESIDENT asked, in accordance with the decision just arrived at, that the reporters of the Scotsman, Edinburgh Evening Despatch, Edinburgh Evening News, and Glasgow News should retire from the Congress.

The reporters of the journals named at once complied with the request.

Mr. SMILLIE: The Scotsman has made a very serious charge against the delegates in this Congress.

The PRESIDENT: I must refuse to accept a motion to suspend the standing orders to discuss what any newspaper says.

FOREIGN SHIPS AND COMPENSATION.

Mr. J. ANDERSON (London) moved the following, sent by the Amalgamated Stevedores' Labour Protection League and the National Federation of Enginemen's Protective Associations:—

COMPENSATION FOR INJURIES, &c.

1.—Foreign Ships and Compensation—

That this Congress regrets that the President of the Board of Trade, while admitting that British workmen have a serious grievance in not being able to recover compensation from foreign shipowners for injuries received through such shipowners' or their servants' negligence, has been unable to introduce legislation to remedy the same; and as a Bill to amend the law on the subject is now in charge of and will be introduced next session by Mr. H. J. Reckitt, M.P. for Brigg, this Congress instructs the Parliamentary Committee to assist the passage of the Bill as far as possible, and to issue to the trade societies a request to pass resolutions in favour of the Bill and forward the same to the M.P. for their constituency and the President of the Board of Trade; and that, in cases of accident to workers in all trades, a person authorised by the injured party, or his representative, shall be legally empowered to visit the place of accident to take a plan or obtain any necessary information.

He said this matter had first arisen in connection with a decision by the Lord Chief Justice in England that any British workman injured while in employment upon a foreign vessel was unable to recover compensation, and in the event of his being killed his widow and children were unable to obtain compensation for the loss of their bread-winner. He was not moving this resolution in a jingo spirit; but those whom he represented claimed that the foreign shipowner should not practically be subsidised and assisted in ruining British trade; and, further, that this was a direct incentive to British shipowners to place their vessels under foreign flags and to thereby avoid British legislation. Since that decision they were simply treated with scorn by the officers of foreign vessels, and if they refused to work with them, then some of their employers pointed to the tyranny of British trade-unionism. When the matter was brought before the President of the Board of Trade that minister admitted that it was a very serious question, but that it was also a very serious matter to disturb the relations between Great Britain and foreign nations.

Mr. G. H. COPLEY (Rotherham) seconded the motion, which was supported by Mr. H. GOSLING (London).

Mr. B. TILLET (London) said the British shipowner posed as a patriot, but the fact was if he could get his "bawbees" he did not care a hang what flag he sailed under. (Laughter.) He did not want the foreign shipowner to be allowed to come into British ports under conditions which were not allowed to the British shipowner. While our ports were open to him, the foreigner had no title to sympathy or respect so long as he neglected the ordinary precautions to prevent loss of life or limb. (Applause.)

Mr. J. REID (Glasgow) moved, on behalf of the United Operative Cabinetmakers, the following amendment:—

To add after the word "accident," "or loss of property;" after the words "injured party," "or party sustaining loss of property;" and after the word "accident," "or where loss of property occurred."

The resolution and amendment were both adopted.

STEEL AND IRON WORKS REGULATIONS.

Mr. J. CRONIN (Glasgow) moved, on behalf of the Amalgamated Society of Steel and Iron Workers:—

That it be an instruction to the Parliamentary Committee to bring up a Bill extending the check weighmen's clauses of the Mines Regulation Act to all steel and iron works.

He said the great bulk of the men in these trades were paid by piecework, and had no check upon the employer. If they had any suspicion that they were not being paid for the amount of work done, they had to rest satisfied with the employer's or foreman's word that it was all right.

Mr. S. HARRINGTON (Glasgow) seconded the adoption of the resolution, which was unanimously agreed to.

THE REGULATION OF MINES.

Mr. A. STANLEY (Staffordshire) moved, on behalf of the Miners' Federation, the following:—

That this Congress is of opinion that the Coal Mines Regulation Amendment Bill, drafted by the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, and introduced into the House of Commons this year by Sir Charles Dilke, if passed into law, would make the mines more safe to work in, and would lessen the very high rate of accidents, whereby more than 1,000 workmen are killed, and considerably over 100,000 injured every year. That the Parliamentary Committee assist the miners in pressing the Government to find time for the discussion of this Bill early in the next session of Parliament.

The present system of inspection, he said, was inadequate. The staff of inspectors should be largely increased from the ranks of working men themselves. (Applause.)

Mr. J. WEIR (Dunfermline) seconded, and Mr. CHARLTON (Durham) supported the resolution, which was unanimously agreed to.

COMPULSORY WEIGHING.

Mr. J. HODGE (Manchester) moved, on behalf of the British Steel Smelters' Amalgamated Association, the following:—

In consequence of the fact that, although the wages of a majority of the workmen employed in the iron and steel industries are rated and paid per ton of metal produced, and the fact that many firms do not weigh the metal so produced, but merely guess such weight; further, as in almost every instance where the material is weighed, the workmen are denied the right of either checking or ascertaining whether the weight is correct or their product of metal all accounted for, and as many of the moulds and vessels used for casting purposes bear an inaccurate stamped weight capacity, the Parliamentary Committee are hereby instructed to prepare and present to the ensuing session of Parliament a Bill having for its object:—

(1) The compulsory weighing of all material produced by workmen whose wages are paid for per ton of metal produced by them; (2) the posting daily of the particulars of the material produced by each workman—posted in a place easy of access to all those interested; (3) the granting of facilities to a workman elected by his fellow-workmen, or an agent of the workmen, to check the weights of the work done by them; and (4) that it be an offence, with pecuniary penalty, for any firm to use either moulds or vessels which bear a false or incorrect stamped capacity.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The Congress then adjourned.

FOURTH DAY.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1896.

The Congress re-assembled at 9-30, Councillor JOHN MALLINSON (president) in the chair.

THE SUSPENSION OF DELEGATES.

In reply to a question, the CHAIRMAN stated that, according to the standing orders, the society whose delegate was expelled the previous day was suspended from representation at the Congress for two years.

THE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

Mr. PETE CURRAN moved the following resolution from the Gasworkers' and General Labourers' Union:—

That, in the opinion of this Congress, where grants of public money are given for educational purposes, there should also be public control; and that our present system of State education, based as it is on commercialism, and being out of harmony with the economic forces which are working towards collectivism, does not supply the educational needs of the nation; and therefore it is imperative that our educational system should be completely remodelled on such a basis as to secure the democratic principle of equality of opportunity, and, by the introduction into our State schools of the best results of educational science, to make it possible for English children to obtain such a training—physical, intellectual, and moral—as may tend to make them worthy citizens of a co-operative commonwealth. We therefore instruct the Parliamentary Committee to urge on the Government the need for introducing an amended measure on the lines indicated by this resolution.

He said that the resolution he moved was carried at the last Congress in its entirety, and he hoped the present Congress would adopt it without any alteration. The mover of the amendment to follow objected to the statement that the present educational system was based on commercialism. In the Education Act of 1870 they found the following words:—"Englishmen must be educated that they may compete with foreign nations, and so maintain the commercial supremacy of England." They needed equality of opportunity. Where certain honours and privileges were conferred upon the children of the middle class, as a matter of course the children of the workers had to compete, and show special genius before they had access to such honours and privileges. Where public money was voted, irrespective of how it may be given, public control should follow. They wished the Congress to declare whether any public money should go outside of State schools. They were of opinion that no public funds should be used in any way for denominational purposes. (Hear, hear.) Upon the broad and comprehensive education of the younger generation lay the future state of society. The workers of to-day were crippled because of the circumscribed forms they had had to adhere to—forms which had left them without that knowledge which was necessary to their position. They wanted, therefore, to equalise opportunity and to open the highest forms of education to the children of the workers as well as to the middle and upper classes.

In reply to Mr. McIntyre (Edinburgh), Mr. CURRAN said he was not acquainted with the differences between the Scotch and English Education Acts. Personally, he should like one uniform Act for the whole of the United Kingdom.

Mr. TURNER (Batley), who seconded, said he was a member of a School Board, and he knew that children were not taught on proper lines. They were taught about kings and queens and priests, who were hardly fit to read about, rather than about systems of industry and economics.

Mr. ROGERS moved an amendment, as follows, from the Vellum Account-book Binders:—

To delete all words after "Congress," and to substitute the following:—"Where public money is given for educational purposes, there should also be public control; and, inasmuch as our present system of education fails to supply our educational needs, it is imperative that it should be reorganised upon a broader and more democratic basis, so as to admit of the introduction into all public elementary schools of the best results of educational science, and to make it possible for children to obtain such a training—physical, intellectual, and moral—as may tend to make them worthy citizens of a co-operative commonwealth. We therefore instruct the Parliamentary Committee to watch carefully all legislation relating to public education, and to take such action in relation to it as they may from time to time deem necessary, while urging upon the Government the need for introducing a measure on the lines indicated by this amendment."

The amendment, he said, was not conceived in a spirit of hostility to the motion, but he commended it because it was more practical. The Parliamentary Committee spoke in their report of the Education Act of a few months ago as a retrogressive measure. It was nothing but that. It was anti-democratic, and yet the Parliamentary Committee gave no expression of opinion or word of guidance to the labour world at the time of the educational crisis. Why? Because the Congress had never given them any definite and clear guidance upon the matter. He asked them to give that definite guidance by voting for the amendment.

Councillor OWEN (Burslem), in seconding, said that sometimes in the Congress they played the part of asking for too much and getting nothing. They brought contempt and odium upon themselves by asking for the moon and getting the green cheese. If they passed a resolution to completely reorganise their educational system they were asking for that which they should not get.

Mr. BEN TILLET confessed that he could discover no fine distinction between the resolution and the amendment. At the same time he expressed dissatisfaction with the effort to be moderate which had characterised all the speeches at the Congress. The policy of one of the best party managers and most astute politicians who ever lived and exercised influence in the House of Commons—Charles Stewart Parnell—was always to ask for the whole loaf and take the half if he could get it. Mr. Curran's resolution asked for such a system of education as should afford the children of the poor equal opportunities with the children of the rich, so that education might be granted them up to the university. Unfortunately for the poor of the country there were 80,000 children who went to school every morning in London without a breakfast. There were hundreds of thousands who had no food in them to give them blood and brain power. They wanted their school system to embrace the lives of the children—that it should not only fill their heads but help to fill their stomachs, in order to make their heads more effective. Unless they were going in for that they might as well lie upon their oars, and allow the religious and political parties to dominate the school system as they did now. (Applause.)

Mr. CLEARY (Newcastle) declared that he would vote for neither proposal, and, amid many interruptions, argued strongly in favour of a denominational system.

The amendment was carried by a large majority.

AN INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS.

Mr. J. WILSON, M.P., on behalf of the Standing Orders Committee, said he had received a telegram from Mr. Gompers, America, in the following terms:—"Urge holding International Trades Congress." He had also to report that with regard to the painters' dispute in Belfast, a deputation from the Shipbuilding Federation had met the committee. They had not requested the reintroduction of the delegate, but they had requested further investigation. The committee therefore recommended that the charges made by the Belfast Operative House and Ship Painters' Society against the Amalgamated Society of House and Ship Painters should be further inquired into, and, if proved to be unfounded, the fact to be published in the report.

Mr. BEN TILLET asked if, in view of the telegram just read, an occasion would be provided for raising the matter of an International Congress of trade unions.

Mr. WILSON said he would take the request back to the committee and report at a later stage.

The recommendation of the committee with regard to the Belfast painters' dispute was adopted.

[With respect to this recommendation remitting a dispute between the Belfast Operative House and Ship Painters and the Amalgamated Society of House and Ship Painters, the societies implicated have made no representations to the Committee up to the date of our going to press.]

OLD-AGE PENSIONS.

Mr. FITCH (London), on behalf of the National Municipal Labour Union, moved—

That this body of trade-unionists of the United Kingdom wish their Parliamentary Committee to consider the advisability of at once moving the Government to bring in a Bill making it compulsory for all municipal bodies to adopt some practical scheme of old-age pensions for their employes.

He said that, while every municipality could and did pension its officials, there was no provision made for their workers in old age.

Mr. R. FAIRBAIRN (London) seconded.

Mr. KNIGHT (London) moved, on behalf of the Fur Skin Dressers, the following amendment:—

That this Congress instructs the Parliamentary Committee to press upon the Government the necessity for old-age pensions for all workers.

He wanted to know why the municipal employé was more entitled to an old-age pension than he. If they were going in for old-age pensions, let the system have general application. (Hear, hear.) At the present rate at which they were travelling, premature old age put a man out of the market sometimes at 35 years of age. Large firms would not take a man within their gates who was turned 35 years.

Mr. JOS. ABBOTT (South Shields) seconded the amendment. He said municipal bodies were at liberty to adopt an old-age pension scheme for their workers. He did not think it within the bounds of possibility to obtain an old-age pension scheme during the term of the present most recalcitrant Government.

The amendment was unanimously adopted.

DURATION OF CONGRESS.

A resolution sent in by the Operative Stonemasons' Society to extend the duration of the Congress meeting to a fortnight was defeated by a large majority.

LABOUR REPRESENTATION.

Mr. W. FISHER (Gateshead) moved a resolution instructing the Parliamentary Committee to submit the following question to the trade unions:—

Are your members willing to subscribe one penny per quarter to a fund for the purpose of contesting seats and supporting bonâ-fide trade-unionist candidates for Parliamentary honours pledged to neither of the old political parties—Tory or Liberal?

He held that free and independent labour representation would be beneficial to the masses. It was the division of their strength and the political blacklegging at the ballot box to which their present pass was due. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. P. WEIGHILL (London) seconded. He believed that to ask those people who were at St. Stephen's pretending from the capitalist side to advocate labour principles was like spending their minds for nothing. Those people told them that if they wanted anything they must be up and doing it for themselves. The proposition was a means to that end. If they wanted their men to represent them they ought to pay for it in an honourable manner, and make them independent of Tory or Liberal. Then labour would stand in the same position as the Irish party—a barrier against anything that was detrimental to the interests of the working classes generally.

Mr. R. BROWN (Eskbank) opposed the motion. If they carried this resolution they would be going against their former resolution in favour of payment of members of Parliament.

Mr. JENKINS (Cardiff) spoke in support of the motion. He thought they should have a national organisation of labour, which should be under the auspices of the Trades Union Congress. He trusted the Congress would avail itself of this opportunity, and would test the whole of the trade-unionists of the country on the matter.

The resolution was defeated by 136 votes to 62.

BOARD OF TRADE (LABOUR DEPARTMENT).

Mr. J. BROWN (Glasgow) moved, on behalf of the Associated Ironmoulders of Scotland:—

This Congress is of opinion that the present Labour Department is totally inadequate for the purposes for which it was understood to have been instituted, and it calls upon the Government to give effect to the recommendation of the Labour Commission on this head, to extend the staff, and to direct investigations into the conditions under which the men, women, and children of the country are employed, and as to how far the industrial laws of this country are efficient, so that some practical results to the workers may be obtained.

In speaking to the resolution, Mr. Brown recalled some of the promises made by Mr. Mundella to a deputation in 1893. These, he said, had to a very small extent been fulfilled, but their expectations had not been met in many respects. Only one lady inspector had been appointed, although in Scotland alone there were 556,000 women employed. That was typical of the position all through the department. They had nothing to say against that part of the department dealt with by Messrs. Burnett, Drummond, and others. They were perfectly satisfied with the work these were doing. But they were dissatisfied with the other branches of the department. They were also dissatisfied that men personally interested in hazardous occupations as employers should have been appointed to sit upon the Commission to inquire into unhealthy and dangerous occupations. It was not to be expected that these men would look at the matter from an unbiassed point of view. They wanted additional inspectors appointed whom they could trust.

Mr. CRONIN (Glasgow) seconded, and at the same time withdrew a similar resolution sent up by the Amalgamated Society of Steel and Iron Workers. In the course of his remarks, he asked what could be more indecorous than that Mr. H. J. Tennant, the son of an employer in a dangerous trade, being appointed chairman of one committee on labour questions and his wife being appointed on another.

Mr. JOHN WILSON (Broxburn) condemned the present system as impossible, no matter how earnest an attempt might be made to render it effective. They must have one department, under one responsible head, for the management of all the labour affairs of the country.

The motion was unanimously approved

CAB DRIVERS' GRIEVANCES.

Mr. J. GROH, on behalf of the London Cab Drivers' Union, moved, and Mr. THORPE seconded, the following resolution:—

That this Congress emphatically condemns the present railway privilege cab and 'bus system and hotel privilege cab and 'bus system, as being unjust and unfair to all workers, and against the best interests of the public at large, and urges immediate legislation for the entire abolition of the system.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

VOTING BY CARD.

Mr. BEN TILLET moved:—

That, upon a vote being taken by card, tellers count only the votes of delegates present, and that each delegate shall personally show his voting card, and in no case shall votes be recorded or polled by organisations. Each individual delegate present shall himself be directly responsible for each vote recorded. Delegates or organisations departing from this instruction to forfeit their vote.

He said his desire was that the Congress should not be one in which the smaller unions should be ground between the upper millstone of the miners' organisations and the nether millstone of the textile operatives. He should accept any vote by cards so long as it was a personal vote, but he regarded it as undemocratic and unfair for powerful organisations to pool their votes and swamp the elections of the Congress. The two votes he had previously challenged by card had shown clearly what he was driving at. By a show of hands the majority was small in each case; by a show of cards the majority was overwhelming. He should not care, however, about it being overwhelming so long as he knew organisations did not pool their votes. Where that was done there was a direct encouragement to members to be absent and enjoy themselves.

Mr. G. N. BARNES (London) seconded, and asserted that when the last vote by cards was taken half of the miners' delegates were absent. (Loud cries of "No.") That was simply putting a premium on chicanery. Delegates were well paid by their fellow-workers to faithfully discharge their duty, but the system now in force enabled them to go "scooting" around the city instead of attending to business. (Applause.)

Mr. JOHN WILSON (Borburn), in opposing the motion, said it was a rule in this country that the men who paid the fiddler should have a big share in calling the tune. The Congress represented over a million workers. Did Mr. Tillet want 200,000 men to have as much influence as 800,000? (Cries of "No," and counter cries of "Yes.") If he did not want that precisely he wanted something like it. Further, did Mr. Tillet come there to decide on questions by the discussion of the moment? Was he given a blank cheque by his association? In their unions he asserted they recognised that the will of the majority must prevail. As to constant attendance at the Congress, when it suited Mr. Tillet to leave the hall he was just the very man to do it. (Laughter.) In closing, he said the miners' representatives believed that after a question had been fully discussed their officials were fully entitled to ask for their votes.

After some difficulty, the President succeeded in getting the closure applied.

On a vote by show of hands, Mr. Tillet's motion received 123 votes, 122 voting against; but on a vote by cards the motion was defeated by 506,000 votes to 438,000.

FURTHER RESTRICTIONS ON SPEAKING TIME.

Mr. J. WILSON, M.P., presented a report from the Standing Orders Committee, recommending, in view of the state of business, that movers be restricted to 5 minutes instead of 10, and succeeding speakers to 3 instead of 5 minutes.

The proposal was unanimously endorsed.

PAYMENT TO WITNESSES.

Mr. J. THOMAS (Cardiff), for the Cardiff, Penarth, and Barry Coal Trimmers' Union, moved:—

That whereas leading coal trimmers and their mates have frequently to attend inquiries at Cardiff and other ports in the United Kingdom into the loss of vessels and steamers, and give very important and material evidence that could not be given by anyone else, the Parliamentary Committee be requested to urge the Board of Trade to revise the present scale of payments and fix the rate of pay for this class of witness at 15s. per day in addition to their travelling expenses.

Mr. JENKINS (Cardiff) seconded, and the motion was carried.

PLATE LICENSES.

Mr. W. A. NEWCOMB (Liverpool), on behalf of the National Federation of Watch-makers, Jewellers, &c., moved—

That this Congress gives its entire support to the movement in favour of the total repeal of the plate licenses.

Mr. W. BAGSHAW (Sheffield) seconded, and the proposal was adopted.

THE GRIEVANCES OF ASSURANCE AGENTS.

Mr. ROBINSON moved the following resolution:—

That this Congress, having heard the statement of the irksome conditions under which Prudential Assurance agents labour, strongly recommends the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress, through its secretary, to seek to arrange for an interview between the representatives of the National Association of Prudential Assurance Agents of the one part, and the management of the Prudential Assurance Company of the other part, to consider the matters in question, with a view to the re-adjustment of the rules and regulations of the aforementioned company, in the interests of the industrial classes of this country as well as of the Prudential Assurance agents.

Mr. TURNER (Batley) seconded the motion. In the discussion which followed instances were given of alleged "sweating" in the collection of policy payments. One man, known as the "champion policy holder," was stated to employ three collectors at £1 per week each, while he himself cleared a commission of £11 in the same period. The resolution was carried.

RELEASE OF POLITICAL PRISONERS.

Mr. BEN TILLET (London) moved, on behalf of the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union, the following:—

That this Congress calls upon the Government to grant a complete amnesty to all political prisoners, and is of opinion that the time has arrived for a full and careful inquiry by the Home Secretary into the case of the three men—Cailes, Charles, and Battolo—condemned at Stafford in April, 1892, by Justice Hawkins to ten years' penal servitude for being in possession of explosive substances, with a view to their speedy release.

He thought the question had a very vital bearing upon the political associations of workmen, and in view of the press misrepresentations of the whole facts of the case connected with these prisoners it was only fair that there should be something of an inquiry as well as liberation for them. Those of them who had had any experience of their judges and judicial benches knew very well that however powerful a case they might make out, however reasonable their claim might be, they were denied in 99 cases out of 100 common justice wherever their claims had to go before a jury. These men, he believed, were the victims of the guilty conduct of the police and of the wretchedness of our police system. (Hear, hear.) He for one was as anxious for law and order as any man in the country, but he considered that if these men were striving to seek their political emancipation they were doing their duty according to their lights. If they were the victims of judges and of the law, he thought it was only the duty of the workmen of this country in general, and of trade-unionists in particular, having in view their experiences for picketing, to support the movement for their release. He would neither be a party to, nor would he succour or defend, any party or persons who sought their ends by the use of physical weapons and aimed at the destruction of human life. He would repudiate connection with such persons or methods, but he conscientiously believed these men were not guilty.

Mr. JOHNSTON (Burslem) seconded. He considered the sentence passed on these men was inhuman and unfair. He recalled the condition of the political prisoners recently liberated, which he regarded as a disgrace to civilisation.

Mr. J. FOX (Liverpool) opposed the motion on the ground that it was out of the province of a Trades Union Congress to express any opinion upon such a question. ("No.") Mr. Tillet had said he would not justify the offence of which these men had been convicted, but by this resolution he was justifying it. (Renewed cries of "No.") It was a wide distinction between picketing and being in the possession of explosives. They regretted the decisions of the law in respect of the picketing, but when a man carried dangerous weapons he cared little whom he injured so long as he carried out his object. Mr. Tillet had said these men acted according to their lights. That same expression would justify any criminal offence. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. PARNELL (London) supported the adoption of the motion on the grounds that these men were tricked into the position in which they were found by the police, and that they had suffered sufficiently already for their offence.

Mr. T. E. BARNES (London) also supported the resolution, and contrasted the treatment of these men with those who carried warfare into a friendly State in South Africa. The full facts of the case of these three men should be known, and at least fair justice should be done to them.

Mr. CORT (Leicester) objected to the comparison attempted to be drawn between offences committed under the guise of trade-unionism and such actions as these men had been punished for. Speakers had said they had the welfare of the community at heart, but these gentlemen would know that even that was necessary to be so safeguarded that they should not do injury to that portion of the community which they represented.

Mr. H. SLATTER (Manchester) thought the motion, which he would sympathise with in the proper place, out of place in that Congress.

On a vote, the motion was carried by 88 votes to 52.

THE LABELLING OF UNION-MADE GOODS.

Mr. T. MALLALIEU (Manchester), for the Amalgamated Society of Journeymen Felt Hatters, moved:—

That this Congress, upholding the principle it has long advocated of labelling union-made goods, hereby expresses its regret that the Parliamentary Committee should accept statements, from whatever source, derogatory thereto without attempting to establish a contradiction, and that the system be again pressed forward for general adoption wherever possible in trade.

He complained of the obstruction which efforts to obtain recognition for union-made goods had met with from co-operative societies and others, from whom they rather expected support.

Mr. J. H. JOSE (Cardiff) seconded, and the motion was adopted.

A PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

Mr. BEN TILLET, having obtained the leave of the chair, expressed regret that a remark he had made with regard to the attendance of miners' representatives had caused pain and annoyance. He understood that he had been mistaken, that a group of the miners' representatives were negotiating a trade matter on the premises, and not knowing their business he was led away by what he saw. He therefore unreservedly withdrew and apologised for the remark. (Applause.)

Mr. CRONIN: Mr. Tillet just before that made a remark that the chairman was not fair.

Mr. TILLET: I withdraw that too.

The PRESIDENT: There is no necessity for anybody to withdraw a remark like that, because the chairman of a Congress like this cannot always be fair. (Laughter.)

INSPECTION OF PUBLIC CARRIAGES.

Mr. J. HUME (Edinburgh) moved the following resolution from the United Kingdom Society of Coachmakers:—

In the opinion of this Congress it is desirable that practical coachmakers should be appointed as hackney and public carriage inspectors instead of such positions being held by inspectors of police, as at present.

Mr. W. H. CROMPTON (Birkenhead) seconded, Mr. WOOLLEY (Leicester), supported, and the resolution was carried.

THE INDUSTRIAL UNION.

Mr. J. HOLMES (Leicester), of the National Hosiery Federation, moved:—

That in the opinion of this Congress the establishment of the Industrial Union (comprising organised workers and federated employers) is a step in the right direction, in so far as it seeks to obtain accurate and necessary information on the state of trade, markets, &c., for mutual interests, with a view of creating wages boards on sound principles, as a means of preventing disputes, strikes, or lockouts, and promoting good feeling between employers and workers, and hereby welcomes its existence in our midst.

He said the union assumed that industrial peace was better than industrial war, and that they would better promote the retention and development of British trade if strikes and lockouts could be avoided, although they would retain both as weapons to be used when absolutely and inevitably necessary.

Mr. TAYLOR (Dudley), in seconding, said it would be advantageous if, by bringing employers and employed together, they could promote reconciliation, and avoid the sufferings which oftentimes attended strikes.

Mr. CLYNES (Oldham) asked if one of the objects of the union was to maintain wages at a written standard in face of foreign competition.

Mr. W. J. DAVIS (Birmingham), secretary of the union, stated that they had no such object. Their aim was to maintain the principles of peace and avoid industrial strife wherever it was possible.

In reply to a further question,

Mr. DAVIS said the union objected to free labour on its board.

On a vote being taken, the President declared the motion defeated.

COMPETITION AMONG MUSICIANS.

Mr. J. B. WILLIAMS, for the Amalgamated Musicians' Union, moved:—

That in the opinion of this Congress the competition with civilian musicians by army, navy, and police bandsmen is unjust, and instructs the Parliamentary Committee to adopt measures to assist civilian musicians to put an end to this grievance.

Mr. H. TOPHAM (Edinburgh) seconded.

Mr. E. COWEY, vice-president, said that when this matter was discussed in the Parliamentary Committee they were informed that the amalgamated musicians had men who worked at other trades every day and as musicians in theatres and music halls at night, and who were members of the musicians' union, but not of the union of the trade to which they properly belonged.

Mr. WILLIAMS said that, as general secretary, Mr. Cowey's statement was news to him. They were affiliated with the various trades councils throughout the country, had had this question raised, and had generally been able to satisfy the councils that the members of their union were also members of the union of their trades. He might say they had refused to admit members who would not satisfy them they were bona-fide trade-unionists.

Mr. COWEY: I am not satisfied with your answer, because I believe the man who works double shift is a blackleg.

Mr. WILLIAMS said that a wrong in connection with the Musicians' Association did not make a right in connection with the bandsmen.

The CHAIRMAN: Order, order.

Mr. CATTO: Does this include volunteer bands?

Mr. WILLIAMS: No; volunteer bands are not paid by the State.

The resolution was carried by 87 votes to 60.

Mr. COWEY (after the declaration of the vote): You have voted for an eight hours day, and now you vote for men to work twelve hours. (Laughter, and "Order.")

Mr. WILLIAMS further moved, and Mr. TOPHAM seconded:—

That in the opinion of this Congress the Street Noises Bill now before Parliament should be amended to allow of properly qualified bands (composed of Englishmen) to perform in the streets or other places, with permission to collect, after getting the consent of the local authorities.

Mr. CRONIN (Glasgow) wanted to know why the qualified bands should be exclusively Englishmen? (Laughter.)

Mr. BEN TILLET asked if the resolution would interfere with the Italian organ-grinder—(hear, hear)—because if it did it would take away the amusement of their children—(laughter)—and it would certainly interfere with the right of the people who wanted to turn a handle? (Renewed laughter.) To give to Englishmen exclusively—and he supposed a Scotchman was a foreigner—(laughter)—the right to play on the streets was entirely unfair. Let them have international music as well as international congresses.

Mr. SMILLIE (Larkhall) also took objection to the restriction of the benefits of the motion to Englishmen, and said that in trying to amend the Bill the musicians were acting unfairly. The workers had had many strikes, and in some cases had sent out their bands—perhaps not properly qualified bands—to collect subscriptions. The effect of the amendment would be to prevent starving men from going out to earn an honest penny. He agreed they should be protected from some of the horrible noises to which they were subjected, but they ought to be cautious in placing power of this kind in the hands of the public authorities. In Glasgow at the present time a band of continental players, qualified or otherwise, might parade the streets without interference; but if a few gamins got a few tin whistles and drums and went on parade the local authorities at once pounced upon them.

The resolution was rejected.

THE WAGES OF CO-OPERATIVE EMPLOYEES.

Mr. T. M'BURNEY (Dundee), for the Amalgamated Society of Tailors, moved:—

That we regret the action of a number of co-operative societies who refuse to accept the fair trade-union conditions and prices, and instruct our representatives on the Joint Trades Union and Co-operative Arbitration Committee to increase their efforts in the direction of securing a more harmonious relationship between two movements which have so many interests in common; and further, a separate report of the work done by that committee must be submitted to each succeeding Congress for criticism and adoption.

He said that year by year they were adding more adherents from co-operators to fair union conditions and wages, but, after all, there were only a few hundreds here and there who were actually paid fair prices. He thought all trade-unionists who were co-operators would agree that the resolution asked no more than was fair. The other day Mr. Deans, representing a million or more of co-operators, had pointed out to the Congress one solitary instance in which co-operative societies in Scotland paid trade-union rates to women. The societies as a whole paid women very badly, and some of them employed no men at all and only women and boy labour.

Mr. T. A. FLYNN (Manchester) seconded, and said that in Lancashire there were more than one co-operative society which believed it was part and parcel of its duty to get clothing made under the very cheapest conditions, and if having done so it was able to offer the shareholders a dividend of 3 to 10 per cent, it fancied it had done its duty.

Mr. G. PHILLIP (Trottick Mains, by Dundee) said he did not know what was the state of matters in England, but in Scotland some of them felt that instead of being a co-operative association the institution bearing that name was a dividend-providing association. Now, for co-operators to be in line with trade-unionism they must sell the best goods at the lowest possible prices after paying working expenses at the highest rate of wages. When co-operation did these things he would be a co-operator and advocate co-operation.

Mr. E. WALKDEN (Wigan) held that before a resolution of this kind was allowed to be put before the Congress those who presented it were bound to prove that some wrong had been done.

Mr. R. CARR (Darlington) said that while in Scotland and in the South of England wages in the co-operative establishments were low, in the North and Midlands of England they paid better wages than were given by private traders. The resolution was not definite enough for them to take a practical stand. They wanted the names of places and of stores, and the circumstances in regard to wages.

The motion was defeated.

THE LAW OF LIBEL.

Mr. J. HOLLINGS (Bradford) moved, on behalf of the Amalgamated Society of Tailors:—

That this Congress is of opinion that the present state of the law of libel is indefinite, unjust, and oppressive; we therefore instruct the Parliamentary Committee to bring all the pressure and influence in their power to induce the Government to so amend the law that it may become lawful for any person or persons acting in the interests of the community, who are doing so without malice, to expose in public meetings or in the public press any firm or firms who are known to be acting or working contrary to the interests or in any way injurious to the workers and the public.

He said that advertisements, known to be false, were put out by employers, and the employers were not in a position to contradict them. An advertisement, for instance, would say—"All our goods made on our own premises and under trade-union prices." Hundreds of firms were making gross falsehoods, and the law of libel prevented them saying that their statements were not true.

Mr. W. B. HORNIDGE (Leicester) seconded. He said there was presented to the public a rotten article, composed of compo, in the shape of boots. It was nothing less than absolute fraud for these, ostensibly leather, to be placed in windows. Ladies wore these nicely manufactured articles, apparently beautiful boots, but simply death traps. He had had occasion, necessity had compelled him, to manufacture scores or grosses of absolute death traps for his fellows, and were he to express his opinion in regard to them to his employer he would be told that he would be cleared out of the place and prosecuted if he did so publicly.

Mr. T. A. FLYNN (Manchester) also supported the resolution. He said that at the present time, in every large town, trousers were sold as being made of Harris tweed for 10s. 6d. Now, Harris tweeds could not be obtained for less than 7s. a yard, and there were 2½ yards required for each pair of trousers. The tweeds to which he referred came from Yorkshire, and were actually sold at from something like 1s. to 2s. a yard. It was a downright imposition to ticket them "Harris Tweeds." The best employers were with them in asking the Congress to instruct the Parliamentary Committee to urge upon the Government the necessity of allowing them to point out the facts to the public. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. TURNER (Batley) rose, as he said, to say a word in defence of shoddy, but the President held that the motion had been sufficiently discussed. On being put to the meeting, the motion was adopted unanimously.

THE LAW OF MASTER AND SERVANT.

Mr. T. E. BARNES (London) moved, on behalf of the London and Provincial Domestic Servants:—

That this Congress, because of the unjust increasing refusals of the giving of characters by employers of domestic servants, strongly urges upon the Government the immediate necessity to amend the law of master and servant, so as to render it compulsory upon all employers of domestic servants to give a true character, in writing to such servants on leaving their employ, and thus protect servants against a vindictive or maliciously-disposed employer.

In London alone, he said, there were 260,000 domestic servants, and the position of these, chiefly women, was one which no other worker in the country would tolerate. He had been making inquiries in Edinburgh, and he was informed that there also employers were unjust and unfair to their domestic servants in the matter of giving characters. This grievance under which they suffered had driven thousands of women on the London streets.

Mr. J. MACPHERSON (London) seconded. There was need, he held, for some kind of method by which shop assistants and domestic servants could get a true character when they left an employer.

The resolution was unanimously carried.

THE STANDING ORDERS.

The Congress then took a series of amendments upon the standing orders sent in by various trade organisations. The first, sent in by the British Steel Smelters' Amalgamated Association, which proposed to give the Parliamentary Committee power, when their income fell short of expenditure, to impose a levy upon the trades represented at the preceding Congress, was, after discussion, defeated. An amendment to Standing Order No. 8 on the lines of that proposed earlier in the day by Mr. Tillett was also rejected. It was proposed, as an addition to Standing Order No. 9, to disqualify for election to the Parliamentary Committee any candidate who during the year preceding Congress had knowingly assisted in the production of anything which was produced by non-union labour, or at such firms as might be declared unfair by the interested trade society, but this motion was also defeated. An amendment to Standing Order No. 13, providing for the discussion of the Parliamentary Committee's report en se'riatim, was carried.

Mr. W. Ross moved, as an amendment to Standing Order No. 18 :—

No reporter shall be allowed to take notes of Congress proceedings unless they can prove to the Parliamentary Committee that the newspapers or periodicals they represent have printed on their first and last pages the words—"Printed by trade union labour, on paper made in the United Kingdom."

Mr. Ross was understood to say that if the motion had stood on the standing orders there would have been no necessity for certain proceedings on the two previous days.

The amendment was seconded, but on a vote was declared to have been defeated.

The Congress then adjourned.

FIFTH DAY.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1896.

The Congress re-assembled at 9.30, Councillor JOHN MALLINSON (president) in the chair.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS.

Mr. Ross (Manchester), for the Paper-mill Workers of Great Britain and Ireland, moved :—

That this Congress, in order to make operative the fair wage and fair hour resolution of the House of Commons, 13th February, 1891, and as a partial remedy for the continued depression in the paper and other trades, and want of employment prevailing, hereby calls upon the Government to insert a clause in all Government contracts providing that the whole of the paper and other goods supplied (if obtainable in the United Kingdom) shall be of British or Irish manufacture or production, and instructs the Parliamentary Committee to take immediate steps for the furtherance of this object.

He asserted that if his resolution were given effect to it would give employment to hundreds of employes who at present were on short time.

Mr. ROGERS (London), in seconding, said that the Government which sent its work out of the country and left the people at home to swell the ranks of the unemployed was guilty of a crime and a blunder. Her Majesty's Stationery Office spent every year in paper, printing, and bookbinding £322,440. When they looked at the expenditure of some of the other Government offices this sum was comparatively not large, but the money ought to be kept at home. All the work for the Stationery Office could be done in the three kingdoms. The policy of sending the contract out of the country was merely for the sake of the miserable commercial element—cheapness, and the paper that came was usually cheap and nasty. In small contracts the Stationery Office had of late shown a tendency to deal more in English material, and they had done so because some of the trade societies in connection with the paper and printing trades in London had made themselves a nuisance on this question.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The following motion was on the agenda from the Boilermakers and Iron and Steel Shipbuilders' Society :—

That the Parliamentary Committee be instructed to get the following resolution inserted in all Government contracts :—"That all persons or person tendering or estimating for Government work must pay or cause to be paid to the whole of his or their workmen such rate of wages, and observe such hours of labour, as are recognised by the workmen's trade unions."

THE PRESIDENT said that as the resolution was covered by one already dealt with, it would be passed over.

Mr. SHORROCKS (Wolverhampton) held that the motion had not been dealt with in a previous resolution.

The PRESIDENT said the Standing Orders Committee and he agreed that it had been.

At a later stage, Mr. SHORROCKS rose and said he had made inquiries and was told that the Parliamentary Committee had not so decided.

The PRESIDENT said that in an amended agenda sent him by the committee this resolution was struck out.

Mr. J. SWAN (Edinburgh) moved, on behalf of the Scottish Typographical Association :—

In view of the contract for the Government printing of Scotland terminating on 31st December, 1896, this Congress instructs the Parliamentary Committee to urge upon the Comptroller of Her Majesty's Stationery Office the desirability of insisting that, in the contract to come into force as from 1st January, 1897, the terms of the resolution passed by the House of Commons in February, 1891, be adhered to in regard to all such work being produced by competent workmen at the recognised wages paid in the district, and further instructs the Parliamentary Committee to urge upon the Comptroller the necessity of such extract being publicly advertised.

He said the compositors in Edinburgh had for years been labouring under a serious grievance in regard to this Government contract in the printing industry. In a printing office in Edinburgh Government Blue Books and reports of Commissions were almost entirely printed and got up by female labour. Now, he was not against female labour, but he was against it being for the benefit of the master and against the men. This work had been nearly all done by female labour at a price in many cases one-half and one-third of what men would get. They wanted the female if she was doing the work to get the same pay as if a man did it, and they did not want to be undersold.

Mr. J. TEMPLETON (Glasgow) seconded. The expiring contract, he held, had been worked under very unfair circumstances; in fact, he did not know that in London they were as ill off as they in Edinburgh were. It was very suggestive—he could not tell the reason for it—but they in Scotland had had no opportunity of giving evidence before the recent Commission.

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Mr. S. HARRINGTON (Glasgow) moved a resolution sent in by the Amalgamated Society of Steel and Iron Workers and the National Amalgamated Union of Labour:—

That as Government contracts for shipbuilding material are sub-contracted to firms who neither pay the rate of wages current in the district nor comply with the House of Commons resolution of February, 1891, in any respect, this Congress instructs the Parliamentary Committee to try and get an impartial investigation into the matter at the earliest opportunity, this investigation to include the wages and general conditions of employment of labourers and others who may be engaged or paid directly or indirectly by members of skilled trade unions.

It was a notorious fact, he said, that some of the non-union places in the West of Scotland received a greater number of Government contracts than others. On one occasion an endeavour had been made to make one of these shops a trade union shop. The society got fifty of the men to join on a Saturday. By Monday morning the knowledge of this had reached the ears of the manager, who dismissed these men. The society agreed then to support any man who would come out on strike. The strike lasted for about eighteen or nineteen weeks, and cost close upon £4,000.

Mr. DIPPER (Newcastle) seconded, and Mr. RILEY (Glasgow) supported the resolution, which was unanimously adopted.

Mr. R. HACKETT (Manchester), on behalf of the Typographical Association, moved, and Mr. TEMPLETON (Glasgow) seconded a resolution in the following terms:—

That the recent inquiry by the Select Committee of the House of Commons appointed to inquire and report with reference to the placing and working of stationery office contracts in regard to Government printing and bookbinding has been most unsatisfactory, both with reference to the narrow interpretation placed upon their instructions by the Committee and the limitation of essential evidence and witnesses necessary to enable the Select Committee to elicit the grievances of the workers, and prove the non-observance of fair wages conditions by various contractors.

PROPOSED INTERNATIONAL TRADES UNION CONGRESS.

Mr. HARVEY submitted a report from the Standing Orders Committee, recommending the Parliamentary Committee to ascertain during the next twelve months if the trade unions of the United Kingdom were in favour of holding an International Trades Union Congress in the year 1898, their decisions to be made known to the next Congress.

The recommendation was approved.

TRADE UNIONS DISPUTING.

The Standing Orders Committee reported that having heard complaints from the Operative Stonemasons' Society, the Operative Plasterers' Society, and the Manchester Unity of Bricklayers' Society, against the Operative Bricklayers' Society, they would recommend the Parliamentary Committee to endeavour to get the grievance complained of rectified.

The report was adopted.

The standing orders were then suspended so that a series of resolutions from the committee might be proposed.

THE ARMENIAN HORRORS.

Mr. HARVEY moved:—

That this Congress, directly representing the organised workpeople of Great Britain, desires on broad humanitarian grounds to express its intense abhorrence of the outrages and massacres which a fanatical and corrupt Government have promoted in Constantinople and Armenia, and earnestly appeals to the Christian and civilised Governments of Europe to effectually prevent any recurrence of such vile atrocities in the future.

The resolution was unanimously approved.

Mr. THORNE asked whether the resolution would be forwarded to the proper authorities?

Mr. HARVEY said it would be handed over to the Parliamentary Committee whenever elected, to do what they liked with it.

CONTINENTAL TRADE-UNIONISM.

Mr. HARVEY further moved:—

That this Congress, having regard to the great and growing need there was for the spread of trade-unionism, not only amongst the workers of Great Britain, but among those on the Continent, and recognising the obstacles which are placed in the way of combination in many continental countries, would express a hope that the legislatures of Europe will before long remove all legal impediments to the formation and spread of trade organisations, instead of trying to frustrate their attempt to bring about such a desirable end by the means we have seen adopted by at least one continental nation.

The resolution was approved.

ACTION OF MINISTERS CONDEMNED.

Mr. HARVEY also moved, on behalf of the Standing Orders Committee:—

That this Congress utters its indignant protest at the insult offered to the organised labour of the country by the refusal of the Postmaster-General and the Secretary of State for War to receive the Fawcett Association's representations on the matter of grievances in their departments; hereby instructs the Parliamentary Committee to draw up an amendment to the Queen's speech in the forthcoming session of Parliament, and ensure its being moved, with the object of raising the grievances complained of, and of calling attention to the unprecedented action of these ministers; and, further, to continue the agitation for the right of combination and civil liberty of Government servants until the same be accomplished.

The motion was declared carried.

FAIR WAGES.

Mr. R. KNIGHT, J.P. (Newcastle-on-Tyne), moved, on behalf of the Boiler-makers and Iron and Steel Shipbuilders' Association:—

That, in the opinion of this Congress, the custom prevailing in the Government dockyards of putting labourers to do mechanics' work in the construction of H.M. ships ought to be discontinued, it being inimical to trade-union principles, as well as being an evasion and subversion of the fair wages resolution passed by the House of Commons on February 13, 1891. We therefore instruct the Parliamentary Committee, in conjunction with the trades affected, to urge upon the Government the necessity of having trained and practical shipbuilders to perform their special work in the dockyards, and draw attention to the want of greater equalisation of rates in all Government establishments; and failing a satisfactory reply, that steps be taken by the Parliamentary Committee to have the question raised in the House of Commons by the Labour M.P.'s during the discussion of the Naval Estimates in the ensuing session of Parliament.

He said all the trades represented at the Congress which had members of their societies working in the Government dockyards had the same complaint to make—that labourers were substituted for skilled workers. This was done with the view of showing that the Government could get its work done more cheaply than the private trader, or than they ought to get it done. Then, in connection with all Government work done by private firms there were Government inspectors appointed who had to watch very carefully all the work done for the Government. These Government inspectors would not allow a labourer or handy man to work as a skilled man on the Government contract job. Why should not the same principle be carried out in the dockyards? The work done on the vessels constructed in the dockyards was most discreditable, and instead of being a saving to the nation, was the reverse.

Mr. F. A. Fox (Cardiff), in seconding, said the resolution conveyed but a very vague and indefinite idea of the grossly unfair and utterly untrade-union-like system that obtained in the Government dockyards in regard to the construction of Her Majesty's ships. He confessed that he was a warm supporter of the principle of the nationalisation of land and of industries that might with advantage be managed by the State, but if he thought that the State would manage nationalised property in the same loose, thriftless, and extravagant fashion they now managed, or rather mismanaged, shipbuilding in the dockyards he would immediately cease to be a nationaliser. (Hear, hear.) There were two substantial reasons why this resolution should be adopted and why reform in the dockyard became a necessity. There was a wholesale system of blacklegging fostered and encouraged under the ægis of Government and dockyard officials to the detriment and disadvantage of the skilled mechanic. In the second place, the work done in the dockyards was more expensive and less efficient, in particular the riveting was bad, ineffective work. He averred that there were thousands of rivets in the ship "Hannibal" just being fitted with her engines outside Pembroke dockyard that should be cut out again and renewed. (Hear, hear.) It was in the interests of the whole community as well as of the workers that thorough and searching investigation should be made into the system of shipbuilding in the Government dockyards.

Mr A. T. DIPPER (Newcastle-on-Tyne) said that unless the Parliamentary Committee heard otherwise they might think, from what had been said, that work in the private shipbuilding yards was all that could be desired, and that if the Government work could only be done in the same way all would be gain. He had no hesitation in saying that for every one complaint they had to make of Government shipbuilding yards there were at least a dozen that could be made in regard to the private shipyards. If work was to be carried on in the Government yards upon the same lines as obtained in the private yards, there would be introduced even greater evils than those complained of. The conditions of work in the private yards was nothing short of contemptible. A certain class got paid by piecework. These employed workers and general labourers to work with them, and paid them a time rate which was less than they were entitled to receive.

Mr. WILKIE (Newcastle) said that the proposers of this resolution having accepted the amendment forwarded by the society he represented, he simply desired to remind the Congress, when instructing the Parliamentary Committee to deal with this matter, that there were two distinct systems in the iron shipbuilding industry, one outside and the other inside H.M.'s dockyards, where our trade, who were trained and practical shipbuilders, did the greater part of the work, so that while endeavouring to rectify the matter complained of, he hoped that in the best interests of labour greater friction would not be created amongst the trades affected.

Mr. IRELAND (Chatham) having spoken, the resolution was put to the meeting and adopted.

Mr. ROGERS (London), for the Vellum Binders' Society, moved:—

Inasmuch as Government, while professing to desire that the fair wages resolution should be carried out in its entirety, refuses to recognise any violation of it in the systematic employment by Government contractors of boys, who, by the conditions of their employment, are taught only the elements of a trade, and are generally cast aside at an age when training is necessary for their future livelihood, this Congress is asked to affirm that no house shall be considered fair that adopts such methods of work, as the practical result of such methods is to destroy the qualities of a handicraft, and to create the most difficult problem in industrial life—the half-skilled workman.

Mr. GIBBS seconded, Mr. SHARP (Leeds) supported, and the resolution was approved.

Mr. G. B. BEVERIDGE (Newcastle) moved "that the definition of the fair wages clause to mean trade-union rates and conditions should be enforced in all Government contracts."

Mr. T. MORTIMER (Oldham) seconded, and the resolution was approved.

A resolution on the minimum wage from the Labour Protection League was ruled out of order on the ground that the League had not sent a representative to the Congress.

ELECTION OF SCRUTINEERS.

The Congress proceeded to the election of scrutineers. There were fourteen nominations, and the following six gentlemen were appointed:—Messrs. Charles Fenwick, M.P., Miners' National Union, Newcastle; T. Aspinwall, J.P., Miners' Federation, Skelmersdale; J. Pye, Gold Beaters' Society, London; W. C. Robinson, Beamers', Twisters', and Drawers' Amalgamated Association, Burnley; C. W. Bowerman, London Society of Compositors; and W. G. Millington, Shipwrights' Associated Society—the latter after a tie with Mr. Mosses, Manchester.

CHARGES AGAINST THE STANDING ORDERS COMMITTEE.

Mr. JOHN WILSON, M.P. (Durham), stated that the Tailors' Society, whose delegate (Mr. M'Fadden) had been expelled, had made a general charge against the Standing Orders Committee, and had also preferred a charge against the chairman of the committee. The first charge was that the committee had acted after the fashion of Judge Lynch in trying Mr. M'Fadden, and all he had to say about that was the five men who formed the committee were very well known. They could have no interest whatever in excluding anyone. They put alongside the statement their own character, and left it there. (Applause.) The second charge was in reference to Mr. Harvey's statement as to Mr. M'Fadden admitting that there was blacklegging. It was not Mr. Harvey who asked the question; he (Mr. Wilson) himself put a series of questions to Mr. M'Fadden. He asked him first if there was a strike at Dundee. The answer was, "Yes." He then asked, "Did you work as a blackleg at Dundee?" The answer was, "Yes." He then placed in Mr. M'Fadden's hand Standing Order No. 21, and asked him how he would proceed under that standing order in the light of his admission. He (Mr. Wilson) avowed that the series of questions were put to Mr. M'Fadden and answered in the way he had mentioned. (Applause.)

A VISITOR FROM THE ANTIPODES.

Mr. TRENWITH, a labour member of the Victorian Parliament, was introduced to the Congress to offer a message of goodwill from Australian unionists. After complimenting delegates on the good order and friendly feeling which had characterised the Congress, he said it was extremely necessary that trade unions should be strengthened and made more far-reaching than they ever were, because all the forces of civilisation were tending to make it more difficult for the individual to struggle alone. (Hear, hear.) The continual improvement in the forces of production was multiplying products immensely more rapidly than they were in the past, and men and women were being squeezed out of employment everywhere. It was said by statist that the working class were better off, and they did prove by a certain manipulation of figures that in some instances workmen got better wages than they used to, and got commodities cheaper, but they did this by ignoring the fact that the condition of the labourer everywhere was more precarious now than it was. (Applause.) It probably was true that sometimes when he was working he got more wages for the same period, and that money would now purchase a larger amount of commodities than in times past, but the fact was entirely overlooked, which no workman could overlook, that the times when he was not working were very much more numerous and protracted than they were. (Applause.) Trade-unionism must be extended very much more generally, and its planks made more solid and concrete, if it was to do the work it had done in the past and more, for if it continued only to do the work of the past it would fail absolutely to sufficiently alleviate the conditions of the people. The governments of the world were being looked to to do what trade-unionism had proved to be incapable of doing, and in English-speaking places the genius of the constitution was that the people governed themselves. This was not true, but it was the underlying principle of the form of government, and where the people did not govern themselves a good deal of the blame rested with the people. (Applause.) Therefore institutions such as that Congress, which tended to educate the outside public to the fact that trade-unionists were not wild and revolutionary in their action, that if any charge could be truly laid against them it was that they were often too conservative; that they were not ignorant, violent, and loud-mouthed, but in the main far the best educated of their class; that if they were ignorant, as comparatively, it must be admitted, they were, it was not from choice, but because they had been kept ignorant by bad legislation in the past. (Applause.) Meetings such as this tended to remove the reproach of ignorance, and their influence certainly reached to the far corners of the earth.

On the motion of Mr. HOLLINGS, a vote of thanks to the Victorian delegate was carried.

Mr. TRENWITH, in replying, affirmed that in Australia trade-unionism had certainly done more than in this country. In the Victorian House of Commons there were 96 members, and of these 17 were direct representatives of trade-unionism.

AN AMERICAN INVITATION.

Mr. JOHN WILSON, M.P., announced the receipt of a cordial invitation to the Convention of Labour at Cincinnati in October.

After suspension of the standing orders,

Mr. TURNER (Batley) moved that the invitation be accepted, and that the selection of delegates be left to the Parliamentary Committee

Mr. MOSSES (Manchester) moved the non-acceptance of the invitation. There had been a good deal of grumbling, he said, at these annual junketings, and it had been asked whether the money spent could not be better applied in the furtherance of the labour programme in this country. The sending of two delegates to America cost £140, and all the return they got was two altogether inadequate paragraphs in the Parliamentary Committee's report.

The PRESIDENT suggested that a vote should be taken first on the question of representation alone.

By a very large majority the Congress decided in favour of accepting the invitation.

Mr. BEN TILLET then moved that the election of delegates should be made by the Congress instead of the Parliamentary Committee. If the Congress, he said, was to be something more than a voting machine, it must not shirk its responsibilities in favour of the Parliamentary Committee.

Mr. McLEOD seconded, and the motion was carried by 174 votes to 44.

FINANCE.

The abstract of the accounts of the Parliamentary Committee was presented. It appeared that the income, including a balance from previous year of £1,104, amounted last year to £2,677. The expenditure included a sum of £250 for the International Congress. There was a credit balance of £752.

Messrs. WILKINSON and PARROTT, the auditors, stated that they had examined the books and accounts of the Trades and International Congress, and found everything satisfactory.

The report was adopted.

NEXT CONGRESS.

On the motion of Mr. DAVIS, seconded by Mr. COOKE, Birmingham was selected as the next place of meeting as against Nottingham, which was also proposed.

FACTORY AND WORKSHOP LEGISLATION : EMPLOYMENT OF CHILDREN IN FACTORIES.

Mr. W. THORNE (London) moved, on behalf of the National Union of Gasworkers and General Labourers of Great Britain and Ireland :—

Considering that the employment of children in factories and workshops, and on board river and canal craft, and their consequent exploitation by the capitalist, is injurious to the children, unjust to their parents, and a crime against the human race; considering the infamous fact that the children of the working class have not the same opportunities of the classroom and the playground as the children of the capitalist class; considering that in this connection Great Britain is behind other countries; considering that unhappy parents, under an unhappy system, are actually willing, and even anxious, to have their children torn from school and huddled into the factory—this Congress is of opinion that the time has come for Great Britain to cease building its empire upon children's hearts, to give up coining its wealth out of children's wasted lives, and hereby instructs the Parliamentary Committee to demand as a temporary minimum from the Government the abolition of child labour until the age of 15, and of all night labour until the age of 18.

He anticipated serious opposition from the textile workers. (Cries of "Hear, hear.")

Mr. GOSLING (London) seconded.

Mr. D. HOLMES, J.P. (Burnley), opposed the motion. He said he wished it to be proved to him that their juveniles in the factories were suffering. It was very curious that these resolutions should come from the people who had not the slightest experience or knowledge of the working of the Factory Acts. (Cries of "No" and "Yes.") Not a tittle of evidence had been adduced to show that the children employed under the Factory Acts were physically deteriorated or that their intellectual attainments fell short of any children in the country. These children were, he said, carrying off the highest awards in the national institutions that were open to them. If the age was raised to fifteen years, then he was afraid their children would never be able to earn a living at working the tender fabrics in the textile trade. There were thousands of people in all the districts where, if this was put into operation, it would impose the greatest possible hardship on a great number of the poor, who were less able to bear it. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. GIBBS (Birmingham) refuted the statement that members of the Gasworkers' Union did not come under the Factory Acts. There were a large number of youths employed in the industries embraced in that union.

Mr. W. BRABHAM (Bristol) also supported the resolution.

On a show of hands, 118 voted in favour of the motion and 105 against it. A vote by cards was demanded, when 394,000 voted in favour and 353,000 against the motion, which was declared adopted amidst loud cheers.

Mr. T. A. FLYNN (Manchester) moved:—

That this Congress instructs the Parliamentary Committee to urge upon the Government the advisability of including the following amendments in the existing Factory and Workshops Acts:—(a) That section 62 of the principal Act be so amended that intimidation of workers giving evidence to factory inspectors be deemed obstructing the inspector in the execution of his duties; (b) that it be made compulsory upon all employers in the tailoring industry to provide workshop accommodation for their workpeople; (c) that a court of summary jurisdiction shall be empowered to order any employer convicted of an offence under the particulars clause of the Factory and Workshops Amendment Act to refund to the operatives such sums of money as they might deem equitable in such case; (d) that the Factory Acts be so amended as to prohibit Saturday afternoon and Sunday labour in textile and paper mills except for necessary repairs. Secondly, that the Government be asked to introduce a Bill to consolidate and simplify the various Factory and Workshops Acts, so as to remedy the confusion and uncertainty frequently arising from the different Acts in force.

Mr. A. GEE (Huddersfield) seconded the resolution, which was agreed to unanimously.

Mr. DREW (Bradford), for the Yorkshire Power-loom Weavers, moved:—

That more particulars clause inspectors, of a similar practical character to those already holding such appointments, be appointed for the textile industries.

Mr. TURNER (Batley) seconded the resolution, which was carried.

Mr. G. H. COPLEY (Rotherham) moved, for the National Amalgamated Union of Enginemen, Cranemen, Hammer Drivers, and Boiler Firemen:—

That it be an instruction from this Congress to the Parliamentary Committee that they use their influence with the Government with a view to getting a clause inserted in the Factory Act, which shall act as an instruction to all coroners, that, in cases of fatal accident to workers in all trades, a person authorised by the injured party or his representative shall be legally empowered to attend all coroners' inquests, and ask questions of witness, and to visit the place of accident to take a plan or obtain any necessary information.

Mr. F. THURSTON (London) seconded, and the motion was approved.

THE LAW OF PICKETING.

Mr. PARNELL (London) moved, and Mr. TURNER seconded, the following proposition from the Dock, Wharf, Riverside, and General Labourers' Union:—

That this Trade Union Congress protests against the recent decision of certain judges with regard to the law relating to picketing, and further pledges itself to support, morally and financially, the decision of the London Trades Council in its endeavour to definitely ascertain what is really the law upon the matter.

THE HOURS OF LABOUR.

Mr. CATTO (Aberdeen), for the Operative Bakers of Scotland, moved the following resolution:—

That it be an instruction to the Parliamentary Committee to introduce a Bill into the House of Commons, limiting the hours of work in bake-houses in Scotland to eight per day.

The motion was carried.

Miss WHYTE (Women Bookbinders' Trade Union) moved that in the opinion of the Congress further restrictions for working women were undesirable.

Mr. J. TOYNE (Saltburn) seconded, but on a vote the proposal was rejected.

Mr. J. MACPHERSON (London), National Union of Shop Assistants, &c., moved:—

That this Congress, recognising the evil effects of long hours of labour, welcomes the introduction into the House of Commons, on the initiative of the National Union of Shop Assistants, Warehousemen, and Clerks, of the "Shop Assistants' Hours Regulation Bill," which proposes a uniform hour of closing all shops (except coffee-houses and places of refreshment) at seven o'clock on three days, one o'clock one day, and nine and ten o'clock respectively on the other two days of the week. This Congress further calls upon all members of the House of Commons to assist in passing the Bill into law, as being a measure urgently needed in the interests of shop workers.

Mr. THORNE seconded, and the motion was approved.

Mr. W. HUDSON (Darlington), Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, moved:—

That this Congress is of opinion that railway servants, in the interests of themselves and of the travelling public, should not be employed continuously for more than eight hours, nor for more than forty-eight hours in any one week.

Also, that their conditions of hiring, which compels them to give their whole time to the service of the company employing them, without any guarantee of a week's wages, is iniquitous and unjust. The Congress, therefore, instructs the Parliamentary Committee to introduce a Bill into Parliament at the earliest opportunity to limit the hours of railway servants as aforesaid, and to render illegal all contracts which demand entire service without payment of a full week's wages. He stated that the railway servants had already a Bill prepared to hand over to the Parliamentary Committee, and, if approved, to be introduced into the House of Commons.

Mr. J. G. MUIR (Glasgow) seconded.

Mr. J. SAMPSON (Glasgow), in supporting, said it was a shame that the North British and Caledonian Railway Companies, the two largest companies in Scotland, were working a seventy-two hours week. These companies ought at once to set their house in order.

The resolution was carried.

Mr. T. GREENALL (Manchester), for the Miners' Federation, moved:—

That the Parliamentary Committee be instructed to render all assistance possible to the miners in getting members to ballot for their Eight Hours Bill at the opening of Parliament next session, and during the session at every stage of the Bill assist in whipping-up members to attend in their places in the House of Commons to support the Bill.

He said that if they could get a Miners' Eight Hours Bill passed through Parliament—and on this matter they were almost unanimous—it would be a step in the right direction, and would lead to further legislation in that direction.

Mr. BROWN (Eskbank) said that surely eight hours out of the twenty-four were enough to spend in any mine. Why should they have division in their ranks when Mr. Gladstone had said if they were united they could have the eight hours day?

Mr. RALPH YOUNG (Newcastle), Miners' National Union, declared that ten years ago there was not a man in the Congress who approved of a miners' eight hours day. Mr. Woods, the secretary, was the first man in connection with the Federation to lift up his voice in its favour. His reason was that it would limit production and increase employment and wages. That was the starting-point of those who now threw ridicule on the persons who clung to the position they held ten years ago. Personally he had never been in favour of a uniform eight hours day to be obtained either by trade-union effort or by Act of Parliament. They could not have a uniform day, and to call for it was to misuse their energy.

A vote was taken, and the President declared the motion carried.

Mr. C. GIBBS (West Bromwich), for the Birmingham Bakers and Confectioners, moved, and Mr. H. EMERY seconded:—

That this Congress urges upon the Parliamentary Committee to introduce a Bill into the House of Commons fixing the number of hours to be worked in bakehouses, the general secretary of the Amalgamated Union of Operative Bakers and Confectioners of Great Britain and Ireland to draft such Bill.

The motion was approved.

Mr. T. E. BARNES, on behalf of the London and Provincial Domestic Servants, moved:—

That this Congress urges upon the Government the necessity to regulate the hours of labour of all women and girls employed in domestic service, so as not to exceed more than seventy hours per week, including one and a half hours for meals per day.

He asserted that domestic servants worked longer than any other class; in fact, there was no limit but the will of their employers. Thousands of young girls in London started at six o'clock in the morning and worked till one or two the following morning, and did that seven days in the week. ("Shame.") The butler could have his two hours' freedom each day, and he asked how it was that what was good for the butler could not be given to the cook? (Applause.)

Mr. Fox (Bristol) seconded.

Mrs. MARY CALLAGHAN (Oldham) pointed out another serious feature of the question—the fact that a large number of children who were ineligible for mill work were taken out of workhouses and sent to service, where their lives were rendered a burden by the extreme hours they were made to work and the intolerable conditions imposed by their employers. The life of young people in mills was, she said, paradise compared with that of those children.

GOVERNMENT BARGES.

Mr. FAIRBAIRN moved:—

While agreeing with the principle adopted by the War Department in doing its own lighterage work without the intervention of a contractor, this Congress regrets that incompetent men are being employed in Government barges at wages below the usual rates in the trade, to the injury of the properly-trained and qualified men who have hitherto done this work, and instructs the Parliamentary Committee to call the attention of the proper authorities to this injustice.

Mr. H. GOSLING (London) seconded, and the motion was carried.

COLLISIONS ON THE THAMES.

Mr. GOSLING moved, and Mr. STUBBS seconded:—

That inasmuch as the number of collisions occurring continually between steam vessels and barges and other small river craft on the Thames is increasing, and is in excessive proportion to the number of craft navigating that river, and that serious loss of life ensues thereby—this Congress instructs its Parliamentary Committee to interview the Marine Department of the Board of Trade, with a view of inducing that authority to take such necessary and immediate steps as will effectually prevent pilots and masters in charge of steam vessels racing their vessels on the Thames in order to catch markets, and beat competitors, which practices are very common, and pursued without due and proper regard for the safety of the lives of the men on board of such river craft.

The resolution was carried.

MUNICIPALISATION OF DOCKS.

Mr. BEN TILLET, for the Dock, Wharf, Riverside, and General Labourers' Union, moved:—

That this Trades Union Congress strongly advocates the principle of all docks, quays, wharves, and warehouses being municipalised, being of opinion that the present system of private ownership is economically unsound and injurious to the community generally, whilst also acting prejudicially upon workers employed. And further is of opinion that the only solution to the dock question lies in the docks, wharves, and warehouses being democratically controlled.

He pointed out the immense growth of trade which had attended municipal control of the Clyde, Mersey, and Tyne. London seemed to show neither love for nor interest in the Thames, and the consequence was that at low tide it was practically impossible for some of the great liners to get up beyond Woolwich, and it was even dangerous at some points between Gravesend and Woolwich. In view of the success which had attended municipal control on the Tyne, Clyde, and Mersey, the principle should be extended to the great waterway of the Metropolis.

Mr. DIPPER (Newcastle) seconded, and said that while it was true that municipalities by an expenditure of public money had greatly improved our waterways, the dock companies and shipowners had too frequently obtained the benefit. He illustrated this by a reference to sanatoriums necessitated by the cattle trade in various ports, maintained by public money, he affirmed, for the benefit of ship and dock owners.

The resolution was approved.

INSPECTION OF BOILERS.

Mr. R. CARR (Darlington) moved:—

That this Congress request the Parliamentary Committee to prepare and introduce a Bill in the ensuing session of Parliament to provide for the compulsory examination and registration of all steam boilers. Such examinations should be made as follows:—One complete and entire examination every twelve months, and not less than three other examinations to be made yearly whilst the boilers are under steam, to ascertain that everything is in good working order; and that none but technically-trained and duly-qualified boiler-makers, who have served a legal apprenticeship and worked at their trade as journeymen for a period of not less than five years, besides passing a Board of Trade examination and obtaining a certificate of proficiency, be permitted to act as boiler inspectors, either land or marine, and that the boiler attendant shall have the power to demand a special examination whenever he may deem it necessary. Should any steam user continue working his boilers after they have been examined and reported unsafe by a certificated boiler inspector, such person or persons should be held guilty of an indictable offence, and be liable to a criminal prosecution.

He said that since 1892 there had been something like 800 explosions, in which 1,188 persons had been injured, 377 fatally. Only last year, on 27 inquiries, owners of boilers had to pay the sum of £749. Explosions of steam boilers were in many cases due to ignorance among employers, owners of boilers, who continued the use of a boiler so long as it did not leak, regarding it as perfectly safe until it exploded.

Mr. D. C. CUMMINGS (Leeds) seconded.

Mr. W. H. CROMPTON (Birkenhead) said he could not agree with that part of the motion which said that none but technically-trained and duly-qualified boiler-makers should be permitted to act as boiler inspectors. He failed, as an engineer, to see that no other person than a boiler-maker was qualified to act as a boiler inspector. (Hear, hear.) He regarded this as another instance of the tyrannical way in which trade unions acted towards one another—(hear, hear, and applause)—and of the manner in which the boiler-makers had up to the present been trying to filch from others their means of livelihood.

On a vote, the motion was adopted by 130 votes to 49.

STEAM ENGINE AND BOILERS BILL.

Mr. R. CARR (Darlington) also moved:—

That this Congress, through the Parliamentary Committee, urges upon the Government the necessity of all persons having charge of steam engines and boilers passing a practical examination as to their fitness for such responsibilities, and on passing such examination they be granted certificates of practical competency; and that no person or persons shall be allowed to take charge of any steam engine or boiler who does not hold such certificate, and that the Parliamentary Committee be empowered to alter the Bill (with representatives present from the various societies affected) so as to meet the requirements of all persons in charge of steam engines and boilers.

Mr. J. CLEARY (Gateshead) seconded.

Mr. W. B. CHARLTON (Durham) moved, as an amendment:—

After the words "Committee be," the resolution to read: "instructed to press forward the Bill as introduced during the last session of Parliament by Mr. J. A. Pense."

Mr. THOS. WATSON seconded.

Mr. J. HAVELOCK WILSON, M.P., said it was necessary there should be definite instructions from the Congress as to what should be brought before the House of Commons. When the first resolution was brought before the Congress it had been definitely stated that the Parliamentary Committee should bring in a Bill to apply to all persons in charge of steam engines and boilers who were not certificated men. The Bill had been brought before the House of Commons in that form. A number of gentlemen who were desirous of getting it through waited upon the President of the Board of Trade, and, without consulting the Parliamentary Committee or their other colleagues, agreed to drop certain classes of men. The object of the amendment was that there was a certain section of enginemen who wanted to get the Bill to apply to themselves, and to get the assistance of the Parliamentary Committee in having it passed. At the present time it was true that on all large steamships the engineers who had charge of the boilers were certificated men, but apart from those there were all the vessels sailing on the coast and fishing vessels in which the men in charge of the engines and boilers had no certificate whatever. If their friends wished the assistance of Congress and the Parliamentary Committee, let them have the Bill made a general one; if not, let them promote their own Bill.

Mr. JOHN WILSON, M.P., said it was too late for Mr. J. H. Wilson to charge the men entrusted with this Bill with having special regard for any class of labour above another. The policy pursued in regard to the Bill had been one of expediency, because they felt that it was impossible to get the Bill through in the complete and absolute form in which it was sent to Parliament. The course pursued was mainly on his suggestion. They had the great railway interest against them. They had to consider that the men on railways required to undergo a very severe test, and so they had taken these men out of the purview of the Bill and all the class of labour upon which they would have been certain to have met with strong opposition. They then went with the Bill in a simple form, covering only the men whose case could not be met otherwise. The Bill had passed its second reading. There was then no opposition from Mr. Wilson in the House of Commons, but when it got into the Select Committee the man who had a general regard for labour joined with the capitalists and wrecked the measure. But for the connivance of Mr. J. H. Wilson the Bill would have passed. In its en bloc form as sent from the Congress it would meet with such strong opposition that it would not pass, but he believed if the amendment were accepted the Bill would pass.

On a vote the motion, with the amendment added, was adopted.

LICENSES TO DRIVERS OF STEAM TRAM ENGINES.

Mr. COPLEY moved, and Mr. THURSTON seconded:—

That it be an instruction from this Congress to the Parliamentary Committee to have inserted in the Board of Trade regulations, to form Clause G., that all licenses granted to drivers of steam tram engines shall be conditional—1st, a practical engineer to be appointed by the corporation of the town or city through which the trams run; 2nd, such engineer to sit at a time to be specified by the Town Clerk to receive applications from those (personally) who wish to be examined to show their practical fitness for having charge of such dangerous machinery passing through our public thoroughfares; 3rd, the Press to be admitted at all meetings in connection with the above.

The motion was carried.

THE AMERICAN DELEGATION.

The vote was taken upon nine names submitted to fill the two places as delegates to the Convention of the American Federation of Labour. Mr. Sam Woods, Wigan, and the president, Mr. J. Mallinson, Edinburgh, were elected.

ACCIDENTS TO RAILWAY SERVANTS.

Mr. A. CLARK (London) moved:—

That we deplore the large number of accidents which occur annually to workmen employed on our railways, and call upon the Board of Trade to order searching inquiries to be made by the sub-inspectors of railways into the various causes of the same. The Congress is further of the opinion that the two sub-inspectors at the disposal of the Board of Trade are altogether insufficient for this purpose, and therefore instructs the Parliamentary Committee to urge the President of the Board of Trade to increase the number of such sub-inspectors.

Mr. E. HARFORD (London) seconded, and the motion was unanimously agreed to.

NEW PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

The following is the full list of nominations and voting for the Parliamentary Committee for the ensuing year:—

Mr. A. Wilkie, Associated Shipwrights' Society	694
Mr. E. Harford, Amalgamated Railway Servants	627
Mr. F. Chandler, Amalgamated Carpenters and Joiners	627
Mr. E. Cowey, Miners' Federation	600
Mr. David Holmes, Amalgamated Association of Weavers	590
Mr. W. Inskip, Boot and Shoe Operatives	576
Mr. W. Thorne, Gas Workers, &c., Union	519
Mr. R. Knight, Boilermakers and Iron Ship-builders	494
Mr. J. Mawdsley, Amalgamated Association of Cotton Spinners	468
Mr. W. J. Davis, National Society of Brass-workers	449
Mr. J. M. Jack, Associated Ironfounders	442
Mr. J. H. Wilson, National Sailors and Firemen	365
Mr. Allen Gee, Weavers and Textile Workers	469
Mr. B. Tillett, Dock, Wharf, Riverside, &c., Union	359
Mr. J. Inglis, Associated Blacksmiths	308
Mr. J. Ho'ge, Amalgamated Steel Smelters	255
Mr. F. Rogers, Vellum Account Book Binders	226
Mr. G. D. Kelley, Amalgamated Lithographic Printers	215
Mr. W. Steadman, Barge Builders	206
Mr. J. Hollings, Amalgamated Society of Tailors	115
Mr. H. Gosling, Amalgamated Watermen and Lightermen	51
Mr. J. Macpherson, National Shop Assistants, Warehousemen and Clerks	45
Mr. J. Holmes, National Hosiery Federation (withdrawn candidature)	9

The first twelve were declared elected, and Mr. Sam Woods (Miners) was re-elected, unopposed, as secretary.

The Congress then adjourned.

SIXTH DAY.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1896.

The Congress re-assembled at 9-30, Councillor JOHN MALLINSON (president) in the chair.

After the reading of the minutes, the report of the scrutineers on the election of the Parliamentary Committee was brought up, and

Mr. TURNER (Batley) moved that the twelve delegates at the head of the poll should comprise the Parliamentary Committee. This, he said, would have the effect of excluding Mr. J. H. Wilson, who was the thirteenth man, while Mr. Gee, who was higher up on the list, would be included. As a proof that the woollen and cotton trades were distinct, he pointed out that even in the last Factory Act, passed in 1895, an express distinction was made between them. None of the cotton unions took in, as the woollen ones did, dyers, rag grinders, willeys, fetlers, and finishers, so that if Mr. Gee was excluded they would be entirely unrepresented.

Mr. PARNELL (London) seconded the motion.

Mr. DIPPER (Newcastle) said he was exceedingly sorry to take part in this controversy, more especially as he had himself supported Mr. Gee. He did think, however, that one of the textile men should withdraw, and give a chance to the representative of the seamen. Everybody in the trade-union world knew what the seamen and firemen had to contend with. Everybody knew that the capital of the country in the shape of the Shipping Federation was arrayed against them, and therefore he asked whether it would not be an act of altruism to allow the seamen to be represented on the Committee. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. FENWICK, M.P., who had acted as one of the scrutineers, said their decision was arrived at without prejudice to the candidature of any person nominated—(hear, hear)—but they had to interpret the standing order as it appeared before them. Of course they recognised the right of the Congress to challenge their decision. The Congress was the highest authority, and if it cared to pass a resolution overruling the scrutineers' decision it was perfectly within its right. They, however, had regarded Mr. Gee in the same light as they would have regarded an ironstone miner, who, although not a coal miner, was still classed as a miner. Having regard to that distinction and the emphatic declaration of the standing order that no two members of the Parliamentary Committee could be drawn from one trade, they had no alternative but to give the ruling they had done. (Hear, hear.)

On the amendment in favour of Mr. Gee being put to the meeting it was declared lost; but a poll was demanded.

Mr. GEE said he was quite certain of the impartiality of the scrutineers. He thought, therefore, that, having heard the expression of opinion against Mr. Turner's motion, it would be better for him to unreservedly withdraw, and he accordingly did so. (Cheers.)

The report of the scrutineers was accordingly adopted, the following constituting the Parliamentary Committee for the ensuing twelve months:—Messrs. Wilkie (Newcastle), Chandler (Manchester), Harford (London), Cowey (Barnsley), D. Holmes (Burnley), Inskip (Leicester), W. Thorne (London), Knight (Newcastle), Mawdsley (Manchester), Davis (Birmingham), Jack (Glasgow), and J. H. Wilson, M.P. The committee subsequently met and appointed Mr. Thorne chairman and Mr. Inskip treasurer.

The Congress then proceeded to the consideration of the remaining resolutions on the agenda paper.

RAILWAY MEN AND SCIENTIFIC TESTS.

Mr. HARFORD (London) moved:—

That, while recognising that good eyesight is necessary for all men employed on railways, this Congress condemns the practice of some railway companies of subjecting their men to scientific tests at the hands of officials incompetent to apply them, instead of practical tests with day and night signals. It therefore requests the Parliamentary Committee to approach the Board of Trade with the view of securing the appointment by that department of duly-qualified persons to test the accuracy of the men's vision.

He said it was perfectly certain that good eyesight was absolutely necessary for men who had charge of signals and men who had the running of trains. The signals, however, which had to be observed were given in two colours only, a red or green flag by day, and a red or green light by night. It had been discovered a little more than a century ago that there was such a thing as colour blindness, and of course it was perfectly obvious that if a man could not distinguish between red and green he had no right to keep a position whereby he not only risked his own neck but imperilled the lives of the passengers travelling by the train. He held, however, that so long as a man could distinguish between red and green nothing more need be required, but at present one of the scientific tests imposed on a man consisted of no less than 134 skeins of wool of different colours being placed before him, and in that number there were 23 separate shades of green. Well, to throw these indiscriminately on a tray seemed to him to be more the kind of amusement for a young lady fond of woolwork than for the greasy hands of an engine driver. What he desired to see was a practical test. Let a man be taken out at night to a busy place where the signals were constantly changing, and if he was able to distinguish the colours then that should be considered sufficient. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. HUDSON (Darlington) seconded the resolution, remarking that even the leading managers of our railway companies did not understand the scientific test they had adopted.

The resolution was unanimously carried, without discussion.

RAILWAY INQUIRIES (FATALITIES) BILL.

Mr. CLARK moved, and Mr. SAMPSON seconded:—

That this Congress approves of the Railway Inquiries (Fatalities) Bill, introduced last session by Mr. Channing, M.P., and others, and requests the Parliamentary Committee to bring pressure to bear upon the Government to give facilities for having this much-needed reform made law.

The resolution was carried.

MERCHANDISE MARKS.

Mr. PYE (London) moved:—

That this Congress, representing the organised trades of the country, regrets that no labour member of Parliament has introduced the Merchandise Marks Bill into Parliament, although it has been unanimously agreed to by the Parliamentary Committee at a conference held with them on December 7th, 1893, by representatives of the trades affected in keeping with the resolution adopted by the Belfast Congress of September, 1892, and that it be again introduced at the opening of Parliament next session, and that the Parliamentary Committee, on behalf of upwards of a million skilled artisans directly interested in it, be urged to press the importance of the subject on the attention of the Government.

He said that so important was this resolution that the Parliamentary Committee had thought it necessary to refer to it at length in their report. They regretted that no labour member of Parliament had thought it was wise to introduce the Bill, and the people he represented (the Gold Beaters' Trade Society) wanted to know the reason for the refusal to do so. The German delegate in his excellent speech a few days ago said the cry "made in England" was just as strong in Germany as the cry "made in Germany" was in England. But the difference was that English goods had to pay a very heavy duty, and the cry "made in England" in Germany meant that English goods were very dear, while the very opposite was the case in regard to German goods in England. It was the protective duty in Germany which went against English manufactures. He did not ask for Protection. They did not want it—let that be clearly understood—but the workers whom he represented and other trades as well did want, so long as other countries raised a wall of Protection against us, the power of insisting that those countries should place on the goods which they exported to England a mark to let the Britisher know where they had been produced. (Hear, hear.) Surely that was only reasonable. He spoke for a million of artisans, who knew better than Mr. Mundella or anyone else what they wanted, and they were determined to obtain it. (Cheers.)

Mr. WARDLEY (Sheffield), in seconding the resolution, supposed the reason why no labour member had introduced the Bill was that none of them represented a cutlery constituency, and therefore they were not directly interested. It was highly important that a Marks Bill should be introduced both in the interest of the workers and the users.

Mr. J. WILSON, M P. (Durham), said a charge had been made against the labour members of refusing to introduce the Bill. In order that there should be no misapprehension, he asked the Parliamentary Secretary to name the members who had refused.

Mr. SAM WOODS, in reply, said there was some misapprehension on this matter. As soon as possible after the last Congress he communicated with Mr. John Burns and Sir Charles Dilke, both of whom courteously replied that on principle they could not take charge of such a Bill. No other labour member had been asked to introduce the Bill.

Mr. TURNBULL (Sunderland) complained about unfair dealing in foreign glass. No other trade had suffered so much by foreign importations as the glass industry.

The resolution was then unanimously agreed to.

This was the last of the resolutions on the agenda paper, and the Congress shortly afterwards terminated with the usual votes of thanks.

THE

TRADES UNION CONGRESS PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

STANDING ORDERS.

1. The annual meetings of the Congress shall be held in September.

2. On the first day Congress shall assemble at 12 o'clock noon prompt. On each succeeding day at 9-30 a.m.; adjourn at 1 p.m., re-assemble at 2 p.m., and adjourn for the day at 5 p.m.

DELEGATES' QUALIFICATION.

3. (1) The Congress shall consist of delegates who are or have been bona-fide workers at the trade which they represent, and are legal members of trade societies, but no person can be a delegate to the Trades Union Congress unless he is actually working at his trade at the time of appointment, or is a permanent paid working official of his trade union. (2) No representation shall be accepted as bona fide other than direct representation from trade unions. (3) The delegate's name, together with the amount of his society's contribution, shall be forwarded to the secretary of the Parliamentary Committee fourteen days prior to the meeting of Congress.

BASIS OF REPRESENTATION.

4. Trade societies, by whatever name they may be known, shall be entitled to one delegate for every 2,000 members or fraction thereof; provided always that they have paid £1 for every 1,000, or fraction thereof, of the full numerical strength of the society, probationary, free, or otherwise, towards the expenses of the Parliamentary Committee for the past year, and 10s. for each delegate attending the Congress, and forward their names and addresses fourteen days prior to the date fixed for the meeting of Congress. No credential card shall be issued to any society not having complied with the foregoing conditions.

5. The delegates shall proceed to elect the president of the Congress, preference being given to a delegate of the town where the Congress is being held. The chairman of the Parliamentary Committee for the past year shall be vice-president of the Congress, and the secretary and treasurer of the Parliamentary Committee shall be the secretary and treasurer of the Congress.

STANDING ORDERS COMMITTEE.

6. A committee of five persons shall be elected from the members of the Congress, whose duty it shall be to see to the proper conducting of the business of the Congress in accordance with the standing orders, and who shall have full control of the distribution of all literature, introduction of deputations, and other special and important business not provided for in the standing orders.

TELLERS.

7. Six persons shall be appointed as tellers, whose ruling as to numbers shall be final, except in cases of dispute, when the chairman shall order a recount.

VOTING.

8. (1) The method of voting shall be by card, to be issued to the delegates of trade societies according to their membership, and paid for (as per Standing Order No. 4) on the principle of one card for every thousand members or fractional part thereof represented. (2) Such cards to be issued to delegates by the secretary to the Parliamentary Committee before the meeting of Congress.

[It will only be necessary to resort to this method of voting in divisions that may be challenged by delegates to Congress.]

QUALIFICATION FOR PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

9. No candidate shall be eligible for election on the Parliamentary Committee unless he is a delegate (as per Standing Order No. 3), and the society so represented must have contributed towards the payment of the expenses of that committee, in accordance with Standing Order No. 4, during the year previous to his election. In no case shall two members of one trade be elected on the Parliamentary Committee; such condition not to apply to the election of secretary.

PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

10. A Parliamentary Committee of thirteen, including secretary, shall be elected by ballot on the last day but one of each Congress, who shall continue in office until they are re-elected, or their successors appointed. They shall elect from among themselves a president, vice-president, and treasurer for the ensuing year.

DUTIES OF PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

11. The duties of the Parliamentary Committee shall be (1) to watch all legislative measures directly affecting the question of labour. (2) To initiate such legislative action as Congress may direct. (3) To prepare the programme for the Congress. (4) To examine and decide as to the validity of delegates' credentials. (5) The Parliamentary Committee shall meet at least seven days before the meeting of Congress for the purpose of classifying resolutions and amendments, and shall ballot for order of procedure of the same.

PROGRAMME OF BUSINESS.

12. Resolutions for the programme must be signed by the secretary and chairman of the society sending them, and must reach the secretary of the Parliamentary Committee at least six weeks before the time fixed for the meeting of Congress. Such resolutions shall be printed and sent to official correspondents of recognised trade unions not less than thirty days before the meeting of Congress. The order in which these subjects are to be discussed shall be decided by ballot conducted by the Parliamentary Committee. No trade union shall be allowed more than three resolutions.

The programme compiled by the Parliamentary Committee should be taken as the first business of the Congress.

All amendments to the propositions submitted by the various trades must reach the secretary of the Parliamentary Committee fourteen days before the opening of the Congress, such amendments to be signed by the president and secretary, and also bear the stamp of the society; and such propositions shall be placed before the Congress immediately it assembles.

PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

13. (1) The Congress having been duly opened, the Parliamentary Committee shall present their report for the past year, which shall be laid on the table for discussion. The report shall be discussed en seriatim, and not as a whole. Each speaker to be limited to five minutes. The report shall contain a list of the Parliamentary Committee meetings, with dates, also the names of those members who were present at such meetings. (2) That the standing orders of Congress and Parliamentary Committee shall be published with each Annual Report of proceedings of Congress.

SECRETARY EX-OFFICIO MEMBER OF CONGRESS.

14. The secretary shall be elected by Congress, and be ex-officio a member of the Congress and the Parliamentary Committee. Should a vacancy occur between the annual meetings of the Congress, the Parliamentary Committee shall have power to fill up the vacancy.

NOMINATION OF SECRETARY AND PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

15. (1) That all nominations for the offices of secretary and Parliamentary Committee shall be sent in to the secretary not less than six weeks prior to the meeting of Congress, and the list of names be published on the agenda paper containing resolutions that are to come up for discussion at Congress. (2) That individual ballot papers containing the names of each candidate shall be supplied to delegates on the day of election (such ballot papers to be perforated).

LIMITATION OF SPEECHES.

16. (1) The mover of a resolution shall be allowed fifteen minutes, and each succeeding speaker ten minutes. No one shall speak more than once on a question, except the mover of the original resolution.

(2) All amendments to resolutions must be taken in the order in which they are printed. (3) Should the president of the Congress be of opinion that there is no practical difference among the delegates, he shall have power to stop the discussion.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR CONGRESS.

17. The Parliamentary Committee shall assist and co-operate with the local committee of the town where the next Congress is to be held, for the purpose of making the arrangements as complete as possible, and shall have power to invite the following persons to attend the sittings of the Congress (subject to the approval of Congress), viz., deputations; the labour members; the members of the city or borough; likewise the mayor or provost, and members of the corporation of the town in which the Congress is held. No other persons shall be allowed on the platform.

The Parliamentary Committee shall meet prior to the date of each Congress for the purpose of attending to these matters.

ACCOUNTS FOR THE YEAR.

18. The accounts for the year shall be closed fourteen days prior to the holding of each Congress, and a printed balance sheet, duly certified by the auditors, presented to each member of the Congress not later than Friday morning of the week in which the Congress is held.

All surplus moneys, after payment of the expenses of the Congress, shall be used for the general purposes of the Parliamentary Committee.

AUDITORS.

19. Two auditors shall be elected, who shall have access to all the papers and documents relating to the income and expenditure of the Parliamentary Committee.

DEALING WITH DISPUTES.

20. Any society engaged in a dispute and considering themselves aggrieved by reason of the members of another society taking the place of the men on strike, may report the circumstance to the Parliamentary Committee, who may then take such steps as the circumstances may warrant, and should the charge be proved, the offending society shall be charged with all costs and suspended from representation at Congress for two years.

AMENDMENT OF STANDING ORDERS.

21. Should any amendment of the standing orders of the Congress be proposed by any society, such amendment must be forwarded to the Parliamentary Committee at least six weeks before the meeting of Congress, and in no case shall the standing orders be suspended unless agreed to by a two-thirds vote of Congress.

DELEGATES LEAVING CONGRESS.

22. No delegate shall leave Congress without the consent of the vice-president; and delegates absent one whole sitting without leave of absence shall be named by the chairman.

TO

AMEND THE TRUCK ACTS.

(Prepared and brought in by Secretary Sir Matthew White Ridley and Mr. Jesse Collings.)

Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be Printed, 20th April, 1896.

GOVERNMENT TRUCK BILL, 1896.

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows: A.D. 1896.

1.—(1.) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman, for or in respect of any fine, unless—

Deductions or payments in respect of fines.

- (a) the contract is in writing signed by the workman; and
- (b) the contract specifies the acts or omissions in respect of which the fine may be imposed, and the amount of the fine or the particulars from which that amount may be ascertained; and
- (c) the fine imposed under that contract is in respect of some act or omission which causes or is likely to cause damage or loss to the employer, or interruption or hindrance to his business; and
- (d) the amount of the fine is fair and reasonable having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

(2.) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment, unless—

- (a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid; and
- (b) particulars in writing showing the nature and amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

2.—(1.) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for or in respect of bad or negligent work or injury to the materials or other property of the employer, unless—

Deductions or payments in respect of damage to goods.

- (a) the contract is in writing, signed by the workman; and
- (b) the deduction or payment to be made under the contract does not exceed the actual or estimated damage or loss occasioned to the employer by the act or omission of the workman, or of some person over whom he has control, or for whom he has by the contract agreed to be responsible; and
- (c) the amount of the deduction or payment is fair and reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

(2.) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless—

- (a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid; and

- (b) particulars in writing showing the nature and amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

Deductions
or payments in respect of materials.

3.—(1.) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for, or in respect of, materials, the use of tools or machines, standing room, light, heat, or any other thing to be done or provided by the employer in relation to the work or labour of the workman unless—

- (a) the contract is in writing signed by the workman; and
 - (b) the sum to be paid or deducted under the contract in respect of materials, use of tools or machines, standing room, light, heat, or any other thing, does not exceed the actual or estimated cost thereof to the employer; and
 - (c) the amount of the deduction or payment is fair and reasonable having regard to all the circumstances of the case.
- (2.) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless—

- (a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, and in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid; and
- (b) particulars in writing showing the nature and amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

Penalty.

New Clause (Deductions or payments in respect of contributions to benefit societies) brought up and read the first time, as follows :

“(1) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman, for or in respect of any contribution on behalf of the workman to any friendly society of which the workman ceases to be a member on the determination of his employment during his life, unless—

- (a) The contract is in writing signed by the workman ; and
- (b) The society is registered under the Friendly Societies Act, 1875 ; and
- (c) It is a rule of the society that, when the employment of any workman who is a member of the society is determined during his life, under any circumstances not entitling him to the receipt of benefit from the society, there shall be paid to him not less than one-half of a sum ascertained by adding together the amounts from time to time contributed by the workman to the society, and subtracting therefrom the total of the amounts (if any) from time to time received by the workman from the society by way of benefit.

“(2) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment, unless—

- (a) The deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with such a contract as aforesaid ; and
- (b) The society is registered as aforesaid ; and
- (c) There is such a rule as aforesaid among the rules of the society.

TRUCK BILL.

BILL

[AS AMENDED BY THE STANDING COMMITTEE ON TRADE]

TO AMEND THE TRUCK ACTS.

A.D. 1896.

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :

Deductions
or payments in respect of fines.

1.—(1.) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman, for or in respect of any fine, unless—

- (a) the contract is embodied in a printed notice affixed at the pit-head, or at the entrance of a factory or workshop, and in such parts of a mine, factory, or workshop as one of Her Majesty's inspectors of mines or factories may direct or approve, and constantly kept so affixed in such a position that it can be easily read by the persons employed in the mine, factory, or workshop ; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman ; and
- (b) the contract specifies the acts or omissions in respect of which the fine may be imposed, and the amount of the fine or the particulars from which that amount may be ascertained ; and
- (c) the fine imposed under the contract is in respect of some act or omission which causes or is likely to cause damage or loss to the employer, or interruption or hindrance to his business ; and
- (d) the amount of the fine is fair and reasonable having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

(2.) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment, unless—

- (a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid ; and
- (b) particulars in writing showing the acts or omissions in respect of which the fine is imposed and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

(3.) This section shall apply to the case of a shop assistant in like manner as it applies to the case of a workman.

2.—(1.) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for or in respect of bad or negligent work or injury to the materials or other property of the employer, unless—

Deductions
or payments in respect of damaged
goods.

(a) the contract is embodied in a printed notice affixed at the pit-head or at the entrance of a factory or workshop, and in such parts of a mine, factory, or workshop as one of Her Majesty's inspectors of mines or factories may direct or approve, and constantly kept so affixed in such a position that it can be easily read by the persons employed in the mine, factory, or workshop ; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman ; and

(b) the deduction or payment to be made under the contract does not exceed the actual or estimated damage or loss occasioned to the employer by the act or omission of the workman, or of some person over whom he has control, or for whom he has by the contract agreed to be responsible ; and

(c) the amount of the deduction or payment is fair and reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

(2.) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless—

(a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid ; and

(b) particulars in writing showing the acts or omissions in respect of which the deduction or payment is made and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

3.—(1.) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the gross sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for, or in respect of, the use or supply of materials, tools or machines, standing room, light, heat, or any other thing to be done or provided by the employer in relation to the work or labour of the workman unless—

TRUCK ACT, 1896.

CHAPTER 44.

A.D. 1896.

An Act to amend the Truck Acts. [14th August, 1896.]

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Deductions
or payments in respect
of fines.

1.—(1.) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman, for or in respect of any fine, unless—

(a) the terms of the contract are contained in a notice kept constantly affixed at such place or places open to the workmen and in such a position that it may be easily seen, read, and copied by any person whom it affects; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman; and

(b) the contract specifies the acts or omissions in respect of which the fine may be imposed, and the amount of the fine or the particulars from which that amount may be ascertained; and

(c) the fine imposed under the contract is in respect of some act or omission which causes or is likely to cause damage or loss to the employer, or interruption or hindrance to his business; and

(d) the amount of the fine is fair and reasonable having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

(2.) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless—

(a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid; and

(b) particulars in writing showing the acts or omissions in respect of which the fine is imposed and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

(3.) This section shall apply to the case of a shop assistant in like manner as it applies to the case of a workman.

Deductions
or payments in respect of damaged
goods.

2.—(1.) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for or in respect of bad or negligent work or injury to the materials or other property of the employer, unless—

(a) the terms of the contract are contained in a notice kept constantly affixed at such place or places open to the workmen and in such a position that it may be easily seen, read, and copied by any person whom it affects; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman; and

(b) the deduction or payment to be made under the contract does not exceed the actual or estimated damage or loss occasioned to the employer by the act or omission of the workman, or of some person over whom he has control, or for whom he has by the contract agreed to be responsible; and

(c) the amount of the deduction or payment is fair and reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

(2.) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless—

(a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid; and

(b) particulars in writing showing the acts or omissions in respect of which the deduction or payment is made and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

3.—(1.) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for, or in respect of, the use or supply of materials, tools or machines, standing room, light, heat, or for or in respect of any other thing to be done or provided by the employer in relation to the work or labour of the workman unless—

Deductions
or payments in respect of materials.

(a) the terms of the contract are contained in a notice kept constantly affixed at such place or places open to workmen, and in such a position that it may be easily seen, read, and copied by any person whom it affects; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman; and

(b) the sum to be paid or deducted under the contract in respect of materials, tools or machines, standing room, light, heat, or any other thing, does not exceed, in the case of materials or tools supplied to the workman, the actual or estimated cost thereof to the employer, or in the case of the use of machinery, light, heat, or any other thing in this section mentioned, a fair and reasonable rent or charge, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

(2.) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless—

(a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, and in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid; and

(b) particulars in writing showing the things in respect of which the deduction or payment is made and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made.

Penalty.

1 & 2 Will. 4.
c. 37.

4. If any employer enters into any contract contrary to this Act, or makes any deduction or receives any payment contrary to this Act, he shall be guilty of an offence against the Truck Act, 1831, and shall be liable to the penalties imposed by section nine of that Act as if the offence were an offence in that section mentioned.

Recovery of payments or deductions.

5. Any workman or shop assistant may recover any sum deducted by or paid to his employer contrary to this Act, provided that proceedings for such recovery are commenced within six months from the date of the deduction or payment sought to be recovered, and that where he has consented to or acquiesced in any such deduction or payment, he shall only recover the excess which has been deducted or paid over the amount, if any, which the court may find to have been fair and reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

Production of contract.

6.—(1.) Every employer who has made any contract purporting or intending to operate as a contract under this Act, shall, on demand in writing by one of Her Majesty's inspectors of factories or of mines, produce the contract or a true copy thereof at any convenient time and place to be named by the inspector, and the inspector shall be at liberty to take a copy of the same or of any part thereof, and the employer of any workman or shop assistant who is party to any such contract shall at the time of making the contract give the workman or shop assistant a copy of the contract or of the notice containing its terms.

(2.) A workman or shop assistant who is party to any such contract shall be entitled, on request, to obtain from his employer free of charge a copy of the contract or of the notice containing its terms.

(3.) Every employer who has made any contract purporting or intending to operate as a contract under Section one of this Act shall keep a register of deductions or payments, and shall enter therein every deduction or payment for or in respect of any fine purporting to be made under such contract, specifying the amount and the nature of the act or omission in respect of which the fine was imposed, and this register shall be at all times open to inspection by one of Her Majesty's inspectors of factories or of mines.

(4.) If any person fails to comply with this section he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding forty shillings.

Exemption of contract from stamp duty.

7.—A contract entered into under the provisions of this Act shall not be liable to stamp duty.

from provisions
of Act.

8.—Nothing in this Act shall make lawful any contract or payment which is illegal under the Truck Acts, 1831 and 1887, or under the Hosiery Manufacture (Wages) Act, 1874, or affect the provisions of the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, or any amending Act, with respect to persons employed in mines and paid according to weight, or make lawful any deduction from payments made to those persons.

9.—(1.) The Secretary of State, if satisfied that the provisions of this Act are unnecessary for the protection of the workmen employed in any trade or business, or in any branch or department of any trade or business, either generally or within any specified area, may by order under his hand grant an exemption from those provisions in respect of the persons engaged in that trade, business, branch or department, either generally or within that area.

(2.) The Secretary of State may at any time amend or revoke any such order.

(3.) Every order made under this section shall be laid as soon as may be before both Houses of Parliament, and if either House within the next forty days after the order has been so laid before that House resolves that the order ought to be annulled, the order shall, after the date of that resolution, be of no effect, without prejudice to the validity of anything done in the meantime under the order or to the making of a new order.

10. Sub-section two of section thirteen of the Truck Amendment Act, 1887 (which relates to the duty of inspectors) shall apply in the case of a laundry, and in the case of any place where work is given out by the occupier of a factory or workshop, or by a contractor or sub-contractor, in like manner as it applies in the case of a factory.
